Government Urges M.P.'s To Head For Ottawa At Earliest Possible Time

Ottawa, Aug. 24. (CP)—The government today urged members of parliament to head for Ottawa "at the earliest possible moment" for Tuesday's opening of a special session on the railway strike and defence. It said a general delay in departures could bring congestion on the airlines.

A statement by Transport Minister Chevrier listed elaborate arrangements to use civil and, if necessary, Department of Transport and military aircraft to get them here but said the onus is on each member to make his own arrangements to use those facilities.

Directions for Members

The statement followed Prime Minister St. Laurent's announcement that the session will start Tuesday. It is as follows:

"Members residing west of Quebec City and east of Port Arthur but excluding these two points, will be expected to make their own way to Ottawa. Every member is requested to make his own arrangements for transportation, not forgetting that some space may be available on U.S. airlines, railways or buses, but, in the event of any member being unable to make satisfactory arrangements, he should communicate with the Director of Air Services, Department of Transport, Ottawa (Phone 9-7091) giving his address and stating when and where he will be available for movement.

"At the same time each member who is unable to make satisfactory arrangements himself should communicate this fact to the nearest T.C.A. agent. Every member is urged to start for Ottawa at the earliest possible moment in order to distribute the loads as evenly as possible on the airlines. Each member is requested to notify the D.A.S. when, and by what means, he is expected to arrive in Ottawa or at some intermediate point from which further transportation will be required.

Assembly Points

"In event of it becoming necessary to charter special aircraft, the following assembly points will be used as points of departure: Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg, Fort William, Moncton, Halifax and St. John's, Nfld.

"Members relying on this means of transportation are requested to make their own way to the nearest point mentioned. At the same time advising the D.A.S. of the time of their expected arrival at that point."

The Minister added the information that if T.C.A. or other scheduled air lines could not provide the required accommodation, chartered aircraft would be used.

"In the eventuality of such aircraft, not being available," said the Minister, "Department of Transport Aircraft will be used." His staff was standing by in the event of such a situation developing.

The Minister said further that if the facilities of civil aviation were not sufficient, the Royal Canadian Air Force was prepared to participate.

Parliament Will Count Rising Defence Costs

Ottawa, Aug. 24. (CP)—A bill that will raise Canada's defence budget for this fiscal year to a record peacetime $570,000,000 or so will be presented to parliament shortly as the first installment of the cost of the Dominion's expanded preparedness program.

The Defence department, forced to rush because of the call for the special session to open Tuesday, is expected to present supplementary estimates so far approved for the year ending March 31, 1951, total $425,000,000.

The new total will not include the arms aid Canada now is proposing she give to her western European Allies. That would be handled separately once its ramifications are clarified.

Or even greater significance than the actual anticipated expenditures themselves will be the total to be sought in the form of commitment authorities. These are the predictions if bills-to-come which will indicate just what sort of defence budget Canada can anticipate next year.

Unofficial estimates are that the 1951-52 fiscal year will see Canada's first $1,000,000,000 peacetime defence budget.

Commitment authorities allow the department to negotiate contracts for such things as warships and planes. The money is not voted; the authorities simply are parliament's sanction to the department to go ahead and sign the contracts. Once the ships and planes and other equipment are delivered then the bills come due and estimates are presented to parliament to cover the cost.

Pakistan People Dream of Karachi As Great City

By NOEL BUCKLEY

Karachi, Pakistan, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—The people of Pakistan dream of Karachi of the future as a great city of pearly minarets—capital of the Moslem world in the golden dawn of a great Islamic politico-religious revival.

But at present the capital of Pakistan is a characterless collection of houses on the edge of the Arabian sea. It is congested, dirty, beggar-ridden and threatened with the breakdown of both water and sewage systems.

Sind Desert

On three sides of Karachi the barren Sind desert begins just beyond the suburbs. Only one road extends more than a short distance out of Karachi: the main highway connecting Karachi with Hyderabad, second city of the province of Sind. It runs on for 200 miles or so to Sukkar on the Indus and branches north towards Quetta.

Toward sunset each day, one of the most popular resorts of Karachi's wealthy and fashionable is a stretch of dreary salt flats. Here scores of motor-cars are parked while their owners take the strong air with dignity and gusto.

Government officials and wealthy merchants, often hatless and in shorts, stride vigorously up and down, while veiled women chat together and watch their children at play.

About the streets and roads of the city—wherever the sympathy or inaction of the municipal authorities has permitted them to remain—thousands of refugees have built lean-to shelters of palm and bamboo matting and sacking. Whole families live in huddled misery.

Karachi's expansion problem is not of building materials or labor, but of water. The existing supply was intended for a population of about 300,000. Karachi's present population is estimated to be around 1,200,000.

Until Pakiston emerged as an independent country, Karachi lay in the shadows of the great pageant of India. Its only claim to importance lay in having a fair harbor and a fine airport.

HIGGINS NAMED

Ottawa, Aug. 24. (CP)—Gordon Higgins, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for St. John's East, has been named to the Canadian delegation to the next meeting of the United Nations General Assembly, it was announced today.

The Newfoundland member is one of four members of opposition political parties who have been named to the delegation as parliamentary advisers. The meeting opens Sept. 19, in Lake Success, N.Y.

Unemployment Insurance Payments Strike Problem

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 24. (CP)—The rail strike and consequent layoffs of wage-earners has posed a problem in the administration of Canada's unemployment insurance fund.

With those idle through the strike or consequent layoffs running into the hundreds of thousands, administrators of the $580,000,000 fund are faced with the question of who is to draw benefits and who isn't.

Officials of the Unemployment Insurance Commission said today the problem is still being worked out and it is not possible to generalize on all points.

But one certainty, they said, is that no benefits will be paid to members of the involved unions employed by the railways.

Payments will be made to workers in other industries laid off because of slowed production as a result of the strike.

Biggest puzzle of the present stage, officials said, is the question of treatment for those railway employees who are not on strike but who have been forced into idleness by the tie-up.

These include around 75,000 members of the running trades—those who actually operate the trains—as well as several other categories.

How they are handled will hinge on the eventual interpretation of an insurance act clause that says persons drawing insurance must prove that they are not participating in, financing or directly interested in a labor dispute.

Able to Handle Benefits

The question of direct interest crops up for the laid-off employees because many of them undoubtedly would share in any wage-hour settlement gained by the union strikers.

Commission officers said each class of employees would have to be dealt with on its merits, and it was not possible now to make a sweeping statement on how they will be treated.

Meanwhile, they said the fund is in good shape to handle benefits over a prolonged period, provided the lack of transportation does not plunge unemployment into astronomical figures.

Payments start nine days after an employee has made application for help, top payment for married men is $18.30 a week with $14.40 for single workers.

Strike Will Last Until Workers Get Fair Deal

Mosher

Ottawa, Aug. 24. (CP)—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.) told local railway strikers at a meeting Wednesday that the strike will last "until the railway workers on strike get a fair and honest deal."

"It is not principle we are fighting for," Mr. Mosher said. "It is bread and butter and the opportunity to rest and relax and spend more time with our families."

He spoke at a meeting of members of the two Canadian Unions on strike, the C.B.R.E. and the Canadian Express employees.

"If this crisis merited a special session of parliament, surely the condition of the workers merits some consideration from the Canadian public," he said.

He traced the beginnings of the movement for better working condition and higher wages and blamed the railways for the present strike, which, he admitted, is a "paralysis of national economy."

He also said he wanted it made clear that no separate negotiation will be undertaken by either of the two Canadian unions on the 15 international unions involved in the strike.

He told the meeting that due to extra services having been applied for by Chateau Laurier hotel officials, but union was forbidding its "special services" employees from doing more than was called for when the strike notices went out.

He said that these employees, working only because of possible danger of fires or other emergencies, were being asked to do work which they normally would not be expected to do.

"Therefore," he said, "from now until the strike is over no beds will be made unless the guests make them and the cafeteria will be closed down tight."

Pigs in Doughnuts Foil Attempted Theft

Police continuing the investigation Wednesday arrested William Chilvers, 29, of suburban Weston, on charges of stealing the truck and $150 from the Canadian Doughnut Company, for which he had been working.

Officers said he told them he had bought the pigs.

SCOTS GIFT

Glasgow, Ecotland (CP)—The Scottish North Country Sheep Society recently advertised a free, one-way passage from Glasgow to Canada. The catch: the successful applicant must be "able and willing to look after 34 North Country Cheviot sheep en route from Glasgow to Quebec.

Plane Passenger Leaps to Death At Syracuse, NY

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 24. (AP)—A man leaped to his death Wednesday from a light plane as it flew about 800 feet over Syracuse airport.

Authorities identified him as Harold E. Sawyer, about 55.

The pilot, Howard Schaufler, reported that his passenger pushed himself out the door against the wind by grabbing the craft's dual control instruments and almost turned the ship upside down in doing so.

Harry Ward, operator of the service, said Sawyer came to the airport on crutches. Ward quoted him as saying he wanted to go to Rochester, Minn., for treatment sciatica.

Schaufler reported that when Sawyer opened the plane door he said: "I'm in tough shape. I'm going to go."

Malaria is Greatest Killer In Long List of Ills in Asia

By NOEL BUCKLEY

Karachi, Pakistan, Aug. 24. — (Reuters) — Malaria still is the greatest killer in the long list of ills to which the masses of Asia are exposed by climate and poverty.

Only for Europeans in the east has malaria been reduced to a small health risk by recently perfected quick-acting drugs.

But a local experiment, completed this year and soon to be extended, offers hope to millions of Asians. A thorough spraying with DDT solution has been proved an almost 100-per cent effective deterrent.

Health authorities estimate that 25,000,000 of Pakistan's 80,000,000 population suffer from malaria each year. One in every 100 sufferers dies.

In Sodden Plains Area

In West Pakistan, the monsoon rains and the irrigation channels essential to the region's economy bring with them malaria-carrying mosquitoes.

A year ago the world organization, the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund and the East Pakistan government embarked on a joint project to attack the malarial mosquito in a limited area of East Bengal. This was to be a first step towards establishing a province-wide malaria control service. The results were phenomenally successful.

A single, thorough annual spraying of interiors with DDT not only stopped the spread of malaria but it also stopped the second most important insect-borne disease, kala-zar)sand-fly fever). This is a notoriously debilitating disease.

The authorities this year plan to extend the project to protect about 250,000 persons.

CONVICT PREFERS FREEDOM

Montreal, (CP)—Andre Denis knows what he likes. When Judge C. E. Guerin asked the 26-year-old ex-convict whether he would prefer to serve his two year sentence for theft in jail or penitentiary, Denis replied: "Really, Your Honor, I would very much prefer not to be sent to either place. You see, I've already been there before."

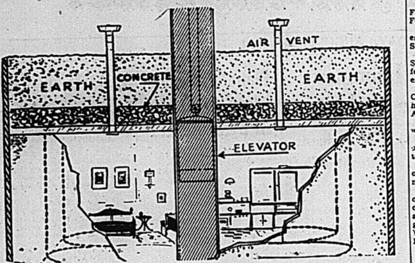
A-BOMB HOME IS PROPOSED BY TEXAS CONTRACTOR



This is an artist's conception of the proposed 17-foot underground home designed by L. R. Ashmore, building contractor from Houston, Texas. While its main attraction would be safety from an atomic bomb, the designer says he thinks people would want to live underground in peacetime, too. The house offers protection against heat, lightning, fire, windsstorms, and everything he said, and the surface of the lot can be used for a garden. The A-bomb home has five rooms, each 15 feet in diameter with ceilings more than eight feet high. The walls would be sprayed with alternative layers of asphalt, waterproofing one-inch thick gunite, a form of concrete. Ashmore said it would cost $5,500, considerably less than the average frame bungalow.—Central Press Canadian.

Want to feel right—"up to par"? Eat Post's Bran Flakes regularly. Then you guard against trouble caused by "irregularity" due to lack of bulk foods in what you eat. And, you'll find out that flavor counts at breakfast, too! Post's Bran Flakes are GOOD TO EAT.

A Natural Regulator

Relish appetizing Post's Bran Flakes every morning. So crisp. So tempting. Serve them in other delicious ways. Here's a grand recipe. Try it. U-m-m!, you'll say. And be sure it's Post's—the better Bran Flakes.

Easy-to-Make — Sure — and GOOD!

FIG* BRAN MUFFINS

- ¾ cup milk
- 1 cup Post's Bran Flakes
- ½ cup finely cut dried figs*
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 3½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening

• Pour milk over bran and let stand 5 minutes. Add ½ cup finely cut dried figs to bran mixture. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Add egg and butter to bran mixture and mix well. Add flour, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (425°F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 10 muffins.

*Dates, raisins or prunes may replace figs.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

It was 1938. Off Boston, Mass., two sleek fishing schooners charged neck-and-neck through the gust-tossed Atlantic. Canada's famous Bluenose and her arch-rival, the Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, were sailing the fifth and final heat of the International Fishermen's Trophy Race.

The older Bluenose, four-time trophy winner, took a narrow lead early in the 35½-mile course. Crowding sail, the Gloucesterman tried to close the gap. But the Bluenose stayed in front . . . to win her fifth and last trophy by 2 minutes, 30 seconds.

Close teamwork has won many firsts for Canadian sportsmen. And teamwork, with sportsmanship, helps you, too—in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada ... unlimited.

Shoemen Drop Doubleheader To Kingston Leafs 1-0, 6-5 In Final Games of Schedule

Batawa Shoemen had their playoff hopes reduced to an almost minute mathematical possibility last evening as the league-leading Kingston Disney Leafs took both ends of doubleheader 1-0 and 6-5 at the Fair Grounds.

One of the largest crowds of the searon saw Batawa's stretch drive falter just short of the playoffs as the Leafs nailed down first place in the COBL race. For Batawa it was a sad climax to a season of one run ball games. They have been on the light end of nine or ten one run scores so far this season.

In the seven inning opener, Kingston's Norm Harry outduelled Ken Peacock as both pitchers threw four hitters.

Harry scattered four hits over the last four innings after setting the locals down in order in the first three frames. He was in trouble only in the fifth when catcher Acquino tripled to right field with one out. He pulled himself out of the hole, however, striking out Rankin and Bridgman to retire the side. Nobody else reached second base.

Over the seven inning course Harry walked none, struck out seven and gave up four hits, a triple and single to Acquino and singles to Solmes and Carson.

Ken Peacock went well for Batawa. His downfall came in the fourth inning when the Leafs put together two hits and an error for their only run. Allan led off with a double. Levandoski struck out and Ferguson got a life on an error to Bush. Kerluk walked ti lead the bases. Al Lenard singled to left field to score Allan. A perfect throw to the plate by Gene Spencer trapped Ferguson who was run down as the other runners advanced. Aitken struck out to end the inning.

Peacock walked two, struck out six and was nicked for one run in going all the way for Batawa.

In the second game the Leafs struck early for all their runs and then hung on grimly to stave off a late Batawa challenge.

They opened the scoring in the top of the first frame with Aitken, who singled, coming all the way in on Peacock's three base error on Ferguson's smash to centre field. They added four more in the second with two walks, three safeties and an error producing the runs. Lenard led off with a walk and came in on Stone's triple to left field. Carnegie struck out, and Rank went down third to first with Stone being held at third. Gilmour then drove one into right-centre field which Peacock missed for three bases. Allan walked, and went to third as Aitken singled. Ferguson singled to score Allan, and that was all for Gord Muffit. Art Wright came on to strike out Kerluk and retire the side.

Batawa scored twice in the third for their first counters in ten innings. Bush walked with one away. Solmes singled. Wright drove a double play to second which forced Solmes but the relay to first was wild and Bush scored as Wright took second. Watson walked and Acquino got a life on an error to the third baseman. Semark walked to force in Wright, and Rankin struck out to end the inning.

Kingston scored their final run in the fourth with an error to first and a triple by Ferguson doing the damage.

Batawa counted once in the fourth on two singles, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice. Art Wright aided his own cause with a mighty home run to right field in the seventh and the Shoemen counted their fifth tally in the eighth on a walk to Carson and a triple by Bush.

Muffit walked two, struck out one, and gave up five hits for five runs in one and two-thirds innings. Art Wright walked one, struck out six, limited the Leafs to three hits in seven and one third innings of relief.

Rank was the winning pitcher, walking five, striking out five, and giving up eight hits for five runs.

Runner Betters Own World Mark In 10,000 Metres

(By The Canadian Press)

Emil Zatopek, Czechoslovakia's Olympic champion, bettered his own world record for the 10,000-metre run last night in the European track and field championships at Brussels.

Zatopek turned in an even faster time in Finland 19 days ago when he was clocked in 2:02.6. That time is being put up for official recognition.

Aside from the record-breaking run, the first day of the meet was dominated by the Russians, making their first appearance in an international track competition since 1946.

Men and women field stars from Russia won three events. Their only losses were in the 26-mile marathon, won by Britain's Jack Holden and in one of the heats of the 80-metre run.

The Soviet relay team, although beaten out of first place in the 400-metre relay by Britain, was placed first when Belgian and British teams were disqualified because their runners changed lanes on the last changeover.

The West Indies cricket touring team bowled out Essex for 229 runs at Southend, England yesterday and replied with 68 runs for no wickets before stumps were drawn. West Indian Sonny Ramadhin took his 100th wicket of the tour during the day's play.

Hector (Toe) Blake will coach Valleyfield Braves of the Quebec Senior Hockey League again this year. The club announced yesterday that the former Montreal Canadiens star has renewed his contract.

Possibility of international golf competitions between Canada and the United States was suggested yesterday in Minneapolis. Joe Dey, executive secretary of the U.S. Golf Association, said the idea of international matches similar to the Britain-U.S. Walker Cup play will be discussed next year.

If you get your tickets legally, you won't be paying more than $30 for a seat at the Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles heavyweight title bout in Yankee Stadium Sept. 27. The International Boxing Club set the $30 top prize yesterday, listing other reserved seats at prices from $5 to $20. The I.B.C. expects to gross more than $500,000.

Youthful Mary Gay of Galt fired an 84 yesterday to win the Kitchener Rockway Club's second annual ladies' invitation tournament. The 18-year-old golfer, playing out of Guelph Cutten Fields Club, bested a field of 110. Low net honors went to Mrs. H. Mars of Brantford with a 68. Silver division low gross was won by Mrs. William Plomske of Kitchener with 90, and the Bronze division low gross winner was Mrs. G. Snider of Hamilton with 92.

RESERVES WIN CUP

St. John's Nfld.—(CP)—The 56th Independent Field Squadron Royal Canadian Engineers (Reserve), of St. John's has been judged the best Reserve force engineering unit in Eastern Canada. The outfit won the Gzowski Cup at Petawawa training camp.

Latta Lumbermen Finally Dispose Of Read Raiders

The Latta Lumbermen, after three false starts, finally disposed of the Read Raiders last evening in Read, 14-8 in the seventh game of their best in five semi-final series for the South Hastings Baseball League title.

The victory, coming after three ties, puts Latta against Cannifton in the finals. The first game of their best four-in-seven series is slated for Friday evening in Cannifton.

Latta scored early and often as they piled up a comfortable lead in the first four innings. They were never headed.

Lefty G. Hall, mainstay of the Latta hurling corps, went the route for the winners. Read tossed in Walsh to start. He went out in the third in favor of Pat Shannon who retired in the seventh in favor of Harvey Shannon.

Joe Marsh sparked the winners at the plate with two home runs. McCreary of Latta and Hanley of Read also homered.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The Batawa Shoemen, after last night's double defeat at the hands of Kingston Disney Leafs, had their playoff chances reduced to the slightest of mathematical possibilities. The statistics involved would require close concentration with a slide rule and a set of mathematical tables for about a week or ten days. Joe Killoran, of the Killorans-of-Napanee fame, solved this heavy and heady problem neatly, however, by withdrawing his Napanee Athletics from the race. Joe has his reasons, of course, and here they are. The Naps are all set, physically, mentally, and legally via the O.B.A. to enter the Intermediate B Ontario playdowns. The COBL picture would require them to play two and possibly three games to straighten out the confusion while the Batawans would have to play one and maybe two more.

* * *

The Napanees were unable to see their way clear to engage in all these contests with the Intermediate B playoffs starting immediately and so, torn between the devil on one hand and the deep blue sea on the other they made the decision to try for the Intermediate B laurels, for better or worse. This solved the COBL playoff picture for better or worse too. Batawa now goes into the playoffs against Smiths Falls, meeting the Royals this Saturday afternoon down in Smiths Falls. Kingston entertain the Memoes in Kingston the same day.

* * *

An interesting sidelight to the whole affair is that the Batawans had already sorted out their signals with the O.B.A. to go Intermediate A and their sudden plunge into the semi-finals of the COBL race may prevent them from seeking provincial honors in the lower classification. A soft chord professor, please.

Tonight the Belleville Cubs tangle with Sixardee Repairmen in the second game of their best-in-five series for the District League title. The first game was a 3-3 tie at the air station Monday evening, with the airmen coming up with the tying run in the bottom of the ninth just as darkness closed in to halt proceedings. Coach St. Louis and his Cubs hope to cast the aircrew into exterior darkness this evening and get that first game jump in the series. The firing starts at 8:30.

The Commercial Softball League, which should up the ante next year to pay for a lawyer to solve their many problems, vaulted a rather nasty hurdle Tuesday night. It concerns Bob Hunter, currently starring in Cy Barriage's road company of Plumbers known as Howe and Hagerman. Bob has been approached by moguls in Madoc to pitch for their junior C softball team in the O.A.S.A. playdowns. A Commercial League rule, which has been a bone of contention since it was written, would bar him from playing in the loop the balance of this season and next year as well if he plays with an O.A.S.A. affiliated team. The Commercial League bosses, not wanting to hold Bob back, and unwilling to abandon the rule that cornerstones their league structure, sidestepped the issue nicely by amending that "any player, eligible to advance to any juvenile or junior team in the OASA playdowns, may do so if sanctioned by the OASA without jeopardizing their position in the Commercial League". Who needs a lawyer?

The French Angel, who gives pause to pious souls wending their way on the straight and narrow, will cast his beatific smile on that arch rascal Hi Lee tomorrow evening in the main bout of the wrestling show being staged in Memorial Arena. What the Angel hopes to accomplish by converting Lee from a life of villainous daring - do in the ring, is a mystery that will only be solved by wrestling fans of long standing. On the other hand the Ozark giant is certain that he can twist the Frenchman's halo askew along with the Frenchman's neck and any other part of the Angel's rather opaque anatomy that happens to get in the way. This may take some doing, even for the huge Lee, as the Angel packs a hefty 275 pounds on his rather fearsome psyique. His spine chilling physog, which lowers the temperature in his immediate vicinity by a neat 11.5 degrees, and immobilizes lesser men, is not expected to quail the likes of Sky Hi Lee. Says Mr. Lee.

* * *

Any way you look at it the wrestling card seems productive of some solid entertainment. As if the mystery of how the Angel got that way isn't enough, Manager Walter Gerow has lined up the Masked Marvel and Warren Bockwinkle in the semi-final to keep the amateur sleuths happy. Bill Stack of Oshawa tangles with Dangerous Dan O'Connor in the opener.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON

New York, Aug. 24 — (AP)—Don't expect to get any sleep in Detroit or Philadelphia if those clubs win the 1950 pennants. . . In the first place, the local fans won't let you and in the second both cities have conventions scheduled which will take up a large part of the hotel space. . . The war in Korea hasn't yet interfered with the National Baseball Congress' plans for its first inter-hemisphere series between the United States and Japanese champions at Tokyo in September. . . But the N.B.C. did lose 16 members leagues in south Korea. Bobby Riggs will uncover—beg pardon—introduce— the new female tennis star of his 1950-51 tour today. . . We'll give odds that its Gussie Moran.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Sign of the times: Last year Michigan State vs Notre Dame was one of the earliest football sellouts, the last ticket going June 8. This year it also is one of the earliest, but sales continued until Luther (Dummy) Taylor, who pitched for the Giants from 1900 to 1908, made a "comeback" Monday night at the age of 74 when he pitched two innings of an old-timers game at Normal, Ill. . . When the Butta brothers baseball team of Baltimore (a 16-18-year-old group) racked up 51 consecutive victories, every player on the team, including one sub, was being scouted by the Majors. . .

Cleaning the Cuff

But Bill, Sr., would prefer to have him go into the insurance business rather than baseball. . . Featherweight champ Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler will perform without benefit of radio and television at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 8. . . Both managers voted no on some fairly good offers.

N.Y. Yankees Go For Sweep In Important Series With Red Rolfe and Detroit Tigers

By JOE REICHLER

The New York Yankees are going to be stubborn about giving up their American League championship.

Yesterday they walloped the league-leading Detroit Tigers for the second straight time—and in impressive fashion. The score was 7-5, but that tells only half the story.

In whittling the Tigers' margin to a game and a half, the Yankees routed Detroit ace Art Houtteman before he had gone five innings. This is the same young righthander who had made them cry uncle four times this season.

The Yankees go for a sweep of the three-game series today, pitting Tommy Byrne (13-6) against Detroit's one-time ace, Hal Newhouser (10-8). Tomorrow the Yanks take on the lowly St. Louis Browns in the first of a two-game series while the Tigers limp into Boston where they will be greeted by the red hot Red Sox, winners of nine straight games.

The Red Sox downed the Browns 9-5 yesterday to climb within 4 1-2 games of the top. Third place Cleveland, rained out of its game with Washington, is three games off the pace.

Philadelphia's front running Phillies retained their 5 1-2 game margin in the National League, defeating Cincinnati Reds 6-4. Home runs by Del Ennis and Andy Seminick were the big blows.

Dodgers Win in 17 Frames

Gene Hermanski's home run, followed by Carl Furillo's triple and Gil Hodges' double, gave Brooklyn Dodgers a 17-inning 7-5 victory over the Pirates under the Pittsburgh lights. Ralph Branca pitched the last nine innings, allowed one run and fanned eight to record his sixth victory. Mel Queen, fourth Pirate pitcher, was the loser. It was the longest game of the season and the longest night game in major league history. Ralph Kiner banged his 38th home run in the last of the ninth to force the game into extra innings.

Sam Jethroe doubled in two runs in the third inning to give the third-place Boston Braves a 2-1 victory over the Cardinals in St. Louis. Warren Spahn fanned six in winning his 16th.

Homers by Monte Irvin and Bobby Thomson and a fine relief job by Montia Kennedy helped New York Giants shade the Cubs in Chicago 5-4.

Philadelphia Athletics snapped a 10-game losing streak in splitting an American League doubleheader with Chicago White Sox. Chicago's Ray Scarborough bested hard-luck Lou Brissie 1-0 in the opener. The A's won the second game 6-5.

DROWNED IN POOL

Stoney Creek, Ont., Aug. 24.—(CP)—Eighteen-month-old Darlene Anne Mooney, of Hamilton, was drowned in a small ornamental pool near her grandparents' home here.

No one noticed the child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mooney, entering the pool. Coroner Robert Kemp said the child could not have been in the water more than ten minutes but artificial respiration failed.

Canadians Lose In Fifth Round Of Golf Tourney

Minneapolis, Aug. 24. (AP)—Frank Stranahan will be chased today by a pack of dark horses in the National Amateur Golf tournament. Stranahan's big moment is at hand as the meet enters two more rounds that will trim the field from 16 to four semi-finalists.

The Toledo strong boy is the only heralded star left after a series of upsets yesterday. His goal of taking the British and U.S. Amateur titles the same year—matching Lawson Little's "Little Slam" in the mid-30s—may be realized.

In today's fifth round, Stranahan faces Willie Barber of Woodland Hills, Calif., 34-year-old former Golden Gloves boxer. Barber is among the conglomeration of players remaining after yesterday's two rounds ejected such well-known amateurs as defending champion Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City; Dick Chapman, the 1940 winner; Walker Cupper Bruce McCormick Willie Turnesa, 1938 and 1948 titlist; Fred Wampler, National Collegiate King; and Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, Canadian Amateur champion.

Stranahan yesterday dumped Mawhinney 1 up, then ousted Wampler 4 and 3.

The other Canadian contender, Gerry Kesselring, of Kitchener, Ont., lost a 2-and-1 heartbreaker to William Shields of Albany, N.Y., yesterday. Previously the Canadian Junior Champion had beaten James Lee, of Florida, 7 and 6.

Hottest duel of the third round was Stranahan's torrid match with Mawhinney that was decided on the final green. With every spectator watching, Mawhinney sliced his approach shot behind a mound that guarded the right side of the green. He blasted over it weakly and then missed the short pitch. Stranahan's 30-foot bid for a birdie was only two inches short.

The Ohioan, whose 1949 Canadian amateur title recently was annexed by Mawhinney, shot a three-under-par 68 to the visitor's 69.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Oslo, Norway, (CP)—When a huge back-log of students who were denied an education during the war, applied for admittance to University in 1944, they threatened to swamp the education system. The University of Oslo appealed to the United States to take some, and it announced recently there now are 1,200 Norwegian students studying in the United States.

Springfield Cubs In Second Place Of Int. League

(By The Associated Press)

With Rochester Red Wings virtually assured of winning their first pennant since 1940, interest in the International League now centres on the scrap for the three other playoff berths.

The Wings lead the second-place Montreal Royals by 8½ games and have 18 games to play, including eight with Montreal and 10 with seventh-place Toronto and eighth-place Buffalo. The Royals also have 18 games to go. Baltimore Orioles, in third place, have 22 games to play. If the Wings win 10 of their remaining 18 games, including four over Montreal, the Royals will be eliminated. Should this occur, Baltimore would have to win all its 22 to beat the Wings out.

Baltimore is only one game back of Montreal, while Jersey City Giants and Springfield Cubs are tied for fourth place, 4½ games back of the Orioles.

The Cubs knocked the Orioles out of second place last night by sweeping a doubleheader from Baltimore, 6-4 and 5-4. The Royals took over the runner-up slot by beating Buffalo Bisons 8-1. The Giants dropped a 7-2 decision to Syracuse Chiefs, while the Red Wings outslugged Toronto 10-9.

One Canadian Sure to Reach Semi-Final Round

St. Charles Golf Course, Winnipeg, Aug. 24. (CP)—It's four Canadians and four Americans today in the quarter-finals of the Canadian Women's open golf championships.

By the luck of the draw, Canada is assured of at least one representative in the Friday semi-finals.

Two U.S. players, Dot Kielty of Los Angeles and Edeane Anderson of Helena, Mont., were drawn against each other in the eights. So the winner of the match between Mrs. N. J. Carlson of Toronto, and Babs Davies of Vancouver will move ahead. All four are in the lower half of the draw.

In other games today, defending champion Grace De Moss of Corvallis, Ore., is to meet Mrs. W. S. Edey of Winnipeg. Sixteen-year-old Merlene Stewart of Welland, Ont., is to take on Mrs. Eddie Bush of Hammond, Ind.

Windsor Appears Team to Beat In Competition

(By The Canadian Press)

Windsor Nationals served due notice Wednesday that they'll be a power to reckon with in the Canadian Sandlot Baseball Congress.

Led by two mammoth three-run homers by Rufe Hook and Glen Skov, the heavy-hitting border crew blasted Toronto West Yorks 12-4 in the first appearance for both teams in the tournament, a double elimination affair which opened Tuesday in London.

Norm Cazzola hurled a nine-hitter for the Nationals and was never seriously threatened. Skov and Bill Fisher had a field day at the expense of two Toronto pitchers, each collecting four hits. Skov knocked in a total of six runs.

The Toronto team took a short-lived lead with single runs in second and third innings, but after Windsor tied it up in the third, the roof fell in for West Yorks. Nationals rang up four runs in the fifth and three more in each of the sixth and eighth innings.

The congress resumes Thursday night with Windsor meeting Oshawa Merchants of the Viaduct Major League and London Majors of the Intercounty League meeting Strathroy Royals. London downed Toronto Mayfairs Tuesday in the only official game of the opening night play.

London Majors closed out their season with an 11-5 win over Brantford Red Sox, edging into first place by a half-game. The loss dropped Sox back into a second-place tie with Kitchener Legionnaires, but both teams have one game left to play and can tie the league-leaders.

On Hitting Spree

The London batting order went on a hitting spree against Brantford, walloping 22 safe hits. Tim Burgess led the parade with four hits, including a home run. He drove in three runs. Ken McFadden also hit safely four times and Russ Evon collected two triples and a single.

Kitchener reaped the benefit of a two-hit pitching performance by manager Bobby Schnurr and rookie Norm Shoemaker to down St. Thomas Legion 13-3. The two hits and all the Legion runs came off Schnurr in the eight innings he pitched. Kitchener scored six runs in the first inning, sparked by Orv Cott's three-run double.

Joe Yosurak finally recovered some of the form which made him the league's most feared pitcher in the early part of the season, allowing nine hits as his Waterloo Tigers were downing Guelph Maple Leafs 9-3 in Guelph. Tigers hopped on Bill McCarthy for five runs in the first and coasted the rest of the way.

Third baseman Bobby Fisher led the Tigers' 15-hit attack with a perfect four-for-four night. Jim Muldoon walloped a run-scoring triple for the winner, while Chuck Watson, Marv Rich and Nick Ciani all hit safely twice for the losers.

In Galt, Stratford Nationals rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to defeat Galt Terriers 11-9 in a loosely-played game with each squad making five errors. Bob Wagner's homer was the big blow of the final-inning rally.

Irish Miskimmons added another homer for the Nats, while Billy Metral knocked one out of the park for Galt. Metral and Jack Moesch of the losers each hit three safeties.

This charming fellow, known professionally as the French Angel, and to his intimates as Maurice Tillet, will exchange greetings with another Beau Brummel in the person of Hi Lee, at the wrestling show being staged tomorrow evening in Memorial Arena.

All this manly beauty will be backed up by plenty of brawn, with Lee having a slight edge. The Ozark giant distributes a measley 292 pounds over his six foot nine inch frame while the Angel will have to be content himself with a weigh-in of only 275 pounds.

Petes Had Field Day Against Toronto Team

(By The Canadian Press)

Peterborough Petes had a field day at the expense of the hapless Toronto Riverdales in Wednesday night's Ontario Senior Lacrosse Association action.

The Petes, paced by Arn Dugan's eight-goal spree, ran up a 30-12 score on the last-place Riverdales. Don Ashbee knocked in three Pete goals, with Ernie Creighton adding a pair. Facto had three for Toronto.

The league leading Owen Sound Crescents added to their lead with a 9-7 win over Brampton Excelsiors. Doug Gillespie's three goals led Crescents to an early lead, but the winners just managed to stave off a late drive by Brampton at the bell.

Brampton's scoring punch was packed largely by Lew Landess and Ollie Raine, each of whom scored twice.

The second place St. Catharines Athletics dropped a tight 133-12 decision to the in-and-out Mimico Mountaineers, but remained in the second slot.

Horwood and Peterson each clicked for the hat-trick for the Mimico squad, while Oneschuk, Smith, Bird and Nelson connected twice each for St. Catharines.

Rule says to lead the suit your partner has bid. With three or less cards in his suit, lead your highest. With four cards of his suit, lead your fourth best. That is standard policy.

Two deviations from this are good. One is to lead highest of four containing two touching honors. Since he has bid the suit, a high card in his hand will form a sequence in your pair.

Another good deviation is used in expert play. With three cards of partner's bid suit containing one high card, lead a small instead of the high card. The purpose of this is easy to see.

If partner has bid a suit it must be assumed that he has one or more big cards in it. The big card he has will either take the first trick or force out the highest opponent card in that suit.

With the highest card of the suit, partner can take the first trick. His return in that suit will be through the hand of declarer. The high card you did not lead will threaten declarer's high card.

♥ 8 4 2
♣ K 7 3

Do not lead your king. Lead one of your small clubs. Partner wins the first trick with his ace and returns a club. Your king will trap the queen held by the south hand. If you had led your king, south would have tricked with the queen.

If south held the ace instead of the queen no harm would be done by your lead. The same would be true if you held the ace. If south held the king no harm would be done by your small card lead.

Thus, leading a small card offers little or no disadvantage. But it offers a possible advantage of trapping declarer's stopper.

Good bridge calls for taking the odds in your favor.

Rough Riders To be as Strong As Last Season

By H. DENT HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 24 (CP) —The annual subtractions and additions to staff seems to have left Ottawa's 1950 Rough Riders at least no worse off than at the opening of last year's gridiron season.

If anything, the team that finished atop the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union last November, only to get edged out in the finals against Montreal Alouettes, looks smoother, heavier and deeper in strength.

The fans will know a little more of the Riders after they meet Montreal Alouettes in the league's opening game at Montreal Sunday.

But some 12,000 fans in this football-mad town went away reasonably complacent Aug. 12 after watching their boys absorb a 27-6 drubbing by New York Giants of the professional National League.

After all, the Giants rate around the top in the United States. The Riders held them several times when the Giants needed only a foot for a first down or a score.

Carrying Eight Imports

Ottawa is carrying eight American imports and looking for a ninth, although the rules allow only seven to a team. The replacement is for Howie Turner, a star backfielder in any league, may be out four weeks at least with a shoulder separation suffered at practice.

Of the others, only three are veterans on Canadian grids.

These include line coach Eddie Michaels, well known in the east because he is the only man who refuses to wear a helmet. A stocky 220 pounds, he plays inside.

Quarterback Andy Gordon, 23, shone for Riders last season and will be playing his second year in Canada. At middle John Wagoner has earned a solid reputation over two seasons.

A pair of outside wings are new in Canada. They are Bill Stanton, 26, 210 pounds, and Paul Gibson, 28, 190 pounds, former teammates with Buffalo Bills. Another import is John. Rogers, 24, at 215 pounds, former captain of Tempe University team, who plays end.

One question around the Rider camp is whether or not Tony (Golden Boy) Golab is going to play. Tony got clipped while playing Alouettes last year and his leg hasn't been the same since.

Get New Backfielder

In case the leg won't stand up, Ottawa has enlisted the services of a backfielder named Tom Clavin, a husky 210-pounder, 22 years old, who played with Villanova. Clavin is being groomed to match Golab's pile-driver line thrusts.

On the Canadian side, Riders are far more powerful than a year ago. They have Bruce Cummings, an Ottawa boy who starred for University of Toronto last season.

Also back to the fold is Frank Dunlap, who was with Toronto Argonauts a couple of years while studying law. Frank is an able quarterback in his own right. Lineman Buck Rogers, another Ottawa boy, is back after a year with Regina Rough Riders.

Showing well at practice are standbys Lally Lalonde, an end, Eric Chipper—whose placement record is becoming a legend — and Ted McLarty, a backfielder with a dash to his performance. Other Canadians are pretty well tried and proved with the Riders.

Team Captain Predicts Win Over Australia

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—The captain of the United States Davis Cup forces today predicted victory over Australia in the weekend challenge matches, but added that it will be the toughest series in 11 years.

"I think we'll have the closest battle since Australia won the cup from us in 1939," said Alrick H. Man Jr., big, white-haired non-playing leader, "but I'm convinced we'll take it."

Harry Hopman, little, red-haired captain of the invading Aussies, wore a worried look and said: "I don't even know how I'll line up my team yet."

The strongest team Australia has assembled since the war will attempt to wrest the big trophy from the United States in matches tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at suburban Forest Hills.

In 1939, Australia's John Bromwich and Adrian Quist lost the first two matches to Bobby Riggs and Frankie Parker of the United States, and then stormed back for three straight triumphs.

Since then, the Aussies have won only two points. There was no play during the war and, taking up again in 1946, the U. S. racquet stars recaptured the cup and held it with a firm hand.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 24—(AP) — Ezio Pinza is amazingly modest for an opera singer.

Since his hit in "South Pacific", the movie gates were shoved wide open for him He now is co-starring with Lana Turner in "Mr. Imperium." But his Hollywood welcome has not always been so cordial.

In 1946, the Metropolitan bass came here with a burning desire to break into the movies. At M.G.M. there was a great deal of interest.

"I made a test," he recalled, "and everyone seemed to like it. I met a lot of people who thought it was great. I went home feeling good.

"And do you know that I never heard a single word from the studio after that! Not a single word!"

I asked him what happened.

"I didn't find out until a year later when I returned to Hollywood. I finally found out that one man had been the cause. He had spread lies about me and said the studio didn't need me. I am happy to say he is no longer with the studio."

Despite the sabotage of his first attempt at film stardom, Pinza is not bitter.

"So it comes four years later instead of then," he shrugged. "I have always been a fatalist about my career."

"Its just as well you didn't break into the movies four years ago," observed director-writer Don Hartman, who was lunching with us. "You would have been too young!"

THIRD LARGEST CROP

Canada's 1950 wheat crop is currently forecast at 544,000,000 bushels, which would make it the third largest in history.

AT THE CAPITOL — Two beautiful young German actresses, though well known in Germany, make their debut in an American film in "The Big Lift", Cornell Borcher and Bruni Lobel are the names of the lovely Frauleins, who get their first big break opposite Montgomery Clift and Paul Douglas in this comic but suspenseful story of the adventures of two Berlin Airlift fliers. Filmed in Berlin by 20th. Century-Fox, now showing at the Capitol Theatre for its first city showing. On the same program the Ritz Brothers in a funny comedy "Straight, Place and Show."

AT THE BELLE — Van Johnson and lovely Elizabeth Taylor are screen sweethearts for the first time in "The Big Hangover." MGM's zany comedy about a guy allergic to alcohol, the girl who cures him — and a "talking" dog! The novel romance of love and laughs now playing at the Belle Theatre.

PLANE ANSWERS CALL

Piloting the single-engine float craft was Group Capt. L. J. Birchall of St. Catharines, newly-appointed commanding officer of this base. He was accompanied by Flt.-Lt. Dr. R. Cuthbertson, of Brantford.

Suffered Constantly With Sour, Acid, Upset Stomach

"I suffered for so many years from a disordered, upset stomach that my system was all rundown," says Mr. E. B. Baldwin, 18 Naama Street, St. Thomas, Ont.

"I couldn't eat a meal without having gas attacks and belching of hot, sour liquids. The gas would bloat my stomach and press up in my chest, making me short of breath. This would often be followed by heartburn and a sick, nauseated feeling. All this time I was badly constipated. Dizzy spells would come over me and dark spots darted before my eyes. I became very nervous, slept poorly, and then in the morning I would feel tired and unrested.

"A friend of mine told me about Syntona and I started taking it. I was surprised when I soon began to feel better. My food was digesting without all that gas, sourness and heartburn. My appetite picked up and I began to enjoy my meals. Now my bowels are moving smoothly and regularly. The dizziness and spots before my eyes haven't troubled me since. My nerves are relaxed and I get sound, restful sleep at night. As a result I get up mornings feeling better than I have in years.

"It is certainly a good medicine that will help people in the condition I was and I highly recommend Syntona to other people who suffer this way."

CANADA

Even federal tax collectors were hit. In Ottawa, Revenue Minister McCann said it would mean a "very appreciable loss" in tax revenue—possibly running into the millions.

There were no general food shortages as yet. Potential trouble spots were a string of cities scattered across northern Quebec and Ontario which normally get all their supplies by rail. From Rouyn, Que., to Atikokan, Ont., 100 miles west of Fort William, they found themselves running low on fresh meat, sugar, milk and flour.

Atikokan appealed for a mercy train from the head of the lakes and union officials were considering whether they would let the train through.

Take Fruit by Truck

Many of the country's estimated 550,000 trucks took on unaccustomed uses. Brewery trucks took Niagara peaches to market in Ontario. A furniture van left Toronto for Winnipeg with medical supplies. Refrigerated trucks left for northwestern Quebec with fresh meat and milk, to return loaded down with newsprint.

Federal customs regulations were eased to permit U.S. trucks to help.

In southwestern Ontario, where some lines of United States railways were not affected by the strike, authorities reported an increased number of hoboes taking free rides. Railway police intended to put a stop to it at once.

Emergency food was sent across Lake Winnipeg by a fishing boat to some 1,000 persons left without milk at Victoria Beach, 65 miles north of Winnipeg.

Food Rationing Starts

Merchants started food rationing systems in Gogama, Hornepayne, Foleyet, Nakina and Armstrong in Ontario's northland.

The list of idle workers grew longer. Out of work are 2,250 nickel workers at Sudbury.

Manager M. N. Hay of the Aluminum Company of Canada plant at Kingston, said the plant, employing 2,000 men, will be shut down if the strike lasts more than a week. Most of the 825 plant employees of Studebaker Corporation of Canada Limited in Hamilton are due to be laid off Friday night.

Two suggestions of ways in which the public can help were advanced.

Senator Charles B. Howard, mayor of Sherbrooke, Que., urged economy in the use of Propane gas, most of which comes from the United States. And Mrs. F. E. Wright of Toronto, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, suggested that women living in or near fruit-growing areas preserve as much fruit as possible to prevent waste that might result from the strike.

Rushed to Market

The ripening produce of the fruit-growing Niagara Peninsula was being rushed by fleets of trucks to Montreal and Northern Ontario.

Of 111 trucks cleared at the Ontario fruit inspection station at Fruitland Tuesday, only a dozen were headed for Toronto. However Toronto wholesale prices of some produce were dropping with tomato prices down as much as 40 per cent and peaches 25 to 35 percent.

A spokesman for the Massey-Harris Co., said the company "already was feeling the effects" and mass layoffs are possible within a week. The company employs about 42,500 persons in Toronto and an equal number in other Ontario plants.

COUNTRY-WIDE

Under the American Railway Labor Act, which sets up a complex procedure for handling of rail disputes, the unions have been free to strike since July 15.

The deadline for the country-wide walkout was set for 6 a.m. local standard time Monday.

May Seize Roads

The unions indicated hopes that their full-scale strike threat might force railroad owners, in seeking to avoid seizure to capitulate to union demands. On at least three prior occasions the union asked the President for seizure.

The carriers didn't seem oposed to the seizure idea. At least A. E. Stoddard, president of the Union Pacific Railroad said in Seattle last night that seizure should be ordered immediately to prevent any interruption in military supply shipments to Korea.

In the event of a seizure, the rail workers would become government employees and as such could be punished by the courts for staying out on strike. However the unions have pledged that the men will work for the government under seizure.

The dispute with the trainmen and conductors has been going on since March 1949. The unions asked a 40-hour week with the same pay as now received for a 48-hour week for men in yard service plus a pay increase for workers in train service.

An emergency board named by Truman down the requested pay boost for train-service men and recommended the 40-hour week plus an 18-cent hourly increase for yard-service men. The unions said the train service men should have received something and the yard service men a 31-cent increase.

CIVIL WAR LOSSES

In the American Civil War the Union suffered 110,070 dead compared to the Confederacy's losses of 74,524.

FIRST ATOM SPLIT

The uranium atom was split for the first time by Enrico Fermi at Rome University in 1934.

EXPECTED BACK ON TIME

Camp Borden, Ont., Aug 24.—(CP)—Col. D. K. Todd, garrison commander of Camp Borden, said yesterday soldiers on leave are expected back on time regardless of the railway strike. He said most of the 200 men now on leave are close enough to return "by bus or thumb".

Unemployment Declines 25,000 In Three Weeks

Ottawa, Aug. 24—(CP)— The Labor Department announced Wednesday that unemployment in Canada declined by 25,000 over the three-week period, July 13-Aug. 3.

But it added that this seemingly general decline in unemployment will be changed by the "existing situation," presumably the national rail strike.

In its regular review of the employment picture, the department said that at Aug. 3 Canada was experiencing "unparalleled prosperity" in which 97 out of every 100 workers have jobs.

In the three weeks ending Aug. 3 registrations for employment with the national employment service fell from 183,200 to 158,100.

This figure was some 19,000 above last year's corresponding total, but the department noted that the increase was only 2,000 in registrations from men.

There were almost 17,000 more women looking for jobs than at the same time last year.

The increase in unemployed women was particularly noted in Ontario.

The department attributed this in part to a lower level of employment in such industries as textiles, hotels and restaurants which employ large numbers of women workers.

At the beginning of August manufacturing industries such as primary iron and steel, automobiles and electrical apparatus were producing at capacity. In metal mines, pulp and paper plans and sawmills, employment was being maintained at close to last year's levels. In industries such as primary iron and steel, construction and agriculture, employers were finding difficulty in obtaining skilled labor.

In Ontario, the number of registrations at local employment offices fell off 9,600 to 38,600. Male applications were almost 2,000 below last year's figure, although applications from women were 4,000 higher.

Following is a comparative table of applicants seeking employment through the government's employment agencies in various Ontario cities:

	July 13	Aug. 3
Ontario Region	45,500	38,600
Hamilton	4,354	47,070
Kingston	1,050	874

The Gentle Heart

By Kay Hamilton

She bundled into her work coat and set about cleaning the snow which had fallen during the night. It had packed down and the work was hard. She scraped the sidewalk clean, and the sun dried it quickly. When lunchtime came she did not notice it, but went on working although her back muscles were protesting now. She made a path around toward the back for the grocery boy and cleaned off the front porch. When she had finished, she collapsed into the wing chair, gasping. Her cheeks were rosy with exertion, but her eyes were dark with pain.

By late afternoon she felt as if she had been running a race against herself. Her knees trembled, and her breath came short. It was the waiting, the suspense, that was so trrible. When would they come home? What would they say What would she say to them?

She wandered out into the kitchen looked about absently but made no move to prepare any food. She could not think could not plan.

By eight o'clock she knew they were not comig. She was calm now. She made herself a sandwich and choked it down with some warm milk. She lit the fire and sat before it in the dark. Eventually she supposed she would go up to bed. But not yet.

A faint scratching at the door brought her to her feet. Ghillie the little wretch! Twice lately he had trotted over to the Mayhews when Mrs. Folsom let him out for his nightly prowl before bedtime. And each time he had refused to go home again, settling down by the fire and indicating in no uncertain fashion, his intention of spending the night.

She let him in now, scolded him perfunctorily and called Mrs. Folsom. "Ghillie is here again," she said. "I'll bring him home right away if he'll follow me."

"The villian!" Mrs. Folsom's old voice shook wih laughter. "I do believe he thinks he has two homes. Or perhaps I'm not too familiar a story to him."

Jenny flung on her coat, pulled a beret from he pocket and put it on took her mittens which had been drying before the fire and called "Ghillie. "Come, sir," she said sternly, "you know where you live. You shouldn't leave your mistress lone so long."

He followed her with apparent meekeness. Jenny saw with surprise, when she had left the house that it was snowing again. Great soft flakes which floated toward the earth in deliberate spirals. The sky was clouded over, not a star to be seen. It was slippery on the thin coating of snow on her walk but better where yesterday's snow still lay deeply.

Ghillie bounded through it with awkward leaps of his short little legs only digressing occasionally when some tree proved too tempting. Most of the houses showed golden windowpanes and the faint street lights cast small golden pools upon the snow. It was very quiet.

A car came around the corner skidding a little on the soft new snow and straightened out slowly Jenny about to cross the street bnet down to hold Ghillie by his collar but at that moment he spied the welcoming porch light of his own home and streaked from under her hand directly into the path of the car.

"Ghillie!" Jenny thought she screamed it, but it was only a whisper of sound. There was a squawk of brakes and the car skidded in a wide curve. She stood frozen in immobility like some small, trapped animal and watched it come at her.

There was a great deal of confuson. Voices. A dog barking. Or was he growling? Ghillie! She tried to move to get up but floated off instead into a comforting softness where there was no light no sound and no pain.

She woke slowly and lay for a long time without opening her eyes. Her mind felt singularly clear. She could remember perfectly what had happened and the more she remcmebered the less she wanted to open her eyes at all. She did not want to come back to a world so filled with pain and puzzlement.

She must have given some sign of returned consciousness because the nurse spoke to her. "Well, that's fine! Feeling better?"

Jenny opened her eyes reluctantly and saw a rosy-cheeked smiling face bending over her. She said with slow articulation, "I don't want to!"

The nurse only smiled more widely lifted her up expertly gave her something to drink and lowered her again onto the bed. Then she went to the door and spoke quetly to someone outside. Jenny heard the words "still dazed" and "take a little time," and was annoyed. She was not dazed. She had meant exactly what she had said. But she was inexpressibly tired. Too tired to object.

Then Natalie and Diane were in the room; Diane white-cheeked and unsmiling and Natalie looking quenched somehow. Her heart lifted momentarily at sight of them then she relapsed into the petulant apathy with which she had waked. Yes, she loved them, but it was a mistake to love people. It simply gave them that much more chance to hurt you, he thought. She saw Brent peering anxiously around the door jamb and shut her eyes. She did not speak to her sisters and soon was asleep again.

When Jenny really waked, Brent and her sister were no longed at the hospital. She felt better and responded to her cheerful nurse with something like her old spirit. When Dr. Higbee came to see her she was almosth herself again. "Well," he said rubbing his hands from the cold and looking down at her with his twinkling smile, "you had us worried for a while, young lady. But you can bless the elements for a rapid recovery. If you hadn't had a lot of snow to cushion your fall you'd have had a much worse concussion."

"Is that what it was?"

"And still is," he cautioned her. "You're not over it yet and we'll keep you quiet for a while. And then we'll have to X-ray that leg of yours."

Instantly the dull ache which had permeated her being became focussed on her left leg, and she looked down at the counterpane curiously. "Is it broken?" she asked.

"I don't think so but we'll have some pictures to make sure," he told her. "Still you have a beautiful set of contusions which will keep you from hopping around for some time. How did it happen The young man who was driving the car seemed rather incoherent about it all."

Jenny said, "Ghillie got away from me and ran right in front of him. He put on his brakes and skidded. It wasn't his fault at all, and he was going slowly."

Dr. Higbee chuckled. "You'll never collect damages at that rate Jenny!"

She smiled too. "No I don't suppose I will, but it's only fair to tell it the way it happened."

"That's more or less what he said. Poor devil! He got out of the car and tried to pick you up but Ghillie went for him—thought he was trying to injure you some more I suppose. It was quite a snarl there for a while I understand."

Jenny said suddenly, "When may I go home?" and knew as soon as she had said it that she really wanted to go.

"If you've no broken bones in a couple of days. You'll be here for Christmas if that's what's worrying you," Dr. Higbee said. "But you'll have to promise to obey orders and be absoluely quiet for some time. Will you?"

Brent carried her into the house on the day before Christmas, Natalie had come with him and Diane was waiting at the door to greet her. For a moment Jenny was too excited to notice the difference in Diane and when she did, she was dumfounded. Di was wearing an apron! Not a frilly taffeta one, more decortion than anything else not a ruffled organdy one, but a good serviceable percale apron of Jenny's.

They put her in the wing chair with her left foot on the hassock and stood around admiring her. "Oh, it's so good to have you back!" Natalie cried winking back somt tears angrily. "You'll never know what a scare you gave us, Jen! We must all be at least ten years older.

Jenny said lightly, "Well, if you've aged ten years, then I've aged twenty. And that gives me a chance to be an older sister—something I've always wanted!"

Diane suddely sniffed the air nd whirled out of the room, crying something about "I hope it isn't burning!" and Jenny looked curiously at Natalie and Brent.

"Is Di cooking something?" she asked incredulously.

"Custards for you," Nat told her. "She saw a couple of the trays at the hospital and decided you'd need building up when we got you home."

RAIL TALKS END

Frank Hall, left, and A. R. Mosher, presidents of Canada's two railway unions, leave the negotiating meeting in Montreal after failing to reach an agreement with representatives of the railways. Shortly after the wages-hours talks broke off, Hall announced that the strike of 124,000 employees was on.—(CP Photo).

Major Battle Breaks Out In Mountains East of Taegu

Tokyo, Aug. 26 (Saturday) — (AP) — A major battle over a new road to Taegu city broke out Friday in the mountains of central Korea 12 to 25 miles north and east of Taegu.

Counter-attacking South Koreans regained ground they lost to a forward force of 6,000 troops and tanks, prodding before a 20,000-man red force.

On the Sea of Japan coast 25 miles east of this battle, North Koreans stabbed down from Yongdok and shoved back a South Korean regiment before Kigye, nine miles northwest of Pohang port. The South Koreans dropped back 1 1-2 miles before a tank led smash by the reds.

Twin Attack

The east coastal battle was touched off by a twin South Korean attack to the north from Kigye and the coastal Hunghae area immediately north of Pohang. Two South Korean divisions jumped off in the offensive.

On the extreme southern front between Chinju and Masan port, 27 air miles west of Pusan, the No. 1 allied port, two red divisions appeared to have built up for a sweep to the east.

Principal action was in the oft-exchanged saw-tooth hills of Sobuk near Tundok, 10 miles northwest of Masan.

Rail Seizure Only Way to Avert Walkout

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP) — President Truman talked over the country-wide railroad strike threat with his cabinet today. No one would say what action was planned but there were growing reports that the government would seize the railroads no later than tomorrow night.

Railroad conductors and trainmen, who called the strike for Monday, have said they would work under government seizure.

Attorney-General Howard McGrath said another possible strike-stopping move, other than seizure, would be to seek a court order against a walkout. But he emphasized that he was speaking only of possibilities.

Other administration officials, unquotable by name, said there was little prospect of an injunction attempt unless the workers refused to stay on the job under government operation.

In advance of the Cabinet meeting, a prominent administration official said seizure of the rail industry—either today or tomorrow—probably will be the president's method of dealing with the crisis.

"I don't believe the President can do anything else but seize," said this official, asking that his name not be used. "The only question is when."

He added, however, that he expected seizure before Saturday night. This would avoid costly strike preparations by the railroads, it was explained, and possible curtailments in service at a time when the railroads are moving troops and supplies for the Korean fighting.

Two Other Courses

The official said the President has two other courses besides seizure but they are unlikely possibilities.

One would be to apply for a court injunction to forbid the walkout of 3,000 trainmen and conductors. But the legal ground for such action is not settled.

The other would be a personal appeal from Truman for the unions and carriers to speed a settlement. But the wage-hour dispute has dragged on now since March 1949 and it is hardly likely that any such appeal could result in an agreement before 6 a.m., Monday (local time), the strike deadline.

The unions have said their members will work in the event of seizure. They then would be government employees and could be compelled by the courts to continue working, anyway. Under seizure the government would let the railroads operate as usual, with the same pay and other working conditions for employees, until the Labor dispute is settled.

WIDESPREAD FLOODS

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 25 (Reuters) — Widespread floods tonight covered a 300-mile expanse of southern Chile between the towns of Osorno and Chillan after two weeks of torrential rain.

Four farmers were drowned in the Rahue River, running through Osorno. Damage was estimated to be heavy.

Chillan is about 220 miles south of Santiago and Osorno nearly another 300 miles farther south.

Parachute With Built-in Brain Takes Dangers From High Jumps

Dayton, O., Aug. 25. (AP)—Now the U.S. Air Force comes up with a parachute that has a built-in brain.

This brainy aerial umbrella is a new automatic back-type model that knows just when and where to open itself in high-speed, high-speed, high-altitude jumps.

This is a big help to pilots of today's swifter military airplanes. Dropping from fast planes at high altitudes with open parachutes is hazardous.

The opening of the parachute at high speeds or at high altitudes gives the jumper severe shock. He also may fail to pull the chute open at the right time, or fail to pull it at all because of injury or unconsciousness due to lack of oxygen.

The new parachute takes the dangers from free-fall jumps. All the pilot has to do is to get out of the plane and pull a handle connected by cable to an automatic release.

From there on, the chute takes over itself, opening only after the airman has fallen to a safe distance. It works with both a timer and an element operating by pressure at a given altitude.

LEVELS OF CIVIL DEFENCE DEFINED AT CONFERENCE

Agree on Division Of Responsibility

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (CP) — In a brief, one-day meeting, federal and provincial authorities yesterday mapped out a broad program of preparations for enemy attack.

They agreed on a division of responsibility among federal, provincial and municipal governments and thus launched a series of moves designed to get all Canadians ready for the worst that may come.

Eventually, spokesman at the conference said, the master plan will involve just about every Canadian, although it will be some months yet before large-scale training can be started. The first job will be to train key civilian personnel, and then build around them local organizations.

Immediate steps will be establishment within the next few weeks of a special school on atomic warfare either at Camp Borden, Ont., or Meaford, Ont., to train doctors and others.

Defence Minister Claxton, who set the background for the moves in his address to the opening sessions of the conference today, stressed that Canada is going through weeks of great crisis which may well show whether Russia will touch off a third world war.

Statement Issued

Mr. Claxton issued a statement after the conference in which he said there was no disagreement on any major issue.

He said too, that a continuing dominion - provincial advisory committee on civil defence is being established, and that the federal government will issue a manual of instruction on civil defence problems.

The question of responsibility for civil defence in emergency will be further studied, as will the question of financial responsibility for key personnel and equipment.

The resulting organizations will also be able to cope with such disasters as the Manitoba floods this spring. One principle recognized at the conference was that all the organizations should come under the civilian authority.

The plans involve a division of the nation into areas— likely target areas; a "cushion" area surrounding them; and reception areas, into which casualties could be evacuated.

Deluged With Skunks For Job on TV

Station KTTV ran a newspaper advertisement for one week, saying it wished a trained civet for its Jack Rourke show.

"We are deluged," said KTTV. "Fortunately, all the applicants are deordorized. We hope to get a talented polecat out of the lot, but we haven't reached a decision yet."

CHILD ACCIDENTLY SHOT

Peterborough, Aug. 25—(CP)—Five-year-old John Sandback was shot in the abdomen Thursday while a neighbor was firing at a target. The lad died in hospital here. The boy ran into the line of fire while Mrs. Lunn's son Jack, 13, was shooting at a target.

Canadians Not Plunging Into Controlled Economy of Second World War Says Hon. C. Howe

Toronto, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Canadians who believe they are plunging headlong into the controlled economy of the Second World War years are mistaken, Trade Minister Howe said today.

In an address prepared for delivery at the opening of the Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. Howe condemned hoarders and persons who have been raising prices in anticipation of a controlled economy and said they are doing a disservice to themselves and their communities.

The trade minister, substituting for Prime Minister St. Laurent, who was held in the capital by urgent business, reviewed the world threat of communism and said that if the communists ever succeed in domination of Europe and Asia, the danger to this continent would be "very great, and the difficulties of successful defence almost insuperable."

"That is why we are literally acting in our own defence when we stand with those in Asia and Europe, who are resisting or preparing to resist communist aggression, and give them what assistance we can."

Canada's most immediate task was to strengthen her defences. Communist aggression in Korea had shown that she must have larger trained forces in being, available to assist in countering outbreaks there and elsewhere.

No Short-term Plan

While first place must be given to rearmament, "we must not neglect the general strength of our economy and the welfare of our people. The communists would like nothing better than to see a disgruntled, unhappy, divided population in our free countries."

The fight for peace was "no short-term program," but something to which Canadians must bend their energies and intelligence for years ahead.

"We must show the world and particularly those in Asia who now are entering a new era that our free democracy is really better for them and not just for us than what the communists offer

"Above all, we must keep our sense of proportion. Our substantially increased military production program now under way is still only a small proportion of the all-out war effort of 1942, 1943 and 1944.

Facing Real Test

"Those who believe that we are plunging headlong into the controlled economy of those years are mistaken. Those who are hoarding, those who are raising prices in anticipation of a controlled economy, are doing a disservice to themselves and to the communities in which they live

"True, we are facing a real test, but the Canadian economy has never been stronger. The supply position is excellent. The Canadian people have in the past held steadfast, and I am convinced will continue to do so. If we do not weaken ourselves by heeding unfounded rumors of impending disaster, we can face the future with confidence."

Majority of MP's and Senators Complete Air Travel Plans To Attend Emergency Session

Ottawa, Aug. 25—(CP)— Administrators of the parliamentary airlift said today a majority of Commons and Senate members have been reached and have completed air travel plans to Ottawa for the emergency rail strike session opening Tuesday.

Transport Department officials said that for the most part the members have booked passage aboard commercial aircraft. Government planes probably will not be required extensively.

District transport controllers and airport managers now have been in touch with 85 per cent of the members in the Maritimes; about 80 per cent in Ontario and Quebec; 70 per cent in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, 98 per cent in Alberta and about 99 per cent in British Columbia.

There still are some doubtful cases, the administrators said. Senator J. Wesley Stambaugh, Alberta Liberal, has informed them that he is too ill to travel by air. It is uncertain whether he will be able to get to Ottawa in time for the session.

Senator W. Rupert Davies, Ontario Liberal, is aboard ship in mid-Atlantic returning to Canada from a visit to the United Kingdom. The airlift has not been in touch with him. However, he is expected to arrive in Canada and likely will be able to reach Ottaw in time for the session.

Will Remove Reds If They Try To Join Pickets

Ottawa, Aug. 25. (CP)—Police will be asked to remove communists if they try to participate in rail-strike picket lines, A. R. Mosher said today.

The president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.) said there have been at least two instances of reds trying to march with picketers.

A group of communists tried to join picket lines in Montreal on the first day of the strike.

"We asked the Montreal anti-subversive squad to remove them," Mr. Mosher said.

A single communist tried to join the picket line in front of the strike-bound Chateau Laurier here last night. He was told to "get going". He refused to drop out of the lines and was shouldered to the sidelines.

Restore U.S. Controls On Sugar Exports Except to Canada

Washington, Aug. 25 — (AP) — The United States today put sugar back under export controls, effective Sept. 1, except to Canada. The Commerce Department announced that each export shipment of sugar valued at $250 or more will require a licence, unless the destination is Canada. Officials said the supply of sugar in the U. S. is good, and the action is only "precautionary."

Australia Seeks To Improve Trade With Dominion

Ottawa, Aug. 25—(CP)—Australia, which ranked 4th among Canada's suppliers of imported goods last year, is seeking to improve trade with this country, Francis M. Forde, Australian High Commissioner, said today.

Mr. Forde, in an address prepared for delivery at the opening of the Australian display at the Canadian National Exhibition, said Australia cannot affort to continue the "luxury" of a deficit in her balance of trade with Canada, and has been forced to impose limitations.

Despite the limitations on Canadian imports and the fact that devaluation had encouraged more Canadian buying in the island continent, there was still a gap which had to be filled. This year, for the first time since 1947, Australia was participating in the C.N.E. with a completely-new display of wool and woolen goods, canned fruits, dried fruits, gelatine and sporting material, as well as tools, electrical fittings and appliances, optical goods and medical supplies.

He hoped Canada would buy more of such produce so that Australia could buy more Canadian newsprint, lumber, canned fish, motor cars and machinery.

THEN MAN BITES DOG

Bombay, Aug. 25 — (Reuters) — A dog sneaked up from behind and bit a dock worker in the leg today. The enraged man caught the dog and sliced away an inch of its tail with his teeth. Police charged him with cruelty to an animal.

STIFLING EFFECTS OF STRIKE SPREAD TO NEW SECTORS

Oil Shortages Appear On Prairies, in North

(By The Canadian Press)

Substitute forms of transport still rumbled goods and supplies across the country today, but the stifling effects of the national railway strike still spread into new sectors of Canada's economy.

Oil shortages appeared on the prairies and in nothern Ontario. Seriously-low food supplies were reported from several small communities in dockside warehouses, export cargos began to disappear and there seemed little chance of keeping export shipments moving to cargo vessels.

These were added to the existing problems of growing layoffs, shortages and communications problems.

In Toronto, a trucking official said the emergency truck network set up during the strike might break down this weekend unless warehouses and terminals were kept working overtime during the weekend.

G. M. Parke, president of the Automotive Transportation Association of Ontario, said that unless trucks could unload cargo Saturday and Sunday the resulting tie up might "be the straw hat that breaks the camel's back."

The only food shortages appeared in isolated areas of northern Ontario. A special train was authorized by the striking union to run into Atikokan, Ont., a mining town 100 miles west of Fort William. Trucks rushing supplies to northern Ontario.

R.A.F. Transport Crashes in Malaya

Singapore, Aug. 25. (Reuters)—An R.A.F. Dakota transport crashed today in the jungle in Kelantan state, Malaya, with 11 passengers and crew aboard. Army patrols were sent to search the area.

Police reports said the plane caught fire when it hit the dense jungle trees.

The occupants were feared to have perished.

The place where the crash occurred was pin-pointed by other aircraft and army search parties were expected to reach it tonight.

U.S. Ready to Attend Tariff Conference

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP) — The United States appears ready to attend a new international conference to cut tariffs despite some congressional demands that the meeting be postponed.

Informed government officials told a reporter today they believed any American withdrawal would wreck the post war drive to expand world trade by reducing tariff barriers.

The United States and 38 other western countries are due to send representatives to Torquay, England, Sept 28 to negotiate new cuts in tariffs. The conference would be the third in the last three years.

P.M., Union Heads Give No Hints On Results of Talk

St. Laurent Will Meet Company Officers Later

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 25. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent conferred today with leaders of the striking railway unions and will meet management heads this afternoon in what is believed to be a supreme attempt to end the paralyzing railroad strike, now in its fourth day.

Neither the union heads nor the Prime Minister would tell reporters anything about the talks in the Prime Minister's East Block office shortly before noon.

But the union heads said they would be here "for some time", and it was understood that a Cabinet council was tentatively called for eight o'clock tonight.

Seeks Information

It appeared likely that the Prime Minister was ascertaining the minimum conditions under which the union heads would order their members back to work.

At 4 p.m., he will receive the railway heads, Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National, and W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific, and their advisers.

The expectation here is that he will learn from the railway heads the extent to which they are willing to go to meet the unions' minimum demands.

The next course, probably at a Cabinet meeting tonight, may be to see what the government could do temporarily to enable the railways to meet the difference between their two positions so far as extra cost is concerned.

Prefer Some Settlements

It is believed that the government and both parties would like to see the strike ended on some basis, even if only temporarily, before parliament meets in emergency session Tuesday.

This would remove the necessity of parliament attempting to legislate under terrific pressure to meet a situation threatening economic chaos in Canada.

When the union leaders emerged shortly before noon from their talks with the Prime Minister they evaded reporters with noncommittal and terse replies to questions.

"We were asked to see the Prime Minister and we've seen him—that's all," said Frank Hall spokesman in the negotiations for 15 international unions.

A. R. Mosher, negotiation leader for the two Canadian unions in the strike, had no statement.

After coming out of the Prime Minister's office, Mr. Hall made a long-distance telephone call and then left the east block with Mr. Mosher.

Asked how long the union heads would remain in Ottawa, Mr. Hall said "for some time."

Has No Comment

After the union leaders had left, the Prime Minister came out of his office briefly at 12.25 p.m. and told reporters he had no statement. He said he would be meeting heads of the railways at 4 p.m., but did not know if he would have a statement after that meeting.

Greek Island Torn Into Two Camps Over a 'Kidnapping for Love's Sake'

Heraklion, Crete, Aug. 25 — (Reuters)—A Greek army battalion today was ordered into action to prevent an armed clash on this island, torn into two camps over a "kidnapping for love's sake."

A gay young blade, Constantine Kefaloghiannis, still has the object of his affections hidden away in the hills. He has sent word that he will kill her and himself if her parents do not agree to their marriage.

Her kidnapper-suitor is said to have been taken for safety to a village on the island, near where rival family groups and police forces were chasing each other about the hills.

Tsaldaris suggested that if the families could be reconciled, he and the premier could be best men at the wedding of kidnapper and kidnapped.

Efforts to reconcile the families were continuing, but the Archbishop of Crete's offer of intervention yesterday has failed.

The kidnapper's brothers, a Populist member of parliament, informed the government yesterday he was trying to get the girl released. In the meantime "her honor is safe," he stated.

Rail Briefs

Montreal, Aug. 25—(CP)—Railway officials said Thursday main line and principle services can be restored within 24 hours of the end of the country-wide railway strike.

Toronto, Aug. 25—(CP)—The Toronto District Labor Council (T.L.C.) Thursday night accused the railway and federal government of conspiring to bring about the railway strike so that is could be used as an excuse for repressive labor legislation.

Regina, Aug. 25—(CP)— The Saskatchewan Employers Association Thursday issued a statement calling on the federal government, as its emergency session next week, to pass legislation prohibiting strikes "in all essential public services under federal jurisdiction."

Montreal, Aug. 25—(CP)— J. A. Brass, chairman of the Canadian Passenger Association, announced Thursday that arrangements will be made by the railways to extend rail and commuters' tickets by the number of days the strike lasts.

London, Ont., Aug. 25—(CP)—Downtown ticket offices of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. remained open in London Thursday despite token pickets placed by the striking unions Employees of the offices are in a special group unaffected by the dispute and have been working despite the strike which started Tuesday.

Montreal, Aug. 25—(CP)—R. M. Fowler, general manager of the Newsprint Association of Canada, said Thursday "at least one newsprint mill is likely to close Saturday" as a result of the rail strike. The mill is in Ontario, he said, without identifying it. Lack of storage space would close the mill.

Toronto, Aug. 25—(CP)—The Ontario Federation of Labor (A.F.L.) Thursday urged striking railwaymen to make every effort to reopen negotiations. The federation, which represents more than 200,000 unionists, pledged support for the strikers.

WILL RESIGN POST

Peru, Ind., Aug. 24 (AP) — Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said today he will resign next month because he "feels fine" after recovering from a heart attack "and I want to stay that way."

He plans to devote full time to extensive farming operations he and his sons, James and Robert Schram, conduct.

THE WEATHER

DELCO POWER UNIT INSTALLED IN TENT AT HEADQUARTERS

Officials at strike headquarters of the Belleville area have improved their conditions by the addition of a Delco unit to provide power for their area. Power lines have been extended to the tent, eliminating the Coleman lamps used at first.

During the strike the CNRAA softball schedule is being carried on, and other entertainment is being provided by records and a public address system. Last night entertainment officials organized a square dance for the employees and wives.

SAW EQUIPMENT REPORTED STOLEN

Striker Falls Over Bicycle, Seriously Hurt

William T. Parry, a member of the clerical staff in the local superintendent's office of the CNR, suffered painful injuries yesterday afternoon, when he fell backwards over a bicycle near the strike headquarters. He is in eBlleville General Hospital, being looked after by Dr. A. Walters.

Officials said that it was not realized at the time just how seriously Parrry was injured, and he was taken home by friends. Later, when it became apparent that he was seriously injured, he was taken to hospital.

Dr. Walters said this morning that the man will be in hospital for a while, and that he will have to have an operation.

The accident occurred when Parry was watching a ball game in progress on the diamond. He stepped back, and tripped over the bicycle which was lying on the ground.

Authorities at the grounds said this morning that immediate steps will be taken now to provide for a better policing of the area while the strike is on, in order to prevent any recurrence.

Obituary

LATE MRS. MINNIE WILSON

The funeral of the late Mrs. Minnie Wilson took place Thursday afternoon from the residence of Murney Reynolds, Foxboro, to Foxboro United Church where service was conducted by Rev. F. A Gilbert. Interment was made in Thomasburg Cemetery.

Licence Number Of Car Obtained By Pickets

Picketing of company properties by striking railway employees in the Belleville area continues on a 24-hour bases today with only one incident marring an otherwise peaceful situation.

The only trouble pickets have run up against so far has come from the driver and passengers in a grey car, which has been moving along the picket lines shouting "suckers" and "communists". Official opinion from strike headquarters at the CNR Athletic Association grounds is that the actions are more in the nature of a prank than anything else.

The licence number of the car involved has been obtained, and provincial and railway police, as well as men working the picket lines, have been notified of it. No violent action is expected if and when the car returns to the line, but the persons involved will have the situation explained to them. Officials are determined that the good record of the union all across the country during the strike will not be marred by pranksters here.

District Canners May be Hard Hit By Rail Strike

District canners of tomatoes and other produce may be hard hit before long if the rail strike continues. Can manufacturers ship almost exclusively by rail, and they say that any move to get the cans out to customers while the strike is on will have to come from the customers themselves.

Officials of the Continental Can Company of Canada, which supplies the bulk of the cans for the district said yesterday that they have ample stocks of tinplate and all other materials necessary for production on hand. The sticker in the deal, however, is transportation for the cans. The company has notified all its customers that if they can get trucks to the manuacturing plants at Vile St. Laurent and New Toronto, they will be able to obtain all the cans they require.

The strike officials said, is coming just at the time when the canning peak is being approached. Tomatoes and corn are just about ready for canning, and the end of this week will see what company officials describe as the "absolute peak period." This demand, they say, will last for about ten days, after which it will taper off.

Authorities emphasize that there is no shortage of cans, but that their hans are tied with regard to transportation.

All Striking Unions Under Area Chairman, Thomas Rees

It is possible that part of the reading public is not quite clear as to the setup of unions and locals involved in the strike in the Belleville area. For that reason, the Ontario Intelligencer gives you a rundown on the situation.

In the first place, the hub of the union wheel in Belleville is Local 126 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees. This organization to be given its full name, embraces express workers and other transport employees. In addition, there are about 15 international unions taking part in the dispute here.

The internationals, which are holding their own meetings and roll calls each day at strike headquarters at the CNR Athletic Association grounds, are all coordinated under the area chairman, Tommy Rees. They pass resolutions supporting the action of the C. B. of R. E. local, and offer their services as needed.

Headed by Chairman

The organization as set up by officials here is headed by the area chairman, his assistant, and two secretaries. The job of the secretaries is to catalogue each man, his address and phone number. In addition, a picket captain was appointed to assign men to line duty. Each man, under the present setup, does a two-hour turn on picket lines each day. In some centres, the men do their two hours, have four hours off, and go back again. Here, there are enough men available that each only has a two-hour shift in every 24.

Internationals involved in the dispute here include the Order of Railway Telegraphers (O.R.T.), the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees (B. of M. of W. E.), the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, the International Association of Machinists (I.A.M.), the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America (B.R.C. of A.) the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (I.B. of E.W.).

The Commercial Telegraphers' Union (C.T.U.), the United Association of Pipe and Steamfitters, the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, the Foundry Workers' International, the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen of America, the Blacksmiths' Union, and the Sheet Metal Workers of America.

Running Trades Not Out

Not actively participating in the strike, but laid off as a result of it, are four running trade unions. They are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, the Trainmen's Union, and the Conductors' Union.

In Belleville, as all over Canada, the situation at strike headquarters and on picket lines has been generally quiet, with only a few isolated disturbances attributed to pranksters being reported.

L.C.A. Offenders Get Jail Terms

Offenders under the Liquor Control Act predominated in city magistrate's court this morning as two men were given a total of three months each in the county jail, while several others will be guests of the county for periods ranging from ten to 20 days.

One offender, convicted on a second offence of consuming while his privileges were suspended was assessed $200 and costs, or two months in jail and on a second offence drunk charge was assessed $50 and costs or one month consecutive. The man was committed to jail in lieu of fine payments.

Still another inebriate was convicted on a third offence drunk charge and was sentenced to three months in jail.

William Storms, South John Street, pleaded guilty to the theft of three chickens and was remanded until Tuesday for sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Reconditioning Of Lancasters To be Stepped up

Toronto, Aug. 25 — (CP)—Reconditioning of Lancaster bombers is to be stepped up here to make planes available for service with RCAF squadrons patrolling the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

A spokesman for A. V. Roe Canada Limited at nearby Malton said the firm has reconditioned several of the heavy four-engined craft in recent months. Due to pressure of its accelerated jet fighter production, Avro has engaged de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., as a sub-contractor.

The Avro spokesman said he could not reveal the number of aircraft involved but it was "considerable." The bombers were built in Canada during the Second World War and later put in storage at Malton and at various RCAF bases in Ontario.

Unions Endorse Railway Strike

The support of Local 533 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America was extended to striking railroaders last night. The Belleville local "unanimously endorsed the current strike by the railway workers" in membership meeting under president, Glen Bedell.

At the same time, Local 533 went on record to ask the federal government to take immediate action to assure settlement of the strike.

Coincident with this, Local 126 of the C.B. of R.E., has notified W. J. Smith, secretary of the Joint Negotiating Committee of the railroads in Montreal, that all members of the division are "quite willing to make any self-sacrifice to obtain their original demands."

The letter continues to say that "C.B. of R.E. members are cooperating to the fullest extent with the International Organizations and. . .are well organised."

MECHANIC INJURED

Toronto, Aug. 25—(CP)—The retaining rim on the wheeel of a new truck blew off Thursday while a garage mechanic was filling it. The mechanic, Robert Saulter, 17, received a fractured skull. He was rushed to hospital in critical condition and a brain operation was ordered.

Four Cows Fall From Truck Two are Killed

Two registered Holstein cows were killed and two others were seirously injured tocay when as they were being trucked for shipment to the United States, they smashed against the rack of the truck and fell out onto the highway.

The accident occurred shortly after nine this morning as the load of cattle owned by D. N. Foster, of Bloomfield, was being trucked to Ivy Lea bridge for trans-shipment to North Carolina. The two cows killed were valued at $400 and $300. The injured cows were expected to be taken to a slaughterhouse.

Rack Breaks

Owner of truck transporting the cows, Wm. G. Latchford, R.R. 5, Belleville, was driving north toward the city, when about four miles south on Highway 14, while rounding a curve the cattle surged against the side of the rack breaking the wooden supports.

Two of the cows fell out onto the highway at this point while two others tumbled off the truck some distance down the highway. Latchford did not realize anything was amiss and continued on in to Belleville, where as he stopped at a service station a motorist drove up behind and told him he had lost some of his cows.

The truckload of cows, numbering about 17 head, had been purchased for shipment to an American buyer in Carolina. Provincial Constable Howard Tasker investigated.

Police are Close To Identifying Mystery Stranger

Hamilton, Aug. 25—(CP)—Police believe they are close to identifying the mysterious stranger who was with George (Scotty) Harris when he rented a rowboat at a bayfront boat livery July 16.

The boat was found overturned and empty on the following Monday. Two days later, Harris' body, clad in swimming trunks, was found floating in Hamilton Bay. Since that time no sign had been seen of the stranger who was seen with Harris by several persons on the bay the day the boat was rented.

Detectives William Homer and Albert Bunn, have discovered that an unnamed acquaintance of Harris has been missing since the drowning. They are certain that he is the missing "stranger".

Brigadier Visits Camp at Shilo

Shilo, Man., Aug. 25 (CP)—Brig. J. M. (Rocky) Rockingham yesterday saw for the first time the gunners who will be in his Special Force.

The brigadier came here from Winnipeg to inspect the 2nd Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Only a few hours before, Lt. Col. A. J. B. Bailey took over command of the regiment.

"Our purpose is to be prepared to fight as soon as possible," Brig. Rockingham told the men.

"I pledge myself to see to it that you go into battle properly trained and properly equipped. And you will go into battle only when you have a reasonable chance of success.

"But I also am asking you for a two-way deal whereby you'll train hard and make it possible for us to win battle."

Freak Calf Still Lives Despite Expert Predictions

Paris, Aug. 25 —(Reuters) — Hermaphrodite Oscar, the half-bull, half-cow calf, with three eyes, two brains and two noses, has upset expert predictions by remaining alive.

Oscar is at present exhibited in a local furniture store, being fed through both his mouths.

Veterinaries said he could not be weaned and would be dead by Aug. 16. But Oscar lived.

A veterinary yesterday reported, however, that he is not in the best of health and prescribed a change of air. So Oscar will leave his comfortable Paris room and go to live in some bare stable in the country.

Bought for $2,500 from a farmer in southwestern France, Oscar is expected to be worth $12,000 if he lives.

Gates are Open For 71st Showing Of C.N. Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP)— The gates swung open today for the 71st Canadian National Exhibition, and officials were confident that by the time it closes Sept. 9 its attendance will top the record high of 2,650,000 in 1949.

The turnstiles began clacking at 8 a.m., 6½ hours before the formal opening by Trade Minister Howe, who replaces Prime Minister St. Laurent, detained in Ottawa by the railway strike.

General manager Elwood Hughes is confident that the rail strike will not stand in the way of an attendance record.

"The only way that the rail strike is going to affect us is that we will not exceed last year's record by as much," he said on the eve of the opening.

And there are hosts of others. There's a sports program with a Canadian softball championship tournament, Canadian water skiing championships, amateur and professional swimming competitions, motor racing, horseshoe pitching, fly-casting and other events. The big buildings are filled with comercial and other displays. There's a big cattle show with prizes aggregating $24,000 and a horse show as well.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Market leaders continued sliding into lower ground on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Losses were heaviest in early dealings and some recovery tendencies appeared in mid-session. Volume for the first three hours was 529,000 shares.

The industrial list paced the second successive session of decline as the rail strike began to affect industry. Papers showed an almost solid list of losses and steels, utilities, liquors and refining oils were lower. Early losses ranged up to more than a point but a mild mid-session recovery move reduced declines to fractions. Foods and a few banks and textiles found moderate support.

Base metals declined over a broad front with the big-four in the industry — Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel, Hudson Bay and Noranda — pacing the losers. Ascot Corp., attracted considerable attention for a good gain.

Golds backed down quietly from recent advances. Seniors lost fractions and juniors showed declines ranging up to five cents.

Western oils opened strong, dipped into minus ground and then recovered in mid-session.

PRODUCE PRICES

HOG PRICES

Toronto, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Truck hogs were $32.75 at Stratford, Ont., today.

Other markets were unreported.

SUPPLY OWN UNIFORMS

London, Aug. 25 — (Reuters)—If British army officers are recalled for duty in the near future, they'll have to supply their own uniforms, the army announced today.

Reserve officers, when originally commissioned, each got a grant of £50 to buy uniforms. The war office now says that responsibility for an officer's wardrobe, should he be recalled, is his own.

WEEKLY MARKET REPORT

CHOICE CALVES BRING 34½c

There was a very large offering of all kinds of livestock at the Weekly Sale held on Tuesday, 22nd., August. Prices were steady to strong with choice calves bringing an all time high price of 34.25.

Medium calves 29 - 32c; plain calves, 20 - 25c; grass calves, 15 - 17c; young calves, 25 - $30 each; lambs, choice, 29c; fair to medium, 27 - 28c; choice beef cows, 24½c; medium cows, 20 - 23c; canners and cutters, 15½ - 19c; heavy bologna bulls, 24½c; medium bulls, 19 - 23c; dairy cows, 300 - $325 each; good cows, 250 - $285 each; plain cows, 190-$225 each; feeder pigs, 27 - 30c lb; young pigs, 10 - $15 each; horses for slaughter, 2½ - 3c lb; 1 crate of young pullets under 3 lbs. brought 90c each.

We ship fat hogs every Monday from the arena, transportation will be paid for hogs delivered, highest prices will be secured. As the volume of livestock has increased, we would greatly appreciate if farmers would bring in their stock earlier in the day, this would enable us to speed up our service to our buying and selling customers. Earlier deliveries would eliminate congestion in the evening. A25

Former German Steel Magnate Given Freedom

Landsberg, Germany, Aug. 25—(AP)—Friedrich Flick, Hitler-era steel tycoon, and 18 other convicted Nazi war criminals scurried out of prison before dawn today—freed for good behaviour.

The release of the 19 was the biggest single exodus of war-criminal prisoners since the United States began operating the big stone prison here, where Hitler wrote his "Mein Kampf".

The prisoners had served two-thirds of their original sentences and were freed under relaxed regulations increasing time off for good conduct. All but one had been sentenced to seven years imprisonment for war crimes.

The 69-year-old Flick, whose wartime steel empire employed 130,000 persons, was convicted by an American military court in Nuernberg Dec. 22, 1947, on charges of exploiting Russian slave labor and looting the German-occupied countries. The 2 1-2 years he already had been in prison were deducted from his sentence.

26-Foot Snake Was Purchased Not Caught

Wewoka, Okla., Aug. 25 (AP)—County Attorney Jack Scott said today the 26-foot snake reported captured here last night was actually purchased for $450 and brought here for exhibition.

Scott said G. W. Hall, Tonkawa Okla., zoo keeper and animal trapper, made a statement to police that he wanted to capitalize on rumors in this area that a huge snake was loose.

Hall exhibited a snake today that weighed 250 pounds and measured 7 1-2 inches in diameter and 26 feet in length. He said it was captured in a snare last night in Wild Horse Canyon six miles north of here after a two hour struggle.

Scott said Hall told him he purchased the snake for $450 from a firm in Maryland.

Scott said Hall told him the following:

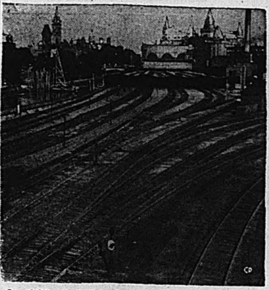
Last night he went to Wichita Kas., and picked up the snake which had been shipped there. He brought it to Wewoka in his automobile and at 2.30 a.m. awakened a lumberyard owner and asked for lumber to build a case.

The news quickly spread that a huge snake had been reported captured.

NORWAY BOOSTS DEFENCES

Oslo, Aug. 25 (Reuters) —Norway will spend another $26,500,000 bolstering her armed forces, under the terms of a government proposal to parliament published today. The money will come from the new supplementary defence vote of $35,000,000 which doubled the country's arms spending.

STATION — NO TRAINS



One of Ottawa's busiest places was like a ghost town Tuesday morning. This is what happened to the Union Station when 124,000 non-operating employees of Canada's two railways went out on strike at 6 A. M. In the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa's famed hotel just beyond the station, service was reduced to a skeleton basis.—(CP Photo).

Three RR Workers Walk 38 Miles Through Bush

Hearst, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP)—Three Port Arthur railway workers, stranded at Hornepayne by the strike of their fellow employees said today they walked 38 miles through dense northern Ontario bush to get away from that stranded community.

Alex McGillivray, 54, trainman; Hugh Macdonald, 42, engineer, and Irvin McLellan, 33, brakeman, said they finally were picked up at Oba, south of here, by the crew of an Algoma Central Railway freight. The Algoma Central is not affected by the strike.

McGillivray said an estimated 2,500 persons, including 75 transient railway workers and about 12 passengers of a westbound train stranded at the strike deadline, are virtually isolated at Hornepayne.

Men are walking in all directions to get out of Hornepayne, McGillivray said. One party is trying to get to Heron Bay, 50 miles south. Others are headed for Long Lac, 100 miles west, others to highway 11, some 40 miles north.

McGillivray said he and his companions were asked to try to arrange for an aircraft to go to Hornepayne to pick up the stranded train passengers and to take in supplies.

NIGHT HAWKS

Winnipeg (CP)—Residents of Carfield Street in the city's west end have a complaint: City workers who start at 4 a.m. keep them awake by singing, shouting and—occasionally—cussing. The city engineer's department promised to look into the matter.

Try to Prejudice Public Against The Common Man

Washington, Aug. 25. (AP)—Senator Claude Pepper (Dem. Fla.), said today that many newspapers threaten the economic, social and political freedom of the United States by "trying to prejudice the public against the common man."

Pepper told 400 delegates to the International Typographical union convention that his recent defeat in the democratic primary (nomination vote) was due largely to what he called the antagonism and unfairness of several Florida newspaper publishers. He did not say which publishers he had in mind.

One of the major problems confronting the country, Pepper said, is how to preserve freedom of the press and at the same time make some newspapers realize their public responsibility.

"A newspaper publisher usually has to be a millionaire," he said. "He has power to prejudice the little fellow and sometimes that power is used. I know of instances where newspapers have tried to make labor organizers seem to be public enemies."

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and give her a baby-soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rainstorm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks pretty as she can will be smart as she can — and happier — in school.

LOOKING AHEAD

The world's petroleum reserve is now down to a fifty-year supply at the present rate of production, a British fuel expert stated in Birmingham this week. He added that "even with new resources which will most certainly be discovered it will probably be difficult to meet world demands." That is his view of the outlook as far as oil is concerned. Coal and lignite have a much brighter view. He said that the United States and Russia have reserves of fossil fields to last for at least two thousand years. As for Britain, her reserves can be mined economically for only 200 to 300 years more.

The rate at which oil and coal are being used in this age could not have been foretold in the past few decades when new inventions crowded upon one another and the uses to which oil may be put have been increased many fold.

Whether this is an intermediate period marked by the fuel-burning method of heating and of propulsion only the future can reveal. Ten years ago the world heard about the possibilities of atomic energy at the time of the close of the Second World War, but it was told then and later that the commercial use of A-power would not be available for years. Undoubtedly, too much hope was at first entertained of almost immediate use of atomic energy for general use, as has been emphasized since the first announcement that the atomic era was at hand or near.

Today the world is oil-minded as the immense amount of fuel which is used for motoring and in industry would show. The development of the airplane which received a tremendous boost during the two Great Wars, bringing the farthest point of the earth practically within range of the dwelling places of men. Canadians know what it has done for their roads and for their hinterland which has been developed greatly as a consequence of the effectiveness of the airplane (fuelled by oil) in development, in gathering information and especially in cases of rescue of persons lost in the north parts.

SECRET OF GREAT AGE

To the young, old age looks far off while to the older, youth seems not so far away. Everyone hopes for a long and happy life and hopes that the years to come will not disappoint. Those who come to the age so often associated with longevity, the age of one hundred years, find life has been swift in its passage, almost as brief as a thought. In the middle years life seems fairly swift but to the younger it has seemed to linger.

A writer in the Windsor Star tells of a man who wants to write a book on "How to Live to be a Hundred." He has collected clippings from newspapers of folk who have reached the century mark and the views, expressed on the way to live to reach the century mark, are varied. A woman who had just reached that age was asked and could give no particular reason why she had lived to that age while others had died younger. "I have no rule for reaching a hundred. Rules? I've broken them all."

But then there is a centenarian who had passed the century mark by four years and his advice is to eat the proper food and work hard as most people do not, he said, work hard enough to get exercise. That man was pessimistic of the rising generation for he could see none of them ever reaching one hundred years.

A woman who had just passed the century year of her age said she loved people, especially young people. A confirmed bachelor at 105 stated he would not have lived so long had he married, but his death was reported only a few days later. A woman in Larchmoth said she stayed happy and drank wine, while a centenarian in Kalamazoo advised a physical check-up every hundred years. Another man offered this recipe for longevity of the hard-working simple life of a farmer. Others thanked their heredity and ancestry, the use of plenty of coffee, drinking of distilled water and eating only the proper foods. One woman had no recipe for long years, another she had no secret for a long life and never got enough sleep while a third woman said she "got this way before she knew it."

None gave any credit to home-exercise machines for their long continual good health.

However what does show up is the possibility of a fairly simple life as a part explanation. Again one man said he did not understand why he had lived so long except that he had never refused a drink.

Such lack of uniformity of explanations of the gift of a century long life should be very cheering to many who have had no remarkably strange occurrences in their lives and whose days have been rather placid and happy.

GOOD CHEFS ARE SCARCE

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

Really good cooks have always been scarce. First rate cooking is an art in many respects; certainly the good chef has a definite talent or flair in pleasing the eye and the palate. The result is that good hotels pay their chefs excellent wages.

In spite of the wages offered, a firm which operates an important hotel chain in the United States has had so much trouble staffing the kitchens that it has endowed a scholarship at a New Haven Restaurant Institute for trainees.

If good cooking is an art, it is also a science. Therefore it can be taught. The head of the hotel chain says their best men came from Europe many years ago, and most of them are now reaching retirement age.

A career as a chef does not seem to have proved popular among young Americans. Possibly most of the good ones will come from Europe for a long time yet. Apparently cooking is more highly regarded as a worth-while trade than it is in North America.

MEMORY

I'm sure the Lord when life began
Said, giving memory to man:
"Let him remember kindness shown
That he may have it for his own.
Let him recall some cheering word
Which from another once he heard
That he may make the self-same gift
To one whose spirit needs a lift.

"I give him memory that he
May be what I would have him be.
Remembrance of the blessings had
Will comfort him when he is sad.
Let him recall in moments grim
What loving friends have meant to him,
That he may be as quick to share
The sorrows others have to bear."

Oh, blessed memory that clings
To all the dear familiar things
And brings them back to us once more
Our faith and courage to restore;
Holds safe the joys that couldn't last,
And for the present keeps the past;
From death itself and winter's frost
Returns what we had fancied lost.

Mr. J. Truaisch of this city did a plucky thing this morning when he stopped a runaway horse on Bridge Street. The horse is owned by Mr. Callery of Cannifton, and a young woman and a child were in the buggy at the time. No one was injured.

In a baseball match yesterday afternoon the Shamrocks defeated the Royal Oaks, the score being 9 to 4. The following composed the teams: Shamrocks,- Hay, Quincey, Marker, Hay, Quincey, Wims, Hughes, Hay and Harris; Royal Oaks,- Green Frederick, Smith, McKenna, Smith, Frederick, Holland, Bryant and Craddock. The umpire was L. Harris and he gave entire satisfaction.

August 25th, 1900

A special meeting of the executive committee of the city council was held to consider the offer of the Messrs Shibley for the stock owned by the city in the gas works here. The offer was fifty cents on the dollar. Mr. Shibley, who was at the meeting, stated that, taking the stock at par, namely, $80,000 with a debt of $32,000, he thought the offer made by him was all the stock is worth. It was moved by Ald. Allan McFee and seconded by Ald. Panter that the offer be accepted provided that satisfactory agreements are made as to franchise and prices for power and light. The following were present at the meeting:

Aldermen McFee, Sinclair, Panter, Clarke, Bogart, Harris, and Mayor J. W. Johnson. The latter presided in the absence of Ald. John Doyle, the chairman of the executive committee.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

INNOCENCE AND EXPERIENCE

Of all the books written by the great nineteenth century novelist William Thackeray, perhaps none is of more interest to Americans than his historical novel. The Virginians. At a time when most British writers ignored Americans altogether or ridiculed them Thackeray made two young men from our country the heroes of this novel.

The important action of the novel takes place in England, and consequently the reader sees the effect of the old European civilization on two fresh and unsophisticated minds. Both young men are brave, generous, idealistic. Naturally they react sharply from the shams, hypocrisy and falseness which they encounter abroad. As readers we applaud their high-mindedness.

One of them, however, is not only unsophisticated but also somewhat ignorant and immature. Within a short time, he falls into ill repute, debt and imprisonment. Despite his virtues, he has been overcome.

The lesson Thackeray taught is still valid. The fresh, uncompromising idealism with which we begin new phases of life is very valuable. But with it must come wisdom, insight, maturity. Evil cannot be simply ignored; it must be understood and defeated. The man who can retain his idealism as he gains his wisdom is on his way to real strength.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The shaping of character and even the course of a man's life may often depend upon entirely trivial incidents. A very distinguished doctor with whom I am acquainted tells this story about himself.

When he was about ten years old, on his way home from school, he was waylaid alone by an older boy of the school, a notorious bully, and given an unmerciful beating. Since his parents would do nothing about the matter, believing it to be an ordinary schoolboy fight, the poor child, deeply hurt by the experience, was thrown upon his own resources. The most important thing in his life was to avoid the bully. And to this end he travelled to and from school each day, twice, by roundabout routes, mostly through a series of vacant lots. He was too humiliated to seek the protective company of other boys of the neighborhood.

On one of these journeys through the vacant lots, he happened to notice an incredible green jewel, about an inch long, hanging on a weed. It was a curious shape, had gilt spots on it and was altogether marvellous. It was the chrysalis of a Monarch or "King Billy" butterfly, on a milkweed plant. Each day, the child visited the jewel; and, as if fate were at hand, he happened to be present the day, the hour and the minute the butterfly chose to emerge from its jewelled sheath.

Instead of following the vacant lots to avoid a bully, the boy began searching the by-ways for other such marvels. An intelligent teacher, discovering the interest of the child in such oddities put him in touch with the books the museum and the people who knew all about these wonders. By sixteen, the boy was a first class amateur field naturalist. At eighteen he was in biology at the University; and via biology, he entered medicine, to become one of its great research men. The doctor says that bully, pounding his head on the pavement, shaped his whole life.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

Last night at Lindy's a bunch of us were making small talk between big mouthfuls, and as per usual the conversation ran the full gamut—from girls to girls. A little before closing time we got around to a well-known Power's model who had been going steady with a press agent pal of ours, who was recently lured away from him by the financial blandishments of a well-heeled heel.

All lady-stealers ought to be buried up to their necks in sand and the ants turned loose," said Mark Barron who covers the theatre for A.P.

"In Cuba," said Charlie Moses, the film distributor, "they have even more interesting punishments than that for dame-nappers. As a matter of fact, there's one particular story they've been telling for years down there which illustrates how they let the punishment fit the clime."

"Spare us hte puns,' I said, "and let's have the story in a few easy paragraphs......"

According to Charlie it all happened a hundred and something years ago when Cuba was under Spanish rule.

One day at a fiesta, a scrumptious senorita named Josefina was having herself a time with her boy friend, a prepossesing but peso-less caballero named Roberto, when she caught the lecherous eye of Jose de Cordoba, an old bum of a count who had a large estate outside Havana. The titled bum found out where she lived and made the usual underhand overtures, but when the senōrita informed him that his presence and presents were equally obnoxious, he had her kidnapped and taken to his hacienda.

Roberto had a pretty good idea who was responsible for the snatch but he needed proof, so he disguised himself as a mendicant friar and fast-talked his way into the Count's house. There he struck up an acquaintance with the cook, and when he found that his lady friend was being held under lock and key in a second floor room, he hotfooted it back to Havana.

The Spanish Governor-General at the time and one Miguet Tacon, a toughminded hombre who believed in an eye for an eye and a whole upper plate for a tooth, and when Roberto told him what had happened he ordered his soldiers to arrest the Count and bring him and Josefina to the Governmental Palace.

An hour later, the pretty one and her abductor were brought before him, and after bawling the bejabbers out of the Count he decreed the punishmnet. The pair were to be married immediately and he, himself, would perform the ceremony. Which he did, while poor Roberto looked on—plenty bothered and bewildered. Getting hitched to Josefina was not his idea of punishment.

After the nuptials, the Governor General told the Count he was free to take his bride back to his hacienda, a few minutes out of town, however, a detachment of soldiers, acting on Tacon's orders, ambushed the newlyweds, shot the bridegroom in hot blood and escorted Josefina back to the palace.

"You were legally married to the Count," the Governor told her in his best Solomon manner," and are therefore his legitimate widow. As such, you are heir to all his worldly goods and posessions, which I understand are considerable. You are also free to marry anyone you wish, and if Roberto still appeals to you I'd be delighted to do the honors."

Cold War Will Last Long Time Is General View

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

One of the questions most often shot at me by readers is whether there is any hope of an early end of the "cold war."

Professional observers generally take a dim view of anything such as an early termination of the conflict. Even those who don't regard another world war as inevitable, believe the "cold war" will continue for a long time.

Whether the cold war will develop eventually into a hot war will depend on the degree of military preparedness achieved and maintained by the democracies. Should military preparedness presupposes sound economic conditions, and upon them depends the type of "peace" which we can have.

However, military preparedness and economic strength won't halt the cold war, for that is the weapon upon which Moscow depends to further the spread of communism.

Wearing on Nerves

In many respects the unceasing grind of this cold war is more wearing on the nerves than would be a shooting war. The spying, the bickering, the devilish and costly schemes like the Berlin blockade —all these things are meant to be, and actually are, tough on morale and tempers.

Still, this is the way Lenin and Stalin originally laid it down that communism was to be spread into all lands. It is extremely foolish to think the Kremlin is going to listen to arguments and halt an ideological offensive which has brought vast returns thus far.

What we've got to get firmly fixed in our minds is the fact that the whole world is in an ideological upheaval.

It's something which has been developing for generations—and it may take generations to iron it out completely. The communist assault is only one aspect of this change, although it is the most extreme.

U.N. Leadership

The task is to keep this at-times-violent cold war from developing into something which might set progress back for generations. One of the brightest spots in this grim picture is the manner in which the United Nations has emerged in leadership through its handling of the Korean crisis.

This peace organization seems suddenly to have found its feet. The strength of the U.N. lies in the strength provided by its members.

That is one cogent reason why the democracies should so equip themselves that they will be prepared not only to defend themselves but to back the U.N. in maintaining peace.

All-out preparedness is the insurance against a hot war developing out of a cold war which may run on indefinitely.

No Confirmation Heard on Report Tibet Invaded

London, Aug. 24 (AP)—Teleradio, which monitors the communist China radio, said today there has been no mention in the last 48 hours of any invasion of Tibet by the Chinese reds. There were reports in the United States today of such an invasion.

The State Department in Washington said it had no confirmation of the invasion reports.

Thomas P. Whitney, Associated Press staff member in Moscow, said by telephone to London he had heard nothing to substantiate the invasion report.

The BBC, which monitors all foreign radios that can be heard here, also said it had heard nothing similar to the reports being circulated in the United States.

Wellington, N.Z., Aug. 24 (CP) —Prime Minister Sidney Holland announced a defence expenditure increase of £10,000,000 in New Zealand's 1950-51 budget.

Despite this rise, and larger expenditures for education, social and security and health, the government was imposing no tax increases, he said.

Of a total estimated revenue of £167,700,000 for the current year, Holland said £16,500,000 would be spent on defence.

This sharp rise compared with last year's defence expenditure was due to the introduction of military training and the cost of equiping an artillery formation and naval vesels for the Korean campaign he said.

MAY BUY ALUMINUM

New York, Aug. 25 (AP) — The New York Times says today the United States Government may buy $75,000,000 worth of Canadian aluminum for its stockpile of critical materials.

United States Defence agencies, the newspaper says, have drawn up a plan for imports over a three-year period of 440,000,000 pounds from aluminum Limited of Canada.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address: Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

WE ALL LOOK GOOD FROM A DISTANCE

Signed letters pertianing to personal Health and Hygiene will be answered if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Careful record for a recent period of sixty days shows that of 51 readers who complained that they had not received answers 28 had not complied with these simple instructions.

Health and Hygiene do not include symptoms, descriptions of diseases, instructions for making diagnosis nor how to "control" your nerves.

Five of the readers who complained loudly piped down when we found letters that had been returned for "better address" — the five had addressed themselves "City" and the postoffice people say there are so many places in the United States and Canada. .

Eight of them buried their queries or requests in several pages of pertinent or impertinent comment. Letters of greater length than ordinary are set aside to be disposed of when or if the shelves are cleared of incoming mail, which is not often these days.

A reader writes:

We have derived much help from your health column during the past years . . . My father, past 83, is now in the hospital. Could not retain food. X-rays showed stomach O.K. but gall bladder duct not functioning. Doctor believes contents of gall-bladder stagnant and with pus. Recommends removal of gall-bladder in a few days. Meanwhile, receiving glucose, low-fat diet and saline solution, patient no longer has sick stomach. On account of age, although father is in unusually good condition, we hesitate at surgery. Any advice you may rush to us will be appreciated. (R. T. E.)

The doctor's advice sounds good. Removal of a gall bladder is of little consequence so far as the function of liver and bile may be concerned. People whose gall-bladder has been removed enjoy as good health and digestion and live as long as those who have kept theirs intact.

Regardless of the patient's age such a condition of the gall-bladder as R. T. E. describes is more dangerous than surgical drainage or removal of the gall bladder, in my opinion.

The gall bladder is a pear-shaped sac resembling a rubber bulb, holding about a fluidounce (two tablespoonfuls) of bile (gall). Its duct or tube, 1½ inches long, conveys the bile or gall from the gall bladder to the duct or tube which carries bile directly from the liver, the junction of the two ducts which delivers the bile to the duodenum—intenstine a few inches beyond lower end of stomach. Being a sort of offshoot or diversion channel from the bile system, the gall bladder and its duct may be removed without materially interfering with nutrition or digestion, because the bile continues to flow from the liver directly to the duodenum where it functions in the digestion of fats.

From the experience of thousands of persons who have undergone cholecystectomy (surgical removal of gall-bladder) it would seem that the structure is of little if any more use to modern man than the appendix.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Using the Health Board

May I have your pile pamphlet, please? Do you consider the use of the health board beneficial? This is a board 6 feet long, with lower end elevated 16 inches above head end. Two soft supports on shoulders keep body from sliding down. Have been lying on this board twenty minutes a day. (R. K. R.)

Answer—Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles. A clipping will not suffice. Simple exercises suggested in the pamphlet are much better than the posture you describe.

Circumcision

Is it necessary for all boys to be circumcised, and if so, at what age? Does it not stunt their growth or prevent their normal development if it is not done? (C. H.)

Answer—No. Circumcision is advisable only when urination is obstructed or daily cleansing is hindered by tightness or redundancy of foreskin.

High, Low, Jack and Game

What is the normal blood pressure for a woman of ... (Mrs. G. A.)

Answer—Leave that technical matter to your doctor's judgment. Never mind your blood pressure. Send 25c and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet C V D—it deals with heart and artery troubles.

You Call That Coffee

Would you consider coffee healthy that is put in cold water and boiled several minutes until strong and bittter, and then warmed over on grounds for the next meal? (A. L. D.)

Answer—Better name for it would be the devil's brew. How to Make Coffee and New Friends is the subject of a chapter in the red book—What to Eat and Why. For copy of the red book send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Fleet Sixteen

I am 16 years old, on high school swimming team. I want to become a faster swimmer. Do you consider 200 yard speed swimming hard on a fellow my age? Would your belly breathing help me. (C. P.)

Answer—Send 25 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet How to Breathe. Short sprints are fine for growing boys.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OCCUPATION

People who keep occupied at something, whether to please themselves, or to be both occupied and useful to others, as well as to themselves, these are the people who build and bless the world.

The painter at his canvas, the lover of books in his library, the stenographer at her desk, the fisherman in his boat, or the farmer in his field, these are people who banish loneliness for they glory in their occupation. That which gives importance to any work, or occupation is the joy and spirit that are put into it.

Even when times of sorrow arrive, the antidote is work — to keep occupied until the hurt in the heart is mellowed and lessened. Worse than no occupation is to be doing something that brings no pleasure at all. People who keep busy worry least. Idleness is always a curse to him engaged in it, and to all about him.

It isn't the amount that you earn that denotes your worth, but what you put into your work of yourself. That's what makes people notable and interesting. That is success. And happy is that one who has found work that pleases him most!

He who roams the fields, takes note of every created thing — flower, shrub, tree, insect or animal, he is doing something that feeds his soul. How devout have been all the great naturalists — Hudson, Fabre, Burroughs, and a host of others. They see wonder and beauty in the most insignificant in nature.

There is no occupation that is quite so pleasing, and personally satisfying as doing comforting things. Most mothers have been noted for this, but I recall a woman who lived next to our family when I was a boy, whom everyone knew as a doer of comforting things. To the poor, the sick, the lonely, the troubled, she went. Not only did she learn from others about them, but she hunted them out. It gave her joy to do so. Her example has been an inspiration to me.

All labor, and all occupation, of whatever nature, should be a thing of pride. We were put into this world to work and to be useful. All living things in nature have a job! And they all seem happy at it.

No M.P.'s Apply For Airlift

Ottawa, Aug. 25— (CP) — By mid-morning Thursday, no members of parliament had applied to the government for help from the parliamentary airlift in getting to Ottawa in time for the special Tuesday session.

Several western and Maritime members had advised that they were making their way here by regular air line or by motor.

The airlift, using government chartered planes or machines of the Transport Department and R.C.A.F., was set up to bring in those who could not reach the capital otherwise.

News of Trenton

Municipal Officials Trying To Locate Anti-Smoke By-Law

Trenton—(Special)—What has happened to Trenton's anti-smoke by-law? Has it vanished beneath a layer of dust in a long dormant file in the municipal office?

Complaints about smoke from Trenton industries have been coming into the municipal office this week and clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry has been trying to locate the smoke by-law in order to enforce the regulations. So far he has only been able to locate the number of the by-law.

"I know there is one which was passed about 30 or 35 years ago, because I have seen it," said Mr. Larry yesterday. "But we have not found it yet."

Apparently it takes more than a rail strike to clear the air in Trenton. Unlike Toronto, where the rail strike has temporarily removed the thick smoky haze, that normally hangs over the downtown area, Trenton is still faced with the problem of how to keep smoke out of the citizens' eyes. In fact the problem just came to a head this week after the strike had started.

"We are not going to be unreasonable with anybody," said Mayor Couch in an interview yesterday "but it has got to the point where something has to be done.

Most of the complaints are about the H. Kaye Company's clothing factory at 61 Dundas Street, East. There is not a very tall smoke stack on the plant and yesterday morning, anyone standing at the top of Gilmour Hill could not help but notice the clouds of smoke that were being forced to the street by a downdraft when the furnace was being fired.

A dairy on Front Street and an Elgin Street cleaning establishment have also been criticized for not taking proper precautions with regard to smoke from their chimneys.

No Picket Line Established Around Rail Yards in Trenton

Trenton —(Special)—"It is not necessary to picket as there is no intention on the part of the company to try and break the strike," stated J. O'Neil, chairman of the Trenton CPR employees strike committee, following a joint meeting of the C.B. of R.E. and A. F. of L. unions in the CPR Recreation Club, Thursday afternoon.

Mr O'Neil's statement is just another way of saying that the strike picture in Trenton is very quiet. Two pickets were patrolling the C.N.R. Station yard at the corner of Quinte and Dundas Street West, Thursday afternoon and there were a few pickets at the CNR roundhouse. However, these token picket lines are on duty to protect property.

"Some men have been given special permission to protect essential services," said Mr. O'Neil and all striking employees are available in the event of fire to protect railway property. "There are about 10 men looking after essential services, such as fire protection, pumping water and patrolling CPR property in Trenton," Mr. O'Neil said.

On Duty at Bridge

"By mutual agreement with the company, there is a man on duty on the swing bridge across the Trent River. This makes it better for the townspeople who use the footbridge," he said.

Two union meetings are held every day, at 9 a.m. and 1.30 p.m. to take the roll call. "No duties are being asked of the men," said Mr. O'Neil, "it is simply a matter of the men being available. We have been having an attendance of about 150 daily and men can be excused for sickness."

There is no local union here, and all Trenton men on strike are under the jurisdiction of the Belleville locals.

Officials of the Trenton CPR committee are: J. O'Neil, chairman; E. Donaldson, assistant chairman; and W. Boys, secretary.

J. Staples, chairman; F. Batchelor, assistant chairman and E. Tompkins are the executive of the local CNR employees committee.

Up in Arms Over War Tax, Looked For Compensation

Winchelsea, Sussex, England.—Aug. 25. (CP)—Residents of Winchelsea, on the southern coast of England, are up in arms over a wartime tax bill, just presented by the government. Instead of a demand for payment they had been expecting compensation for damage to their homes.

It all happened back in 1940 when orders were issued to evacuate the town and the houses flooded by the army as an anti-invasion measure.

When the owners were presented recently with a stiff bill for drainage during the emergency period, they protested to the government. The appeals, however, were rejected on the grounds they had been made too late.

"It's not our fault a protest wasn't lodged sooner," said Harold Excell, secretary of the residents. "The demand for tax payment has just been made. We were kept away from our homes for four years. During that time the military blew holes in sea defences we had paid for. We have no intention of being saddled with this debt."

2,000-Mile Trip Made by Canoe Over Trader Route

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP) —John Beard, 67-year-old retired Presbyterian minister from Portland, Ore., and Joe Kirkwood, 17, of Hood River, Ore., passed through here yesterday on a 2,000 mile canoe trip over a route used by fur traders 125 years ago.

After leaving here, they planned to travel down the Mattawa River to the Ottawa River, then down the Ottawa to the St. Lawrence and eastward to Riviere du Loup, Que.

Their trip started early in June on the upper reaches of the Athabaskan River in Saskatchewan. The travellers expect to reach Riviere du Loop in October.

They paddled across Lake Winnipeg and Lake of the Woods but decided against trying to brave Lake Superior. They crossed the Great Lake from Fort William to Sault Ste. Marie by steamship.

Shortage Of Newsprint Felt In United States

New York, Aug. 25 (AP) — Canada's railroad strike is forcing some American publishers to cut down on the size of their newspapers.

A few dailies already have trimmed their news columns and advertising space. Some are planning a cut-back if the strike persists.

Many are unaffected by the Dominion rail walkout that began Tuesday. They get their newsprint by water or their supply comes from within the United States.

But 80 per cent of the newsprint used is the United States comes from the Dominion.

News has been heavy in recent weeks. It has been a time when the newspaper publisher would like to have plenty of newsprint to supply the demands of his readers.

On the eve of the Canadian rail strike, Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, advised members to check their stocks.

He said if the strike lasted a week most Canadian newsprint mills would be forced to shut down for lack of storage space.

The first effects were felt by the publishers this week.

The Omaha World - Herald cut its morning paper news from 102 columns to 95 and its afternoon papers news from 114 to 97 columns, effective today.

See Odds Against Chinese Reds Attacking Island

Washington, Aug. 25 — (AP)— The odds seem to be against the Chinese communists carrying out now their threat to "liberate" nationalist - controlled Formosa in an amphibious invasion gamble.

In some quarters here there is inclination to look upon the outcry of radio Peiping and communist China's foreign minister, Chou En-Lai, as designed essentially for propaganda purposes.

But the possibility is not entirely discounted that an attack might be attempted as part of broad communist strategy to divert American attention and military strength from Korea.

The Peiping radio yesterday announced intention to liberate the island, last foothold of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist government. Chou later sent to the United Nations Security Council a demand that the U. N. order withdrawal of all American forces from Formosa.

The State Department here responded that the United States would welcome U. N. consideration of the Formosa problem, but felt there should be no diversion from study of the communist attack on South Korea.

$20,000 FIRE LOSS

Aurora, Aug. 25 — (CP) Fire destroyed a barn and two sheds Thursday on the farm of R. T. Nichols, two miles north of here. Damage was estimated at $20,000. The fire was believed to have started when a spark from a threshing machine ignited a straw mow.

Mail Top Priority If Civilian Air Lines Mobilized

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (CP) — The mails will get top priority whenever the government decides to use its power to mobilize and control civilian air transport for the duration of the rail strike, it was disclosed today.

The Air Transport Board made public a directive sent to all commercial air lines informing them that an Order-in-Council has been passed giving the board power to establish priority controls over air travel.

So far, the board is depending on commercial air lines—without government supervision—to meet all the exigencies of the transport emergency. However, if it is required, the priority system will be put into effect.

First priority, said the board, will be given to the post office department for the transportation of mail.

Ratings

Other priority ratings:

1. Emergency movement of passengers requiring hospital or medical attention or of a doctor or nurse to attend a patient and emergency movement of medical supplies.
2. Passengers and goods named by the transport department's priority officer as requiring transportation "in the public interest."

The board said that if it becomes necessary to displace passengers who have booked passage or goods which have been accepted for transport, the following order of displacement will be adopted:

1. Passengers travelling for pleasure, on leave or on furlough.
2. Passengers travelling on private business.
3. Perishable goods transported for the general welfare of the public.
4. Passengers travelling on public business or an urgent nature or for national defence.

If possible, the board said, passengers and goods travelling long distances will be given preference over those moving over short distances.

The system, if enforced, will apply principally on all routes of the following air carriers:

Crucifix Ends Journey Started 500 Years Ago

Vatican City, Aug. 25 (AP)— A Holy-Year pilgrimage that began 500 years ago ended today for a German crucifix.

The crucifix was first carried by a group of "German brothers," members of a religious congregation, who came on foot to Italy for the Holy Year of 1400. Many of them died in Florence however, in the plague that scourged Italy that year.

A few who survived were too weak to continue the journey to Rome. The crucifix remained in a chapel at Borgo San Lorenzo, a Florence suburb.

A group of "German Brothers" returned there this year to take up the cross and bring it to Rome.

With the cross at their head and followed by Italians of the Borgo San Lorenzo area, the little group made the visits to the patriarchal basilicas today.

Three Railroads Still Operating In Windsor

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP)— Three railroads are still operating in Windsor despite the Canada-wide rail strike. Two of them are United States-owned lines; the third is one of the few Canadian railroads still operating.

The American lines — New York Central system and Chesapeake and Ohio—still run trains through Southern Ontario. The C. and O. has service to St. Thomas, and N.Y.C. runs from Windsor to Fort Erie, connecting Detroit and Buffalo.

Both report heavy increases in freight traffic, but no marked increase in Canadian passenger traffic.

An official of the New York Central said the company is running six or seven extra freight trains to handle the load shifted to it since the strike Tuesday.

Commercial telegraph service to Canadian points along the line is also provided, he said, although messages can not go to points where a Canadian railroad maintains the station.

Although about half of the terminal railway's 75 employees are members of the unions now on strike against Canadian railways, the union members were given instructions from their union to stay on the job.

Miss Lois Reid Honored by Shower

An enjoyable evening was spent recently at the home of Miss Barbara Snell, Harriet Street, in the form of a miscellaneous shower in honor of Lois Reid, a bride of early September. The rooms were tastefully decorated with lovely summer flowers.

During the evening a bride's book was made and games were enjoyed.

Although completely taken by surprise, the bride-to-be thanked everyone for the lovely gifts. With the serving of delicious refreshments by the hostesses, Barbara Snell, Mrs. Norman Roberts and Marguerite Stone, brought a happy gathering to a close.

Honeymooner Breaks Speed Rule Trying to Get Rid of Relatives

Van Nuys, Calif., Aug. 25. (AP)—"I had my in-laws with me the whole trip," honeymooner Blaine Edlefsen, Salt Lake City, said after his arrest here on a speeding charge.

"I guess that is the reason I was speeding. I was so darn anxious to get to Los Angeles and dump them off so we could be alone. Feeding them was what made me go broke and forced me to go back home so soon." Sentence was suspended.

RAWDON

Mr., Mrs. J. Bush Honored By Several Communities

Rawdon.—On Tuesday evening, the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoard, including lawn and verandah, was filled to capacity with guests from the Hoard's community and the Williams' School Section S.S. No. 4, (where the bride received her public school education) with a few guests from Carmel, Stirling and River Valley.

The young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush, formerly Miss Joan Hoard, were given seats of honor and Mr. Jack Rannie was master of ceremonies.

The girls, who arranged the shower, unwrapped all the various gifts as they arrived and arranged them in a splendid display on the dining table.

Mrs. Walter Anderson delighted with a vocal selection and Mrs. Bill Jeffs contributed a medley of instrumental numbers on the piano.

Mrs. Carman Gunning read "July Bride", and the bride's sister, Miss Doris Hoard, gave a piano solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Summer sang with guitar accompaniment.

Mrs. Ray Williams read an address of appreciation to the newlyweds and they were invited to view the lovely gifts.

Jack and Joan both graciously replied and thanked their friends for such a delightful evening and assured one and all a warm welcome when they visit them in their home at River Valley.

The ladies served refreshments and all enjoyed an hour of chatting.

RAWDON

Many Cars Charivari Young Couple

Rawdon —On Monday evening last, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Couch were serenaded on their return home from their honeymoon. Twenty cars paraded in a procession from Hoard's, Carmel, and Glen Ross, with others coming from the Mount Pleasant community. With sirens and other noise contraptions the jolly crowd rent the air with their music, after which they were invited inside and all enjoyed a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Couch, and the newlyweds, served the group, peanuts, pop, chocolate bars, cheezies and gum.

DENIM is just about the best fabric we know of for folks who really work at sports, such as the girls who take an active part in sailing. That denim can be dainty as well as functional is shown by this pretty rig. The fabric is in pale gray with a white piping choir boy collar and cuffs. It is also used to outline the jacket pockets. The same detail is used in a curved line on the shorts. A sun-bra or T shirt is worn beneath the high-buttoned jacket.

British "Fatties" Get Break In Range of Fashions

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. (CP)—British shops are now stocking wider ranges of smart clothes for stouter women.

Up-to-date dresses in every style and fabric now are available in 40 to 60-inch hip-sizes.

Larger quantities are made in low and middle price ranges and, although supply is still less than demand, stout women now can be sure of smarter clothes.

The days are gone when Britain's ample figures could find only styles in dark colors and subdued designs. Designers are proving, to themselves and the conservative British "fatties", that dresses styled to suit the design of the fabric, can flatter the largest of figures.

The loudest of horizontal patterns and stripes are used in such a way that they emphasize straight lines and slim the swing of a flared skirt.

In rayon, cotton and silk, horizontal designs are used in button-through styles with belted waist, revers, neck and short sleeves. The straight skirts have just the right amount of fullness, and the uninterrupted lines of the pattern emphasize the clean-cut figure-line. Made for 42 to 46-inch hips, it costs £7 15s. ($24.02).

A floral-printed rayon with cross-over neckline, short sleeves and cummerbund waist has unpressed pleats from shoulder to hem in front and from the waist at back.

Designers are also proving that the larger figure can wear all-round pleated skirts and still have a slimming outline. The correct effect lies in the choice of pleats, which must either stop at the hipline or be stitched down.

Silk dresses cost as little as £2 10s. Woollen models start at £3 19s 6d. Irish linens, seersuckers and cottons range from £5.

Victorian Velvet in Autumn Parade of Hat Stylings

By MURRIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—Velvet, sumptuously reminiscent of Victorian music-hall days, has moved to the forefront of Autumn hat styles.

Panne velvet, plush velvet, ring velvet, plain and cord velvet are used in many colors both for trimming and foundation.

The postilion hat, in snuff-brown felt with high square crown, has a tiny, deep-sided brim trimmed with black velvet. A huge snuff-brown buckle on the front crown frames the wide ribbon-band of black velvet winging out on either side.

A huge picture hat in black ring velvet has oval brim trimmed centrally with huge white feather wings.

Boaters

Khamseen and black velvet make a bonnet with high front and side drape. A whirlwind ornament rises from the back crown like a conical whirl of smoke.

A white felt "seashell" rises to a conical crown which supports a black velvet ridge of Paradise plumes. The draped side ends in a smaller seashell.

Berets retain their popularity, especially in velvet. The aparache is still popular with many different drapings, and oriental turban styles are lavishly decorated. There are also many cloches and cloche-bonnets.

This year's Autumn colors lend themselves especially to the richness of velvet, in such shades as maple glace (a burnt sugar), vintage wine, plum and blueberry, shellblonde, tangerella, orchid and dusky pinks, snuff browns and subtle greys.

Sumptuous Velvet Feature In London Fashions For Fall

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—Velvet, with its sumptuous femininity, is in the forefront among London's fall fashions.

The big ten of Britain's fashion world make use of it for everything from crinoline evening gowns to day suits, accessories and gloves.

Velvet jackets with plaid skirts are the choice for day wear. These are proving more popular than the all-velvet suit, as the old problem of "rubbed" skirts is avoided.

Velour is equally popular with velvet and wears better in travel clothes. A full-length velour cape by Ronald Paterson, in ginger, reversing to black, is equally suitable for day or evening wear.

A midnight blue velvet dinner suit with narrow, three-quarter-length cuffed sleeves, has a dramatically-scooped neckline. The back neckline stands up like the stiffened collar of an 18th century shoulder cape, the front scoops in a high sweeping curve ending in a narrow V.

This reveals a high-necked gold lame blouse which, when the jacket is removed, is found to be backless.

Popular skirtlines are the peacock—up at thefront and down at the back—and the petal skirt. The latter is especially effective with alternate velvet and satin, or velvet and taffeta, petals.

No Matter What Recipe Used There Is Always an Egg in it

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (CP) —Luncheon dish, supper casserole, dessert—no matter what the recipe there usually is an egg yolk or white in it somewhere.

Home economists of the consumers section, Department of Agriculture, quote a French chef as saying "the egg is the cement that holds the castles of cookery together."

They list a few of the ways eggs can be used: Thicken as in custards and puddings; leaven, by beating to incorporate air, as in cakes; add color, richness and flavor to individual dishes; coat, as in breaded meats; garnish, as in canapes, salads and soups; bind, as in meat loaves and croquettes; emulsify, as in salad dressings and cream puffs; clarify, as in preparation of consomme; hinder crystallization, as in the making of refrigerator ice cream and in candy making.

The home economists say that the job of cooking eggs isn't quite as easy as it appears. They should always be cooked at low temperatures because excessive heat makes them tough and leathery.

Boiled eggs should not be literaly boiled. Rather they should be cooked gently. This keeps the egg delicately tender.

Avoid Boiling

When making a custard sauce the cook should be careful not to let the water in the bottom of the double boiler really boil. If it does the custard will curdle. However if the latter does happen the best thing to do is to quickly place the top of the double boiler in cold water and beat the custard with a rotary beater. This will again produce a creamy sauce but it will not be as thick as it would otherwise have been.

When combining hot mixtures and eggs as in milk puddings, cream fillings and souffles, combine the beaten eggs with a little of the hot mixture and then stir them into the hot mixure.

In order to get the greatest volume from whipped egg white it is important that no fat be present. Fat, whether it be from the yolk, from milk, or from some other source, so intereferes measurable quantity it will prevent whipping entirely. One drop of egg yolk will reduce the volume of a whipped egg white to less than one third of what it would otherwise have been.

The degree of whipping egg whites has a great deal to do with the final product. When egg whites are to be used for leavening, as in sponge cakes, angel caks and omeletes, the whites should be beaten until "stiff but not dry." When the egg whites are over beaten they lose their shiny appearance and at point the foam has lost some of its elasticity which is so necessary for leavening.

Gussie Intends To Show Dazzling Wardrobe on Court

New York, Aug. 25. (AP)—Gussy Moran is going to show a dazzling wardrobe and a lot more of Gussie while earning her $75,000 on the new professional tennis tour.

That's what she said.

"As an amateur I had to be restrained because some of those tennis groups can be a bit stiff-necked", said the curvaceous, green-eyed stunner of the courts. "Now I'm my own boss and I can wear anything I want."

"I'll wear a lot of flimsy little things," she added. "Leopard skin, ballerina skirts and, oh yes of course, some of that famous lace.

"I intend to wear— or not wear—what does the most for my figure and I promise you it won't be conservative."

The well-arranged lass from Santa Monica, Calif., said her designer will dream up something "absolutely breathless" for her professional debut in Madison Square Garden early in November.

Gussy held court for the press and radio people yesterday at a prominent midtown salon, signing her juicy contract with net tycoon Bobby Riggs many times while cameras ground and flashbulbs popped.

Photographers demanded better shots of the famous legs which have filled stadiums from Wimbledon to Cairo and from Bombay to Forest Hills. Gussy complied.

"Do I ever get tired of the emphasis on my glamor and the complete disregard of my tennis?" she asked. "Not at all. I am flattered. I love it.

Says Husband's Gifts For Girl Friends Put on Her Account

Los Angeles, Aug. 25. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabethe Deckard testified yesterday that she knew her husband had girl friends, "three or four that I knew about."

She said she knew too that husband, William M. Deckard, gave them personal gifts such as slips, nightgowns, "mostly the personal type of things."

She knew, she added, because he put the gifts on her charge account and expected her to pay for them.

Superior Court granted her the uncontested divorce.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sticks to a boy friend with nothing to recommend him

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a young man for four years, and we don't seem to get anywhere.

He is a very peculiar chap. When we are alone, he is very nice to me, but in anyone else's presence he doesn't introduce me as his girl, which I consider a sign of poor bringing up.

His mother fusses over him constantly, even doing little personal things for him that any boy ought to do for himself. She goes and gets his shoes when he is going out, gets him a drink of water, and runs the water in the tub when he takes a bath. He is so used to being waited on that he can't even seem to get himself a job.

I like fun, and he gets mad when he sees me having fun. He won't take me dancing, doesn't like picnics unless we go alone, and won't take me on a double date.

He makes no plans for the future. It makes life very boring when just the two of us keep going out by ourselves. Since I have been going with him, I have become very nervous, and can't sleep at night.

Vic

Dear Vic:

What's the sense of keeping up a friendship that has such a bad effect on you? You haven't said one thing in your letter that makes me understand in the least why you go out with this young man at all. He bores you to death, doesn't want you to have any fun and isn't even polite to you. I should think no boy friend at all would be better than one with whom you're not happy. Or don't you feel that way about it? And maybe you'd like to be married to a chap who's used to being babied and is too lazy to get himself a job. Only I don't think you'd like it for long.

My advice would be to go around with other boys and have all the fun you can. If you want to go out with this particular one now and then, all right. But I think you're very foolish to live such a narrow, limited life at your age.

When you take a girl out, you pay all expenses

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Last month I invited my girl friend to my brother's wedding in a town some distance away. When we went, I paid for the transportation. Since then, she has been trying to repay me for what I spent, and we have been arguing constantly about it.

Since I invited her, I think it was my responsibility to pay for her transportation to and from the place we went. Which of us is right? Will you please settle this argument for us?

James L.

Dear James L.:

You are entirely right. When you invited this girl to the wedding she was, of course, your guest, and when any young man takes a girl out, no matter where they go, he is the one who should take care of the finances.

I hope this will put an end to the argument, as there is nothing more unpleasant than a disagreement over money, however friendly.

Corduroy campus suit

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

CORDUROY will be right at the head of the class this year. It is used for all sorts of clothes, casual, daytime and dress-up, in apparel designed for all ages and types. This wonderfully wearable back-to-school suit is of fine corduroy in handsome Fall colors including a rich russet brown. The coat, which is designed so that it can be worn with other things, has a little boy collar with tab fastening beneath. The side pockets with buttoned flaps are stitched in semi-circles in front. There is fullness from sides to the back which is flared. The skirt has a classic straight-line trouser top, excellent for either sweaters or blouse.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

How to circumvent adults bringing children to wedding dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be correct to put either of the following sentences on wedding invitations: "Positively no children allowed" or "Adults only?" I wish to explain that my sister is to be married in the Fall at a very large and fashionable wedding, and we do not wish to hurt anyone's feelings about excluding children from the dinner-reception to be held in the evening. If it would be correct to use either of the sentences suggested (or any you may suggest), would this be put on the formal invitation or on the reply cards we are going to enclose to be returned to us?

M. J.

It would be inexcusably crude to use such a peremptory "notice" on wedding invitations . . . please don't do this. If you have any feeling that any "Mr. and Mrs." you invite to such an adult occasion as an evening wedding reception-dinner will assume that the invitation includes their children, I suggest that you mail a separate note to them saying that you are "sorry that we can't include your children, but this isn't possible because the dinner and reception are to be in the evening and also there will be space only for our grown-up relatives and friends. We are sure you and the children will understand." Of course this notification should not be necessary, because it should be taken for granted by those who receive the invitations that only those whose names are written on the inside envelopes are invited to the dinner-reception.

Informal reception . . .notes of invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are being quietly married, with only the immediate families present at the church ceremony. But after the ceremony there is to be a reception at my home for friends.

1. I am planning to wear a suit. Would it be permissible for my sister, who is to be my bridesmaid, to wear a dress, or must she also wear a suit?

2. For the reception do we send engraved invitations, much like the regular style? When guests are invited only to the reception (not the church), how should the invitation be worded?

R. C.

1. Your sister, your only attendant, may wear a dress if it is of the same or approximately the same degree of informality . . . but a suit would undoubtedly give a more properly harmonious appearance.

2. The fact that you are to wear a suit means that your wedding and the reception are to be informal that formal engraved ingraved invitations would be inconsistent, inappropriate, because their formality would suggest a formal reception. The invitations to your informal reception may be telephoned by your mother . . . or at least the ones to the closest relatives and perhaps even some of the family friends . . .or your mother may write notes worded somewhat like this:

Dear Margaret,

Rose and Edward Brown are to be married in the —— Church on Saturday, September 23rd., with only the immediate families at the ceremony. But we are inviting our relatives and closest friends to come to our home directly after the ceremony, at five o'clock, and we so very much want you and Tom to come. Please say you'llbe here!

Sincerely,

The average person now eats about 7 pounds of cheese a year—2 more pounds than before the war.

This increase shows that people have come to regard cheese as something more than just a slight decoration for a piece of apple pie.

Cheese can be a part of any course in a meal. It frequently serves as an appetizer in toasted cheese canapes; cheese soup is popular in many sections; cheese casseroles are served with meat, fish or vegetables as main courses; almost everybody likes cheese pie or cake.

A piece of cheese one inch thick yields about a hundred calories. It is a form of concentrated milk with the protein, fat and mineral value of milk.

An easy and flavorful sauce can be made by simply melting cheese in the top part of a double boiler. It it is process cheese, it should be thickened by adding an egg. When cheese sauce is served, provide at least one slice of toast for mopping up.

Broccoli with Crab Meat Rarebit—4 Servings

Wash 1 medium size bunch of broccoli in cold water. Cut off all leaves. Cut thick ends of stems lengthwise into 3 or 4 strips without breaking stems. This will permit thick sections to be cooked in the same time as the flowrets.

Bring 1- inch of water to a boil in a saucepan, wide enough so that broccoli can rest flat.

Place broccoli in pan. Cover and simmer until tender, about 6 to 8 minutes after second boil. Drain broccoli carefully without breaking.

In the top part of a double boiler put 2 tablespoons milk, 1-2 pound process pimiento cheese cut into 1-2 inch cubes, 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-2 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1-2 teaspoon worcestershire sauce.

When cheese is completely melted, beat 1 egg slightly and add to double boiler. Cook several minutes more, stirring frequently, until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Place broccoli on freshly made toast. Pour cheese mixture over broccoli. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Jellies That Sparkle Like Jewels

A glass of clear sparkling jelly is always a treat for someone, whether it be served on the family breakfast table or gaily wrapped and given as a gift. The homemakers whose jelly has that delightful fresh, fruity flavor, characteristic color and perfect quivery quality need never be at a loss for a suitable present for Christmas or other occasion or as a present for the invalid.

The jelly triangle of pectin, acid and sugar was a kitchen mystery for many years. Now the experts have solved the problem of testing fruit juices for pectin to ascertain the exact amount of pectin contained in the juice. With this information they are able to tell the exact amount of sugar required to make jelly. This makes jelly-making an exact science. The technique is as important as ever but modern methods are quicker and surer.

The availability of commercially extracted pectin makes it possible to produce excellent jellies from some fruits which are almost entirely lacking in this jellying substance. For those fruits which have sufficient pectin but insufficient acid, a little juice from an acid fruit provides the other side of the jelly triangle.

Easy With Crab Apples

Every jelly maker of course knows that it is easy to get perfect jelly from good crab apples. Once their tart, pectin-rich juice is extracted, sugar may be added measure for measure and a few minutes brisk boiling will give perfect jelly.

Other early fall apples are often equally good for jelly-making but are of milder flavor. Often a mixture of their fruits such as choke cherries and sweet plums with these apples will produce a jelly of delicious flavor. Grapes quinces and sour plums are excellent jelly fruits.

Jelly glasses or jars should be sterilized

Only sound fruit should be used Equal parts of fully ripe and under-ripe fruit should be used All fruit should be thoroughly washed and any damaged spots removed before extracting juice.

To extract juice, various amounts of water are used for different fruits. Apples, crab apples or quinces should be covered with water. Grapes and sour plums require water to come just below the surface.

After adding the required amount of water, the fruit is simmered in a covered kettle until the fruit is soft and mushy. It should be crushed during cooking to extract the maximum amount of juice.

Pour hot, cooked fruit into a moistened jelly bag made of factory cotton, flannel or several thickness of fine cheesecloth. Hang up over a bowl and allow to drain until dripping ceases. Squeezing the bag increases the quantity of juice but the jelly will not be so clear.

Work with small amounts of extracted juice at a time not more than 8 cups. Measure each lot of juicy accurately to determine the amount of sugar to be added after boiling.

Boil juice, uncovered in a broad saucepan for 3 minutes. Remove saucepan from heat and test for pectin. If a clot does not form, continue boiling, testing frequently, until pectin test is satisfactory.

For the pectin test, measure 1 teaspoon fruit juices and 1 teaspoon rubbing alcohol into a cup or small dish. Blend quickly together and let stand 30 seconds. If a jelly-like mass or clot is formed, the juice contains sufficient pectin. Sugar may then be added. Do not taste this mixture—rubbing alcohol is poisonous.

Masure sugar, allowing 3-4 cup sugar for each cup of extracted juice, except when a heavy solid clot forms when pectin test is made at the end of the 3-minute boiling period. This heavy clot indicates that the juice is so rich in pectin than 1 cup of sugar for each cup of extracted juice should be used.

Add measured sugar slowly to juice. Boil briskly, uncovered, remove scum as it forms.

To Test Jelly Stage

To test when jelly is done, dip up the boiling hot syrup with a metal spoon, holding well above kettle, and allow it to run off the edge. When two drops form and then flow together to form a "sheet", the jelly stage has been reached. Immediately remove from the heat. Longer boiling will give a stiff, tough jelly.

Let hot juice stand in kettle for about 1 minute and remove last bit of scum with a cold fork or spoon.

Pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses, filling to within 1-4 inch of the top. Using slightly moistened clean cloth, carefully remove any jelly clinging to inside of jelly glass above the jelly level.

Let stand until partially set, then pour a thin layer of hot, melted paraffin wax to completely cover the jelly and leave until hardened. Then add a second layer of hot melting wax, rotating the jar so that the wax will adhere to the glass to form a close seal. Cover with paper or metal lid and store in a cool, dry place.

Town Frock

By ALICE ALDEN

WOOL jersey looks like duplicating its big success of last year, and what better fabric could there be for Fall and Winter wear? Herbert Sondheim does a trim town dress in the best New York tradition, that is a dress that looks and feels right every time. Of forest green wool jersey, the skirt is all-around stitch-pleated, and the wrap-around blouse fastens at the side with green buttons. This one is a real wardrobe wonder.

BEAUTY

Pretty calves and ankles

Millions of girls take part in the mid-season leg show. Skin takes the place of hosiery; it never has runs, never has to be darned and isn't that sumpin?

Time was when legs were displayed only on the beaches, but now they parade the buy-ways, dance and prance, pedal bicycles, race over tennis courts, naked and unashamed. Keeping the legs in form, beautifying them with make-up, is just one more beauty chore added to the long list that must ever have attention.

Except for unattractive contour, the besetting blemish is gooseflesh. Girls who go stockingless in cold weather invite these horrid little points, find to their dismay that they take up permanent residence, stay the year round.

The skin surface will respond to treatment if it is continued long enough. Ten minutes of care every night for a week or two will bring a marked improvement.

After a brisk scrubbing with warm soap suds and a heavy brush, rinsing and drying apply toilet lanoline or cocoa butter; one is as effective as the other. They are soothing, have the advantage of being less expensive than the creams that you use on your sacred complexion.

Start with your toes, rubbing the lubricant into the nails—you might as well make a complete job, while you are at it. Give attention to the surrounding tissues, work on calloused spots if they are present. Give attention to your heels; the friction of the shoes there often form grey looking, heavy cuticle.

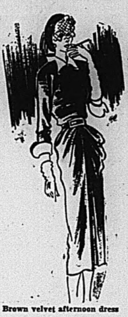
Proceed up over the ankles with pressure of the palms and flattened fingers. Do wide circles on your knees. There may be beautiful, dimpled knees, but your observing good looks reporter has never seen them, except on children.

Adult knees are nothing to write home about, usually being nothing more than crinkled hinges. We regret to report that some of our pretty bobby-soxers could improve theirs with more frequent applications of soap and water. Or, are we too critical?

After the lubricating massage, fluff on borated talcum that will form a softening, refining pack. The boric acid content will have an effect upon the texture of the skin, will help to eliminate the red points.

The skin will be in condition then for leg make-up, in case you indulge in this good looks diversion. The right tint of make-up gives the effect of the sheerest of beige nylons. The appearance of the epidermal coat is improved and the lady whose legs are in the public eye can congratulate herself that her so-called gams qualify.

Velvet Touch



Brown velvet afternoon dress

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

VELVET is very much of the mode, after its early acceptance for accessories and trimming. Brown velvet is used for this simple but striking afternoon dress, the rich brown set off by cuffs and collar of white silk bengaline. The sleeves are cut in one with the bodice, which is simple to contrast with the well draped skirt. There are peg-top pannier pockets on the skirt which has a straight front with one inverted pleat, and the self belt has a gold buckle. The back is straight.

Fashion Flashes

ALL OF A SUDDEN it's black, even on the brightest mid-summer day, especially for attractive town wear. Black silk for a sheath of a frock, with bands of cut-out embroidery, outlined with black braid at the deep scoop neck and at the hem of the very slim skirt.

TELEVISION seems to be responsible for a wide array of at-home costumes. Nearly every style house is showing such models. One at-home suit has black velvet slacks, a white chiffon blouse and a plaid velvet jacket.

NEW BEAUTY marks evening clothes prepared for late autumn and winter. Black tissue crepe for a short black sheath embroidered all over in tiny beads in a muted color, lovely Persian-type design. With this goes bouffant silk marquisette over-dress.

LOOMING LARGE in new promotions is faked fur of fabrics so cleverly worked that it is difficult to detect the difference. For at home or dormitory wear, one house shows a lumberjacket of fake leopard quilted all-over, worn with black satin pants.

A BIG IMPETUS for the scarf is seen in the horseshoe neckline, introduced in suits by Dior and Fath last season and now accepted here for all types of suits and coat-dresses. Nylon novelty woven fabric is used for a scarf and fichu series, the thick and thin stripes of the weave giving the effect of pleating.

AMAZING ideas in jewelry were shown in the Place Vendome at the 250th anniversary celebration of this famous Parisian square. There were jewelled clips that rest on the skin by means of vacuum suction, there was a ring with a barrel-shaped back which revolves showing rubies, sapphires or emeralds, according to the color of the costume, and a gold vanity with a sundial top so the owner can tell the time by holding it at right angle, and all sort of other brilliant novelties.

Port Colborne, Ont., (CP)—

Laurie Jacques of Welland used a wheelbarrow to haul his prize-winning fish to the judges' stand to get his prize for the largest fish in a tournament here. He used an ordinary hook and worm to land the 25 1-2 pound red-gilled mullet—and broke his landing net doing it.

High Death Rate Among Marooned In India Flood

Shillong, India, Aug. 25 (Reuters) —Planes flying over a 1,000-square mile flood area, centre of last week's big earthquake have sighted human corpses floating with elephant carcasses in the flood waters.

A reuters correspondent said the stench of dead humans, cattle, fish and wild animals forced his plane to climb higher several times.

The flood followed earthquakes which blocked and diverted rain-swollen rivers in the Ganges-Brahmaputra basin last week. The floods are the worst in 50 years. Four new shocks rocked the area yesterday.

Indian transport planes today parachuted emergency food supplies to flood victims. Reports indicate a high death rate from disease among the 5,000,000 marooned persons.

Homeless peasants trying to escape the flood waters were said to be facing another menace—deadly snakes.

SOMEONE IS STUCK WITH FAKES

—Central Press Canadian

Reports that the historic crown jewels of the Holy Roman empire had been carted off to Moscow as spoils of war were proved untrue when the historic baubles were "found" in a secret vault in Vienna where they have been since their recovery from a Nazi hiding place and restoration to Austria by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. This is the famous crown of gold, precious stones and pearls, made in the 10th century for Emperor Otto. The relics will remain in their hiding place until, if ever, the Russians go back home. Meanwhile, officials guess that the Soviets are cherishing a lovely set of fakes in Moscow.

SUFFERING FROM FRACTURED RIBS, MAN STOPS RUNAWAY HORSE

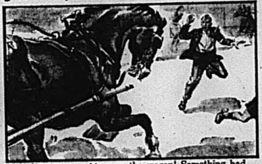
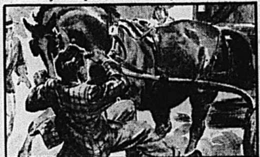
1. On an early summer day Auguste Prenovost was strolling down Marianne Street in Montreal. At the corner of Rivard Street — a busy intersection — Prenovost suddenly became aware of a commotion. Pedestrians were pointing to a horse-driven bakery wagon which was careening down the street at an unusually fast clip. Prenovost took a quick second look.



2. There was no driver on the wagon! Something had frightened the animal who was now dragging the vehicle in a crazy fashion right down into the main traffic centre. Out of the corner of his eye Prenovost could see children playing on the sidewalks . . . people crossing the street . . . automobiles, bicycles. He knew that disaster, probably tragedy, was not far away.



3. Although still suffering from fractured ribs sustained in a previous accident, Prenovost wasted no time thinking of his own safety. Throwing himself at the horse's reins, he was dragged several yards before he was able, finally, to bring the wild ride to a halt. We are proud to pay tribute to this brave Canadian through the presentation of THE DOW AWARD.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

The First Lady of History

By ROY L. SMITH

There may be some differences of opinion between Roman Catholic and Protestant theoligians concerning the doctrinal significance of Mary, the mother of Jesus, but there is none concerning the beauty or her character nor the unique place she occupies in history.

To no other woman of history can there be assigned a place in any wise comparable. To Mary and Mary alone was given the sublime privilege of mothering the child who was to be the world's Redeemer.

> The Sunday School lesson for August 27: "Mary, the Mother of Jesus," Luke 1:46-55, 2:7-19, 40-52; Mark 3:31-35; John 2:1-12; 19:25-27; Acts 1:13-14

It being the custom in the East for young women to marry in their early teens, it is reasonable to assume that Mary was not more than twenty years of age—probably younger—when she become the mother of Jesus. Whatever one's opinion may be concerning the doctrine of the virgin birth, it is impossible to believe that the one chosen by God to be the mother of the world's Redeemer could have been other than a young woman of unimpeachable character, of rare beauty of spirit, of fine mind, and of charming manner.

The very few appearances she makes in the New Testament reveal her as a woman of poise, very thoughtful of a meditative sort, who believed in great things even when she could not understand all the reasons for her belief.

It is quite evident however that Mary did not sense the full implication of the wonder child she had brought into the world. He must have been at times a very bewildering problem to her. That He was somehow destined to holy achievements she was quite sure but His public ministry did not seem to fit into any pattern she was able to arrange for Him. Even when she did not understand, however, she continued to believe. In that she demonstrated that she was a woman of great faith.

Mary's Silence

It is altogether worthy of note that Mary's words recorded in the New Testament are very few. That she was of a poetical turn of mind is evident from the majestic lines of her songs recorded in the Gospel of Luke.

On one occasion—when Jesus was only a lad of twelve—she is reported to have chided Him gently for having been a cause of concern to her, and at the very outset of His ministry she advised her friends to follow His guidance and instructions without question. She was to be found at the foot of the cross at the time of His crucifixion but there is no record of any exchange of words between her and her son.

The Nazareth Home

Beyond the fact that Jesus grew up in the home of Joseph and Mary as an obedient son, we know nothing of His youth from recorded history. There is, however a well accepted tradition to the effect that Joseph died about the time Jesus was 16 years old and that the youth and his mother thereafter assumed responsibility for the management of the carpenter shop, which seems to have employed a number of workmen in addition to younger sons of the family.

It would be a fascinating theme for some artist to paint a picture of Mary and Jesus bent low over the books of accounts, long after the younger members of the family were in bed, trying to contrive the business affairs.

Mary, the Teacher of Jesus

There was a village school in Nazareth to which Jesus was sent for His formal education, and the tourist will be shown ancient walls to this day which are reputed to be the very ones behind which the little lad sat while studying the scriptures.

But His sermons in later years bear direct evidence of the fact that He learned much from Mary. So many of His references and parables go back to scenes inside the home in which Mary must have played a part and so many of His lessons seems to have been drawn from observations He made while watching Mary.

Joseph, the head of the household, is described as a "just" man, which in New Testament times meant "one who ordered his household according to the best traditions of the Jewish faith." We know that a very considerable amount of religious literature was in circulation among the Jews of that day outside the Old Testament material, and quotations and references on the lips of Jesus suggest that He was familiar with may of these books.

She Must Mave Been

It is possible to believe that Mary was a sophisticate, whose life was absorbed in matters of fashion, gaiety, gossip and sports.

She must have been a beautiful woman—radiant in spirit and gracious of manner. She must have been a devout woman to whom the will of God was the supreme law. She must have been a person of serious mind of pure heart and of generous hand.

It is sufficient to say of her that God chose her to be the mother of the world's Saviour. No man could pay her higher tribute than that.

Fort Erie, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP) — Canadian customs officials Thursday seized 100,000 sweepstakes tickets, the largest such haul ever made at this border point.

The tickets, on a Dec. 22 race in Kingston, Jamaica, were found in a customs check of a car driven by Charles Boncore, 47, a Buffalo N.Y., taxi driver. They were turned over to Fort Erie police.

Boncore was charged with importing printed matter relating to gambling and was released on $1,000 cash bail. Trial date was set at Aug. 31.

Boncore told police he met two men in Buffalo who asked him to drive the package to the Canadian end of the Ambassador Bridge, Niagara Falls, where a man would claim them.

The tickets bore the markings of the Royal Jockey Club of Jamaica. Police said they were genuine. Many other bogus sweepstakes tickets have been found in the area in recent months.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Bowmanville, Ont., Aug. 25—(CP)—The Ontario Training School for Boys, started as an experiment in educating wayward children, celebrated its 25th birthday Thursday.

On hand for the celebrations were Premier Frost, Ontario Reform Minister W. E. Hamilton and Deputy Minister C. F. Neelands, and A. R. Virgin, director of reform institutions. Mr. Virgin is a former superintendent of the school.

Boys in residence range from 14-16 years old and live in cottages. They attend normal school and trade classes and help maintain the school's 300-acre farm. In off-hours, the school offers an extensive recreational program.

RADAR FORECASTING

London. (CP)— British Overseas Airways Corporation is equipping its airliners with the latest product of radar scientists —airborne search equipment. The device projects radar search beams ahead of the aircraft which can detect and identify storm clouds up to 40 miles away.

STIFLING EFFECTS

Telephone systems still struggled under a heavy load of long distance calls. Delays of several hours were reported in some cases. All telegraph and international cable services were put out of action, but telegraph company supervisory employees kept some leased-wire telegraph circuits operating.

Limited to Five Gallons

In Brandon, Man., gasoline retailers limited their regular customers to five gallons and strangers to two gallons at each purchase. Oil companies said stocks in Manitoba would be exhausted in a week or 10 days unless they could get in emergency supplies.

In addition to 124,000 strikers and another 25,000 non-striking railwaymen put out of work, an estimated 13,500 Canadians were temporarily jobless, a Canadian Press survey showed. Another 12,500 might be out of work if the strike lasted another week.

The Algoma Central still operated from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., north to Hearst. Plans were made to ship gasoline north from the United States border at the Sault to Hearst and distribute it from there by truck. Hearst and Kapuskasing were out of gasoline and running short of many food items.

The New York Central Railway runs into Canada to Hagersville, Ont., near Hamilton, and Hamilton industries trucked supplies to and from the railhead. In southwestern Ontario the Michigan Central operated.

In the harbor of Quebec, cargo ships waited for asbestos, timber and metals. Export shipments of these goods would be exhausted in little more than four days with little chance of bringing in new shipments, officials said.

Cargoes Held up

Coal officials in Cleveland, O., said that from seven to 10 coal cargoes for Canada were held up at Lake Erie ports the first day of the strike.

New industrial layoffs were in the offing. Some 900 of the 1,500 workers of the Spruce Falls Pulp and Paper Company at Iroquois Falls, Ont., will stop work after Sunday shifts. Officials said storage facilities won't permit continued production of paper until shipments can resume.

Steep Rock iron mine at Atikokan will shut down if the strike lasts more than two weeks, officials said. The mine employs 500 men.

Food groups asked the government to step in. The national council of the baking industry wrote Prime Minister St. Laurent that the consequences of each hour's delay in settling the strike were "appalling." The Canadian Food Processors Association said the industry would be affected for at least a year if the strike lasted.

In British Columbia, several communities on the Arrow and Kootenay Lakes were cut off when the strike stopped the Canadian Pacific Railway lake boats, only link with the area, at the north end of Kootenay Lake, 300 miles east of Vancouver.

TWINS APART

Port Arthur, Ont.—Probably no two cities in the world are as reluctant to double their population overnight as Port Arthur and Fort William.

When a visitor to these twin lakehead ports gets around to using the word "amalgamation" —as all visitors inevitably do — he can expect some pained looks from the natives of either burg. These cities are like Siamese twins, joined at the ribs, but each insistent on living his own life as much as the other fellow will permit.

The question comes up in the mind of every transient because, on the surface, it seems the most logical thing in the world to make the two into one.

The visitor sees two city-operated bus lines, each of which goes into the opposition territory, and a duplication of police and fire departments, water and power, and nearly everything else.

Of the service clubs only Kiwanis is inter-city and weekly luncheons are carefully arranged to alternate between Port and Fort. The daily newspapers in each city — Port Arthur's News-Chronicle and Fort William's Times-Journal—stay pretty much on their own side of the fence and make no real effort to sell in "enemy" territory.

There is a four-mile no-man's-land between the cities, but the casual visitor is aware of passing from one to the other only by an archway erected by Port Arthur and offering "many happy returns" presumably from Fort William.

War on Ice

The interested visitor moving around in both cities soon discovers that each has its own individual personality and too, that there's a very keen sense of rivalry.

"Amalgamate these towns and you'd automatically slow them down," a drug store manager in Fort William told me. "Both places are booming now and it's partly because we've got to Keep-Up-With-the-Jones outlook. Port gets a new Legion Hall? Why, Fort William's got to get one or be shown up. Works that way right down the line.

"Of course," he went on, "we haven't got the same kind of rivalry we had in the old days. I remember the hockey games in the old days. One whole side of the arena would be filled with Port Arthur fans, other side with Fort William rooters. When a goal was scored it was something to hear the roar from one side and the booing from the other. And when one team won the series the winning town would organize a cavalcade of cars and triumphantly invade the other town with their horns blaring. Always surprised me that we got through a season without bloodshed."

Some indication of a certain jealousy between the cities occurred only recently when the Port Arthur city council decided to change the name of its Fort William Road.

The decision was not without reason. A good many industries are located on this thoroughfare and the address, "Fort William Road, Port Arthur," was causing some understandable confusion in the mails. It seemed a logical idea to change the name to "Industrial Road."

The aggrieved howl that went up from the neighboring city was prompt and vociferous and Port Arthur, in the spirit of good-neighborliness which is strictly observed on the surface, decided to let things remain as they were, a cause for some quiet satisfaction in the sister city.

Two Types

Physically, the two cities are as unlike as if they were a hundred miles apart. Fort William, with a population of 35,000, is the larger by 4,000, and is, in fact, not a lake city, but a river city since its elevators and warehouses front on the Kaministiquia. It is built on low flat ground which Port Arthurites refer to, sotto voce, as "the frog pond."

Fort William's populace are proudest of their new industries and of a go-getting, aggressive business spirit. Three different people I interviewed told me with quiet glee of how, in a recent inter-city service club festival, the Fort William club had to take the unsold Port Arthur tickets and get rid of them.

Will Goodman, editor of the Times-Journal, thinks it goes deeper than that. "I think of Fort William as having the spirit of the new west," he told me, "and Port Arthur of being more representative of the established east." In its own subtle way this may be the unkindest cut of all.

Port Arthur's citizens, on the other hand, have undeniably the more attractive town since it is built on a hill looking out to Lake Superior's Thunder Bay, are sure to bring up the fact that many a successful Fort William businessman has his home in Port Arthur.

Occasionally this unique relationship works out to mutual advantage. Some years ago, for instance, in a moment of lofty resolve Fort William decided by plebiscite that their fair city would never again permit a touring carnival to set up shop in its precincts.

This might have left the current inter-city Diamond Jubilee Exhibition without thrill side, sideshows and a midway, but fortunately the dividing line between the two cities runs smack through the centre of the fair grounds. Royal American Shows simply set up their carney on the Port Arthur half.

PRIME MINISTER

Negotiations between the two groups, aided by a government-appointed mediator, broke down early Tuesday morning, just before the deadline for the general strike of 124,000 workers that has plunged Canada into a transportation crisis.

Long Session of Cabinet

There have been no talks between them since then, and it was suggested authoritatively today that the first thing the Prime Minister would do would be to ask the antagonists to get their feet under the same table again.

However, there was no official word from the government on its plans. The Prime Minister's announcement late yesterday of the new conferences merely said he had invited in the railway and union chiefs and that they had accepted.

This announcement followed a morning Cabinet session—latest in a long series of morning, afternoon and night sittings since the wage dispute started developing to a climax.

Earlier moves of the government has been to appeal Aug. 17 for a 30-day strike postponement —which was rejected—and then to appoint a mediator, Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, vice-principal of Queen's University. He worked until half an hour before the Tuesday—morning strike deadline without bringing the disputants together.

The newest step of the government was said by labor old-timers here to be unprecedented in Canadian Labor relations, though there is plenty of precedent for it in the United States. The U.S. President often has mediated directly in potential strikes affecting the coal, steel and rail industries.

In the 1948 threat of a general rail strike, Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell—who died August 1—worked out a settlement through personal mediation. That did not involve the Prime Minister directly.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The Saturday Evening Post, which has a notable record in jinxing sports personalities and teams by the simple process of blowing them up for somebody else to puncture, paid the Philadelphia Phillies a left-handed compliment recently in a three part serial written by Frank O'Rourke. In this opus entitled "Bonus Rookie", the Phillies are thinly disguised as the "Quakers". The story revolves around Jim Ramsay, a $25,000 bonus baby who was a whiz somewhere in Minnesota and a dead loss in the majors. His trials to master "the fastest pitch in baseball" and all the psychological hurdles to progress are thoroughly discussed and explained. His constant and rapid progress in the bull pen results at the end of a long hard summer for the team, with his being elected on ten minutes notice, to pitch the final game of the year, against the Dodgers, who happen to be tied with the 'Quakers' for the National League lead. And this is what makes the story memorable. He wins the game 2-1 and the Phillies take the pennant. The young man has paid off etc. Oh yes, there is a girl in it too, whose unwavering faith in the moderately wealthy young man has been a major contribution to victory.

* * *

We are glad that it is all fiction. Whatever did Mr. O'Rourke do with the Phillies' five and a half game lead? And why, aside from collecting a strappingly healthy check for his work, did he put it in the Post when they have such a record for hexing athletes and teams. We suspect he is a Dodger fan.

The French Angel, a wrestler of many holds who specializes in wrapping his arms about an opponent, drawing him to his bulging chest, and slowly crushing him into insensibility, will make his first appearance in Memorial Arena in years, tonight when he attempts to reduce Hi Lee to the status of an also-ran. In addition to his fearsome face, the Angel has 275 pounds of muscle to support his claim that Lee is just another wrestler with most of said 275 pounds being encased in his dangling arms and huge chest.

Lee, on the other hand, will present approximately 292 pounds of equally sound sinew to chasten such untoward thoughts on the part of the Angel.

* * *

Lee, as any wrestling fan will tell you at the drop of a dangling participle, has never been renowned as a model of virtue, or loved as a doer of good works. His chief stock in trade is to reduce the consciousness, reputation, and general stature of his opponents, and he would like nothing better than a win over the Angel.

* * *

In the preliminary, another of the masked marvels that keeps suspense in the wrestling game at fever pitch, will try to keep his identity a mystery by defeating Warren Bockwinkle. A loss and off comes the mask. In the opener Bill Stack will try to escape the danger in Dangerous Dan O'Connor.

CHIPLETS

Out in the village of Batawa tonight the baseball club is sponsoring a "Fun Nite". Colborne tackles Batawa in an exhibition game, which will be followed by games of chance and that chanciest of all games, a street dance. A slice of the proceeds goes to the Trenton Hospital . . . Don Hogan, a flash with the Belleville Rockets last winter, has written to say that he will be back for more puck chasing this winter . . . Northern Electric Ladies Softball Team, eliminated early in the Women's playoffs, have remained active just the same. Tonight they play the Provincial Tire team on the Aluminum Company Field in Kingston, and Saturday they meet the Bancroft Lumber Queens at the Northern Electric Employees picnic being held at Cedardale . . . Batawa and Trenton Flyers meet in the final game of Bay of Quinte Soccer League for the Belleville Merchants Charity Cup, in Bain Memorial Park, Trenton, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 pee em. The ubiquitous Frank Follwell, M. P., will present the cup to the winning team. All proceeds go to the injured players fund . . . One team that will never be accused of being packed is the Kingston (Portsmouth, say Kingstonians) Penitentiary softball team which meets an outside team for the first time, in an exhibition game this Sunday. In the event of losses, rivals won't be able to accuse the management of bringing in outside talent.

Ted Schroeder Is Mainstay Of Cup Team

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—The Davis Cup challenge round gets under way today, and the United States' chances of a successful defence against Australia are squarely on the shoulders of Ted Schroeder.

Alrick Man, now-playing captain, chose Schroeder, the La Crescenta, Calif., refrigerator salesman who never has lost a cup match, to play in both singles and doubles. That means Ted will see action in all three days of the matches.

He takes the court in today's second match against 20-year-old Ken McGregor, a last-minute singles, Tom Brown of San Francisco faces Australia's No. 1 operative, Frank Sedgman.

Schroeder will team with Gardnar Mulloy tomorrow in the doubles against the veteran John Bromwich and Sedgman. Then on Sunday the singles pairings will be reversed, with Schroeder playing Sedgman and Brown going against McGregor.

The Aussies are giving a better chance of coming out on top than at any time in the last four years when they have reached the challenge round only to go down to defeat. The last time they won the cup was in 1939. Bromwich played on that team.

The doubles is being virtually conceded to Bromwich and Sedgman. They won the U.S. national title earlier in the week, and the former is considered about the craftiest doubles player in the world. However, Man is hoping to put up a fight. That's why he yanked Bill Talbert in favor of

Detroit May be Leaping Out Of Frying Pan Into Fire as Tough Series With Sox Looms

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Are the Detroit Tigers leaping out of the frying pan into the fire?

Having escaped the "kill" with a comeback to salvage the last game of a near-disastrous three-game series with the Yankees in New York, the Tigers moved cautiously today into the lair of Boston's 10-in-a-row Red Sox.

Manager Red Rolfe entrusted the task of halting the Sox to Paul (Dizzy) Trout, currently the hottest pitcher on the Tiger staff. Southpaw Mel Parnell, always a tough pitcher for Detroit to beat, was named by Boston Manager Steve O'Neill to oppose the veteran righthander.

No matter what happens in the two game series, the Tigers are assured of leaving Boston, still in possession of first place. They made certain of that yesterday when they overcame a 3-0 deficit to conquer the Yankees 6-3 behind Hal Newhouser's four-hit pitching. It was Hal's first victory since July 17.

Had they lost yesterday, the Tigers would have seen their once-comfortable lead shrivel to a half-game advantage. As it is, the Bengals own a 2 1-2 game lead over the Yankees and Cleveland Indians.

The Indians swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Senators in Washington 3-1 and 5-3, to climb into a virtual second-place tie. The fourth place Red Sox, in the midst of one of their customary August and September finishes, won their 10th straight defeating St. Louis Browns 6-2. They trail the pace-makers by 4 1-2 games.

Philadelphia A's and Chicago White Sox were idle yesterday.

Dodgers Gain Little

Brooklyn's streaking Dodgers chewed half a game off Philadelphia's big National League lead by sweeping a pair of games from the Reds in Cincinnati. Preacher Roe pitched his second successive 1-0 shutout in topping Ewell Blackwell in the opener. Lefty Joe Hatten outpitched Herm Wehmeier 7-3 in the night cap.

The victories were the seventh and eighth straight for the Dodgers, who now trail the Phils by five games.

Emory (Bubba) Church pitched the Phils to a 4-2 triumph over the Pirates in Pittsburgh. The rookie righthander scattered five hits for his sixth victory. Granny Hamner's two run triple highlighted Philadelphia's three run rally in the third.

Clint Hartung's pinch-hit double drove in two runs in the top of the ninth to give Dave Koslo and the New York Giants a 3-2 victory over Max Lanier and the Cards in St. Louis. The victory boosted the Giants to within one game of the fourth place Cards.

Boston's third place Braves split two games with the Cubs in Chicago. The Braves won the opener 11-9 as each team tallied six runs in the ninth. Frank Hiller bested Mickey Haefner in a second game hurling duel, 4-3.

Three Teams Tied for First In Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

One of the topsy-turviest Intercounty Senior League races on record wound up on the zaniest note of all Thursday night—three teams ended in a dead heat for first place.

The photo finish necessitated a playoff between the three teams —Brantford Red Sox, Kitchener Legionnaires and London Majors. Kitchener and London play a sudden-death game Friday night, with the winner playing Brantford Saturday to decide the 1950 pennant winner.

It was a thrilling finish to the regular schedule. London led by a half-game going into Thursday night's play, and the pressure was on the other two teams to win their remaining games. Both came through.

Gorgeous Gussie Signs Contract For $75,000

(By The Canadian Press)

She signed a professional contract in New York which will guarantee her $75,000 for one year of play.

"I really hate to leave the amateur ranks," she said, "but after all, this way I won't have to worry about what I wear."

Gussie, whose costumes always have been more startling than her tennis, will start with Bobby Riggs' troupe early in November when it opens in Madison Square Garden. Her contract includes a clause that she will receive 30 per cent of the receipts if the tour grosses more than $250,000.

Riggs said he has not decided on an opponent for Gussie yet, but both Pauline Betz and Sarah Palfrey Cooke, a couple of former amateur stars, are now pros.

Gussie's famed lace panties have caused much eyebrow lifting in the last year all over the world. But, she implied, they were conservative compared to what she's going to wear on the pro tour.

The touring Belgian Davis Cup tennis team swept two exhibition singles matches in Toronto Thursday night from Canada's two top players, Brendan Macken and Henri Rochon, both of Montreal.

Macken, Canadian singles champion, put up a stiff fight before bowing to young Jean Brichant 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. Rochon lost to Philippe Washer, No. 1 ranked Belgian star 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

Six teams hit the long 1950 football trail this weekend. Most of the action is in the Western Canada union where each of the four entries will play two games. In the east, two of the big four teams start the campaign in a single game Sunday.

The Saturday schedule in the west takes Calgary Stampeders, western champions last season, to Regina where they play the Saskatchewan Roughriders. Edmonton Eskimos journey to Winnipeg to meet the Blue Bombers. Monday, the Eskimos are at Regina and the Stamps at Winnipeg.

The other four big teams play exhibition games. Hamilton Tiger-Cats meet Manville, N.Y., Eagles Friday night in Hamilton. Toronto Argos have a Saturday game at home against Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

In the O.R.F.U. — which has three teams, Sarnia, Windsor Rockets and Toronto Balmy Beach —the first scheduled action is on Labor Day.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., Bob Knowles of Brookline, Mass., John Ward of Clay, N.Y., and Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., shot their way into the semi-final round of the Golden Anniversary United States amatur golf tournament at Minneapolis Thursday.

The excellent performance of Soviet athletes in the European track championships at Brussels caused a number of foreign observers to predict Thursday the Russians may participate in the 1952 olympic games at Helsinki.

The U.S.S.R. definitely has some of the best women athletes in the world and many of Russia's male contenders have a fine chance of taking first places when pitted against the best of other countries.

Russian women again dominated the meet Thursday. V. Bogdanova, a broad-shouldered blonde, won the long jump with an effort of 19 feet 1 1-8 inches, and got a big cheer from the crowd when she shook the hands of her rivals. This was the first sign of fraternization by a Russian.

Proximity Wins Feature Race At Raceway

Westbury, N.Y., Aug. 25 (AP) — Proximity, an eight-year-old mare which cost only $1,000 five years ago, today boasts a bankroll of $225,897—not to mention her title, "Queen of the Trotters."

Loser of two heats this year but never a race, the champion money winner of all harness horses last night won the $25,000 American trotting championship at Roosevelt Raceway, duplicating her 1947 triumph. It was the first time any horse repeated in a major stake at the half-mile-long island track. She was driven by Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont.

Proximity, a $2.70 for $2 favorite owned by Ralph and Gordon Verhurst of Victor, N.Y., earned the $11,250 first money by three quarters of a length in 2:03 2-5. Second was Her Conqueror in the same event last year, Chris Spencer, owned by the Bostwock farm of Shelburne Vt.

Third money went to the 35-to-1 shot Full Bloom, representing A. L. Derby of Wichita, Kas.

Eight started in the mile fixture. Back of the first three came Deanne, Archie Vologda, Guy Paula, Sidney Hanover, the 1948 winner and Demon Hanover, the 1948 Hambletonian Victor and a 3-to-1 second choice.

Proximity shot right to the front and, without ever being fully extended, never was headed. Her time failed to menace her own world record for a half-mile track— 2:01 1-5— set at Roosevelt Raceway last June.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Aug. 25 (AP)—One of the big laughs of the baseball season came when the Yankees and Browns made a big trade last June and President Bill DeWitt of St. Louis said that Tom Ferrick and Joe Ostrowski were worth $250,000 each. . .Ferrick a 35-year-old relief pitcher, had appeared in 16 games for a 1-3 record and 30-year-old Ostrowski had done about as much. . . Some Yank fans, with their sights set on a startling hurler, insisted the pair wasn't as valuable as Wilcy Moore's celebrated pair of mules, Babe and Ruth. . . But if the Yanks should come through to a pennant, nobody would quibble about the evaluation of Ferrick. . .They're already calling him the Wilcy Moore or Joe Page of the 1950 team and the best reliever in the league . . .When Tom Deftly choked off a Tiger rally Wednesday, it was his 19th appearance as a Yank and the 12th of the those games the club had won. He's credited with five victories and two losses. . . It would be a relief to see Tom and the Phils' Jim Konstanty operate in the World Series.

Automatic Out

Bob Garbark, former major-league catcher who coaches baseball at Allegheny College, put in a difficult summer as director of a summer recreation program at Meadville, Pa. . .The biggest and hardest port of his job was answering the multitude of questions the kids fired at him . . . The day after this task ended, Garback was standing on a street corner waiting for the light to change. . . An out-of-state car pulled up and the driver, confused by a missing highway route number leaned out to holler: "Hey, bud, how do I hit 322?" . . . Absent-mindedly, Bob replied: "That's easy. Just get one out of three every day."

When to Fish or Hunt SOLUNAR TABLES by John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar periods as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Use Eastern Daylight Saving time.

Ray Robinson Defends Title Against Basora

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 25 (AP)—For the second time in two weeks Sugar Ray Robinson defends a boxing championship tonight — and once again the Harlem dandy isn't going to become rich for his efforts.

Robinson has been guaranteed a take of $7,500, or 35 percent of the gate, but he owes the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission $1,000 and damage suits totalling some $5,000 are pending against Robinson for running for running out on a previous date with Basora.

The Sugar was supposed to fight Basora here July 16 but bowed out complaining of a sore back. Commission physicians examined him and found nothing wrong with his back.

Two weeks ago Robinson decisioned Charley Fusari in a bout for Robinson's world welterweight title. The sugar gave his purse to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

The odds favoring Robinson vary from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1, but there aren't many takers. Basora is regarded as a solid puncher by no less authority than Robinson, against whom Basora fought a draw five years ago.

As a matter of fact, the Puerto Rican is predicting a victory for himself. He argues that he 'won' the 1945 fight against Robinson and that the draw was unjustified.

Robinson has said little about tonight's fight other than that he doesn't regard Basora lightly.

Lee of Montreal Gains Berth as Starting Pitcher

(By The Associated Press)

Ronnie Lee, precocious lefthander of Montreal Royals and best relief pitcher in the International League, is threatening to crash a berth as a regular starter.

The slender 21-year-old has appeared in 48 games as a relief pitcher, winning 11 and losing four games. Last night he was handed his third starting assignment of the season and came through with his third complete game victory, a brilliant 4-1 four-hit victory over the league-leading Rochester Red Wings.

The triumph moved the second-place Royals to within 7½ games of the Wings, who have 17 games to play, the same number the Royals have left.

The third-place Baltimore Orioles took a pair of games from Syracuse Chiefs, 7-6 and 3-0. Austin Knickerbocker and Russ Kerns drove in three runs each for the Orioles, the former on a three-run homer.

Jersey City Giants snapped their fourth-place tie with Springfield by beating the Cubs 8-1 in the opener of a six-game series. Lefty Roger Bowman scattered eight hits to gain his 14th victory.

Paul Stuffel, young left hander pitched Toronto Maple Leafs to a 4-1 two-hit victory over the last-place Buffalo Bisons. Two walks and on infield out led to the lone Buffalo run.

GOLF CHAMPION

Murray Tucker, 26-year-old former RCAF pilot, blasted his way to the Ontario Open Golf championship in a dramatic upset at Toronto's St. George's Golf and Country Club. Tucker posted 215 for 54 holes on the par-72 course and edged out his former instructor, Gord Brydson, of Mississauga, by one stroke. Brydson, who hired and taught the London Sunningdale pro, said he was "glad" Tucker won the title. (CP Photo).

Sixardee Scores Eight in Eighth To Beat Cubs 11-5

A disastrous eight-run eighth inning cost Belleville Cubs a win last evening as Sixardee took an 11-5 victory in the second game of their best-in-five series for the Belleville and District League title. The teams played to a 3-3 tie in their first meeting at Sixardee last Monday.

For seven innings it was a pitcher's duel with Lefty Sam Ellis hurling three hit ball for the Repairmen and "Cuffer" Noakes doing likewise for the Cubs. Up to this point both pitchers had claimed nine men on strikes.

In the eighth, however, Cubs outfield came apart in distrous fashion as the Sixardee crew rolled for an eight-run inning. Sam Ellis led off getting a life on dropped fly ball to right field. Coursol and Maracle singled and "Jiber" Ellis was safe on another dropped ball in right field. Hastings then smashed one to centre field, that was dropped and that was all for the "Cuffer" who retired to the bench in a state of high dudgeon. Chuck Barriage came in to halt the carnage and was greeted with a single by Maloney. Gibson then rapped one to second which Neilson missed. Schrieder then missed it and by the time the relay came in Gibson was on third. Jordan bunted safely and Christie singled Jordan, who delayed too long on Christie's bunt and was tagged at the plate. Sam Ellis, up for the second time doubled to left field. Coursol went out second to first and Maracle struck out.

Two singles and a walk in the first inning gave Sixardee their first two runs and they added a third in the fifth when Christie, who had walked, stole all the way home. Such was the Cubs consternation on seeing him streak for the plate that Noakes balked in delivering to Elliott and he was home free. Altogether Christie made life miserable for the Cub flingers stealing five bases.

First in Fifth

Cubs garnered their first run in the fifth when Lockyer, who went all the way to second on an error to the shortstop came home an two wild pitches. The Cubs added two more in the sixth with Neilson, who singled, and Reeves, who walked, riding home on Bob Bunton's triple to left field. The triple shrank all the way to a single and an out however, when base umpire Pointer ruled that Bunton failed to touch second. The wails were ghastly in their volume and violence.

Cubs collected their final pair in the ninth. Moynes singled, Barriage walked and Jones singled. Sam Ellis contributed two wild pitches and that was that. Schrieder closed proceedings with a pop up to second.

Lineups:

Sixardee: Coursol c; Maracle 2b, replaced by L'Heureux in 8th; C. Ellis 3b; Hastings rf; Maloney lf; Gibson 1b; Istead cf, replaced by Jordan in 5th; Christie ss; S. Ellis p.

No Pot, No Gamble Is Judge's Ruling

Springfield, O., Aug. 25. (AP)—The centre of the table is the heart of a gambling game, Acting Municipal Judge Aaron J. Halloran ruled yesterday.

And, if it's gambling, the pot must be where the heart is.

Halloran had before him six men charged with gambling at cards. Police said each player had money on the table, but none in the centre.

Brewers Climb Into First Place Tie With Plumbers

Brewers Warehouse climbed back into a first place tie with Howe and Hagerman in the Commercial Softball League A race last evening as they edged the Plumbers 3-2 in a thrilling game at the Alemite Field. It was the final schedule game for both teams who finished in first place with eight wins and two losses each. A playoff to decide the ultimate first place finisher will be held at a date to be announced.

Brewers were at full value for the win last evening giving Bob Green's five-hit pitching superb support in the field. Although Brewers connected for 11 hits off Plumber hurler Bob Hunter, it was a fifth inning defensive lapse that gave Brewers their winning margin.

Brewers opened the scoring with two tallies in the fifth. Whiting led off with a single and went to second on a passed ball. Green tapped one to third base. Mallory, playing first for Marty Fitzgibbon, missed the relay and Whiting scored. Barriage popped out to short and Wood got a life on an error to Mike Tomaso. Halsey walked to load the bases, and then Goyer hit one to third that was bobbled as Green scored. Hurrie rolled to third with Wood being forced at the plate. Nolan ended the inning going down short to first.

Final in Ninth

Brewers added their final run in the ninth with singles by Barriage, Halsey and Goyer doing the damage.

Howe and Hagerman counted their two runs in the bottom of the ninth, with Al Adams dramatic pinch hit home run driving in John Bawden, who had walked.

Green claimed the victory for Brewers walking five, striking out nine, and giving up five hits for two runs. Bob Hunter walked one, and struck out five.

Best at the plate were Halsey and Whiting of the Brewers with two for four, and Ed Donovan of the Plumbers with two singles in four tries.

NORMAL AUGUST LULL

Fort William, Aug. 25 (CP) — Shipping movements a tthe Lakehead are scanty but steamship and elecator officials here say the reduced activity has no connection with the rail strike. It's just a normal August lnull.

L. C. Irwin of Searle Grain Company said the strike may make some difference in shipments if it is prolonged but there is no shortage of grain in storage here.

An estimated 26,000,000 bushels of grain are in Lakehead elevators.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 25—(AP) —Miriam Hopkins is a charming woman who reels off good stories at a rapid clip and then adds, "of course, that's off the record."

Somehow I got on the record the story of why she turned down a chance to play Sir Laurence Olivier's wife in his new Hollywood movie. At least I think she meant it for print. If not, let's all forget we heard it.

Nearly every actress of sound mind would give her last mink to appear with the great Olivier. Miss Hopkins agrees with this thesis. But there are other considerations, she declared.

"When Willie Wyler sent me the script, I thought it was fine," she said. "But I thought the character of the wife needed more motivation. I don't mean the part was too small; size doesn't matter. But the wife needed to be understood for the good of the whole story.

"I made some suggestions to Willie and he seemed to like them. But he didn't know if he would be able to work them into the script."

Then came budget trouble. The studio already had a big investment in the picture and said it couldn't afford Miss Hopkins' usual fee.

"Of course, I would do the part for nothing, because of the people involved," she vowed. "But that wouldn't be wise.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

An expert steams up with endeavor to make his trite sayings seem clever. To make an impression he flaunts the expression: In bridge you must never say never.

Rules definitely say: Lead the highest of a sequence; lead the suit your partner has bid; in the suit partner has bid, lead highest of three or less or the fourth from the highest of four.

These are standard rules every player needs. Never should he ignore them until he knows when to deviate and why. Deviations may then be determined by fusing rules with known facts or policies.

Suppose you hold four cards containing two honors in sequence at the top. If partner has bid the suit, do not lead the 4th best. Lead the highest of your two touching honors.

This is not a guess. It is a logical conclusion. Expect partner to hold at least one honor in the suit he has bid. The lead of your honor card is thus the top of a sequence held by your pair.

Actually, therefore, this is not truly a deviation. It is right down the old alley where rule abides. In the combined sequence held by your pair it is a top card lead; in the first choice lead group.

♣ Q J 6 3

Ordinarily you would lead fourth from you highest in the club suit containing four cards. Unless it has a complete or incomplete sequence at its top. But if partner has bid the suit you would lead the top if it held only two cards in sequence.

So, in this case your lead is the club queen. Whether partner holds the ace or king or ten it would be in a sequence group. And it may be assumed he has one of these cards if he bid the suit.

The rules that start with never are meant as hardly ever.

AT THE BELLE — Van Johnson and Elizabeth Taylor make their first appearance together on the Belle screen today only as the stars of "The Big Hangover," MGM's novel comedy of a guy who goes haywire at the first sniff of spirits ,and the girl who cures him. The new laugh hit was written, directed and produced by Norman Krasna.

Little Benny's Note Book

All of a sudden pop jumped out of his private chair and shook his hand, saying to ma, Owtch, why didn't you tell me the arm of my chair was brissling with pins? Yee gods, you mite at least put up a sine saying, "Danger, pins at werk," he said.

Oh dear, I forgot I pinned up that loose slip cover, ma said I meant to sew it before you got home, but I didn't get to it, she said, and pop said, I got to it. Four pins bit me, he said.

Now William, that's impossible, I meen there are only 3 pins there, ma said, and pop said, Then one of them took a dubble snap at me.

And he sat down careful on the other side of the chair, and then quick jumped up again, saying, Owtch, for Peet sake there's pins on that side too. Horse blanket to blazes, I'm being attacked from all sides, he said.

Well naturelly, when a slip cover is loose, it's loose on both sides, you must know that ma said and pop said, Why must I, was I ever a slip cover?

Oh, dont raise sutch an abused hue and cry, ma said. A child would know better than to fling himself down twice in the same nest of pins, so you must of done it delibritly in an underhand attempt to make me feel gilty, she said, and pop said, My dear, you're rite, I should of known better. A man that's married to a pin woman should have enough sense to wear leather gauntlets around the house. I owe you an apology, he said.

Being sourcastic, and ma took the whole slip cover off of the chair on account of not wanting to disterb the pins, and she still claimed it was pop's fault, and pop claimed it's a woman's werld and probably always will be.

C. of E. Believes In Virgin Birth Says Archbishop

London, Aug. 25 (AP) — The Church of England still believes that the virgin birth of Christ is "a fact of history," the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, said Thursday.

He took sharp issue with Dr. C. J. Wright, a professor in the church's St. Augustine College, who told the conference of the modern Churchmen's Union last week that scholars are far from confident that the Bible story of the virgin birth is correct.

The Church of England, Dr. Fisher said in a formal statement "holds and proclaims the doctrine of the virgin birth as portrayed in the scripture and the creed to be a fact of history by means of which our Lord Jesus Christ came down from heaven and was made man for our salvation."

Dr. Fisher said St. Augustine's College, now preparing prospective candidates for ordination to matriculation in universities, will next month become a central Anglican college for training priests. "When it becomes a full college, he said, Dr. Wright "will have no connection" with its staff.

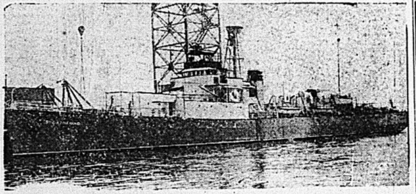
NEW WEATHER SHIP



The former naval frigate St. Catharine will sail for the west coast within the next six weeks as a weather ship with the Department of Transport. The vessel was refitted at Sorel, Que., and the job is being completed at Halifax. The ship will be commanded by Capt. J. P. Sleight, who served on her during the Second World War. — (CP Photo.)

Power Rationing In Saskatoon To Save Fuel

Saskatoon, Aug. 25—(CP)—The rail strike has brought a war-style blackout to this prairie city of 50,000 souls.

Last night pedestrians stumbled and groped down pitch-black streets in residential areas. On most there was no light at all.

There was a full moon, but it didn't help. Trees lining almost every street cut off its rays.

On Second Avenue, main street of Saskatchewan's second-largest city, all neon lights were out. Three street lights in every four were extinguished. The only illumination came from lights in cafe windows and from occasional automobile headlights.

The one spot of brightness in the city was the Bessborough Hotel, operating under difficulties because most of its staff is on strike.

The power-house switches were pulled yesterday and for a couple of hours the city had no electricity for ordinary use. At 4:30 p.m. power was restored so housewives could cook the evening meal. After that, nothing but electricity for lighting purposes was made available.

WORLD'S VOLCANOES

In historical times there have been 430 volcanoes with recorded eruptions.

SUFFERS SEVERE BURNS

London, Ont., Aug. 25—(CP)—Fred Clipperton, 32, was admitted to hospital here Thursday night with severe burns to the face, arms, shoulders and chest received when an explosion rocked his home at 14 Boullie Street off its foundations.

Clipperton had started down into the basement of his bungalow, with two matches, to see where the smell of gas was coming from when the blast occurred. His wife, two-month-old son and his father escaped injury.

NIAGARA FALLS

Because it is fed by four of the Great Lakes, Niagara has the steadiest flow of all the great waterfalls.

Crippled by Polio, Now Radio Operator

Geraldton, Ont. (CP) —Handicapped by crippling effects of infantile paralysis, Jean Calder is an efficient radio operator for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests here. She walks with the aid of two canes and works a daily eight-hour shift.

Now 25, Miss Calder was born at Kintore, near London, and when only 18 months old was stricken with poliomyelitis.

Undaunted by her disability, Jean was driven to school for seven years and when 18 obtained her senior matriculation at London Central Collegiate. Her graduation was "the most wonderful moment" of her life.

For some time she was engaged in life insurance work, but developed a liking for radio and as a ham operator was introduced to Elliott Davis, chief of the radio division of the department of lands and forests. A year later the department offered her a job at Geraldton and she has worked here ever since.

"Her sunny disposition goes a long way in our office," he said. "We are fortunate in having an operator of her calibre."

ALL CREW SAFE

Hong Kong, Aug. 25 (AP) — A terse telegram from Shanghai to the Jebshun Shipping Company read: "All crew members safe, ship sank." Received last night, that message was the final word on the erstwhile British blockade-runner Jeep Hee. The 1,000-ton freighter struck a mine in the Yangtze estuary Wednesday morning en route with general cargo to Shanghai from Hong Kong.

The Gentle Heart

By Kay Hamilton

"But—" Jenny began when Natalie added "Mrs. Henlo wanted to make them but Di seemed to think she ought to make them herself, so don't be surprised if they're black on top and watery underneath"

They were just that, but Jenny did not mind. The very fact that Diane had wanted to cook them for her made them taste twice as good as any custard she had ever eaten before. Diane stayed for dinner that night and Fred joined them. Afterwards wonder of wonders he and Diane did the dishes, and Natalie and Brent sat with Jenny in the living room.

"Half an hour, and then you must go to bed," Natalie warned her. "We're going to keep rigidly to Dr. Higbee's schedule." She settled down on a cushion at Jenny's feet. "We have a lot to catch up on," she said abruptly. " I hope you weren't too worried that night when I didn't get home for dinner I did try to reach you by phone, but the phone service was disrupted where we were celebrating, on account of the snow, I suppose—and I couldn't put the call through."

Jenny closed her eyes and in that moment of need all her strength returned. She said calmly, "I did worry, of course. But I knew there must be a reason. Where were you Nat?"

Natalie said fiercely, "I'll never do such a thing again going off without telling what I was going to do! But oh Jenny, I was afraid to talk about it—afraid that it might not come off after all. Brent said it would, but I couldn't quite believe it."

Jenny said, "You met at the City Hall at two-thirty. Perhaps I can guess the rest."

Natalie's dark head was thrown back in surprise, and she stared at her sister with widened eyes. "However did you know?"

"I found Brent's notation in your bedroom when I straightened up that day."

Natalie's hand reached up to clasp hers. "Then you did understand. Oh, I so glad! You see, Brent was sure things would go smoothly, he had made all the arrangements, but I didn't actually believe Gary would be there until I saw him with my own eyes. We had planned to be married yesterday, but of course we've put it off now."

"Gary!" It was barely a whisper but Jenny's heart seemd to be up in her throat, choking off utterance. "Gary!"

"Yes." Natalie had not even noticed her sudden lack of composure so intent she was on her own story. "He finally came around to seeing my side of it, Jen, but it was Brent who made him see it. He is the most stubborn man!" She said it with real pride. "And if he hadn't had a really substantial raise and a year-end bonus as well I don't know if even Brent's arguments would have won out. Will you mind if we all live here together, Jen? Some day, we'll have our own house, of course although I'll still want to work here in the studio. But Brent and I have practically covered the housing situation and there isn't anything decent that we can afford right now. Will you mind?"

"I'll love having you," Jenny said with conviction. "Besides, it's partly your house, you know."

Natalie chuckled. "Gary insists on paying rent, and don't argue with him about it, Jenny. You'd never win the argument, and I might lose him again."

Then Jenny said something which had been bothering her.

But why do you want to be married in New York state?" she asked. "Why did you get your license in the city?"

"But we won't be!" Natalie protested "We didn't! Where did you get that idea? Oh, I know! Brent, it's your fault. You said 'City Hall' instead of 'Town Hall' on that slip of paper you gave me."

"Just a hopelessly metropolitan creature," Brent said mournfully. "But I'm trying to get in tune with small town life. I'd better, if I'm going to live in one for the rest of my life."

That night Jenny slept deeply with a peace which came from many factors. It was wonderful to be back in her own home again. It was wonderful to be wrapped so warmly in her sisters' love. Best of all, it was wonderful to know that it was Gary who had won Natalie's heart and that Brent had only been acting as a friend and go-between.

On Christmas day it rained The partially melted snow turned into deep slush. But within doors it was cozy and delightful. Brent had worked long the night before to put up their tree and Natalie had helped him trim it. Diane and Fred were there to spend the day, and Mrs. Henlo had come over to make sure that they had something tasty to eat.

The entire morning was spent in unwrapping gifts in shouting over the cards in calling back and forth to one another to "Come, look at this!" Jenny sat enthroned in the exact centre of the hubbub, with waves of tissue paper billowing around her. She had on a soft ble house-coat and wore a blue ribbon in her hair.

Diane had given her a creamy satin nightgown with inserted bands of ecru lace. It looked very costly and Jenny did not doubt that it had been. Natalie presented her with a pair of pigskin gloves and a vivd silk scarf which was printed with one of her own designs. An added gift was a card wrapped in layers of boxes which said simply: "This constitutes an order for one (1) electric ironer to be selected by you."

Jenny said, "But you shouldn't Nat, they're horribly expensive! Have you any idea of what they cost?"

"Of course silly! I've been pricing them all over the map But I didn't dare pick one out because you know so much more about that sort of thing."

Jenny was touched Natalie knew how she hated ironing and this would make her housework so very much easier. She said, "Then you must let me pay for part of it, Nat. You'll be needing your money now."

"Nonsense! And anyhow, I expect to go on making money. I'm not going to stop working just because I'm going to get married."

Brent was looking rather sober. His gift was a handsome alligator bag, yet when Jenny exclaimed over it, he waved her thanks aside "It's nothing," he said gloomily. "I had hoped." But he did not finish the sentence and would not say another word.

He was happy about her gift for him, however. She had sent for a special sketching pen with a lifetime ink supply which she had heard him admire and he was engaged in thanking her for it when the Lords came over. Faith was bearing a large holly-sprigged plum pudding and Max carried a couple of bottles of wine. "To make the cheery season even cheerier," they said in one breath.

"I wish you could have come to our house for Christmas dinner," Faith said, when she had kissed Jenny and looked at her gifts. "But of course if Dr. Higbee says no, no it is. And you do have all your family with you."

"Yes." Jenny said with a full heart looking around the cluttered living room letting her eyes rest fondly in one happy face after another. "Still it was sweet of you to ask us."

A pounding of feet on the porch and a peal of the doorbell interrupted her. All three of the men leaped for the door at once, and there was a momentary traffic jam in the hall. Then once the door was opened there was shouting and scuffling and sounds of great hilarity.

"What on earth?" Jenny tried to peer around the corner of the wing chair but couldn't make it. "Who is it?" she wondered aloud.

"Merry Cthristmas!" It was a shout of pure joy from Dick. He staggered into the living room being pulled in a series of jerks and rushes by a small black scottie pup "Look Jenny! Look what Elsa gave me! Isn't he the cutest little fella you ever saw? Look at his coat! And his paws how big they are! And his jaw — Golly he's going to be powerful when he grows up! And listen, Jenny, Elsa says she's going to make him a plaid coat like the one you gave Ghillie to wear this kind of weather. She didn't think I ought to take him out today but I said Gee, I had to show him to you didn't I?"

He paused for breath and Jenny reaching down to pat the curious puppy who was sniffling rapturously at all the tissue paper wrapping and around the edge of the rug said. " I think that's the most wonderful present you could possibly have, Dick. Isn't he sweet? What is his name?"

"Bruce," he said promptly. "How do you like it?"

"It's perfect," she assured him Then, with a twinkle, "Do you think Ghillie's nose will be out of joint Dick?"

But he took her seriously. "Oh I hope not! I wouldn't want him to feel—I still think Ghillie's tops Maybe," he said with sudden inspiration. "they'll be friends."

"I shouldn't wonder. You must show him to Mrs. Folsom and let them get acquainted right away. She can tell you how to raise him, too."

"I'm going to teach Bruce all the tricks that Ghillie knows," he said with complete confidence "and I've thought of a couple more. Boy, you're going to be one busy pup," he told the unconscious Bruce, who had discovered Jenny's hand was licking her finger-tips tentatively. She scratched him under the jaw, and he stood with his head raised.

Fruit Growers Worrying About Losing Crops

Harrow, Aug. 25 (CP) — Although the ripening of peaches has been delayed by cool nights, fruit growers in this Essex County district said they would lose part of their crop next week unless rail traffic is resumed.

Thousands of baskets are being moved by truck and one brewing company has offered its fleet of trucks to move the peaches. Trucks are available to move fruit to Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa markets but more distant markets in Quebec, the Martimes and Winnipeg can not be supplied.

Canning plants have started processing tomato crops, which were also delayed by cool weather, and it was reported that supplies of cans and coal will be sufficient to process the crop.

MAY BE HELD UP

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP) —Highway paving and repair work in Northern Ontario may be held up by a shortage of asphalt if the railway strike lasts more than another week, Deputy Highways Minister J. D. Miller said Thursday.

In Southern Ontario the situation wil not be so serious because asphalt can be brought in tank trucks from Port Colborne, Ont., and Montreal. The department at times requires two cars of asphalt a day.

HAVE INDEPENDENT TRANSMITTER

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP)—Windsor's Fire Department will soon have a $2,300 radio transmitter to complete the independent radio communication system linking the department with key prices of equipment.

At present, radio receivers have been installed in two key fire trucks and in the cars of deputy fire chiefs and the assistant fire chief. Messages to these units have been broadcast by the Windsor Police radio.

Approval for the purchase of the fire department's transmitter was given yesterday by the City Board of Control.

Facilities Are In Danger of Bogging Down

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP) — A spokesman for Southern Ontario trucking companies said Thursday emergency rail-strike facilities are in danger of bogging down.

G. M. Parke, president of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, said in a statement that truckers agree "this weekend may well be the straw that breaks the camel's back."

But serious trouble can be avoided if steps are taken to relieve the increasing congestion of highway-transport facilities, he said after an emergency meeting of Toronto truckers.

"Shippers and receivers can help in this great crisis by extending their normal receiving hours Friday night until at least 10 p.m. By so doing they will let us empty our vehicles and thus be ready to continue our 24-hour emergency transport operation," he said.

British Troops On Their Way To Korean War

The Ist battalions of the Middlesex Regiment, aboard the aircraft carrier Unicorn, and the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, aboard the cruiser Ceylon, pulled away from the dock at 6 p.m. local time.

They had gone up the gangplanks in high spirits — with bands playing, pipes skirling shrilly and grins on most faces.

The British Commissioner for southeast Asia, Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, addressed the men briefly as they lined up in full field-service kit, carrying rifles, before going aboard.

Speaking from the deck of the cruiser Ceylon under a glaring sun, he told men of the Argylls drawn up on the wharf below that they would soon drive the communists out of South Korea "and take a look at North Korea too."

Though Commonwealth sailors and fliers are already in action, so far the harsh land fighting had been done by South Koreans and Americans, he said.

"It is up to you now to show the world the valor and unconquerable spirit of the British people," he declared.

EIGHTEEN KILLED ON MILITARY HOSPITAL SHIP

No Indications of Early End to Crippling Stoppage

Ottawa, Aug. 26—(CP)—A high union source said today that no "quick settlement" of the rail wage dispute is in sight and that the new round of strike settlement talks may go on all weekend.

The informant said he had heard of reports being circulated expressing "undue optimism" but that these were unfounded. The resumption of negotiations last night had produced little progress.

This prediction of no early end to the crippling stoppage of Canada's transport came as a new round of talks went on today between railways and unions.

Brought on personally by Prime Minister St. Laurent, the new negotiations started last night and then recessed until 11 a. m. EDT today after an initial session at which company - union spokesmen said there had been "useful discussions."

But they gave no clue to how far the discussions had moved in the direction of a settlement, and later a union officer who participated told a reporter that "very little progress" had been made.

He cautioned against "undue optimism" for an early settlement that would get trains rolling again after four days of paralysis brought on by the wage-hour walkout of 124,000 employees that started Tuesday morning.

In the first night meeting of two hours and 20 minutes, this informant said, there was little retreat by either the railroads or the unions from the point where they stood when the pre-strike negotiations collapsed shortly before the Tuesday strike deadline.

Further, he said, the negotiations at the breaking-off point last night had not reached the stage of discussion on one point on which both sides so far have been adamant.

Want Equal Treatment

That is the question of including hotel and water-transport employees in the main terms of settlement. The railways, in their latest compromise offer to the unions just before the strike, offered the hotel-water employees wage increases on a smaller scale than those of the bulk of the other employees.

Air Transport Board Tightens Regulations

Ottawa, Aug. 26 — (CP)—The Air Transport Board Friday tightened its rail-strike emergency measures.

Moving against air travellers who book plane passage and then don't show up at airports, it authorized air lines to refuse them refunds and seats on alternative flights.

John Baldwin, board chairman, told a press conference that this step has been taken along with others as a means of easing the heavy transportation burden on Canada's air carriers.

The emergency authority will be in the hands of the carriers today. It was granted as a result of complaints by the carriers that some persons, fearing they may not get transportation by other means, are booking air passage ahead, and then failing to show up on time to take their seats.

"As a result, some planes are taking off with empty seats," said Mr. Baldwin. "This is a serious problem which must be solved."

These persons now not only can be refused seats on alternative flights, but also will go to the bottom of the list of those requiring air passage.

Priorities Established

Earlier, the A. T. B. after consultation with the carriers issued a schedule of priorities on air travel which may be invoked either by the air lines or by the A. T. B. should the transport situation worsen.

Mr. Baldwin said a committee of government and commercial carrier officials also has recommended and the A. T. B. has authorized:

1. Non-scheduled carriers who have about 90 large and small aircraft at their disposal to fly over scheduled routes carrying cargo. This breach of the regulations will be allowed for the duration of the rail strike.
2. These non-scheduled carriers also have been authorized to work in close liaison with scheduled carriers in the movement of passengers.

Mr. Baldwin said the committee also has recommended that customs regulations on the importation of foreign aircraft be relaxed so further aircraft may be brought into Canada quickly if needed.

"Every effort will be made to meet this request," Mr. Baldwin said.

Sister Mary Emerita Dies in Toronto

Toronto, Aug 26—(CP)—Sister Mary Emerita, Superior of Rosary Hall in Toronto, died yesterday. She was stricken while leading a period of spiritual reading and prayer on the 33rd anniversary of Providence.

The former Veronica Barry, she was born at Morrisburg, Ont., entered the order at Kingston and trained in Providence Hospital at Moose Jaw. She is survived by a brother, Capt. Murray Barry of Kingston, and two sisters, Sister M. Borgis of Gananoque and Sister M. Leonard of Kingston.

Court Cold To Tall Story

Windsor, Aug. 26 (CP) — Oliver Ignace, 27, is awaiting sentence next Thursday on a charge of attempted breaking and entering, just because Magistrate W. MacMillan did not believe his story.

As Ignace told it, he was on his way home late at night after celebrating his finding of a new job. He was passing through an alley when he saw a cat trapped on a hydro pole.

He climbed up to rescue the cat, got scratched panicked and then found his arm plunging through the second-story window of a doctor's office.

Seeing two men beneath him he thought they meant him some harm and jumped squarely on to the head of one of them. He discovered then that they were police.

Modern Romeo, Juliet Hide in Hills As Families' Feelings Flame Into War

Athens, Greece, Aug. 26 (AP) —A 20th century real-life parallel to Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet threatened today to flame into war in the mountains of Crete.

What the Montagus were to the Capulets so the Kephaloyannis have been to the Petracogeorgis on Crete these last 40 years, and so—

When Constine Kephaloyannis kidnapped his sweetheart, 19-year-old Stassoula Petracoggeorgi, from the public square in the Cretan capital of Herakleion four days ago, families, friends, and authorities feared the worst.

Constantine is supposed to have vowed to kill himself and the girl rather than be separated by the family feud.

The hot-eyed young men of Crete were said to be choosing sides in the vendetta involving the girl's father, a Liberal member in the Greek Parliament, and the boy's brother, a Royalist M.P.

So tense is the situation that the Governor-General, the metropolitan of the Greek Orthodox Church, and the chiefs of the gendarmerie have hurried to prevent an explosion.

ARMY DRAWS UP PLANS TO RUN U.S. RAILROADS

Truman Directs Roads Be Seized by Govt.

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—The United States army today drew up its plans for running the country's railroads until the owners and two disputing unions can agree on operating terms.

President Truman yesterday directed army secretary Frank Pace to take over the 131 major railroads in the United States at 5 pm. EDT tomorrow. This led the trainmen and conductors unions to call off plans for a country-wide walkout Monday of their 300,000 members.

So the president's seizure order restored peace for the time being, and assured that the trains will keep running. The unions said their members would "gladly" work for the government.

But the justice department was ready with the necessary legal papers to rush in for a court injunction Monday in the event of any hitch in the announced decision to work.

Both sides in the 18-month dispute suggested that their differences now might be allowed to simmer for a while. The unions called the seizure order a "tremendous victory", because they had been urging such action since Aug. 4.

Relieves Pressure

Actually, however, seizure relieves pressure from both sides. The carriers will operate as usual without the threat of a strike hanging over their heads. The unions won't have to worry about militance in behalf of their demands because strike action seems out.

Drew and Liberal M.P. Leave by Plane for Canada

Lonodon, Aug 26 —(CP)—Two harassed members of Canada's Parliament went aboard an RCAF North Star airliner which took off from Northolt Airport Friday night for Montreal carrying 25 Canadian Air Cadets who have just concluded a three-week good-will tour of Britain.

The parliamentarians were Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew and Leon D. Crestohl, Liberal member for Montreal Cartier. Both abruptly called off European vacations to rush back home for the session of Parliament summoned to deal with the railway strike.

Both had a hectic time making connectons to catch tonight's flight. Drew for whom the airliner's departure was delayed 24 hours made it in a charted plane from Italy, where he had been holidaying with his family.

Crestohl arrived in Liverpool this morning on the Empress of France reached London shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon and was on his way back to Canada by 6 o'clock in the evening.

N. Korean Forces Pulled Back From Blistering Fire of U.S. Guns in Corridor North of Taegu

Tokyo, Aug. 26 (AP) —Mangled communist Korean forces pulled back today from the blistering fire of American big guns in the Kumwha "death trap" corridor north of Taegu.

But 13 miles eastward, spearheads of at least 20,000 communists hammered at South Korean forces on the seventh consecutive day of the furious battle for Taegu.

In a slashing counter-attack, the South Koreans erased the initial red gain of one mile near Chongo. Today's fighting brought no reported change in positions.

Field officers told AP correspondent Don Whitehead that the enemy troops were cut up so badly that they could not launch a new attack in less than 10 days.

These officers said the immediate threat to Taegu in that sector is ended.

One said the effectiveness of the three beaten red divisions—30,000 men and the 20,000 North Koreans to the east—was "cut in half."

United States and South Korean infantrymen, and allied air power joined in the blow that hurled back the three red divisions.

All along the 120-mile battle perimeter in South Korea the allies either advanced or held on to positions.

Under Fire Six Days

The U.S. infantrymen, who for the last six days and nights have been under fire repelled a red assault on Mount Sobuk, a vital observation position 15 miles west of Masan, southern gateway to Pusan port.

On the northern front, two south Korean divisions opened the second day of a co-ordinated assault north of Pohang on the east coast.

The 3rd division made slight gains around Hunghae five miles north of Pohang. But to the west, the capitol division was fighting to regain two miles lost to a red attack Friday.

The battle was 37 miles eastward of the Taegu offensive. It was a separate action.

Low Point Passed

An estimated 20,000 communists have dug formidable defensive positions in a holding battle to pin down allied troops north of the vital Pohang airstrip.

Other sectors have been limited to patrol action and artillery exchange a spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said.

Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Pacific fleet commander, said at Pearl Harbor after returning from Korea that "the low point has been passed."

The reds threw more men into the Kumwha corridor battle than had been reported.

North Korean commanders massed three infantry divisions of 30,000 men. They supported these with an armored brigade mounting 40 tanks, a regiment of artillery and a motorized regiment.

This force tried to drive through two American regiments and a south Korean division. It stalled in the corridor.

Mother of Five Children Knocked Unconscious by Lightning Bolt

Mrs. Roy Willman, of the 14th Concession of Rawdon township is still semi-conscious this morning after being struck by a bolt of lightning Friday evening during the severe electrical and rain storm.

Mrs. Willman, who is the mother of five children, was sitting by the stove in her home when the lightning bolt struck, knocking her unconscious. She was taken to the office of Dr. H. G. Parkin at Marmora and later to the Lawlor Nursing Home.

This accident climaxes a series of misfortunes sustained by the Willman family in the past year. Last year one of the daughters was stricken with polio and just recently returned home from treatment in Kingston General Hospital. Her husband is still in a cast from a back injury suffered last year.

Magistrate Rules Park Can be Gaming House

Toronto, Aug. 26 (CP) —Magistrate T. S. Elmore ruled yesterday that a park can be a common gaming house.

In a decision that may set a precedent for Canadian courts, he convicted John Leschuk, Abraham Bluwol and Cecil Smith of keeping common gaming house and fined them $100 or a week in jail.

The defence claimed the men could not be convicted because the park could not be designated as a gaming house or place. Magistrate Elmore ruled that section 227 of the criminal code defined "place" as "any place whether or not its use is the exclusive right of the user."

REBELS SWARM OUT OF HILLS

Manila, Aug. 26—(AP)—Communist-led rebels swarmed out of the hills and swamps of Luzon island last night in terrifying raids on 11 towns and constabulary camps. They left 147 dead and 22 missing in the wake of their worst rampage.

They struck as the Phillippines was arming 5,000 troops for the Korea conflict.

Senators Urge Establishment Of UN Police Force

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP) — group of 16 Senators and 15 members of the House of Representatives urged today the establishment of a United Nations police froce, made up of volunteers from small countries, to aid in combatting aggression.

The force would operate under an arrangement designed to prevent a Russian veto of action to quell aggression.

The proposed police force would consist of land, sea and air forces, directed by a nine-member "police authority" — three from the United States, three from the British Commonwealth and France and three collectively elected by the smaller member states. Its decisions would be by simple majority vote.

Major Earthquake In East Aleutians

Cleveland O., Aug. 26—(AP)—A major earthquake at 12:48:20 a.m. EDT today at the eastern edge of the Aleutians was recorded on the John Carroll University seismograph.

Officials said the quake registered about 3,400 miles northwest of Cleveland.

The Aleutians are characterized by quakes close to the surface of the earth. The quakes usually are strong enough to cause tidal waves if they occur off the coast.

BEAVERTON BANK HELD UP, ROBBED BY THREE MEN

Unknown Amount of Cash, Securities Taken

Beaverton, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP) —The Canadian Bank of Commerce Branch in this village 75 miles north of Toronto was robbed today by three men.

No details were available immediately.

The men escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

The holdup occurred 10 minutes after the bank opened. Two customers and the bank staff were threatened by guns held by two of the men.

Cash Scooped up

The third man waited outside in a new-model car.

The gunmen ordered the staff and two customers to kneel. One bandit jumped over the counter, entered the tellers' cages and scooped up the cash.

The other man pointed his gun at Jack Hawk, acting manager of the bank, and told him to "open the vault."

Hawk obeyed. The gunman entered, picked up a bundle of securities and walked out. In his haste he missed a considerable amount of cash.

As both men ran from the bank toward the waiting car, Jim McLaughlin, a teller, picked up a revolver and followed them out.

He fired two shots but, because children were playing nearby, he stopped shooting while the car was still in range.

In the bank at the time of the holdup were customers Russell Morrison of Thorah township and Thomas Leemar of Beaverton. One of the holdup men pushed Morrison to his knees, the other spun Leemar around and ordered him to face the wall.

Others in the bank were William Dollar, teller, and Lois Clement and June Chambers, accountants.

Girl Suffering From Two Types Of Polio Dies

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—Essex county's second poliomyelitis death this summer occurred last night at Fred Adams Isolation Hospital. The victim was a Windsor girl, Dorothy McManus, 23, who had suffered a combination of two types of polio, the paralyzing spinal type and the bulbar type, which affects the respiratory system.

No further polio cases have been reported in the county in the last 60 hours and there has been no other changes in present cases. Total number of county polio cases remained at 32 for the summer.

San Francisco, Aug. 26 — (AP) — To a man, survivors of the sunken hospital ship Benevolence talked of the bitter cold as they came ashore at the fog - shrouded docks at Fort Mason.

The shocked survivors were landed at the arc-lighted docks—along with the injured and dead — with their teeth still chattering so that some could hardly talk.

Those who had been working in the ship's engine-room had endured for hours the icy water of the foggy Pacific, four miles off the Golden Gate.

Many survivors said they felt two shocks when the Benevolence and the freighter Mary Luckenbach collided.

John Graham, 44, navy chief hospitalman was in the messhall when the crash came. He said:

"We ran to the boat deck and grabbed a line and slid over the side. First I was in the water, then I found a loaded life raft and climbed aboard. Looking back, I saw the ship rolling over until her stack was under water. She seemed to go down bow first."

"When the crash came," said Joseph Uzarewich, 25, a merchant sailor, "The tables in the mess hall started flying all over hell. I ran up the boat deck and down the ladder. I landed in the water and was in there about two hours until I got picked up."

Carl Totten, San Francisco, junior third officer, said he climbed aboard a life raft and threw out life jackets to those in the water.

"The men in the water formed life rings, holding hands in a circle," be related. "This kept the men without life preservers on the surface.

"About half the men were in the water and about half in life rafts. We changed off, some of us giving the men in the water a place on the raft to give them a rest. Everyone was really co-operating with everyone else."

Chief Boatswains Mate H. L. Runnells, said men were hanging on to anything they could find — boxes, railings, "anything that would float."

Freighter Plows Into Ship in Fog Off San Francisco

Keep Toll From Appalling Total by Heroic Efforts

San Francisco, Aug. 26—(AP)—A Luckenbach freighter plowed into the military hospital ship Benevolence in dense fog off the Golden Gate yesterday afternoon in a maritime disaster which left at least 18 dead and many missing.

The Benevolence, only recently pulled out of the reserve fleet for duty in the Korean war zone, sank in 15 minutes, spilling her hundreds of crew members, medical personnel and cruise passengers into the dark and dangerous waters four miles off the gate.

Only heroic efforts of coast guard, fishing boats and other rescue craft kept casualties from appalling totals. Early today the navy said 479 persons had been accounted for. The number aboard the big ship was estimated as high as 545, but that was uncertain. Nobody seemed to know exactly how many were aboard the Benevolence when she sailed on a test run Friday morning. She carried, in addition to official personnel, many persons along just for the cruise.

The Mary Luckenback, steaming out of the gate with a general cargo for gulf and east-coast ports, hit the Benevolence amidships, apparently ripping her wide open and sending her down so fast that only one lifeboat could be launched. A number of life rafts put over the side saved many lives.

Coast Guard Stands By

The Coast Guard stood by the wreckage of the hospital ship early today. She was almost totally submerged, lying on her side, just below the surface. A cutter marked the derelict with a searchlight to safeguard other vessels.

New Fire Alarm Easier on Nerves

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—The fire department's last 16-inch gong has been replaced by a six-inch type that is much better. Fire Commissioner Harold R. Becker figures the new gongs will be "easier on the nerves and probably cause less heart trouble."

Exports to U.S. Reach New High During July

Ottawa, Aug. 26 (CP)—Canada's exports to the United States reached new heights during July, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Shipments to that country totalled $170,700,000, a jump of about 50 per cent over the $106,000,000 exported during July, 1949. Imports from that country climbed, too, during the month from $160,300,000 to $172,000,000, but the imports increase of $12,000,000 was sharply below the big exports advance of $64,700,000.

Thus, Canada's traditional adverse balance of trade with the U.S.—cause of much of Canada's dollar worries—narrowed sharply from $54,300,000 in July, 1949, to $1,300,000.

The bureau's figures on foreign trade were of a preliminary nature. Final figures for the month will be issued in the next few days. The preliminary estimate pointed up a foreign trade trend that has been building up for the last several months.

While Canada's exports to the United States increased, her shipments to the United Kingdom declined and her favorable balance of trade with that country slipped sharply.

Exports during July to the U.K. totalled $35,300,000, down sharply from last year's $71,100,000. Imports from Britain increased from $29,400,000 to $32,800,000. This made for a favorable balance of trade of $2,500,000, compared with $41,700,000 last year.

Pope Pays Visit To City of Rome

Rome, Aug. 26—(Reuters)—The Pope made a public visit to Rome today for the first time in six years.

Large crowds gathered as the 74-year-old pontiff was driven through the streets in a black limousine escorted by 10 motorcycle policemen.

He was driving to three of Rome's main basilicas on a Holy Year pilgrimage, the first time a pope has made a pilgrimage to the basilicas since 1870—when King Victor Emmanuel I seized papal Rome and imprisoned the pope ni Vatican City.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 26 (CP) —Synopsis: A mass of cool air dominates the weather this morning. Below ..freezing ..temperatures were recorded from several localities north of Lake Superior. Skies are clear north of Muskoka and the cloudiness over southern regions will gradually diminish during today.

A weak disturbance over northern Missouri threatens cloudiness for southwestern counties on Sunday and another disturbance over Northern Manitoba may bring rain to northern regions by Sunday morning.

White Cane Club Holds Picnic At Fair Grounds

If you had been in the vicinity of the Belleville Fair Grounds on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 24th, you would have seen a very happy group of people enjoying a picnic, talking and laughing together, participating in the games and contests planned for the afternoon, and doing full justice to the bountiful lunch provided. This was the first summer picnic for the blind of the Belleville White Cane Club.

Twenty-five blind, their escorts and friends, totalling more than forty, assembled in front of the Flower Building, where, with the kind co-operation of the Parks Commission and the caretaker of the grounds, tables and benches had been grouped. Miss Rose Munro, district home teacher for the blind, and P. I. Timmins, C.N.I.B. Field Secretary, with Mrs. Timmins, were present from Kingston. Mrs. H. Rollins, Vice Chairman of the Hastings County Advisory Board, and H. J. Fuke, Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who is Campaign Treasurer of the Board, were present and assisted in looking after the contests and refreshments. Other sighted friends of the club who assisted were Mrs. Madis, Miss Warham, Mrs. Irvine, Mrs. K. York, Mrs. J. Towner, and others. Mrs. S. O'Shea, secretary of the Club, was convener of the refreshment committee, while the contests were arranged by the Field Secretary.

The members of the Club are deeply grateful to Mr. Becker and the Parks Commission, and the foreman and staff of the Fair Grounds for their kindness in making the picnic spot available, and to all who assisted in any way to make the event possible.

Scene in Life Of Dog Pictured

Gilbert and Sullivan immortalized the policeman by saying that his life was not a happy one. That has been applied to almost every kind of human and animal in the world, and this morning it typified a small pup which wandered around the market square without an owner.

Vendors said that a car pulled up on McAnnany Street early this morning, stopped, and the pup flew out the side door. The driver put the car in gear and pulled away before the dog realized what had happened. Spectators attempted to get the licence number of the car, but were not successful.

The pup, timid, dirty and thin as a rake, hung around one of the stalls. "Put a rope on him and take him home, if you want him," the vendor said. The dog has that peculiar, slinking way of coming when called. He's friendly once you gain his confidence, but scared to make a friend in the first place.

His breed? Mostly Heinie. If he was bathed, fed, and cleaned up in general, he'd make a fine pet for some child.

13 Junior Farmers From Hastings Represent County

Hastings County Junior Farmers are not superstitious at least not so far as the number 13 is concerned. Exactly that number of young farmers from the county are expected to represent the county in the C.N.E. judging competition.

The following junior farmers will be representing Hastings at the Ex.

Public Invited To Entertainment At Strikers' Tent

The public is being invited to an entertainment night tonight at the CNR Athletic Association grounds. The strike committee, through Harold Foote, has arranged to have local talent ready for a show at 7.30 p.m.

Barbara Diment will stage a show with her dancing school, R. Sweet and C. Sweetman will be there with guitars, electric and otherwise, John Ward the trick violinist will be part of the show, and Miss Bessie Leeman will play the piano accordion.

Also on the program will be Ed Brown, a vocalist, and the Grant family with a xylophone.

Plans are not yet complete for the full show, but the committee hopes to have even more talent lined up before performance time.

Member Promises Assistance In Settling Strike

Frank Follwell, M.P., for Hastings, told a strikers' mass meeting at the CNRAA grounds headquarters yesterday, that he would do all he could at the parliamentary session called for Tuesday in Ottawa to ensure that fair strike legislation would be passed. Mr. Follwell spoke at the meeting on the invitation of strike officials.

He congratulated the massed employees on the way they were conducting the strike, and noted that local handling of the situation was comparable to handling across the country. Mr. Follwell, who was once a brakeman on the CNR, said "I have every hope that the problem may be settled today (Friday) while Mr. St. Laurent confers with officials on both sides."

In the event that the strike was not settled by Tuesday, Mr. Follwell said, he would do everything in his power to see that any legislation enacted would be ultimately fair. "After all," Mr. Follwell told the press after the meeting, "these men are some of the most solid, democratic-minded people in the community."

Strikers Congratulated

He congratulated the strikers for their methods of picketing company property, and offered the suggestion that it was not what was usually considered picketing. "The actions of local men", he said, "were directed to the protection from damage of company property."

Several business items discussed at the meeting included the official report of the termination of negotiations read by Tom York, assistant chairman, and the acknowledging of services rendered by David's Electric, Booth Radio, Fred's Battery Shop, Houston Co., James Waters, and Erle Denyes.

Elections Held

Elections also took up part of the meeting, and P. E. Skinner was elected treasurer of the joint financial committees, W. G. Ormond, secretary of the joint committees and Ed. Schlievert was appointed chairman of the ground policing program.

A collection was taken up among the groups to send flowers and comfort to William T. juries in a fall at the grounds on Parry, who suffered painful in-Thursday.

Other visitors to the tent headquarters have been Mayor H. Jack Allin, and J. W. Noseworthy, CCF member for North York.

American Car Leaves Road, Hits Large Tree

Driver of the car, Don McNeill 26, of East Aurora, N.Y., suffered a lacerated knee and head injuries, while his companion Francis C. Agnew, of the same address, escaped without injury.

The 1950 model car was badly wrecked as it crashed into the tree.

The injured man was taken to hospital where he was attended by Dr. A. E. Miles. Provincial Constable Ivan E. Tinkess investigated the accident.

Obituary

LATE HAROLD KIDD

The funeral of the late Harold Kidd, 45 Henry Street, was held at the Grant Funeral Home, North Front, Friday afternoon. Service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. F. R. Harback and during the service favorite hymns of deceased were sung. Mr. Harback conducted the last rites at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Merritt Hackett, J. P. Millard, B. W. Brown, Bert Moorman, Garnet Dobbs and Scott Denton.

Strikers Request Reduced Speed Of Automobiles

A plea to the public has been made by the strike officials with regard to cars driving around the picket lines. They emphasize that it is the public's right to view the action of the pickets but ask that drivers of cars in the area reduce speeds.

There have been one or two instances of willful pestering of pickets. John (Doc) Wellman and Bob Duvall, president of local 126 and picket captain respectively patrol led the area by car last night from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. in an effort to persuade speeders to be more careful in the area.

Also arranged for is the distribution of water ta the pickets tribution of water to the pickets. A water wagon moves through the area every hour.

Further policing of the grounds themselves is being organized in eight-hour shifts by authorities. Purpose of the move is to control parking and unruly conduct on the grounds that might lead to accidents or injuries.

PICTON

New Housing Project at School Officially Opened

Picton—Official opening of the housing project in connection with the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA) took place Thursday afternoon. The first twenty-four of the 200 new housing units were opened for occupancy.

Brigadier G. Walsh, Area Commander, officially declared the houses open and presented the keys of the first house to Craftsman Wilfred Henderson, who has a wife and three sons. Mrs. Henderson was presented with a bouquet of gladioli and roses. By a coincidence, it was their eleventh wedding anniversary.

Each unit includes a living room, kitchen with electric stove and refrigerator, a laundry room, downstairs. There are three bedrooms and bath upstairs. Central heating is a feature.

Landscaping is yet to be completed. There are three types of units, courts which house six families, double houses and single houses.

Brigadier Walsh said it was anticipated that the 200 units would be more than filled. He referred to the importance of the school to the town and county.

Lt. Col. R. J. Fisher, officer commanding, welcomed the crowd which attended.

FAMOUS RANCH BOUGHT

High River, Alta. — (CP) — J. Allen Baker, High River farmer and auctioneer, has purchased 20,000 acres of the historic Bar-U ranch. The ranch, purchased in 1927 by the late Senator Patrick Burns, is one of Alberta's most famous ranches.

Two Drivers Keep Many Transports Moving Steadily

In an effort to keep the vehicles rolling 24 hours per day during the current rail strike, two drivers are manning many of the long distance highway transports seen passing through the city. Traffic on No. 2 highway and also on No. 7 is said to have been stepped up considerably since the railroad strike Tuesday morning.

An indication of how transports are being kept rolling was given Friday evening by the driver of a highway transport which ran into difficulty on the West Bridge Street hill.

Loaded heavily with newsprint enroute from Cornwall to Strathroy the transport broke a rear axle on the local hill and the vehicle was held up for better than an hour. With a new axle in place the driver left the city at 10:30 after saying that he was due back in Montreal with a load by Sunday morning.

Produce, Buyers In Plentiful Supply on Mart

Produce and buyers were both in plentiful supply on the farmers' market this morning. One of the finest displays of the season greeted customers.

Prices remained on a par with last week for the most part. Vegetables showed no great change. Following is the list: cabbages, 10c and 15c; green peppers, three for 10c; tomatoes, 35c per six quart basket, 10c per berry box; cucumbers, 5c, some three for 10c; carrots, bunch 10c, three for 25c; vegetable marrow, 10c; beans, beets and onions, 10c, three for 25c; radishes, icicle and red, 5c. Potatoes were 50c per peck.

Corn stayed at the Thursday price of 35c per dozen, although some vendors were asking 40c. Raspberries hung on for yet another week, with the blue type selling for 40c per quart, and the reds priced at 25c per pint. Few were offered.

Blueberries, in good quantity, were priced at $2.25 for six quarts, 50c per quart. Plums, a new offering, were 25c for a berry box. And pears, in their first quantity showing, were priced at $1.00 for six quarts. Apples were in good supply, with asking prices 40c for baskets of yellow transparents and Astrakans, 50c for Duchess. The Duchess variety was also offered by the hamper at $2.50.

In all, quality of produce shown, as well as quality, was ahead of anything yet this summer.

Theatre-in-Round Arrives in Toronto

Toronto — (CP) — Thomas Reid ("Theatre-in-the-Round") Burnett is in Toronto to sell his novel stage productions to Canadian audiences.

Born and educated here Burnett has had plenty of press notices in New York where he has presented his experimental theatre.

"Arena Plays" have been introduced here on an amateur basis by Toronto producers. Burnett is rarin' to go with the idea in professional terms.

As the name Theatre-in-the-round suggests, a platform about 25 feet square, is surrounded by rows of chairs, seating 500 people. An advantage over the usual type of theatre is that the theatre-goer can have dinner before the show in the same hotel with the audience completely surrounding the stage.

Burnett can quote batteries of figures to demonstrate the economy of his type of production. Costs in relation to the conventional theatre have risen to such astronomic heights that there is an increasing reluctance to launch a play of any proportions, he says.

At present he has three ideas for presentation in mind. He would like to do some of Christopher Fry and Jean Paul Sartre's plays, some Menotti operas and stage some guest appearances by Canadian artists.

NEED WORKERS

Canadian Vets Of 2 Wars Strut Stuff at C.N.E.

Toronto, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Shoulders proudly erect and buttons gleaming, Canadian veterans of two world wars strutted their stuff today—warriors day— at the Canadian National Exhibition.

It wasn't the colorful, thrill-filled midway, nor the acres upon acres of industrial exhibits nor even the antics of Hollywood comic Danny Kaye that drew the vets' main attention. Instead, their interest centred on a small silver cup emblematic of the smartest platoon on parade in the annual parade of warriors.

The coveted Canon Scott trophy is awarded annually to the platoon judged best in the parade. It was won last year by the Goodyear Overseas Veterans Club of Toronto.

Favored by sunny skies, the "Ex" roared off at a record-breaking clip yesterday that even the country-wide rail strike failed to break. C.N.E. officials announced that official attendance was 107,500—an increase of 4,500 over the previous opening-day record crowd of 103,000 set last year.

May Break Record

The record turnout strengthened Exhibition officials' confident prediction that last year's record attendance of 2,650,000 would be shattered before the turnstiles stop clicking Sept. 9.

Trade Minister C. D. Howe, substituting for Prime Minister St. Laurent, opened the exhibition with a warning to Canadians that the country's immediate task must be the strengthening of its defences to meet communist aggression.

The C.N.E. billed as the world's biggest annual fair, offers something to catch the interest, no matter how varied, of every one of the thousands who surged through the 300 acres of industrial exhibits, the art galleries and other displays.

For music lovers there is a music festival and band concerts, sports lovers can take their pick of athletic events ranging from children's yo-yo competitions to softball games, water-skiing and track events. There are horticultural displays for lovers of flowers, the country's top livestock to interest farmers and for thrill seekers, RCAF jet fighters zoom over the grounds in a dare devil display of aerial aerobatics.

DEATHS

SUTHERLAND — At St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton, on Friday, August 25th., Dr. Bruce Cunningham Sutherland, beloved husband of Georgina Decker, 195 James Street south and dear father of Mrs. Robert B. Palmer (Margaret).

Resting at Blachford and Wray's, Main Street and West Avenue, Hamilton. Service in the chapel on Monday, August 28th., at 2.00 p.m. Entombment Hamilton Mausoleum.

Resting at the C. N. Hicks Funeral Home, Picton, whence the funeral will be held on Monday, August 28th. Service in the chapel at 10.00 a.m. Interment Arnprior cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

STEWART — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, James O. Stewart, who passed away August 27, 1938.

Time goes on, with many changes,
Joys and sorrows, smiles and tears,
But his memory will be cherished
With the passing of the years.
—Lovingly remembered by his Wife, Family and grandchildren.

ADAMS — In memory of our dear mother, Mary Ann Adams, who passed away one year ago, August 26, 1949.

God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some time, some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by daughters, Jean McFee, Lottie Wilson and family.

"WHAT'S THIS PRESCRIPTION FOR?"
When you ask your pharmacist to tell you, on the basis of your prescription, what your illness is, you ask him a question to which you should not expect an answer.
Many important drugs prove useful in a variety of diseases. The use of a certain drug in your prescription may not serve, therefore, as an exact clue to the nature of your illness. Quinine, for example—long known for its qualities in combatting dreaded malaria—has frequently been prescribed in treating other conditions. Then, too, some drugs are known to counteract specific symptoms only, while the same symptoms may be observed in more than one type of illness. The doctor who examined you and diagnosed your condition will have given you all the necessary information. It is not within the pharmacist's province to diagnose illness. His is the task of preparing the prescribed medication in a manner that will be the most effective. His scientific training enables him to overcome chemical or physical incompatibilities that may present themselves in a mixture of various ingredients.
Your pharmacist's skill makes sure that each dose of the finished product will contain the exact amount of the drugs your doctor intends you to have.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company.

School Programs Reach Thousands Across Dominion

By VAL SEARS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto,—(CP)—Bobby, Betty and Uncle Jack will be talking their way into the lives of 430,000 Canadian school children this year.

This mythical trio, characters in the CBC's nature broadcasts for the classroom, are part of a rapidly expanding program to sugar-coat the bitter bill of education.

For 30 minutes each day during the school term children in approximately 20,000 schoolrooms in English-speaking Canada gather around a radio or loudspeaker to hear their history, science, music and english studies supplemented by dramatized versions of their texts.

The CBC began its school broadcasts on a nation-wide basis in 1942. Since that time 6,764 schools have applied for and received from the Department of Transport free receiving licenses.

Hundreds of rural schools have simply a small mantel radio around which the pupils gather with their teacher to hear the programs. In the larger schools a loudspeaker system is installed often when the building is constructed, which permits the programs to be piped to a dozen classrooms from a central office.

". S. Rutherford, Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario, says the programs are very helpful in stimulating the children's interest. Ontario, he says, is rapidly expanding her receiving network.

"All the CBC does, really," he says, "is to supply the talent and the script for the shows. Our program for the term is mapped out by teachers and departments of education in the different provinces."

"The programs are timed to coincide with the subjects to be studied at certain times by certain grades. In most schools there is a teacher consultant who gives us the reaction of the children in the classroom and we arrange our scripts accordingly."

The overall plans of educational policy are decided by the National Advisory Council on School Broadcasting. This consists of representative of the 10 departments of education and of teachers, parents, school trustees and universities. It meets annually in March.

This term the N.A.C. plans seven series of broadcasts: "Voices Of The Wild" (with Bobby, Betty and Uncle Jack), "Adventure Through Books," "Inland Sailors," "Shakespear's Hamlet," "Things We Are Proud Of," "Life In Canada Today" and Benjamin Britten's "Let's Make An Opera."

In addition to the school series, the CBC broadcasts a "Kindergarten Of The Air," beamed at children of pre-school age. The programs, planned with the advice of kindergarten experts, consist of songs, exercises, stories and participation in play activities.

With Canada's Naturalists:

Golden Plovers Nearly Suffered Same Fate as Passenger Pigeons

(Written For The Canadian Press)

By PERCY GHENT

Within the memory of living men, passenger pigeons, in flocks large enough to darken the sky, flew over many parts of Canada. Merciless slaughter for the market when tens of thousands of barrels of the birds were sold, and other causes never explained brought the species to extinction—the last captive specimen dying in the Cincinnati Zoo in 1912.

When the pigeons became rare, golden plovers were killed in their thousands for market supply. They, too, became scarce and would doubtless have suffered extermination had not strictly enforced protective legislation been introduced in Canada and the United States. Even yet, their numbers is small compared with that of years ago when the slaughter started.

This bird with a black crown and white markings, and with its darker body plumage with speckles of gold, is a thing of beauty. Golden plovers breed along Canada's arctic coast and winter in South America. Spring migration is mostly through the interior of the continent; the autumn migration well out at sea. Observation suggests a continuous autumn flight from the waters of Nova Scotia to Brazil.

In 1925, Miss Mary S. Edgar who directs a camp for girls on Lake Bernard, Parry Sound district, Ontario, wrote a camp hymn for her girls. Its musical setting was composed by the late magistrate Edmund Jones of Toronto.

That hymn was officially adopted by the American Campers' Association, has been included in the hymn boooks of several denominations in Canada and the United States, and is now known in boys and girls summer camps all over North America.

One stanza reads:

"Like thy dancing waves in sunlight,
Make me glad and free;
Like the straightness of the pine trees,
Let me upright be."

Tree seed, flower seed, vegetable seed, seed grain—have far more value than gold in the story of man's life and progress. His existence, in fact, depends directly or indirectly on the seed nature supplies. They are literally more precious than gold in a money sense, on occasion.

Present market price of gold is about $35 an ounce; current price of double-petunia seed is $1,000 an ounce. But there is approximately 250,000 seeds to the ounce. Price works out at 4 seeds for a cent.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

GATHERING OF THE CLAN

The old saying "Birds of a feather flock together" is true of Nighthawks anyway. At this season there is a great gathering of the clan, and if you happen to be just under their flyway in late afternoon you may see flocks ranging in size from a mere half dozen to perhaps 200. This migration continues intermittently until mid-September. In spite of the name, they bear no relation to Hawks, belonging instead to the Goatsucker family, of which Whip-poor-wills and Chimney Swifts are also members. Occasionally Swifts join flocks of Nighthawks on their way south.

Nighthawks' food is entirely insects, most of which they catch in the air, scooping them up in their wide mouths. They seem not to have a preference for any special kind of insect. These may be diminutive gnats, or large moths and dragon flies. Because they catch mosquitoes they are often called Mosquito Hawks. They are said to like fire flies. For birds only about 10 inches long, they eat a great deal.

Those of us who are city dwellers probably have a better chance than our country cousins of becoming acquainted with these useful birds. Every city has several pairs of Nighthawks which choose the flat roofs of tall buildings for their homes, whereas in country districts the two speckled eggs are laid right on the ground in fields, as was done by our Nighthawks' ancestors, before man overran this continent. No nest is ever made The young ones are dark cream mottled with brown, and are carefully guarded by their mother, who is generally also the parent to feed them, by putting her insect-laden bill down the tiny throats.

You surely have heard the Nighthawk's nasal "peent, peent" call as it flies over the housetops after you are in bed at night. The best time to see one at fairly close quarters is at dusk. Then you may get a look at the white spot in each wing that has the appearance of a great hole. The male has a white breast band and a white band across his tail. You can recognize the female by her buffy throat and no tail band. And listen for the curious, hollow booming sound, quite unlike any other noise, which is made by the wind in a Nighthawk's wings when it dives down from a great height and then suddenly checks its flight.

Final Services At St. John's Mission Sunday

Final services at St. John's Mission, Herchimer Ave., before the congregation merges with that of the new St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill in Parkwood Heights will be held next Sunday. The Sunday services will be at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

For approximately 50 families, Sunday will be a day of mingled feelings. There will be sadness because of religious roots buried deep in the Mission, and joy because of participation in a larger field of endeavor and worship in a new building.

St. John's Mission was started while the Rev. John Lyons was at St. Thomas' Church, who is now Archbishop of the Diocese of Ontario and Metropolitan for all Ontario. Function of the Mission at that time was to look after the suburban work of the Anglican church in East Belleville and the western parts of Thurlow township.

Built in 1931

The cornerstone for St. John's Mission was laid by the Rt. Rev. Chas. A. Seager, D.D., then Bishop of the Diocese, on July 30, 1931. For a considerable time the Mission was annexed to Cannifton and Huff's Island, under Rev. Herbert C. Secker, who is now rector of Adolphustown.

Following that, the Mission was in charge of Captain A. Agland, C.A., Rev. Gerald Graham, Rev. Payne and Rev. J. H. H. Hall. In 1936 the work on Herchimer Ave. was annexed to the parish of Shannonville under Rev. Allan Pepper, now rector of St. Paul's, Brockville. Present rector of the Mission is Rev. Ernest M. Caldwell.

The Mission has been sold and will now be used as an apartment house.

Dutch Teacher Surveys Canada For Immigrants

Regina—(CP)—Miss Anne Prinsen, a home economics teacher from The Hague, is touring Canada to talk to Netherlands housewives and get information helpful to future emigrants.

Men coming to Canada learn from experts about Canadian farming, she says, but so far no one has given their wives any advice. Her survey is being made for the women's Institutes in Southern Holland.

"I've not seen an unhappy Dutch family since I arrived and the children are doing awfully well," she said in an interview. "Here even the 12-year-old boys drive the tractors. Their fathers wouldn't have allowed it back home.

"And the youngsters speak English fluently in a couple of months.

"It is the freedom here that they all like. For instance, there are no forms to fill in every time they buy or kill a hog."

Living Costs Lower

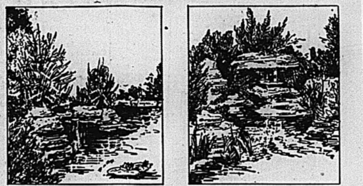
Miss Prisen has been to the west coast and will return to The Netherlands in October after visits to Winnipeg, Ottawa and the Maritimes. She will speak to dozens of women's meetings at home.

She says she will tell her audiences that the cost of living is lower in Canada and that after a year most immigrants can have such labor-saving devices as washing machines — something only the wealthy have in The Netherlands.

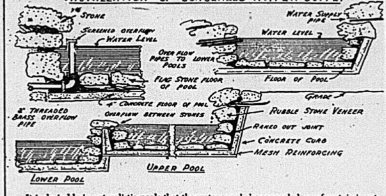
And she will tell them that hand-knitted underwear, brought by many earlier emigrants, is not required in Canada; and that farm wives had better learn to bake cake and pies.

"The sunshine and the long distances amaze me," she says. "And I think I prefer the traffic here. The drivers seem more careful."

WATER SUPPLY FOR NATURALISTIC POOLS



INSTALLATION OF CONCEALED WATER SUPPLY



It is desirable in naturalistic pools that the water supply be concealed, as a fountain is out of place. Above is illustrated methods which will give excellent results. As rock gardens are built from the bottom up, it is well to arrange the piping at the time of construction.

Freighter Carries Six Stowaways

Montreal, Aug. 26 (CP) —The freighter Maria Paolina G. was reported heading here today with six Italian stowaways aboard. The ship is due tomorrow.

Last night three RCMP officers boarded the freighter at Father Point on the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The skipper, Capt. Francesco Martinellie, wired the ship's agents here for the police in case the stowaways might try to jump into the river or cause trouble.

The Maria Paolina G. picked up the free riders while docked in Genoa, Italy. How they got aboard is still a mystery. The captain did not say where he found the stowaways.

SUMMER'S MOVING ON

Summer is moving on. August, the month which often brings intense heat has largely gone and is swiftly moving towards its close. In a season which has seemed rather too cool, there will be regrets that the time has been speeding so rapidly and that there remains but a spell of about four weeks in which the weatherman, if he is kind, may try to make amends for the condition of weather during the past two months.

From the standpoint of the boy, summer must have been about all he could wish, with weather changes whatever they were and with every opportunity for pleasure at home or at the summer resort.

In the country this is the time when a good amount of the work on the farm has been done or has to be done. The growing season has been producing that new wealth in the form of food for the coming twelvemonth which is necessary for the world's life and the early harvests have been good. Indications point to the crops as good and in as large measure as in other good years.

EXCURSION NO MORE

With a trace of nostalgia we realize August is growing old and that the harvest excursions will be under way. Then we remember they are no more. They were slain by the combine harvesters that now rattle across the wheatfields, crushing under their wheels memories of the stookers, the teamsters, the cranky engineers who started the thresher engine at dawn and the harried farm housewives who for a week or 10 days had to provide food for 20 hungry men, comments Ottawa Journal.

How many can recall the discomfort of the slow freight train progress along the Superior shore, with rain and sleet beating the flatcars in the dark, or the delight of a mulligan stew in the jungle at Port Arthur? How many hearts grow lighter at the memory of the kindly, overworked Saskatchewan housewives who made the best pie in the world? And how many still harden at the memory of the people who roused their help in lantern light and didn't stop the thresher until dark had come again?

The joy of folding money in pockets when the job was finished in October and even the green feed was off the fields, the bright lights and satin comfort of the cities, the promises to meet again as comrades of the field left the homebound train, the blisters to display and the presents to deliver when the journey was done — all are gone, become part of the Canadian legend, something for the historians to mark on their pages in years to come. We were fortunate to have known it, shared in it. But we never knew it.

RARE SILVERWARE

Some of the finest achievements of British silversmiths over the last 25 years are included in an exhibition of contemporary silver, sponsored by the Worshipful Company of Silversmiths, at the Royal Scottish Museum in Edinburgh. The exhibition will form part of this year's Edinburgh Festival.

Among the pieces on show is the plate for the new Cathedral at Guildford — a magnificent gift from the Goldsmth's Company, which includes a cross, candlesticks, alms dish, chalice and paten and cruets. The designer is Mr. Leslie Durbin, who was responsible for the Sword given by Britain to Stalingrad during the war and for a Sword of Honor presented by the City of London to Marshal of the Royal Air Force Lord Tedder. The latter, with its rich but simple hilt enhanced with enamels and beautifully tooled leather scabbard of blue and gold, forms another of the exhibits.

WORLD'S UNREST

What is at the root of all the unrest in the world? Never before have the essentials for human happiness and comfort been more abundant or more generally available, but never before, perhaps, has there been so universal a depression of spirits. Different people blame the trouble on different causes. Some attribute it to the rapid advance in scientific knowledge, which they say, has outstripped mankind's ability to make proper use of the new and powerful forces placed at its disposal. Some pin their faith to a still further increase in knowledge; arguing that if all were sufficiently instructed there would be no grounds for anxiety. Improved methods in popular education are relied upon to restore the equilibrium. Others contend that it is not more knowledge but greater faith that is required. Man has become so inordinately proud of his spectacular achievements that he has developed a false sense of self-sufficiency, trusting too much in his own feeble strength. Kipling has forewarned the world what is in store for the forgetful and conceited: "If drunk with sight of power we loose wild tongues that have not Thee in awe . . . For frantic boast and foolish word, Thy mercy on Thy people, Lord!"

Increased knowledge should produce humility rather than bombast. Every discovery that science makes is merely a fresh revelation out of "Nature's infinite book of secrecy," from which, in spite of all that has already been revealed to the inquiring mind, only a very little can be read. There are illimitable secrets still to be disclosed. And as they are gradually unfolded the awe and mystery grow the greater. The "puzzle of the universe" is incapable of final solution by human intelligence. It is through transcending faith that things are accomplished. — Hamilton Spectator.

JUST FOLKS

FORGOTTEN WOES

He had told of his troubles the evening before;
He had backache and toothache; his muscles were sore.
He had much to complain of, but now, feeling fine,
His ailments are cured. There's a bass on his line.

His rivals in business were price-cutters all.
His costs were too great and his profits too small.
No hope for the future he visioned last night.
Now his woes are forgotten. He's just had a bite.

Should you ask him this minute I'd say, beyond doubt,
He couldn't recall what he grumbled about.
He hasn't an ailment of which he'd complain.

LIFE AT DIFFERENT LEVELS

Have you ever noticed how when viewed at different levels? Walk along a country road and the lanscape has a certain appearance. Ride horseback along that same road and things look quite different. Go over the same road on a loaded truck or on a wagon piled high with hay, and the landscape doesn't look at all like the same section of the country. From the window of a plane, it takes on an utterly different appearance.

It is often hard for us to realize when people differ with us that they are honestly seeing things plainly from a quite different viewpoint, and that they may, in fact, be right in their conclusion and we may be wrong. As we go from childhood to youth, the world takes on a different appearance. When we come to middle age, we wonder how we could possibly have had some of the ideas we cherished and held to so stubbornly twenty years before. When we begin to look at life from different levels of maturity, education, culture, and experience, things take on a possitively transformed appearance.

It is hard for non-religious people to understand what has come over their friends who suddenly "got religion." These people seem to be moving through life at higher altitudes. Said St. Paul, "If any man is in Christ, he is a new creature."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Having been an angler for many years, my interest in the direction of the wind has been practically proffesional. An angler's first act, on waking in the morning, is to glance out to see what quarter the breeze is from. The prevailing winds in regions he has been familiar with for a long time are as well known to him as the shape of the shore line.

It is my contention that in one district with which I am on terms of the fullest intimacy, the winds are changing. Especially the east wind. For forty years, the east wind, whenever it blew, came from a certain bay and off a certain rocky point. Year in, year out, in spring, summer and fall, the east wind invariably blew from that quarter. And it was a matter of common remark that it never blew from a certain other eastward quarter, characterized by an expanse of far-flung rock and muskeg. None of us can recall it having come from that direction.

But in the past two years, the east wind has blown oftener from that unprecedented direction than it has from the familiar angle of the previous forty years. It is so unusual a circumstance that many of the neighbors, not acute anglers, have commented on it. The way they have tied their boats to docks, the direction they have set their awnings, tents and other furniture that depend upon the wind's bearing, all offer evidence of the change.

Some scientific observers say the seasons are definitely shifting, the winters growing milder, the summers more uncertain, the springs confused. It stands to reason that the activities of man, in cutting down the forests, draining the swamps and drying vast areas of the continent into farm land, must have some effect on the climate. This new east wind we have in the country I fish brings grey weather, desultory rain, but no cleansing storms.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

Port Arthur, Ont., — In the Canadian garden of good, grey politicians, whose watchword is caution, a man like Charlie Cox, of Port Arthur, whose watchword is Charlie Cox, is as rare a flower as any since Vancouver's late Gerald Grattan McGeer.

On one occasion, while he was mayor of Port Arthur, his council decided against paving a certain street, as directed by Charlie. The mayor called in the contractors personally and told them to go ahead. When the council in turn summoned the contractor and asked where he'd got his orders the road-builder smiled and replied, "Santa Claus." They knew whom he meant.

Cox is a bulldog-faced man described by one of his critics as looking "as if he were always on the brink of a towering rage." He's a self-made timber magnate, loosely described hereabouts as a millionaire, and with a penchant for expensive straw hats and brightly-hued Cadillacs which he drives in characteristic fashion.

He is blind in one eye and that side of his face is disfigured by an acid burn inflicted 13 years ago by a Fort William school teacher, for reasons of her own. Some of Charlie's opponents felt that the resulting coast-to-coast publicity might be scandal enough to bump him out of public life, but had to concede later that it made him more popular than ever.

Cox was mayor of Port Arthur for 15 years, still represents Fort William in the provincial legislature and except for one word—"amalgamation"—might also be Fort William's mayor.

The Feuders

When Charlie ran for mayor of Fort William two years ago he used that challenging word "amalgamation" in his speeches and many political experts think it cost him his ambition of being mayor of both ports simultaneously.

Another contributing factor is that the residents of both cities fall into two camps. Some think Charlie is a savior. Some think he is a dangerous demagogue of the Huey Long type or worse. He once told an interviewer that what this country needs is a dictator, and that he couldn't think of anybody better fitted for the job than Charlie Cox, in person.

One of the most bitter of the anti-Cox set is O. F. Young, the white-haired, dignified editor of Port Arthur's News-Chronicle, and between the two exists a classic feud. It is said to have begun when Cox broadcast the hope that Young's paper would oppose his election. "In that case Charlie is reported to have said "I can't lose."

Young, himself, makes no secret of his distaste for "that man," and when I asked him today about Port Arthur's most colorful character, the editor banged his desk and said "that man's name hasn't appeared in the News-Chronicle in five years and it never will as long as I have anything to say about it!"

This is only a slight exaggeration. Charlie's name did appear in the News-Chronicle a couple of months ago. On this occasion Cox was fined $35 and costs for careless driving after he'd passed a provincial police car at a high rate of speed and forced an approaching car off the road. Cox explained in court that he was merely trying to overtake a cop who had been "arrogant" to him on an earlier occasion, and that it was "coincidental and unfortunate that I caught up with him on a curve."

The pro-Cox element, who like to tell how Charlie drops in on the "common folks" for a cup of coffee, cite the incident as evidence of their man's charming impulsiveness.

Marital Ties

Charlie's defeat in the Fort William mayoralty contest was a narrow one and it's generally agreed that if he hadn't pumped for the merger of the two cities he probably would have been elected.

"Charlie had been one of the heartiest critics of Fort William, which he called 'The Swamp'" "but when he decided he'd like to be our boss, as well as Port Arthur's he changed his tune. Drank a lot of coffee over here, Charlie did. But he guessed wrong when he figured on amalgamation."

Actually the two cities are joined in many ways. Dr. Eddie Anten, Port Arthur's acting-mayor, reckons that a third of the marriages are inter-city. The last busses leaving our city for the others are packed with swains returning from courting their gals. "Distant fields look greenest," was the comment of one Port Arthur girl who married a Fort William man.

"On a Saturday in either city you'll find that one out of every three or four shoppers comes from the other place," Dr. Anten observes. "A lot of people who are stepping out for an evening will drive across the boundary to get a slightly different atmosphere. Why, its very nice to have another city to visit and so close you can walk! Charlie just didn't seem to realize that most people like it this way.

A less tolerant Cox critic puts it another way. "Charlie figured he was a cinch to be mayor of both towns," this man said, "and since he was willing to amalgamate he just couldn't see why everybody else wasn't."

Charlie himself is out of town and not available for comment on all this. It's too bad because as even those who hate him concede he is rarely dull.

Montreal Course Tough on Top Pros in First Day of Tourney

Montreal, Aug. 25 (CP)—Maybe they can blame it on the sun-parched fairways and greens, but the undisputable fact facing most of the 200-odd Canadian Open golf entries today is that the 6,527 yard Royal Montreal course is a toughie. It has withstood the test of big-time Canadian and American amateurs and pros.

That was proven yesterday when Canada's four-day $10,000 golf classic got under way. When the last golfer came in almost "blind" in semi-darkness, less than one-quarter of the field showed par 72 scores or less.

Hot shot favorite Sam Snead, leading money winner in North America with more than $31,000 take-home pay on the American circuit the last year, managed to hit 72 on the nose and he enters today's play a luke-warm choice to catch the leaders. The 72 hole medal play tournament ends Sunday and he has a lot of catching up to do.

When the first day scores were toted up, one Canadian—an almost unknown—and two American veterans paced the field with five-under-par 67s. They were Lennie Harman, one-time caddy and assistant pro at Royal Montreal now playing out of Knowlton, Que., Willie Goggin of White Plains, N.Y., and Ed Furgol from Royal Oak, Mich.

It was a six-way tie with 68 for the second slot, another half-dozen with 69, a few 70s, 71s and 72s. From there in, scores ballooned to the late 80s.

The field will be cut to less than half after today's 18-hole second round when the leading 100 and ties will be eligible to carry on. Officials figure a 36-hole score of around 155 will be the qualifying figure.

About 5,000 fans turned out in brilliant sunshine for the initial round Thursday, and approximately half of them bunched together to follow the threesome of Snead, Stan Leonard, the long-ball hitter from Vancouver's Marine Drive, and Fred Hawkins from El Paso.

Most of the gathering stayed around to watch Leonard, Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion, get hot in the back nine for a three-under-par 33, which along with his outgoing 35, gave him a 68. He birdled the 17th and eagled the 18th to trim his score.

Most of the fans were unaware of Harman's par-breaking play. He evened 36-par on the outgoing nine, got his approach shots working on the way home and one-putted most of the way.

London Surveys Work of Police

London, (CP)—A survey has been launched by Metropolitan police authorities to determine how a London policeman employs his time while pounding his beat.

The fact-finding teams of uniformed officers have been stopping the bobbies on patrol to ask them such questions as: "How many doors did you try during the night?" How many windows did you find open"; "Did you encounter any unusual incidents?" They are also being asked to state how many questions by the public they were required to answer during their tour of duty.

THIS IS OUTRAGEOUS

Recently one of the millions of ninnyhammers here in Yankeeland told in a letter in this column how he and his wife tried from time they knew they were going to have their second child to find a doctor who would deliver the baby at home. Their doctor (from the letter I infer that they sought no further) condescended to accept the case if the woman entered the hospital, otherwise he washed his hands of it and that was that.

Well, then, the ninnyhammer went on to report, for six months he begged and pleaded with hospital authorities to be permitted to remain with his wife until after the child was born. This was his wife's desire as well as his own. All their begging and pleading (the whole shameful business makes me so mad I can hardly find language fit to print, but I hope ninnyhammer comes through) brought them was the cynical statement that it was against the rules.

What rules? Who makes the rules?

Listen, Ninnyhammers, or those of you who read anything not served with cheesecake. Who owns the hospitals? Who pays the bill for a hospital bed or room? Who ngages and pays the doctor? If you are one of those who like to avoid these and other responsibilities of a real man you will not mind being pushed around, patronized, belittled and insulted by the "authorities" who run the hospital.

On the other hand, if you are a man with character even the parasites, pets and proteges on the hospital staff will treat you with courtesy and respect. If your apartment or dwelling is fit for you and your wife to live in it is the safest place and the best place to have your baby. If any physician or other competent expert questions this statement, I promise to print his or her statement, with or without signature, as he or she may prefer, provided it doesn't take too much space.

Ignorance, just plain unabashed Yankee ignorance of elementary embryology or prenatal development, maternity and paternity, childbirth and care of the baby, as fostered by high school and college education, makes most of these wishy-washy husbands ninnyhammers. Prospective parents would not submit to such contemptuous treatment by the hospital parasites, pets and sycophants if they were not so downright ignorant.

In some communities the hospital people are so arrogant that they even tell the ninnyhammers who have the courage to raise a timid question about it, that there is a state law, city ordinance or board of health regulation against a prospective father holding his wife's hand during the birth of their baby. This is outrageous. The hospital people get away with it because, as they know from experience, it is extremely unlikely that such a patron will ever have enough spirit to verify or disprove the assertion by reference to state, municipal or health department records.

Having observed as a medical student, an intern, a resident physician, a member of the medical staff of a private hospital and a visitor to family friends confined in hospital what goes on before, during and after delivery, I reaffirm my belief that home is the best place to have a baby.

The latest tally of medical practitioners in the United States reveals that two out of every three engage in general practice—and a good many who are still classified as "family physicians" are warming up for withdrawing from general practice — at least night calls and other onerous chores—and limiting their practice to a specialty which permits regular office hours and comparative freedom after hours.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Undescended Testicle

Son 8, has undescended testicle. When he was a year old shots were recommended and if they didn't help, an operation. We were afraid to have either. (D. O. K.)

Boy 11 years old has undescended testicle. Series of hormone injections failed to correct fault. Is operation advisable? (H. S.)

Answer—One normal testicle is as efficient as two. Non-descent of one has no ill effect on physical or mental development. In most instances spontaneous descent occurs when the boy is about 12 to 14 years old. Hormone injections may be advisable in some instances where spontaneous descent fails to occur at the usual age.

Cattle Cars Will be Idle This Weekend

Toronto, Aug. 26—(CP)—Up to 2,000 cattle from Western Canada normally reach the Toronto stockyards every weekend at this time of year.

This weekend the cattle cars will be idle, tied up by the rail strike.

"It's a question whether the local producers can satisfy Toronto's beek needs without the additional shipments of cattle that usually come from the west," F. C. Fletcher, manager of the stockyards, said today. "There is also a question whether there will be trucks available to ship the cattle here, with so many trucks being used for other work during the strike."

Woman Realizes Childhood Dream Of Seeing Canada

Liverpool, Aug. 25. (CP)—Peggy Cox, 24-year-old brunette, stepped jauntily ashore today from the liner Empress of France after realizing a childhood dream of seeing Canada.

Nobody believed Peggy when, as a girl of six, she confided to her family and friends in Melton Mowbray, Leics., that she was saving her pennies to go to Canada.

Then one day more than two years ago she packed her bags and told her mother "I'm off". She sailed in April, 1948, and since then has hitched-hiked across Canada, taking whatever jobs she could find—"mostly dish-washing."

She thought Canada was "wonderful". But she said she could hardly wait to get home.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CHEERFULNESS

Were I to be asked what is the most striking characteristic of birds, I would say—cheerfulness. They go about their day with the utmost satisfaction—singing as they work building their home, and singing as they feed their young. At almost any hour of the day their song can be heard. Happy, cheerful creatures. We never get a single note of any complaints that they may have —if they have any.

Cheerfulness is the habit of birds, as indeed it must be with most animals, though they are less expressive of it than birds. Man is the star performer, when it comes to complaining. He will have a pain and he wants everyone about him to know about it. If he has ill luck, he begins to broadcast the fact. How rare is that individual who keeps his complaints to himself, and bears his burden of misfortune with a smile!

A schoolmate of Dr. Samuel Johnson became famous for one expression. In late life he called upon the famous Doctor, and after listening to him said: "You are a philosopher, Dr. Johnson. I, too, have tried to be one, but I didn't know how—cheerfulness kept creeping in!" It would be well if we all had that disposition — with cheerfulness breaking in, when least expected—especially when least expected by others!

How many a one goes to his work in grumbling fashion. Such a one is sure to end his day in an unsatisfactory manner, whereas the one who enters his day and work in a cheerful frame of mind, goes to his bed at night in a triumphant mood. Cheerfulness is a thing that spreads and is invited by all.

Cheerful friends outwear all other types. And they live longest to enrich the earth. Just think what a world this would be with only cheerful people in it. That would almost be heaven, here and now! Well, thank God, there are spots of that heaven wherever a cheerful person appears, or has his habitation. He can easily be located for there will be others about him, profiting by his example.

How much more rapid is the return to health of an ill person in a hospital, or home, where there are cheerful nurses in attendance, or those who have but the medicine of cheerfulness to dispense.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

His girl has definite plans for the future

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years old, and have been going with a girl 16. Recently we broke up, and she is now going with one of my friends.

I tried to go back with her, but she doesn't seem to want to, although she says she likes me more than this other boy and always will. The reason she gives is that she wants to make something of herself, and she feels that if she kept seeing me, she would get too serious, in which case she probably wouldn't want to go to college after finishing school.

I don't want to lose her, but I certainly don't want to keep her from doing what she wants to do. I could go out with her off and on, but that won't work. The friend of mine with whom she has been going recently won't let her go out with me as long as he is dating her. As a result, he and I have become unfriendly.

Should I stop dating her at all, or if I keep seeing her off and on, do you think I will break up her future plans? I realize we are still young but as things are now, they bother me greatly.

D.

Dear D.:

Since you are sensible enough to realize you are pretty young to do any serious planning for the future, it seems to me you should be able to make a compromise with this girl.

Perhaps she thinks that if she kept on going with you, you would try and persuade her to give up going to college. If you made it clear to her that you feel she is right in wanting as much education as possible, and tell her that you are willing to wait for her until she is ready to think about marriage, I can't see why she shouldn't be willing to continue the friendship.

I do think it isn't quite fair to a 16-year-old girl to try and limit her to one boy friend. So why not tell her too, that if she wants to go out with others, it's all right with you? Let her make up her own mind about going out with you now and then, and don't worry too much about the other boy "letting" her do this. It's her own business, and she should make her own decision. No boy has a right to try and run her life for her, and she should be too independent to allow it.

Keep your personal business to Yourself

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I had an affair with a boy. It was the first time in my life, I am very ashamed of myself.

Now I cannot seem to go out with any boys, because when I tell them what I did, they don't seem to want me for their girl friend.

Should I tell other boys about it after I am sure of becoming their steady girl friend, or keep on telling them when I first meet them?

B. H.

Dear B. H.:

It's not a very good idea to go around telling your personal business to casual acquaintances. I think you should certainly stop doing this right away.

No one has a right to be told anything whatever about your private life unless some day some one should come along who meant so much to you that you felt it important that he should know.

Keep your personal life to yourself, and have just as many happy normal friendships with boys as you can.

New Plywood Luggage

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The newest looking luggage is that made of plywood, the same no-weight, tough, and handsome wood product which is used in the construction of airplanes, speedboats, et cetera.

Here we see a train box and a suit case known as fortnighter size, in matching plywood of molded birch, bound with leather and with wonderfully strong and shiny looking metal locks and such. The train box has a fully mirrored inner lid, and adjustable loops for cosmetic packing . . . the whole case lined with water-repellent fabric.

Besides birch, such luggage is made in other plywoods, such as tigerwood with its dramatic stripes. The girl with the luggage wears a knit gray wool jacket and dress, the latter almost sleeveless and with a scooped out neck, so that it makes a dandy date dress.

Green celery was regarded in the same way as green apples. To eliminate the greenness, which is the natural color of most celery, the plants were banked with soil. This bleached the celery white and incidentally deprived it of much of its nutritional value.

Today we know that green celery provides more vitamins than white, and that the most delicious variety known is the crisp but tender, green Pascal celery. Celery cut into dice and simmered until just tender is an excellent blending ingredient for casseroles.

A casserole is a combination of meat or poultry with vegetable and starch all in one dish. While a casserole recipe may seem like a considerable number of steps, much of the labor can be eliminated by using some canned or frozen foods. If several of the ingredients are freshly made, the dish will not have a synthetic, hurry-up flavor.

The ingredients in today's casserole recipe can be prepared and assembled hours before the dinner, and then popped into the oven 20 to 30 minues before serving time.

Chicken, Noodle and Celery Casserole—Serves 6.

Boil until tender 1-4 pound medium size noodles in 2 quarts of water to which 2 tablespoons salt have been added. Drain. Wash in several cold waters.

Cut enough celery into 1-2 inch cubes to fill 2 cups. Cover with water and cook until tender 10-15 minutes. Drain. Reserve the cooking liquid.

Dilute 1 can of cream of chicken soup with 1-2 cup of the liquid in which the celery was cooked.

Cut into 1-2 inch cubes enough cooked chicken, preferably boiled or stewed, to fill 2 cups. Or use a 6-ounce can of boned chicken if desired.

In the casserole or baking dish, combine the noodles, sauce, celery and chicken. Add an 8-ounce can of peas drained or 1 cup of cooked frozen peas. Do not place the food in layers but mix it gently, taking care not to break the pieces of chicken. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Sprinkle the top with 2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Sprinkle with a few drops of salad oil. Place the casserole in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, until cheese browns slightly and food is heated through.

Otter coat with seal trim

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

OTTER, very similar in appearance to beaver, but with even better wearing qualities, is destined to become a favorite fur with value-conscious women. Here it is made up into a handsome coat cut on classic trench coat lines, easy to wear over a suit. Collar, cuffs and pocket flaps are of Alaska seal for an extra pretty accent. This is a wonderful coat for all-around wear, ready to give long and efficient service.

OLD MAP FOUND

Kettleby, Ont. — (CP) — A 90-year-old linen-backed map of York county which shows the location of every farm in the county in 1860, has turned up here. The owner, Frederick J. Foley, says he will not part with it unless he gets a good price from a museum.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Wedding party should not go to studio for photographing

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Between the ceremony, which is to take place at our church, and the reception which is to take place at my house, we had planned to go to the studio to have our wedding photographs taken. But now we have been told that this is not good planning or good form. If not, what should the plan be for the photographing?

Juliet M.

The best and customary plan is for everyone in the wedding party to drive immediately to the place where the reception is to be and where the photographer and any assistant should be ready with all the equipment, lights and so forth, in place so that the photographs may be taken before the reception guests arrive. This is regarded as the most propitious moment to photograph the wedding group, for immediately after the ceremony they are looking their "photographic best." For the member of the wedding party to go to the studio to be photographed after the ceremony may be more convenient for the photographer . . . but not for the receiving-line and the reception guests, who must be kept waiting.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Since my mother's death several years ago, my father and I have lived together in the family homestead. My mother's sister has been wonderfully kind and good to me, we are devoted friends as well as aunt-and-niece, and I love her very much. Recently my father became engaged to a young lady we all like very much. Now I am planning my wedding to take place soon, in our church, the reception to be at our house. I would like to ask my aunt to stand first with my father in the receiving-line, where my mother would have stood if she were living, but now I am wondering if I should invite my father's fiancee to stand with him. Which is right?

Ellen H.

You should give your beloved aunt, your mother's sister and your dear friend, this honor and compliment of standing in your mother's place.

Attire for groom, best man, the mothers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. The bride is to wear the traditional white wedding dress, having a train, and shoulder-length veil. The ceremony is to be in the church at four o'clock in the afternoon, the bride having one attendant. Is a tuxedo suit correct for the groom and best man to wear?

2. Should the mothers of the bride and groom wear long or street-length dresses?

E. B. F.

1. No. . . . a tuxedo suit is not correct for daytime wear, not to be worn until after six o'clock in the evening, at the very earliest. If the bride's dress has only a very short train, and all the details of the wedding are carried out informally, the men in the wedding party may wear dark-blue business suits. If the plans are for a formal wedding, the men to be dressed consistent with this formality, would wear cutaway coats, dark striped trousers, and appropriately formal accessories. Or, for a semi-formal wedding they may wear, instead of cutaway coats, Oxford jackets. Or for a summer wedding, they may correctly wear either white suits or white flannel trousers and dark coats, preferably dark-blue.

2. Customarily the mothers wear long dresses if the bride and her attendants wear long dresses. But if the wedding is along the lines of simplicity and informality they may wear street-length dresses.

Funeral procession

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle this 'difference of opinion': At the funeral of one's mother or father, should the married children walk with the unmarried children or with their own husbands and wives?

M. R.

A married son would walk with his wife. . . . a married daughter would walk with her husband . . . and the oldest unmarried child would walk with the surviving parent. (Preferably the oldest unmarried son with the mother, and the oldest unmarried daughter with the father . . . but this often depends on convenience and preference.)

FRIENDLY TOWN

Flin Flon, Man. —(CP)—Tourists in this Northern Manitoba town are given a card which reads: "Park as long as you like here . . . but try to follow local parking regulations and it will be appreciated." The card says tourists need have no fear of receiving a parking ticket from 'the friendly town.'

BEAUTY

What to do for pimples

Fate seems particularly hard to the adolescent who is afflicted with acne. A complexion spotted with blackheads and pimples causes unhappiness, self consciousness, interference with social activities. It is folly for a mother to tell a young girl that she will outgrow the trouble. The child is suffering from a skin infection and infections seldom disappear of their own accord.

Impress upon the child that she must keep her fingers away from her face. "Don't pick, don't squeeze and hands down!" Pin that order on the mirror. There is a possibility of causing scars and scars are there for keeps.

The free use of warm soap suds is recommended by skin specialists. Men who shave every day, cover their faces with lather, are seldom afflicted with blackheads or pimples. As a youngster is likely to be all too casual about face washing, it is a good idea to suggest the use of shaving soap that lathers freely, than can be frictioned into the skin with the finger tips, forcing the suds into dust-blocked pores. To help along this project, hot moist application should be applied after the facial scrubbing.

After the skin is dry, apply a soda solution. Dissolve one teaspoonful of baking soda in a cup of warm water, pat it on with pledgets of cotton, let it dry. In the morning wash the face with soap again, dry and lave with witch hazel, which is soothing.

If home treatment does not bring the skin to normal, it is necessary to seek professional attention. Medical men who specialize in diseases of the skin and scalp will tell you that acne should not be permitted to become chronic; the first appearance of blackheads and pustules should have treatment.

After the skin is dry, apply a soda solution

Diet is important in combatting this trouble. As fats stimulate the sebaceous glands, they should be cut down to the limit. The milk the child drinks should not be rich with cream. Butter must be deleted. Pastries are forbidden, and that is tough on the young fry. Chocolate also is on the blacklist.

A daily bath with warm soap suds and a heavy brush is helpful because it aids the skin in its work of throwing off body wastes. Vigorous exercise is recommended as active sweat glands clean the pores to a certain extent. Sun baths will have a favorabe effect because of sweating.

Blackheads can be removed mechanically with a tiny extractor that can be bought at any drug store. A circular opening is placed over the black points. Pressure is exerted, the point is removed with no injury to the flesh.

WEDDINGS

REYNOLDS—CARMAN

Marmora—At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carman, Marmora Township, the wedding took place on the afternoon of Saturday, August 19, of Zella Jeannette Carman, and Stanley Orman Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reynolds, of Madoc. Rev. G. W. Burtch, Madoc, officiated. The house and arch were beautifully decorated with evergreens, gladioli, and other summer flowers, and ferns.

As the bride entered on the arm of her father, the Wedding March from Lohengrin, was played by Mrs. Roy Frost, Marmora.

The bride wore a gown of ice blue moss crepe fashioned with fitted lace bodice, double peplum and short sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade of cream gladioli.

At the reception, the bride's mother wore sapphire blue crepe with black accessories and a corsage of orchids. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore navy sheer and a corsage of roses.

For travelling, the bride wore a grey suit with navy accessories, and a corsage of roses. The honeymoon was spent at Niagara Falls. They will reside near Madoc.

TROTTER—WHITMORE

St. Paul's United Church, Bancroft, was the setting of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, August 16, when Uena Pearl Whitmore, Coe Hill, was married to Cecil Earl Trotter, Clydesdale. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whitmore, Coe Hill, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trotter, Clydesdale.

The Rev. J. R. Wheeler, of Coe Hill United Church officiated. The altar was banked with gladioli, dahlias and phlox. The pews were decorated with pink and white ribbon rosettes.

The bride entered the church on her father's arm to the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin, played by Miss Margarite Hanthorn. During the signing of the register, Miss Vivian Walker, sang "I Love You Truly".

The bride looked charming in a floor length gown of ivory satin in princess style with inserts of lace to form a flared skirt, bodice buttoned down the back, high neckline with scalloped yoke of lace. Her three-quarter length lace- edged veil fell from a coronet set with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses, and wore the groom's gift a necklace of rhinestones, matching earrings and bracelet. She also wore a new penny in her shoe for luck.

Mrs. Bert Giles acted as bridesmaid, gowned in gold-colored taffeta, princess style and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Her halo was of gold-colored net.

Mr. Bert Giles acted as groomsman. Ushers were, Mr. Lennel Prouty, of Peterborough, and Mr. Clare Reid, of Bancroft, cousins of the bride.

Kay and Ann Giles, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Giles, were flower girls and wore floor length gowns of pink and blue nylon, with bandeaux of corresponding colors. They carried baskets of pink Sweetheart roses and sweet-peas.

After the ceremony, the guests retired to the lodge room of the "Eastern Star", where delicious refreshments were served by the ladies of the Order of the Eastern Star, of which the bride is a member.

A reception was held in the evening in the town hall, Coe Hill. where the bride's mother received in an Alice blue gown of Alpine and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. The mother of the bridegroom was gowned in navy blue crepe with shadow lace and wore a corsage of pink roses. Many guests attended the reception where refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed to the music of Sid McCauley's Orchestra, Apsley.

The bride's gifts to bridesmaid, vocalist and organist were compact, necklace and compact; and to the bridegroom was a nylon broadcloth shirt.

The happy couple were recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts.

After the reception the bridal couple left for a honeymoon trip to Niagara, Buffalo, and other points. The bride travelled in a suit of blue-mist with navy accessories. On their return they will reside in Bancroft.

Out-of-town guests were—Mr. and Mrs. Neil McTavish, sons, Douglas and Bradley, and daughter, Lynda, Mount Forest; Mrs. Harold Milburn and son, Larry, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Carr and son, Jimmy, Port Hope; Miss Peggy Trotter, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Lennel Prouty, Peterborough; Mrs. Geo. Trotter, Port Hope; Mrs. Ellen Fiffe and son, George, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Post and daughter, Betty, Havelock; Mrs. Wm. Hodgens, Mrs. Harold Hall and daughter, Barbara, Foxboro; Mrs. Edward Carr, Lancaster, N.Y.; Mrs. Geo. Boyle, Combermere.

World Countrywomen May Meet in Canada in 1952

Ottawa (CP)—Canadian delegates now touring England on their way to the Associated Countrywomen of the World convention in Copenhagen, Sept. 9-18, hope to bring the 1952 convention back to Canada where the organization was first developed.

The Ontario Agriculture College already has been reserved for this conference in anticipation of acceptance of the Canadian invitation.

More than 42 women representing every province are making the tour. In Denmark they will meet with hundreds of other delegates from the 6,000,000-member organization for the sixth triennial conference.

The A.C.W.W. grew out of the federated women's institutes founded by Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless in Stoney Creek, Ont., in 1897. Since then the organization has spread all over the world.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said at a ceremony honoring Mrs. Hoodless recently: "The rapidity with which the institute movement spread . . . is an indication of its soundness and the need which is filled."

This year's European tour will take the delegates through England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark, Belgium and France. Most of the delegates are expected to be back in Canada Oct. 9.

While in England many of the party will accept the invitation of Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of a former governor-general of Canada, to visit her home.

During the Scandinavian portion of the tour most of the delegates will be quartered in private homes.

MADOC

Miss L. West B.A., Vocational Guidance, Addresses W.I.

Madoc Women's Institute met for the August meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Stewart. The roll call "A Canadian article in use in my home", was answered by 22 members and three visitors. Correspondence was read and business items dealt with. The result of the Navy League Tag Day was $70 and the Women's Institute is grateful to the girls who tagged; to the members who helped and to all who contributed to the Tag Day.

The secretary stated that $113.50 had been collected by the ladies for Fair Prize money.

It was decided to plan a bus trip to Watertown, September 19. Mrs. George Hill was appointed convener for the outing.

Mrs. Charles Whytock had charge of the program and introduced Miss Lamoine West B.A., who is on the staff of Stamford Collegiate, Niagara Falls, Ont., who addressed the members. In an interesting informal talk she outlined her work as vocational guidance director and cited many instances she had contacted in her teaching that had proved successful.

Mrs. R. McCoy entertained the members with a vocal solo, "Genevieve", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. Whytock.

Mrs. S. R. Beatty expressed words of appreciation to Miss West, Mrs. McCoy and to the hostess.

Refreshments were then served.

Women of the Moose

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose Chapter 435 was held last night in the Saco Club rooms with a very good attendance. Senior Regent Selina Isles, presiding after the roll call of officers. One member, Evelyn English, of Trenton was initiated.

As this was alumnae month the guest speaker for the night was Miss Harriet McGeary, V.O.N., who served on the Hospital for Sick Children alumnae approximately 15 years, being the first editor of their paper and also served as secretary. The talk was interesting and, enjoyed by all. The guest was thanked by Co-worker L. Downes, who invited her and by the Senior Regent on behalf of the officers and, co-workers.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by recorder, Gladys Ritch, also communications and "thank you" notes.

The tablecloth donated by Junior Regent Peggy Mintz, was won by Guide Marg Mallette.

The evening was brought to a close with the monthly birthday party. Grad. Regent Kathleen Donnavon and co-worker Lena Murray, opened their gifts and thanked the co-workers for their thoughtfulness.

Delicious refreshments were served by homemaker Eva Littles.

RAWDON

Mr. and Mrs. John Rainie, and James, and Miss Emma Rainie, of Wellmans, were dinner guests at Kingston on Sunday and visited the Thousand Island Bridge at Ivy Lea.

Mrs. Agnes Jackson, of Detroit, is holidaying with her brother, Mr. Frank Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, Rawdon, and visiting other relatives.

Mr. S. J. Elliott, of Sine, is ill at his home.

Born on Sunday, August 13th, at Mrs. Everett Sine's Maternity Home, Rawdon, to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Vanhorne, a son, Wayne Percy.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Warren, of Kingston, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. James Warren.

Rawdon friends have been extending congratulations to Mr. John Sheridan, who lives in the village of Stirling, as his horse namey "Lucky" won the Silver Trophy donated by Dr. Russell Scott, for the best horse on halter light breed, at Belleville Fair. John also won several other prizes on his horse.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Rawdon, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Bill Montgomery, Bobby and Barbara on a motor trip to Watertown, N.Y. on Sunday, via Ivy Lea and the Thousand Island Bridge. On their return home they visited their aunt Miss Mary Montgomery, who is spending the summer months at Ivy Lea Inn.

Magnetic Hill

Mrs. Harry Ketcheson, who is holidaying in the Maritimes, has sent her sister at Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, a postcard showing "The Magnetic Hill" at Moncton, N.B. Molly writes as follows: "Believe it or not, drive your car to the bottom of the hill, stop at a certain point, shut off your engine, put gears in neutral, and your car backs up the hill without any power." Molly and her friend did just this and eventually they were at the top of Magnetic Hill.

Rev. Boyd Beckel, who is on the Ivanhoe circuit at present has started his visits around the various communities. At General Council, the end of September, it will be definitely decided just where Mr. Beckel is to be stationed.

Tree Crashes Hydro Line

Last Tuesday forenoon, the folks on the Anson line were suddenly minus their hydro. The construction company were at work and the large bulldozer was busy upsetting trees on the south side of the road near Mr. Menzie's farm. A large elm was uprooted and it crashed breaking two hydro wires which had been newly installed in July. The force of the weight on the wire tore the transformer loose on the pole at Bedfords Corner and the Campbellford Road and that in turn jerked the hydro wire and attachments from the MacMullen home. Mrs. MacMullen was busy with the weekly wash and everything stopped short with a resounding bang.

The hydro men were soon on the scene but it was almost five hours later before washing operations could be resumed as the men first put the full line in order so that Central Cheese Factory could continue operations. We presume that a few people who depend wholly on electricity ate a cold dinner. The break affected a large number of hydro consumers.

The hydro men said they had to omit their dinner and keep on working to repair the damage. Half way down the road between the corner and Ralph Jeffs the fuses on the poles were blown, and it was most fortunate that there was no further damage.

New Type of Contact Lenses Offers Many Advantages

New lamps for old" was one of the most appealing sales talks ever voiced. If you remember your Arabian Nights, the villain uttering this cry had an ulterior motive, control of the Genie that lived in Aladdin's lamp. Today, however, the staid and respected organization of Optometrists is to get the wind up about "new lamps for old" and this time the genie performs his magic on your eyes.

The growing current of excitement receives its impetus from the astonishing results of the new type of contact lenses developed since the war. The new lenses, superior in almost every respect to the old type lenses literally gives the wearer new eyes for his old ones.

The 'Corneal Contact Lens' or the 'Tuohy Corneal Lens' to give it its full title, is a tiny hemisphere of almost unbreakable plastic, about two fifth of an inch in diameter. It weighs less than half a gram and fits right over the cornea of the eye. The cornea is the outer transparent coat of the eyeball which covers the iris or colored part of the eye.

Fluid Cushion

This tiny sliver of methylmethacrylate rides over the cornea on the film of tears that constantly bathes the eye and does not come into direct contact with the eye or any part of it. It is held in place by surface tension and by the upper eyelid which overlaps about 2 millimeters of the lens. Gravity, pulling on the weight of the lens tends to cause it to drop down slightly on the eye, but the blinking of the upper lid retrieves it in jig time. The upper lid also comes in handy for maintaining the position of the lens over the cornea when the eye shifts sidewise or up and down.

This ability of the lens to perform its peculiar magic in the adjustment of vision without touching the eye is one of the reasons why the corneal lens will ultimately replace the old style of contact lens that fitted into the eye with elaborate trouble, and could be worn only for limited time.

One of the bug-bears of the old style lenses was the fact that the lens fitted the eye so tightly that it shut off proper circulation resulting in a change in the eye's metabolism and a resultant 'fogging' or 'blurring' that made their continued use impossible. This fogging limited use of the lens from four to eight hours usually.

With corneal lens, however, the fluid behind the lens is the natural fluid of the eye, tears produced by the lacrimal glands. Because the lens does not touch the eye, this fluid circulates freely between the posterior surface of the lens and the anterior surface of the eye, circulation is unimpaired and the lenses can be worn indefinitely.

Improved Vision

Improvements in vision using the new lenses are many and remarkable. Astigmatism, which results usually from irregularities in the curvature of the cornea, and which is hard to compensate with ordinary glasses, is done away with almost miraculously, because in effect the corneal lens does away with the defective natural cornea replacing it with a new one. This is accomplished through what is called the "lacrimal lens" or tear lens, produced between the the eye and the pastic coat. This tear lens has a refractive index —the ability to bend light — which is almost the same as the true cornea, but in the opposite direction. Corneal refraction disappears. Then adjustments in the grinding of the lenses take care of individual defects in the sight mechanism.

Eye defects requiring those great magnifying glasses commonly referred to as "bottle glasses" because they resemble the bottoms of bottles, are greatly benefited by the new type of corneal lens. The farther the glass is from the eye the greater the power needed in correction, but with the glass riding right on the cornea power corrections become minute.

Other advantages of the new corneal lens over the old contact lenses are, the ease of insertion and ejection their invisible nature which does away with the glassy-eyed appearance of the old ones; their relatively low cost—they are about half the cost of the old style contact lenses; their low weight and their tiny size.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

How many widows of 50 years of age left with an invalid mother, three teen age boys and heavy debts through a husband's long illness, how many of them could at once knuckle down to building up a paying business operated from home in a small town? Hilda Mathieson of Port Credit, Ontario, has done just this . . . And besides, she is running a business which is really helpful to her neighbors and hundreds of people in the district.

Last October, Mrs. Mathieson started a home service bureau with a staff of one practical nurse and one young baby sitter. Today her office in the front hall of her house contains two busy telephone lines and her staff totals 35 men and women. She also supervises three boarding homes for young children.

Hilda Mathieson, a trained nurse, has been through so much illness as a young girl and has had to meet so many home problems due to illness later in her own family, that she can see the desparate need for a bureau of home service. By her own pluck and ingenuity, Mrs. Mathieson is thus solving her own home problems and at the same time helping others to solve theirs.

This home service expert keep pace with day and night calls for baby sitters, practicl nurses, floor and window cleaners, caters, cleaning women, housekeepers. Many of her calls concern emergencies of one kind or other about the home. Charges are within reason and employees are responsible to the Bureau's director who operates on a commission basis.

Since its beginning last October this Port Credit home bureau has helped more than 300 home crisis in the district. Operated as a private enterprise, this special community service is a model on which other similar ones could be set up in other communities.

If you're looking for something quaint in a door knocker, keep your eye out for a medium sized weight from an old fashioned pair of scales.........For a porch seat with that Canadianna look, nothing can beat an old milk wagan seat, or a cutter seat painted a gay red.

When a lawyer makes a mistake, it is just what he wanted because it gives him a chance to handle the case all over again.
When a judge makes a mistake, it becomes the law of the land.
When a preacher makes a mistake, nobody knows the difference.
But, when the editor makes a mistake—WOW!"

Foreign Minister For West Germany Hunted by Allies

The occupation powers have a "working committee" considering how to modify the occupation statute on the subject of relations between the young republic and Britain, France and the United States.

The committee has already agreed "in principle" to give West Germany control of her foreign policy. Provision is made, however for the occupation authorities to retain some form of veto for a time.

Confirmation of the committee's plan, so eagerly awaited by the German government here, should come at the "Big Three" Foreign Ministers' meeting in Washington next month.

Considerable Control

West Germany already has considerable control of her foreign relations. She is allowed—subject to occupation veto—to negotiate treaties. She has consular officials in some countries. She is a member of a growing list of international organizations.

In this respect, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is his own foreign minister. But that does not satisfy Bonn's ambition to have a full-fledged foreign office, especially as Adenauer is disinclined to delegate any of his powers.

For several months, West Germany has had a shadow foreign office. It was set up on a semi-official basis as the "bureau for peace questions" in preparation for the day when a state of war no longer exists between West Germany and the Big Three.

Several leading officials have visited London and Paris to study foreign office organization, particularly the system of recruitment for foreign service.

Recruitment of senior members will probably revive the complaints made when West Germany's first consular officials were chosen. Some were former Nazis.

Talent to Fill Posts

As Dr. Wilhelm Haas, one of the men building the foreign service, said at the time, "there are simply not enough persons with the required talent to fill our posts at home and abroad if we do not draw on the former members of the Reich foreign office, who in many cases joined the Nazi party out of practical or moral compulsion."

The most likely candidate as foreign minister is Herbert Blankenhorn. It is believed, however, he might prefer to remain a civil servant rather than take political charge of a department.

Blankenhorn, though only 46, is often described as the chancellor's right-hand man. Dr. Adenauer is 74. Blankenhorn is a former regular foreign office official who became known in politics after the war.

He has held the key post of general secretary of Dr. Adenauer's Christian Democratic Party. He worked in Athens, Geneva, Washington and Berne as a diplomat, and at the end of the war he was in the protocol department of the foreign minister in Berlin's Wilhelmstrasse.

Legacy Hitch Hits Thirsty Pub Pals

London (CP) —Hundreds of thirsty patrons piled into "The Eagle," a quaint little tavern in the working-class district of Battersea. They had gathered to honor the memory of a teetotal pal who had left instructions for the house to "set 'em up" on the anniversary of his death.

But the party had to be postponed when broad-shouldered George Saines, proprietor of the pub, announced there would be no free beer. Somebody had forgotten to put the cash on the line.

It all started six months ago when the will of Edgar J. Gorringe, was probated. Although a non-drinker he had become a regular visitor to the tavern. He died suddenly last year.

Among several bequests he left $75 "to the landlord of 'The Eagle' to supply drinks for all my old pals on the first anniversary of my death."

"Since the terms of the will were announced I haven't heard a thing nor have I received the money," he said. "Until I get it, there'll be no free beer."

Just as the would-be celebrants were dispersing a man purporting to be representative of a firm of solicitors rushed in to tell the landlord he had permission to spend up to $30 in behalf of their late client.

But shrewd George Saines suspected a bit of trickery. "That's not good enough for me," he said "It's money on the line or no beer."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The Batawa Shoemen, who have impressed the Associated Order of Grandstand Managers lately with the rather determined way in which they lose one run ball games, are off for Smiths Falls today, where they face the Smiths Falls Royals in the first game of their best-in-five COBL semi - final series. The Batawa saga, which reads like something from Grimm's Fairy Tales, (with or without the two ems), ended as most fantasies do, with a happy ending, as the blushing bridesmaids of ten one-run ball games stepped up to the altar to accept Joe Killoran's little gift of fourth place in the standings.

* * *

Whether this gift is an unallayed blessing is open to question. The Napanees, who stood the best chance of making the playoffs, (by a system of mathematics too complicated for description in only two columns of space) are not exactly breaking their hearts over their decision not to go on in senior company. They have cast their fortunes in the Intermediate B playdowns, a cast that very likely will bring them to the finals or semi-finals in that group, and possibly, if you say it quickly, the championship. All of which is money in the till. It is unlikely that the Naps, who have been faltering of late in the COBL would have survived the first round of the playoffs, and their move into lower company seems to be a shrewd piece of business.

* * *

Batawa, on the other hand, in accepting the COBL slot, may be kissing their chances in the Intermediate A race goodbye, as it is unlikely that they will engage in two playoffs simultaneously even if they are allowed to do so. Their improved showing of late in the senior struggle warrants consideration of their chances in an Intermediate A classification. The odds are against them in the COBL playoffs and if they are eliminated in three games they will have profited, if you can use the term, by only one more game at home. Things are not always what they seem etc, and a few more days reading the fine print on the Napanee loving cup might prove it once and for all.

* * *

Gorgeous Gertrude Moran, who parlayed a fair-to-middling tennis game and a pair of lace panties into the headlines to become one of the most publicized sports personalities of recent years has finally reaped the jackpot. Miss Moran has sold her glamor to Bob Riggs and his touring tennis professionals for a neat $75,000. A suitable opponent for Miss Moran is to be chosen in the near future. We are wondering where the resourceful Mr. Riggs will find a name tennis player sufficiently lacking in ability to keep Miss Moran's glamor untarnished. Or is he going to equip her rival with slacks and hire Sophie of Saks to design new allurements for Miss Moran? Nancy Chaffey, another California miss with an eye towards glamor and an improving tennis game might be just what Riggs needs. Neither of these two lovely girls can stand one another, it is reported.

* * *

The poor, unfortunate Big Four teams open their current football campaign today, in what is supposed to be merely a formality before the Als hand the Grey Cup over to one of the western clubs, possibly Calgary to judge from reports from the stampede town. The frightening thought that maybe Calgary is stampeding again does not seem to enter their heads. The way the Big Four is built this year, with at least seven American imports on every team, including the true blue Argonauts with the slightly tattered All-Canadian label, pre-season predicting is downright suicide. Even the Hamilton Tigers, Tiger-Cats, Tabbys, or whatever feline title they are carrying this year, promise to provide more than exciting skirmishes for the Larks, the Roughriders, and the Argos. Even Lew Hayman, tearful coach of the Dominion champions, hasn't been crying outrageously in the sports pages this year. Either he has already given up on another championship which is unlikely, or he is out inventing while the odds are right.

* * *

In just a few weeks the football season opens locally, or almost anyway, when this year's edition of the Queen's University Tricolor meets Balmy Beach in an exhibition game in Kingston. One week later, September 23, they entertain the Ontario Agricultural College, and then, after an October 1st tilt in Hamilton with McHaster University, they pry off the Intercollegiate lid in Kingston when they meet the University of Toronto, rivals extraordinary. Away - games with Western and McGill follow, with McGill moving to Kingston on October 28, and Western due on November 4th. They clinch the intercollegiate crown November 11 in Toronto.

The racoon coat season is almost on us and we haven't had three decent days of summer. Not too full this time. Thank you.

Sports Shorts From Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 25—(CP)—Britain's youngest jockey, 14-year-old Lester Piggott, was born to the saddle.

His father and grandfather were jockeys and his mother twice won the only British race open to women riders.

"There was no question of him ever being anything else but a jockey," Piggott Sr. says of the 84-pound teen-age star who rides successfully against established veterans such as 45-year-old Gordon Richards and 42-year-old Charlie Smirke.

Lester won his first race at 12 years of age and came home a winner on the Case, a 10-to-1 shot. In the two years since then he's ridden more than 25 winners, although because of his light weight he often draws horses that have little chance on form.

Because he is so light, he sometimes put up as much as 28 pounds of "dead" weight on horses slated to carry 112 pounds, which is about the average on British tracks.

A rider's life is a hard one, but most schoolboys envy Piggott because he doesn't go to school. Instead, he takes private lessons at home.

He also studies form charts. His father says he knows pretty well what chance his horse has in every race by studying its form and breeding.

Amateur jockey Edward Underdown has been "warned off" the course for three months — but there's no stain on his record.

Besides being a race rider, Underdown also is a successful movie actor. When he signed a contract to play in the picture, "Man Detained," he had to accept a clause saying he wouldn't ride for three months.

One of Britain's best-known owners, Miss Dorothy Paget, is at odds with another trainer. Henri Jelliss, Newmarket trainer and jockey, has asked her to find a new man to look after the 12 horses he trained for her.

"I find it quite hopeless to go on with the 12 horses I have, so I have decided to finish," Jelliss told reporters. Miss Paget declined comment.

Jelliss became chief trainer for Miss Paget in 1947 after Walter Nightingall decid[illegible] connection with the stable. Her jumping horses are trained by Fulke Walwyn.

Next to the Aga Khan, Miss Paget is perhaps the country's most successful owner. She is particularly well known for her frequent coups with Irish two-year-olds in cheap selling races.

Hi Lee Disqualified, Bout Given to 'The Angel' After Each Grappler Secured Fall

Hi Lee's dark villianies in the ring finally caught up with him last evening as referee Bunny Dunlop awarded the French Angel the third and final fall, and the main bout of the wrestling show staged in Memorial Arena.

More than 1,800 fans, one of the largest crowds of the season, roared their approval as the diminutive Angel's arm was raised in victory. Outraged at what he considered to be highway robbery Hi Lee ran amok striking down referee Dunlop and attacking the Angel after hostilities had been officially closed. As the crowd swarmed up to the ring, Dunlop jumped on Lee's back while the Angel gave the exposed portions of the Lee anatomy a thorough going over. The Ozark Giant tired quickly of this sport and begged off, finally stalking into the dressing room amid the derisive screams of the faithful.

The main bout itself produced only slightly more excitement than the guerilla warfare which followed. Lee, complete with a hairdo that resembled a Fuller mop and a beard that looked like a wire brush, was only slightly less repulsive than the Angel, who drew gasps of astonishment as he entered the ring. The Angel who barely came up to the Ozark Giant's arm pit, looked to be having the best of the bout initially when Lee suddenly reversed proceedings with a choker hold of the Angel's neck followed by a full body spread to take the fall, after six minutes.

Polished Off

The enraged Angel, who had had to put up with near strangulation in the first set-to, elbow smashed Lee into submission in five minutes of furious going, polishing him off with his famous bear hug.

In the finale Lee resorted to his old strategy of eye gouging, incurring the wrath of referee Dunlop as well as that of the Angel. Dunlop, in the process of pulling Lee away from the Angel was thrown over the ropes onto the concrete floor, and after recovering his somewhat disturbed sensibilities, climbed into the ring and awarded the bout to the Angel who had been subjected all this time to a foul amount of torture at the hands of Lee.

This was followed by Hi's post bout battle and eventual submission.

In the main preliminary, the Masked Marvel kept his identity a secret by decisioning Warren Bockwinkle in eighteen minutes of fast fighting. He finished the job with a series of back breakers.

Tennis Talk

Gossip From The Courts of The District

BY "DIG"

A very fine display of tennis was witnessed at the Quinte Tennis Club last Sunday on the occasion of the tennis tournament run by the Bay of Quinte Tennis League. Some very attractive trophies were given to the winning contestants. Prize winners were as follows:

Men's doubles: Winners Con Moolenburgh and Tom Burnett: runners-up Thorold Horwood and Perry Everett; consolation Jerry Ireland and Harold Moon.

Mixed doubles: Winners, Thorold Horwood and Hilda Finlan; runners-up Con Moolenburgh and Jo Gist; consolation, Laurence Horwood and Iona McDonald.

On Friday September 8th (remember the date) the dance at the Club Commodore is going to take on a tennis atmosphere. A block of tickets is being reserved for tennis fans of the district and tickets priced at 80 cents per couple or 40 cents each are obtainable from the secretary of any of the local tennis clubs. This should be a good do.

The competition for the Corby Cup got under way Wednesday when Batawa met Quinte One in the first leg of their home and away series. The return game is scheduled for Batawa tomorrow. By the way this Corby Cup is a magnificent trophy and was on display at the league tournament last Sunday.

The league schedule finished last Monday when Point Anne trimmed the Bata Shoe squad by four matches to one thus making the final A league standing as follows:

Point Anne	43
Trenton	34
Quinte Two	29
Quinte One	21

Point Anne are once again champions of the Bay of Quinte Tennis League and have the distinction of having won the trophy three times, every time that it has been up for competition since the war. This is indeed a very creditable performance, but from all accounts they will have to fight hard to win the championship again next year. They have won the right, by finishing on top of the league, to play the winner of the Kawartha League in the Peterborough district.

'Tis said that Fred Bayliss of Trenton and Gwen Bennett of Point Anne have been seeing rather a lot of each other lately and the clubs are wondering whether Point Anne will get another man or Trenton another lady on their team next year.

Aussies Need Only One Victory To Capture Cup

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—Australia today sends the world's best doubles team, Wily John Bromwich and slashing Frank Sedgman, against the United States, needing one victory to recapture the Davis Cup, emblem of international tennis supremacy.

Things have never looked darker for Uncle Sam's court-covering nephews, their backs nailed against the wall by a brace of bold youngsters from down under who swept the opening singles matches yesterday with shocking decisiveness.

First Sedgman, Australia's 22-year-old champion, polished off Tom Brown Jr., 6-0, 8-6, 9-7. Then Ken McGregor, a strapping 21-year-old athlete, stunned a crowd of 8,000 by subduing the American ace, Ted Schroeder, 13-11, 6-3, 6-4.

It was the first defeat in Davis Cup play for the 29-year-old Crescenta, Calif., refrigerator salesman, a seasoned world campaigner. Sedgman's triumph, on the other hand, was not unexpected.

Now the United States is faced with the task of winning the next three matches to keep the big silver bowl they lost to the Aussies in 1939 but wrested away in 1946 to hold for the last four years.

Odds are highly against it. The Americans are a weary, desperate make-shift crew. The Australians are young, daring and supremely confident.

To face Bromwich and Sedgman today in the climatic match, the United States dished up a patchwork tandem of Schroeder and Gardnar Mulloy.

Schroeder was a substitute after Bromwich and Sedgman had proved their superiority over the No. 1 American team of Mulloy and Billy Talbert in the national doubles at Brookline, Mass

Mulloy is 35, a Davis Cup veteran like Bromwich, 32, who helped win the trophy for Australia 11 years ago.

Minimum Hourly Raise of 10 Cents Hour at Chrysler

Detroit, Aug. 26—(AP)—In an unprecedented move for the automobile industry, Chrysler Corporation and the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) Friday announced minimum hourly raises of 10 cents for all Chrysler's 120,000 employees over and above their recently-signed contract.

The company estimated the total cost at $25,000,000 yearly.

About 93,000 hourly - rated workers will get a 10-cent-an-hour boost. Some 7,000 skilled employees will get that and an additional five cents an hour. About 20,000 salaries employees will get seven-per-cent raises, with a minimum of $17.50 more a month.

Bateman Motors In Third Place Down Avon 15-4

Jack Holmes made his debut in the Commercial Softball League last evening a memorable one by slow-balling Bateman Motors into third place tie with Avon Jewellers in the B section by beating the Jewellers 15-4 in nine innings.

Holmes is new on the Bateman squad by grace of the other managers in the B section who allowed the Motormen to pick up a replacement for pitcher Ray Hedger who was sidelined by an operation. The Motormen picked a dandy. He was given lots of support at the plate too, as his mates clubbed Arch Bellis for 17 safeties including Jud Semark's three run homer in the ninth inning.

Bateman's opened with two tallies in the first frame on two singles, a walk and two errors. They added a third in the third and another in the fourth. Two more in the sixth gave them a comfortable lead but they made it a route in the ninth smashing out eight hits, and taking advantage of two errors to pour over nine runs.

Avon collared their first tally in the fifth with Arch Bellis, who walked and went to third on a passed ball and a fielder's choice, coming home on a passed ball. They added another in the sixth on a single by B. McTaggart and a double by brother Willard McTaggart. The jewellers finished with two in the bottom of the ninth on two hits and a walk.

Best at the plate was Bateman left-fielder Laurie Wright with four singles in five tries. Callaghan had two singles and a double in five trips for the winners. For the losers, Willard McTaggart had three of the team's eight hits.

Holmes claimed the win for Bateman's walking one, striking out seven, and giving up eight hits for four runs. Bellis walked five, struck out three, and was slugged for 17 hits and 15 runs.

Lineups:

Avon Jewellers: B. McTaggart 2b; E. Cowan c; W. McTaggart lf; McBride 1b; Roy Reid 3b; A. Bellis p; Miller rf; Ethier ss; Ford cf.

Score by innings		R	H	E
Avon J.	000 011 002—	4	8	7

Umpires: plate, Pointer; bases, Young. Time 1:10.

Commercial Loop Standings

Conditions in the standings of the "A" section of the Commercial Softball League have became as crowded as the blackhole of Calcutta with two teams tied for first place and three more deadlocked in second place.

Howe and Hagerman and Brewers Warehouse are all finished for the season and are tied at the top of the loop. Point Anne Cementmen, Ramsay Paints and Stewart-Warner are tied in the runner-up slot. Brewers and Plumbers will play a sudden death game to establish their playoff positions.

Ramsays and Stewart Warner will tangle Tuesday night with the losers dropping out for good. Point Anne meets Stephens Adamson next Friday.

Standings thus far are:

Team	GP	W	L	Pc.
Howe and Hagerman	10	8	2	.800
Brewers Warehouse	10	8	2	.800
Point Anne	9	4	5	.444
Ramsay Paints	9	4	5	.444
Stewart Warner	9	4	5	.444
Stephens Adamson	9	0	9	.000

A Weekly Peek At The Soccer Picture

BY ELDEE

Today sees the final of the Belleville Charity Cup between Trenton Flyers and Batawa. These are the two teams at present at the top of the Bay of Quinte League and a real ding-dong battle is assured. All proceeds from this series go to a fund for the assistance of injured soccer players. Frank Follwell, M.P., has promised to be on hand to present the cup to the winning team.

Today Belleville visit Brockville in search of Eastern Ontario League points. Although Brockville lost last Saturday at Peterborough, they are a hard team to beat on their own ground.

Next Monday evening 6 R.D. are at home to Belleville in the Bay of Quinte League, and on the result of this match could very easily depend who finally occupies the third slot in the final league standing. Both teams have six points but the Depot boys have a slightly better goal average. With the Vets ceasing to operate there are a few blank spaces in the league schedule.

	W.	L.	P
Batawa	7	1	19
Flyers	7	0	18
6 R.D.	2	5	6
Belleville Utd.	1	8	6
Trenton Merchants	1	8	3

Trenton Merchants and Trenton Flyers tie together for the Trenton Challenge. They won the right to enter the final by their victories last Monday evening in the semi-finals. An unfortunate occurrence happened at the Batawa-Flyers game at the Air Station. Tommy Sneddon the referee failed to show up and a substitute was picked from amongst the spectators. Mr. Gill of Trenton who volunteered for the job had a heart attack immediately after the game and dropped dead on the ground. All soccer fans will sympathize with the family in their sad bereavement.

Last Saturday we tried to get a plug in for the old town in the 'Old Country', when we mentioned that Colchester United were to play their first match since election to the English. Unfortunately the printer made an error and it came out as Clochester. Well Colchester or Clochester they managed to play a no score tie game in their first match last Saturday.

Newark Dog, Cat Owners Gain Temporary Victory

Canine pickets and irate animal lovers won a temporary victory over a city proposal to limit the number of dogs and cats in Newark homes.

Just before the start of a public hearing on the ordinance, public affairs director Stephen Moran announced that the pet clause in a housing standards ordinance apparently was prepared in "undue haste."

He told a score of pet owners, accompanied by placarded dogs, that numerous protests were "in a large degree justified." However, he added, a separate ordinance bill will be introduced in the future to limit the number of pets per dwelling.

Fence-Busters of Fenway Park Making Bold Overtures to Take A.L. Pennant After Poor Start

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Shade of 1948 and 1949—the Boston Red Sox are on the march.

For the third time in as many seasons, the fence-busters from Fenway Park are making bold overtures to take the American League pennant after poor starts.

The Sox ran out of gas the last two years but appear well supplied for their latest bid.

Steve O'Neill's men threw the race into a four-team dog fight last night as they turned back the league-leading Detroit Tigers 6-2, for their 11th straight victory.

The triumph moved the Sox to within 3 1-2 games of the Tigers and reduced Detroit's advantage over the runner-up New York Yankees and the third-place Cleveland Indians to 1 1-2 games.

The Red Sox, however, trail the Tigers by six games in the important lost column. They also play only 18 of their remaining 34 game at home while the Tigers play 23 of their 39 in Briggs Stadium.

But, at the moment, the Sox are the talk of the town in Boston. A capacity crowd of 34,964 fans showed up at Fenway Park last night to watch as Lefty Mel Parnell defeated the Tigers on nine hits in outpitching veteran Dizzy Trout.

Young Ed Ford pitched New York to a 10-0, four-hit victory over St. Louis Browns in Yankee Stadium. He fanned seven in winning his fifth game without a loss. The Yanks supported Ford's classy, pitching with a 16-hit barrage.

Chicago took a twi-night doubleheader from Washington, 6-1 and 10-5, to extend the Senator's losing streak to seven games. Ken Holcombe was the winner in the opener and reliefers Luis Aloma in the nightcap.

Phils Win In 15th

In the National League, the Philadelphia whiz kids continued to roll along. The league leaders downed Pittsburgh Pirates 9-7 in 15 innings under the lights at Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn's runner-up Dodgers blanked Cincinnati Reds 6-0 to remain five games back of the Phils. Don Newcombe blanked the Reds on seven hits as the Dodgers stretched their winning streak to nine games.

Chicago Cubs edged the Boston Braves 7-6. Hank Sauer smashed two home runs for the visitors and doubled in the ninth to start a game-winning rally.

Brilliant relief pitching by Al Brazle featured St. Louis Cardinal's 7-4 victory over New York Giants. Brazle yielded only two hits in 5 1-3 innings to pick up his 10th victory. A defeat would have dropped the Cards into fifth place.

FRANKFORD

Johnstown Wins Sidney League Finals Easily

Frankford — Johnstown hammered out an 18-3 victory over Centenary Thursday night, to cop the Sidney League finals two straight, before a large crowd in Frankford. As in the first game, Johnstown sluggers just couldn't be held down, and coupled with loose fielding by the Centenary club, they made the most of every opportunity. Harry and Burkitt shared the pitching for Johnstown while Centenary used Carlton, Short and Edmundson. This is the first time that Johnstown has won the league championship, although for the past three years they have been a strong contender.

At the close of the game the Centenary team, playing the true sports came over to congratulate the Johnstown boys on their championship, as President Lawrence Slingerland presented the trophy.

OWEN SOUND NEARLY IN

Owen Sound, Aug. 26—(CP)—Owen Sound Crescents all but put the Ontario Senior Lacrosse championship in their pockets Friday night by smashing Brampton Excelsiors 16-5

St. Catharines Athletics must win all of their three remaining games to tie Crescents who need a single win in two games to move into the Mann Cup playdowns for the Dominion championship.

Playing coach Doug Gillespies got two goals and five assists for Crescents. Jack Mason got two goals while two apiece were scored by Arnold Smith, Don McWhirter, Russ Slater and Don Campbell.

FRANKFORD

Merchants Win First Contest In Playdowns

Frankford — Frankford Merchants went one step further in the O.A.S.A. Intermediate "C" playdowns, handing Frontenac a 7-4 set-back in Kingston Wednesday night. Garnie Rosenplott and Don Boyle combined on a nice pitching effort for the winners, while their team mates cracked out thirteen safeties.

Rosenplott pitched beautiful ball for six and two thirds innings fanning 11 Frontenacs, but ran into difficulty with two away in the sixth. Don Boyle took over for the remainder of the game and held on to the Frankford lead.

Appleby and Jackson both had three for four at the plate, while Rogers and Rosenplott each collected a pair of singles.

For the Frontenac team, Silver had three for five, and Corky two for three. Moy pitched most of the game for Frontenac, being relieved by Allsworth in the ninth with Snook receiving. The Frontenacs hurlers pitched good ball, but four misplays behind them proved costly.

Stan Leonard Has Good Chance To Win Title

Montreal, Aug. 26 (CP) —The 36-year hunt for a home-bred successor to Karl Keiffer as Canadian Open golf champion appears near an end, dependent on the shot-making of Vancouver's 37-year-old Stan Leonard. And he has a tough job jobSHRD he has a tough job on his square-set shoulders.

The hard-hitting Canadian professional champion—he won that title here last weekend —showed the way home to the 200-or-so pros and amateurs at the half-way mark with a brilliant 10-under-par 134 performance Friday. His total is just one stroke better than Jim Ferrier's with 36 of the 72-hole tournament to play.

Anything can happen in the final stretch today and Sunday, but the way Leonard's woods and irons behaved yesterday when he put together a 34-32 score for a sizzling 66 he has a good chance of collecting the $2,000 first-place money.

Old-timers harked back to 1914 when Keiffer, from the Royal Ottawa Club, gave Canada its last open title, as word spread yesterday around the 18th green that Leonard was 'hot'. They figured no other player on the course could duplicate the score and practically 'gave' the championship to the unassuming Leonard,

Stayed in Line

The Australian-born Ferrier, playing out of San Francisco, stayed in line with a six-under-par 67 following up his 68 first-round score Thursday. Between these two, they have a stranglehold on the Seagram Gold Cup which goes to the winner.

Somewhat Remote

Their job of overtaking the leaders are somewhat remote but consider the almost-hopeless position of Sam Snead, North America's leading money winner, who has ballooned to a 142-total. The six-foot-two pro from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., can't get his putter behaving—a perennial trouble-maker for him.

The big field was cut last night to 100 low scores and ties, which left 104 to start today with 36-hole figures of 153 or better. The list for Sunday's final 18-hole round will be the 60 lows and ties after today's play.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Aug. 26 — (AP) — Like most "old professionals" in tennis Jack Kramer is so anxious to have an open tournament that he'll even put the rap on his own racket to get one..."I'm not so sure we'd win everything," Jack said seriously..."After all, when you get out under that sun, it takes a lot of you and the amateurs are younger and more used to it"...Jack ought to know. As a touring pro, his only daytime work is banking his share of the gate, and when he finally had to come out into the sunshine for the National Pro Tournament last June, Pancho Segura knocked him off the gimmick is the prose want the strictly-amateur United States Lawn Tennis Association to promote the affair, not merely aprrove pros vs. amateur competetition..."They're the ones who are supposed to be developing and promoting tennis but they always say they don't have enough money," Kramer continued. "This would bring in a lot of money and they'd only have to put up about $10,000 for the pros it wouldn't hurt them."...Maybe not, but with 10 grand up for grabs, how many amateurs would stay amateur?

One-Minute Sport Page

Promoter Bobby Riggs is sounding out Pat Todd as a possible opponent for Gussie Moran on the pro tennis tour because a couple of years ago Pat told Gussie she was interested in turning pro... Harry Agganis, the Boston U. passing whiz, was couted several times by Neil Mahoney of the Red Sox while playing first base in Maine's "down east" league this summer...being scouted is no novelty to Harry...

Henry Johnson, one-time Yankee hurler, recently was elected constable at Bradenton, Fla., on the first ballot over three opponents...That's one time when a pitcher could win in a walk.. Looks like Michigan won't set any football attendance records this season. Stadium capacity may be reduced from 97,239 to 97,235 by a platform built for experimental television purposes.

Stocking of Brown Trout

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables)

Five of us were sitting in the living room of Les Ecorces camp in the northwest corner of Laurentides National Park, Quebec—Phillippe Gagnon, superintendent of parks; de St. Denys MacDonald, Quebec Commission of Fish and Game; George Carpenter, Outdoor Editor and Editorial Writer of the Montreal Gazette; Joe Weber of St. Louis, holder of several national casting championships and yours truly.

Naturally the talk was of fishing. In the heart of the world's finest squaretail fishing it could scarcely be otherwise. Philippe Gagnon was lamenting the fact that the streams of southern Quebec gradually were becoming fished-out.

Squaretail are enthusiastic feeders. In addition, they have a weakness for gaudy flies. Thus, between the bait fishermen and the fly fishermen, it is a comparatively simple matter to remove practically all of the legal-size squaretail from a stream in the space of a few weeks.

Brown Trout The Answer

Quebec City has a population of about 200,000 and the rod pressure on nearby streams is heavy. Stocking with what trout the hatcheries can raise is not equal to the demand. What then to do about it? How can even passable fishing be provided for the anglers who have neither the time nor the money to travel to the less accessible waters?

I listened to Phil's problem with interest. Forty years ago we in the trout-fishing state east of the Mississippi were faced with the same state affairs. Because of lumbering operations, which removed the forests and raised stream temperatures, our crisis was even more acute.

We found the solution of our trout problem in the European Brown Trout-the 'German Brown' as he was first called.

Among the old guard there was a great deal of complaint about brown-trout stocking here in central Pennsylvania. I have seen seasoned anglers, old enough to know better, tear the hooks from small brownies and then throw the little fish far back among the bushes.

"Dutchmen" they called them, and "Cannibal Browns"—a serious menace to any stream and not fit to eat.

Easily Naturalised

Viewed now, in the clear light of many years of experience, the brown trout is a worthwhile citizen whose naturalization has been a multiple blessing.

A brown trout can tolerate higher water temperatures than can the brook trout. He likes big water. Thus, his presence in our streams has increased our trout waters in these parts by at least forty per cent. The lower portions of our larger streams, which gave us only bass fishing when I was a boy, now show us excellent trout fishing.

Equally important the brown trout has been directly responsible for the development of the pleasant pastime of dry-fly fishing in this country. He feeds readily to a hatch of drifting insects—far more readily than do adult brook trout.

Last, and perhaps most important of all, the brown trout is difficult to catch. His natural selectivity when feeding protects him from serious inroads on the part of the limit-takers—the meat fishermen.

To take brown trout successfully and consistently a man must learn angling. Brown trout place a high premium upon angling methods and complete familiarity with stream insects and their artificial counterparts.

I explained all this to Philippe Gagnon He is a finished performer with squaretail but he has not had the opportunity to do much brown-trout fishing.

Next spring Phil is coming to Pennsylvania to see for himself what the brown trout can do in the way of self-preservation under heavy fishing pressure. I want to take him to two or three of our good rivers.

Not Easily Caught

Last June 12th one of our rivers received its annual mid-sesaon stocking of hatchery trout. The state closed the stream, for fishing for six days to allow the fish to distribute themselves and become accustomed to natural conditions.

At noon of the sixth day fishing was once more declared legal and fishermen flocked to the stream to reap the harvest. Why they consider freshly stocked fish to be fit for the table is beyond my understanding by they seem to like them.

One of the popular places in this stream is a succession of pools and fast-water "runs" about a quarter of a mile long. In this area there were, by actual count, forty rods.

The trout many of them freshly stocked were feeding actively to a hatch of insects and they would look at nothing else. In the hour that I watched I saw one—exactly one—brown trout caught.

Offhand one might imagine that there would be many disgruntled anglers among these thirty-nine troutless fishermen. Not at all. The fish were there, in sight of all and if none were caught that surely was not the fault of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

Brown trout offer a challenge to test the skill of any angler. Our local fishermen gradually are learning that it is more fun to match wits with brownies in the big rivers than it is to pick up an easy limit of small squaretail from one of the feeder streams.

As I say, I told all this to Philippe Gagnon, Superintendent of Parks of the Province of Quebec and later to the Minister, Hon. C. E Pouliot. It is my honest belief that the brown trout would provide ample sport for the anglers who must, of necessity, limit their fishing to streams in the vicinity of the more heavily populated areas. A stream that has been stocked with brown trout is not easily fished out and it will provide sport for a multitude of fishermen.

Grace De Moss Favored to Win Golf Tourney

St. Charles Golf Course, Winnipeg, Aug. 26 (CP)—Grace De Moss of Corvallis, Ore., tramps the fairways of this tree-lined layout twice today, favorite to recapture the Canadian Women's Open golf championship she won last year at Vancouver.

Her opponent in the 36-hole final is steady Dot Kielty of Los Angeles, winner three weeks ago of the Tam O'Shanter—billed as the world championship amateur tournament.

Miss Kielty, member of the winning U.S. Curtis Cup team two years ago, yesterday eliminated Babs Davies of Vancouver, last Canadian in the Canadian Open, by a 3-and-1 score.

Miss De Moss defeated Mrs. Eddie Bush of Hammond, Ind., 4 and 2, in the other 18-hole semi-final.

Miss Kielty was two over par on the 17 holes played. Miss De Moss went the 16 holes in her match one under par. For the gallery, that was enough to make her favorite in today's final.

Babs Davies halved the first hole, then lost four in a row in her match against Miss Kielty. After that she didn't manage to get closer than two holes. Miss Kielty was two up at the end of nine holes, four up at the 12th. The match was dormie two at the 16th. Miss Kielty ended it on the next hole, holding out in par four. Miss Davies' second stroke—her longest wood shot of the day—carried her beyond the green and she missed on her chip and putt.

Last Canadian to win the Canadian Women's Open was Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of Toronto in 1938. There were no matches during the war. Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., won the title in 1947 and 1948—she was eliminated in the first round this year—and Miss De Moss in 1949.

Floating Bottle Damages Hull Of Lombardo Boat

(By The Canadian Press)

A floating bottle on the Detroit River course may have cost Guy Lombardo and his hydroplane. Tempo VI a place on the United States Harmsworth trophy team Friday.

The bandmaster took his craft out on the course for the trial runs which will determine the three-boat team to defend the trophy against the lone challenger, Harold E. Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., Tempo VI had barely got under way when it struck the bottle and tore a hole in its hull.

Committed to race Tempo VI at Baltimore Sunday, Lombardo immediately started the damaged craft to that city by truck hoping to make repairs, compete there and return for Harmsworth trial runs next week. Veteran speedboat experts doubt he can do it.

Fifteen boats, headed by Horace Dodge's My Sweetie and Seattle's world record holder for the mile, Slo-Mo-Shun IV, seek the three American team places.

Slo-Mo-Shun won the recent Gold Cup, dethroning My Sweetie. The Seattle craft wasn't entered in the subsequent Detroit Memorial and My Sweetie won it.

United States and Mexican water-skiing experts took major honors at the Canadian water-skiing championships run off at the Canadian National Exhibition Friday.

The less-experienced Canadian entries were forced to be content with wins in the clised competitions.

Emilio Zamudio of Mexico City won both the boys' trick riding and jumping championships.

Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., and Frank Stranahan, the millionaire from Toledo, O., play today for the United States amateur golf crown at Minneapolis.

Stranahan played hot-and-cold golf Friday to eliminate John Ward of Clay, N.Y., 1-up, while Urzetta was as steady as a rock in sending Robert Knowles of Brookline, Mass., to the sidelines, 6 and 5.

Shooting a three-over par 74, Jack Armitage, a 53-year-old former professional, won the Ontario Senior's Golf Tournament at the Kitchener Westmount Golf Club Friday.

A. R. Wilson of Hamilton, who won last year, trailed with an 80.

Armitage now a machinist at Dundas, Ont., had four birdies and eight pars in turning in a 36 and 38.

In the class A division, for golfers between 50 and 59, D. MacLachlan of Toronto York Downs led with a gross 78 while E. B. Grass of Hamilton Glendale had low net with 83-20—63.

The Belgian Davis Cup team won a doubles victory in their exhibition match with Canada Friday night 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

The Belgian team of Phillip Washer and Jacques Brichant defeated Lorne Main, Toronto, and George Robinson of Montreal

Ray Robinson Polishes Basora In Single Round

Robinson proved for all time last night that he ranks with the ring's great boxers as he ripped and slashed Jose Basora with a ferocious assault that earned the Sugar a 52-second knockout in the first round of a scheduled 15-round championship bout.

Two weeks ago in New York, Robinson looked unimpressive in winning a 15-round decision over Charley Fusari in a successful defence of his world welterweight title.

Basora was badly hurt by last night's Robinson onslaught, and his handlers were dumfounded.

On the other hand, Robinson hardly worked up a sweat and grinned broadly as he told reporters he had fought "a carefully-planned campaign" based on Basora's weight.

Basora entered the ring at 159 3-4 to Robinson's 154 3-4, but the Sugar said he had learned Basora weighed 168 earlier in the week.

"I know he couldn't take off that much weight without it hurting him," Robinson said. "I figured I'd give him everything I had early and if I didn't knock him out in three rounds he'd be so weak he'd collapse."

Really Poured it on

Robinson really poured it on Basora. The seconds hadn't got down the steps when Basora was on the floor, rolling with a whistling left hook to the right ear.

His ear was cut so badly it was still bleeding when the fight was over. Dr. Leonard Freda of the State Athletic Commission, who refused to permit Basora to get up for six or seven minutes, said later he may have suffered an ear puncture.

A crowd of 4,145 well under expectations, paid $15,755 of which $12,435 was net. Since Robinson owes some $5,500 for running out on a previous fight with Basora, his take-home pay amounts to about $2,000 on a $7,500 guarantee.

SAME PACE AS RUTH

Pittsburgh, Aug. 26. (AP)—Pirate outfielder Ralph Kiner is moving at the same pace as the late Babe Ruth when the Bambino set his major-league record of 60 homers in 1927.

Kiner last night banged his 39th homer of the season in his 118th game. Ruth hit his 39th in the New York Yankees' 118th game 23 years ago.

Strathroy Team Wins Way Into Semi-Finals

(By The Canadian Press)

Strathroy Royals rallied for four runs in the final inning Friday night to win their way into the semi-finals of the Canadian Sandlot Baseball Tournament.

Royals edged Toronto Mayfairs 4-3 after the dramatic last-inning comeback. Windsor Nationals smashed Toronto West Yorks 11-3 to gain the other semi-final spot.

In the sole senior intercounty game Friday night, London beat Kitchener Legionnares 7-4 and won the right to meet Brantford Red Sox for first place. The three teams had finished the schedule tied for the top spot.

Joe Metral, second baseman for Guelph Maple Leafs of the Intercounty League who played for Strathroy, was the hero of the Strathroy-Windsor game. With two men on base and the score tied, he hammered what could have been a homer into centre field. He didn't bother to run it and it went into the books as a double.

Marty Phily, another Guelph recruit, took over in the seventh from Bill Wagner who had been touched for four runs in the first inning.

The West Yorks were 45 minutes late in arriving and it might have been responsible for their loss. They went right on to the field without a warm up and pitcher Alex Thompson promptly walked seven batters. Combined with Glen Skov's homer, that gave Windor eight runs in the first frame.

The game was called at the end of seven innings under a congress rule which automatically ends the game then if one team is ahead by eight runs.

London was outhit 14-7 but got the win on a five-run spree in the last frame. Trailing 4-2, the Majors, scored when Dahlberg doubled with the bases loaded.

NEEDS REVISING

Vancouver — (CP) — Air Vice Marshal F. V. Heakes (retired), Vancouver's new co-ordinator of civil defence says he is going to have to change words of a song he wrote some time ago. The original goes like this: "No foe shall conquer Russia's land, where giants walk as men, while Russians hold to the will to do and dauntless millions stand."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
THE KIBITZER

This is where I give the experts another argument. If you side with them, consider my views and then prove me wrong. Maybe you know a sound reason that they have not yet presented.

All good players subscribe to this basic rule: Lead highest of three or less; fourth best of four or more. It is also the fundamental rule when leading a suit your partner has bid.

In the suit bid by partner, acceptable to all are these two good deviations: With two touching honors in four cards, lead the top one; with only one high card in three cards, lead a small one.

With only one high card in three cards, which small one should be led? Most prominent experts say to lead the smallest one. This is where I disagree with them for good reasons.

If you lead the smallest one, partner may lead it as a fourth best of four cards. It is better to lead the middle card. Partner will then know you have less than four cards in that suit.

♥ 8 4 3 2
♣ K 7 2

South is declarer at four spades after east has bid clubs. It is your opening lead. Your first lead is in the suit your partner has bid. Which card of his suit should you lead?

If you lead club deuce, partner may think you hold four clubs. This would be the natural inference and the usual expectation from a suit of four cards. So it could easily fool him.

Lead club seven. By applying the rule of 11 he quickly learns it is not from four cards. He knows it is from three cards or two cards or one card. It tells him the least that south must have.

Thus does partner know if there is immediate danger of a south ruff of his suit. A good reason for leading the middle. If there is a better reason for leading a small, somebody should tell me.

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were talking and arguing around the letter box, and Sam Cross came up with a bandage around his neck, and I said, Oh boy, he's got a boil, I can see the bump of it under the bandage.

Jimminies, it looks fierce, Puds Simkins said, and Sam Cross said, It feels even fiercer, beleeve me. The docter is coming any minute to cut it open, and I awt to be in bed rite now waiting for him, but I wouldn't go, he said.

One time I had a fever, Glasses Magee said. My temperature went up so high the doctor said they dont come any higher, he said, and Sam said, Aw, what's a fever? I'm going to go under a reguler operation as soon as the doctor gets here. You fellows awt to feel proud you know me, he said.

I was under a operation once, Shorty Judge said. I had a back tooth growing down instead of up, and when the dentist pulled it out he had to give me stuff to nock me unconscious and prevent the pane, he said, and Sam said, The doctor better not try to give me anything, because I wont take it. I'm going to sit there chewing bubble gum and watching myself being operated on, he said.

Aw, how are you going to watch the back of your own neck? I said, and Sam Cross said, Didn't you ever hear of mirrers? I'm going to hold up a little mirrer so I can see the back of my neck in the big mirrer, he said, and Puds said, Go on, you're not even old enough for the barber to hold up a mirrer so you can see how good he cut the back of your hair.

Which just then something dropped and started to bounce. Being a marble, and there wasn't any bump under Sam's bandage any more, making us suddinly remember what a famous liar he is, and we chased him all a ways home and he just got in the frunt

Emergency Action Committee Set Up in Trenton

Trenton—(Special)—Local emergency action committees are being set up throughout Ontario by the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario to maintain delivery of essential food and medical supplies in the event of a prolonged railway strike.

A. Ray Fox of Fox Cartage, has been appointed chairman of the Trenton committee by J. O. Goodman, general manager of the Ontario Automotive Transport Association. Other members of the local committee are Harry Lafferty, of Lafferty Transport; and councillor Vic Ryan who will represent council. Mr. Fox said that Quinte Transport Co. Glen Miller and Dorland Transport, Wooler, are also being asked to appoint representatives.

While local transports are able to handle the freight for the time being, "we can see it coming, and the emergency will undoubtedly be here by the end of this week, or the first of next if the strike continues," said Mr. Fox.

"Unlicensed P.C.V.'s will be pressed into service in an emergency where the licensed carriers are unable to cope with the situation." Mr. Fox emphasized that "this should not be interpreted as an attempt to break the strike, but rather as a service to the community by maintaining essential health and safety services."

These local emergency action committees are being set up in strategic centres throughout the province to maintain essential supplies and so far, 172 have been formed.

Barn Destroyed When Struck By Lightning

Tweed — Fire caused by lightning last night destroyed the barn of Wilbert Tucker, about three miles south and west of Tweed. The lightning hit the barn about 8 p. m., during a heavy thunderstorm.

Neighbors who fought the fire managed to stop it from spreading to the house, but the barn and everything in it was a total loss. In addition to the grains owned by Mr. Tucker, grain totalling about 500 bushels, which was stored in the barn, was lost.

It was not known this morning whether or not the barn was insured. Telephone service to the area was not good, and it was impossible to find out the exact circumstances surrounding the fire.

Rail Strike Sidelights

Eight baggage wagons are neatly lined up on the station platform. There was not even a single picket on the premises when the Ontario Intelligencer reporter took a stroll around the property Thursday.

The scene was one of complete desolation. Already a coating of rust is on the rails. A paper sign is tied around the post office letter box warning anyone about to drop mail into the box, "Do not use during the strike."

By contrast, the bus terminal is doing a land office business and is even taking on a cosmopolitan air as buses of all colors, companies, shapes and sizes take on and leave passengers.

People who normanlly use the railroads for travelling are switching to motor coach as a result of the strike and the Trenton terminal is selling tickets for distant points that in some cases, the ticket sellers have never heard of before. For example, on Friday, there was a request for a ticket to a small village near North Bay, that required quite a search to find the rate.

So far a Trenton man starting out on a holiday to Chicago holds the long distance record. Apparently he had been saving up for some time as he dumped $21 worth of five-cent pieces on the counter to pay for part of the ticket.

Unusual quiet reigned in Trenton Police Court Tuesday afternoon. Trains plying back and forth along Division Street always make it difficult for the magistrate and lawyers to conduct court proceedings because of the noise. However, for once, there were no shunting engines to disturb proceedings.

Trenton Pair Win High Score At Tournament

Campbellford, Aug. 24 —Conditions favored the Campbellford bowling club on Wednesday, when their annual mixed doubles tournament was held. A full entry was accommodated, and a number of bowlers were unable to participate, the draw having been filled up for several days before the game.

Rus Hubel and Mrs. Brown of Trenton were high for three wins with a score of 45-plus 9. Second for three wins were Mr. H. Martin and Mrs. Dearborn of Peterborough, with 41 plus 5, followed by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Taylor of Campbellford with 39 plus 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox of Stirling were high for 2 wins with 39 plus 10 and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brady of Campbellford were second with 36 plus 3.

Other scores for two wins were Armitage of Campbellford 39 plus 10; Nettley of Brighton 36; Conn of Brighton 39; Hill of Havelock 31; Hulin of Brighton 31; Dearborn of Peterborough 33 plus 3; Carlaw of Kingston 38 plus 4; Price of Belleville 38 plus 8; Duncan of Kingston 33; Boorne of Trenton 27; Waldorf of Trenton 38.

Scores for one win were, Rutherford of Campbellford 27 plus 1; Churchley of Port Hope 32; Wiggins of Campbellford 29; Fuller of Trenton 31 plus 4; Smart of Kingston 30 plus 3; Bolton of Belleville 31; P. Locke of Madoc 21; R. Locke of Campbellford 23; Stinson of Campbellford 23; Carleton of Stirling 29.

No wins, Spence of Lakefield 21; Bannon of Havelock 28; Kingston of Campbellford with 24 and Vice of Campbellford with 17.

Dinner was served by the ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary, and a good time was enjoyed by all, although because of the large number of entries a number of bowlers had to stand on the sidelines and merely watch the proceedings.

Results of Draw

Winners in the draw sponsored by the Campbellford Lawn Bowling Club were announced when the draw was made at the annual mixed doubles tournament held on the Campbellford Greens on Wednesday.

The proceeds of the draw will be used to repair and renovate the clubhouse, which is becoming run-down and in dire need of repairs.

Maoris Will Mark 600 Years, Trace Descent Back to Canoe

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z., (CP)—Maoris are making big-scale preparations for celebrations to mark the 600th anniversary of their arrival in New Zealand.

Though the Maoris had no written records when white people arrived, their traditions and genealogies were handed down in detail by word of mouth and from careful examination of these accounts experts have fixed 1350 as the approximate date of the great migration from the north to New Zealand.

Every Maori traces his descent back to the canoe in which his ancestors arrived from Polynesia. The landing places of the main canoes are known with fair accuracy and each canoe gave birth to a tribe which preserves its traditions to the present day.

At King's Headquarters

One of the biggest celebrations will be held in October at Ngaruawahia, headquarters of the Maori "king", King Koroki. He and his people are descended from the migrants who arrived in the canoe Tainui and a committee under the guidance of the outstanding Maori woman leader, Princess Te Puea, is preparing to mark the anniversary.

The celebrations will last for four days and to feed the visitors 40 tons of potatoes and ten tons of sweet potatoes are being stored. Sixteen sacks of cabbage plants have been planted out on one of the farms at the "king's" headquarters. Vast quantities of corn are being made into pirau, a favored Maori delicacy. Every tribe and sub-tribe is fattening pigs for the occasion.

The program includes sports events, displays of Maori culture, songs and war dances, revivals of old traditions, and a church service. Maori orators will recount the traditional versions of the voyages of the canoes in the great migration and King Koroki will present chiefs from other tribes with models of their ancestral canoes.

Display of Relics

A feature of the celebrations will be a display of relics claimed to be from the canoes of the original fleet. They will include the sacred emblem of the Tainui people—Korotangi, a carved stone bird which is believed to have been brought to New Zealand by the captain of the Tainui canoe.

The Korotangi resembles a pigeon about to take flight. It is made out of a heavy dark green stone and is about 10 inches long and weighs more than four pounds. The fine symmetrical carving is well preserved.

In the days of inter-tribal warfare the Maoris of the tribe carried the Korotangi on their expeditions and consulted it as an oracle. Then for many years it was hidden and finally was rediscovered under the roots of a tree. Now it is lodged for safety in the Dominion Museum, but will be specially lent to Princess Te Puea for the celebrations.

Plowman Unearths Buffalo Graveyard

Calgary — (CP) — "We're in a graveyard," a startled plowman explained to H. Barley when the two men began to break land for a garden in suburban Calgary.

A graveyard it was—the graveyard of thousands of buffaloes.

With each furrow made by the plow hundreds of bones ranging from large skulls to small ribs were turned up. In clearing the three-quarter acre garden, Barley collected 2,600 pounds of buffalo bones which he sold to a fertilizer concern for $15 a ton.

About 75 years ago Barley's garden was one of the many pounds where Indians and white men wrote one of the blackest chapters in the history of the west. It was here that buffaloes were slaughtered by the thousands.

Barley's garden lies at the base of a steep cliff. The buffalo were stampeded on the plains above so that they thundered straight for a funnel-shaped corral constructed so the narrow end opened at the top of the cliff. In the fall from the precipice they were either killed or made easy kills for hides.

The Gentle Heart

By Kay Hamilton

"Look at that stance!" Dick said proudly. "Maybe he could be a show dog, too."

Jenny smiled at him. She had never seen him so completely happy. "How did Pete and Elsa like their gifts?" she asked. "I imagine they were very pleased with them, weren't they?"

"Oh sure." He turned his ankles over with emberrassment, and sought for a change of subject. Suddenly he dived into his overcoat pocket. "Say I almost forgot! This is for you."

Jenny was delighted. She unwrapped the clumsy package slowly while Dick almost jumped out of his skin with impatience It was flat, but very oddly shaped, and she couldn't imagine what it was. It emerged as a cheese board sawed into the outline of a fish, with its edges neatly beveled and sanded.

"Why Dick!" she exclaimed with real pleasure. "I think it's lovely. And I know that you must have made it yourself"

"Sure, sure," he muttered.

"But you must have been terribly busy," she said. "How did you get all these things done in time? You're a wonder!"

"Aw it wasn't hard. 'Course I finished this at school, or you would have seen it. That's why I had to finish Pete and Elsa's things here." He looked around at the others and said, half apologetically. "I-I didn't have time to make things for everybody, but Jenny was—was—"

"Special," Brent supplied, smiling.

"Yeah, that's right. Special. Well, I'm glad you like it. Come on, Bruce, we got to call on Mrs. Folsom now."

When he had gone, Jenny put the cheese board down beside her other gifts. She was more touched than she dared show him more deligted with the change in him than she could say. She thought swiftly that wise Elsa could not have chosen a better way to please him than by the gift of the scottie pup. It would mean more work a little more crowding of the small house, but it would be worth it, she knew in happiness for the entire family.

Gary came in time for Christmas dinner, with gifts for everyone. He had brought on electric timer for Jenny; a clip-on light for Diane's make-up mirror, and for Natalie there was a small, blue-white diamond set in a nest of tiny gold flowers. It was a ring which suited her to perfection and Jenny thought happily that he was a man of deeper perceptions than she had imagined.

In fact, she decided, studying him covertly during the meal, he seemed changed somehow. Happier, of course But there was something else; he was more relaxed more natural in manner as if, having at last given up his stubborn stand he was determined not to look back on it in any way. She thought that he would be more comfortable to live with than she had expected and that was a relief too. For it was not going to be easy for them all to live together when he and Natalie married.

And then she said to herself, "But so much easier than I had anticipated. If it had been Natalie and Brent . ." Her heart swelled with thankfulness.

After dinner she had to have a nap. "Doctor orders," Diane reminded her. She lay on the worn couch in the living room and listened to the chatter in the kitchen. Drowsily, until sleep overcame her and she drifted off into a restful slumber. She woke to see Diane gazing down at her with a loving smile.

"You had a good long one," her sister said. But now I think it's time you had your hair brushed. And I've brought down your powder and lipstick and your silk robe.

Jenny sat up with a yawn "What do I have to be prettied up for?" she asked. "More visitors coming?"

"One anyhow," Di said with a mysterious nod. "Now hold still so that I can do your hair properly. It should have been cut. It's getting too long, but never mind, I'll do something with it."

She would have worked in silence, but Jenny's curiosity was aroused. "Who's the visitor?" she demanded. "She must be someone special for all this preparation."

Diane said with two bobby pins between her teeth, "It's a man Now, don't ask questions. This is a surprise!"

That only whetted Jenny's desire to know more "A young man or an old one?"

"Old. Now, Jenny please!"

"Hmph! Dr. Higbee," Jenny guessed. "I don't have to get prettied up for him!"

"It's not Dr. Higbee and I'm not prettying you up for the visitor. There! Now you look presentable."

Jenny suddenly became aware of noises. Small noises and not too readily identified. There was movement upstairs. And low voices. And there were several people in the studio too, she decided. At that very moment Mrs. Henlo came in from the pantry carrying a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

"How lovely!" Jenny exclaimed. "Who sent them?"

Mrs. Henlo hurried off without answering and Diane began to move around the room like a whirlwind. Cushions were plumped up, chairs pushed aside, Jenny's brush and comb were deposited in a desk drawer and the long table pulled over to one wall. Jenny's music was swept off the music rack of the old piano and Diane gave the bench a perfunctory dusting.

"What goes on here?" Jenny cried, but no one would tell her. Brent came in from the studio and she glimpsed Fred and Max and Gary sitting in the large workroom, surrounded by clouds of smoke before he closed the door. He took another large vase of chrysanthemums from Mrs. Henlo who came in from the pantry at that moment, then went out and brought in a large spray of white antirrhinum and carnations.

He stopped once, as he passed Jenny's chair, and stooped to kiss her lightly on the forehead. "Exciting, isn't it?" he teased her. When he had arranged the flowers on the long table to suit himself he moved her wing chair back until it almost touched the mantelpiece. Then he began to push the couch toward the front window.

"Are you children going to have a dance?" Jenny asked.

He only smiled enigmatically "We won't have to roll up the rug," he said.

After that things began to move with astonishing speed. The doorbell rang, and Brent greeted the masculine visitor. They spoke in such low voices that she could not make out who he was and Brent the wretch led him toward the back of the house so that she could not see him.

Max came out of the studio looking flushed and excited, and the scurryings around upstairs became more marked. Jenny thought she would burst in one more minute.

Then it all began to take form The visitor came out of the hall and went to stand before the table with the flowers It was Mr. Pelham their minister. He smiled over at Jenny and she gasped with understanding. Max sat down at the piano and began to play. Fred went to the foot of the stairs and called, "All right girls!" And Gary, looking pale and breathless came from the studio with Brent to stand beside the minister.

The strains of the Wedding March filtered through the old house. Fred sat down quietly next to Jennny, and through the open doorway Natalie appeared. She wore her copper brocade dress and carried a bouquet of slightly deeper tones. Her cheeks were flushed and her eyes were bright with an unearthy happiness as she walked toward Gary and her new life.

Faith and Diane and Pete and Elsa and Mrs. Folsom came in quietly behind her, and found places for themselves. The music died away and the minister began. "Dearly beloved," he said slowly "we are gathered together..."

Jenny brushed aside the tears which obscured her vision with an impatient hand. This was a scene she wanted to remember. This was one of the happiest days of her life as she hoped it would prove the happiert of Natalie's. Her sister was radiant and Gary could not take his eyes from her. He made his responses in a firm voice but his vows were written plainly on his adoring face.

The ceremony was over all too soon, and Natalie, after that one tender kiss from her new husband turned to face her friends and family. Max played the Mendelssohn march with great eclat and a few missing notes and everyone shouted above the din.

"Isn't this thrilling?" Mrs. Folsom demanded, coming to sit on Jenny's other side. "Her engagement ring at dinner, her wedding ring at tea! I'm sure that constitutes some sort of record. For Green Ridge at any rate. And wasn't it a surprise, my dear? They have planned this ever since they knew you would be home for Christmas and not a soul breathed a word, did they? Even Dick was in on the secret, but he kept it, bless his heart. He'll be over for the refreshments, Elsa said. Probably couldn't bear to leave his new dog, even for a wedding! Oh, well boys..."

She leaned forward "Fred and Diane arranged for the catering, I understand," she began. But Jenny interrupted.

NEED CAT'S EYES TO HOLD POSITION

U.S. machine-gunners occupy a position overlooking a South Korean river, their 50 calibre weapon ready for instant action should North Korean communists attempt a crossing. Watchfulness like this pays off during the day, but at night darkness is on the side of the reds. And that is when they make most of their river crossings. — Central Press Canadian.

ARMY DRAWS UP

It seemed that neither side gained an advantage over the other due to seizure.

The unions want the same pay for a 40-hour week as paid now for 48 hours—requiring a 31-cent hourly increase—for workers in yard service. For those in train service, the trainmen and conductors want wage adjustments that would wipe out the pay differentials enjoyed by firemen and engineers.

The railroads have gone as high as 23 cents increase for yard service men, and a five-cent boost for train service men.

The White House press secretary Charles G. Ross, said flatly that the government won't make a settlement with the unions under seizure—that it is up to the carriers and unions to settle their own argument.

Under terms of Truman's seizure order, the railroads are specifically allowed to deal with profits as usual, and wages and working conditions are to be maintained as they were at the time of seizure.

ROUND OF STRIKE

Spokesmen have said the unions will not settle without equal treatment for these groups.

The negotiations were resumed last night following admonitions to both sets of disputant in separate conferences yesterday with the prime minister, who had summoned them to his office Thursday as the tie-up laid an increasingly heavy hand on the Canadian economy.

Before that, the cabinet had called parliament to assemble next Tuesday in an emergency session to deal with legislation to end the strike.

Proposed by P.M.

The renewal of negotiations was proposed by the prime minister in the hope of gainng a settlement before parliament acted on government measures, not yet disclosed but expected to be drastic in the event the strike is still on next week.

After yesterday's conferences with the two groups, Mr. St. Laurent said he had not made any specific proposals to them but had reviewed the consequences of a strike and asked them to use their own judgment.

Both sides promptly agreed to get back into direct negotiations, broken off for almost four days, and also to do their last-ditch bargaining without the help of government officials or a government appointed mediator such as attempted unsuccessfully to avert the strike earlier in the week.

Used Persuasion

All available versions of the meetings between the Prime Minister and the protagonists agreed that he had not used any coercion to bring the parties together once more.

Mr. St. Laurent himself said he had not disclosed to them the terms of any "or else" legislation he might use as a last resort, and union official also said the Prime Minister had used persuasion rather than show of strength in calling for the new talks.

No deadline was set by Mr. St. Laurent in sending the disputants back around the table, tough he was understand to have emphasized the need for a settlement before the opening of the emergency session of Parliament. One union source said he had indicated that, if a settlement could be made by the time, it was felt there would be no necessity for general legislation to deal with strikes of this kind.

For several days there have been recurring reports here that the government not only would take stiff action in the parliamentary session to halt the present strike but also would call on parliament to approve measures to prevent similar stoppages in the future.

18 ARE KILLED

One of the dead was a woman.

The Mary Luckenbach, with a crew of 49, had a smashed bow but no casualties. After picking up about 90 survivors from the sea, she put back to her San Francisco dock late last night.

The accident was blamed to the heavy fog which, at this time of year, lies like an impenetrable blanket off the coast and extends like a white finger into the gate itself.

The Benevolence carried 119 civilians, including the civil service crew which was to have sailed her on war duty; 48 doctors and other medical personnel, including 15 nurses; 200 enlisted personnel, plus an undetermined number of persons who went along for the cruise.

The Benevolence radioed at 5:04 p.m. PDT (8:04 p.m. EDT): "emergency from Benevolence to naval radio station, San Francisco. Am four miles off Golden Gate bridge. Need emergency assistance."

That was the last heard from her until the tug Sea Fox, first rescue craft to arrive found her almost submerged, a derelict with only her davits showing.

Version of Accident

The Benevolence was coming into port and the Mary Luckenbach was on her way out. They discovered themselves headed straight toward each other.

The hospital ship swung sharply to port and the Mary Luckenbach hit her on the starboard side at a sharp angle, ripping through her plates. The Benevolence took water on the starboard side, rolled over and sank in about 15 minutes in about 75 feet of water.

Sailors off the hospital ship said: "The fog was pea-soup thick; you couldn't see anything at all."

The freighter Mary Luckenbach, an 8,162-ton vessel, also built in 1944, lists New York as her home port.

U.S. Ready to Attend Tariff Conference

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP) — The United States appears ready to attend a new international conference to cut tariffs despite some congressional demands that the meeting be postponed.

Informed government officials told a reporter today they believed any American withdrawal would wreck the post war drive to expand world trade by reducing tariff barriers.

The United States and 36 other western countries are due to send representatives to Torquay, England, Sept 28 to negotiate new cuts in tariffs. The conference would be the third in the last three years.

Crops Generally Good to Excellent In All Provinces

(By The Canadian Press)

Barring a labor shortage on the prairies, Canada can expect a good harvest. If the rail strike continues, harvest laborers may be scarce in the west but even this gap might be filled by men made idle by the strike.

In all provinces crops are generally good to excellent, the labor supply adequate, wages about the same as last year, a Canadian Press survey shows. Harvesting is normal except in Alberta and Ontario, where it is a bit late.

Only about 40 men had arrived in Alberta before the railway tie-up began, compared with last year's 430 harvesters from the east. The province had asked for 500 to 600 men.

Saskatchewan, where harvesting is not yet general, has 300 farm workers from Eastern Canada and the province has sent out a call for an additional 2,300, compared with a total of 2,000 needed last year.

The British Columbia agriculture department reported a shortage of pickers in the Okanagan Valley because of reports of stone-fruit losses. Another 1,500 workers are needed.

Situation More Acute

In Ontario the biggest problem is to replace students who will be returning to classrooms in September. The situation is more acute than in other years because of the late harvest caused by the slow spring and retarded seeding.

There is no harvest-labor problem in Quebec where farmers band together and help each other.

The Prince Edward Island potato crop, expected to be approximately the same as last year, is not yet being harvested on a large scale. It is believed a call for outside labor will be made just before the harvest gets into full swing.

Sufficient Help

New Brunswick has sufficient help to take care of its grain and potato crops. No appreciable movement of workers into or out of the province is anticipated.

Manitoba reported the wage situation for the current harvest still unclear but other areas find little change from last year. Unskilled workers in the prairie grain harvest will get $6 or $7 a day with skilled men drawing $10 to $12.

In Ontario wages are about the same as last year—$80 a month including room and board. Skilled tobacco men get $10 a day.

Ontario's field crops are excellent with the yield of spring grain the largest since 1925 and fall grain the largest ever. The fruit yield is down in some categories. The Ontario hay crop was light. New Brunswick's is down 25 per cent.

Ottawa, Aug. 26 (CP) — A $65,262 estate was left by Canada's late Labor Minister, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, who died here three weeks ago, it was shown when his will was filed for probate today.

Total wealth prior to the time of Mr. Mitchell's death was $129,824.

Under the federal and provincial succession duties acts, all gifts of property or money made within five years of the donor's death must be accounted for succession duty purposes. In the five year period, Mr. Mitchell had made gifts totalling $59,649 to his wife and two sons, Humphrey F. Mitchell of Toronto and J. B. Mitchell of Ottawa.

The assets filed for probate were composed of $28,423 in bonds, $31,527 cash; personal property worth $2,000; real estate worth $2,500; household goods, $750; stocks, $63.

Communist Drive Bends Back Right Wing of US Army

Enemy Advances Despite Heavy Navy, Army Shelling

Severe fighting was reported from the shattered city of Waegwan on the central front 45 miles west of the port of Pohang.

Forty thousand of 64,000 reds pressing the whole Allied Korean defence preimeter were committed in the northern arc battle.

The line yielded most near Uihung, 22 miles north of Taegu, hub of central front communications, and just north and west of Pohang, No. 2 south Korean port on the east coast.

Earlier reports from the U.S. eighth army in Korea and Gen. MacArthur's headquarters had said the reds had been contained.

Near Pohang

AP correspondent Hal Boyle landed at the Pohang airstrip just before dark Monday and reported the reds were 2½ miles from Pohang and advancing against a severe naval and land bombardment.

In a message to the south Koreans, Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. eighth army commander in Korea, urged them to hold, and added:

"It is my belief the over-extended enemy is making his last gasp."

Gen. Walker made his statement after expressing concern over earlier optimistic comment from line troops and officers.

MacArthur's communique late Monday said the other red thrust was contained 22 miles north of Taegu near the town of Uihung. Uihung, above Taegu, was occupied Sunday by the reds when south Korean forces retreated.

Heavy Fighting Near Taegu

Heavy fighting centred late Monday north of Taegu, main communications hub of the Allied Korean central front.

Four other north Korean attacks splintered and fell back in the centre and left of the perimeter when American artillery blasted them out of position.

Without discounting the importanct of the north Korean smash toward Taegu and at Uihung, an intelligence officer at MacArthur's headquarters said the next big drive was not yet under way. He expressed belief that one red division, the 2nd, holds the key to it.

Three other red divisions, constituting the main mass still were in position between Waegwan and Kunwi, northwest of Taegu.

The north Koreans applied pressure to all points of the perimeter Sunday night and Monday but the only dents they made were on the east coast.

Use Underwater Bridge

The reds assaulted American lines near Haman, in the extreme south, bringing a column of 30 vehicles and artillery pieces to a newly-constructed underwater ford of the Nam river.

American planes swept down on the column and it was hit simultaneously by an artillery barrage that scattered the reds.

Farther north, at the Hyonpung bridgehead 14 miles southeast of Taegu, seven red tanks were reported operating.

MacArthur's spokesman said patrol activity in that sector had increased but he explained that the bridehead had been on the allied east bank of the Naktong River since Aug. 13 and the reds had not attempted to break out of it.

5,000 Killed In India Quake 13 Days Ago

New Delhi, India, Aug. 28. — (AP)—The face of Northeast India still was changing today in the wake of the devastating earthquake of 13 days ago, termed by scientists the world's fifth most severe recorded shock.

Spreading flood waters pushed further over tea gardens in Assam province, where the quake hit hardest. The death toll was in the neighborhood of 5,000.

An estimated 5,000,000 persons were reported homeless. Property damage was placed at $20,000,000. Damage to crops, farm animals and natural resources was expected to push this figure much higher.

The throwing up of the rich subsoil threatened permanent ruin to Assam's tea industry, a major contributor to India's export trade. Swollen streams, their courses changed by the upheavals, also menaced the plantations and villages with waters contaminated with injurious mineral oils and sulphur.

RAF Navigators, Pilots Will Train Canada -- Claxton

Ottawa, Aug. 28—(CP) — Defence Minister Claxton announced today arrangements have been made for the R.C.A.F. to train R.A.F. pilots and navigators in Canada.

Potential R.A.F. pilots will arrive in Canada beginning next Jan. 15 in batches of 25 every six weeks.

"Corresponding arrangements are being worked out for navigators," said Mr. Claxton, "and the full scheme will provide for training of 200 R.A.F. air crew in 1951."

Uranium Ore Deposit Found In North Wales

London, Aug. 28 (AP)— The government has announced discovery of the largest single deposits — perhaps 1,000,000 tons — of uranium located in Britain.

The Ministry of Supply said the ore, in Northern Wales, is of "extremely low yield." The ministry hinted exploitation might not be feasible.

The Department of Scientific and Industrial Research however, said the ore is "in no way inferior" to deposits being worked by the Russians in East Germany. The scientists calculated the ore would yield 80 grams — (about three ounces) a ton.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 28 (Synopsis) — The boundary between warm humid air over Southern Ontario and cooler air over Northern Ontario lies across Northern Georgian Bay and Northern Haliburton regions this morning. South of this line very warm sultry weather is forecast for today with afternoon and evening thunderstorms, while to the north, cloudy cool weather will prevail. This dividing line will edge very slowly southward over Haliburton region today, otherwise little change in the weather picture over Ontario is anticipated for today and Tuesday.

TANKER HITS BAR

Ottawa, Aug. 28—(CP)—Loaded with 4,500 barrels of gasoline en route to Ottawa where supplies are threatened by the railway strike, the Imperial Oil tanker "Imperial Lachine" ran hard aground on a sand bar in the Ottawa River near suburban Rockcliffe today.

The tanker carried Capt. A. G. Knight and a crew of 18. River men said it probably would not be possible to refloat the ship until today.

NO SMILES

RCAF ORDERS NEW AIRCRAFT, ADDS NEW SQUADRON

Operation Strength Sharply Stepped up

Ottawa, Aug. 28—(CP)—New steps to strengthen the present and potential strength of the R.C.A.F. and provide it with more fighting aircraft were announced today at air force headquarters.

The steps are these:

1. Conclusion of arrangements to buy 100 Mustang fighter aircraft immediately from the United States.

2. Signing of one of the largest single military orders in Canada's history—for an undisclosed number of F-86 sabre aircraft being manufactured by Canadair Ltd., Montreal, at a cost "considerably in excess" of $100,000,000. Previously, only 100 of these Canadian-built fighter planes had been ordered.

3. A 50-per-cent increase in the authorized strength of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets—a civilian and military sponsored body. Strength of the R.C.A.C. will thus be increased from 15,000 to 22,500.

4. Formation "immediately" of an additional fighter squadron in the regular force. At present Canada has two.

US Will Try to Tighten System To Keep Strategic Materials From Reaching Soviet Union

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP) — The United States has decided to try to tighten up the system of trade controls by which strategic materials are supposed to be kept from Russia.

State and commerce department officials concede that important war-potential goods have been leaking out to the communist countries through loopholes. But closing those loopholes involves a difficult problem of cooperation by other governments since most of them are in Western Europe.

Some American experts on economic policy say that what the United States is faced with is economic warfare with the communist countries. Others contend the question is simpler, being concerned solely with preventing the Russians from getting American or Western European goods which would aid them in a military sense.

The whole matter was reviewed by President Truman's top policy-making agency, the National Security Council, last Thursday. Reliable sources who cannot be named say the government then decided that steps must be taken to prevent the loss of important materials now going through to the Russians.

Churchill's Statement

The first important move along this line is expected to be taken by State Secretary Dean Acheson when he meets with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France in New York Sept. 12.

On another phase of the same problem, former Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared in a political speech in Britain Saturday that a British factory has been turning out tools suitable for the repair of tanks for the Russians.

But in London, Britain's overseas trade secretary said Russia is not getting any strategic war material from British firms.

Secretary Arthur Bottomley made the statement in reply to the charges by Churchill, saying:

"What has happened is that we have had essential supplies from Russia in the shape of grain and timber, and in return we have had to make payment. The goods supplied by Britain, while covering a wide range, have been outside the category of those necessary for building up war potential."

J. R. Greenwood, chairman and managing director of Craven Brothers, said that his company is finishing the first part of a large Soviet order and will continue fulfilling the order "in increasing quantities until 1951."

He said his firm has been doing business with Russia for 20 years "but under the present circumstances, we have to ask ourselves whether we are doing the right thing."

GEN. MacARTHUR ORDERED NOT TO MAKE STATEMENT

Message on Formosa Issue Was Planned

Washington, Aug. 28 ((AP)— The White House said today that President Truman directed Gen. MacArthur to withdraw a statement on Formosa "to avoid confusion as to the United States position."

MacArthur had sent a statement of his views—saying Formosa must remain in friendly hands—to the veterans of foreign wars encampment at Chicago. Later, he said he had been directed to withdraw the statement.

Ross told reporters:

"In order to avoid confusion as to the U.S. position with respect to Formosa, the President directed that the statement prepared by Gen. MacArthur on this subject be withdrawn."

Incident is Closed

Asked whether MacArthur might be relieved of his command as a result of the incident, Ross said, "the incident is closed."

Simultaneously with the announcement of Truman's action, the White House released a letter from the President to Warren Austin, U.S. representative in the United Nations. This restated the United States position with reference to Formosa so that there will be "no misunderstanding."

Truman's stated policy is that Formosa must be neutralized as far as the Korean war is concerned, but the U.S. will make no commitment other than to block any invasion attempt during the current crisis.

The White House did not elaborate on the letter Truman sent to Austin but a White House authority told reporters:

"In the field of foreign relations there can be only one voice in stating the position of the United States. This is regarded as being of fundamental constitutional importance."

Ross was informed that a number of newspapers were printing MacArthur's message despite its withdrawal. Ross would not say what he thinks other papers should do.

"Every editor will have to be guided by his own judgment," he said.

Without indicating that he had changed his views, which are known to conflict with those of the administration, the commander of United Nations forces in Korea cancelled a message he had sent to a Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting in Chicago.

He told the V.F.W. he did so regretfully.

Dash Thru Fire To Snatch Child

Wallaceburg, Aug. 28—(CP)— Two men dashed through flames to snatch one-year-old Patricia Christian from her crib when fire destroyed her parent's home Saturday night.

Mrs. Robert Christian carried three of her younger children from the house and two older ones ran out themselves. She then realized the baby was still inside. Jack Hainer and Harvey Monmey entered the house and rescued the child.

Weds Girl He'll Probably Never See

Windsor, Aug. 28. (CP)—Raymond Antaya of Windsor yesterday married a girl he will probably never see.

He has been blind nearly all his life and his wife, the former Leone McNeil, of Hamilton, has only slight vision.

They met last summer at a camp for the blind in Ancaster, Ont., and since then have carried on an extensive correspondence in Braille. Mr. Antaya is a piano tuner.

Toronto, Aug. 28. (CP) — A British Columbia youth and an Ontario girl churned through Lake Ontario waters today to win the Canadian Junior Men's and Women's One-mile Amateur Swimming championship.

The junior men's crown went to Gerry McAmee, of Vancouver, who covered the course in 24 minutes, 30 seconds, to head a field of 14 other entrants by a good 150 yards. George Leduc, Lincoln Park, Detroit, Mich., was second and Gordon Brockie, Toronto, third.

Fourteen-year-old Shirley Campbell, of Fergus, Ont., won the junior women's in a time of 27 minutes, 17 seconds to win by about 30 yards over runner-up Alanna Angus, 16, of Toronto's Lakeshore Swimming Club. Marilyn Bell, 12, also of the Lakeshore Club, was third.

Canadian National Exhibition officials said the winning times were both about two minutes slower than the Canadian records for the events.

Crystal Beach, Ont., Aug. 28 — (CP) — Fire fanned by a high wind swept through a business block in this Lake Erie summer-resort town early today and caused damage estimated at between $100,000 and $150,000.

Frank Shaubel, Crystal Beach policeman who discovered the fire at midnight in the Victoria Restaurant, was overcome by smoke while fighting the blaze. Another member of the force, John Sandel, suffered a severe cut to his left foot when a plate-glass window fell from its frame.

Two restaurants, a general store, a hardware store and a plumbing establishment were destroyed. Apartment buildings above the stores were evacuated without anyone being injured.

Fort Erie and Ridgeway Fire Departments fought the fire for four hours. Firemen said it probably was caused by defective wiring in the restaurant.

Hall Says Men Will Obey But Won't Like it

No Intimation Given What Action Cabinet Will Take

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 28 — (CP) — Striking employees will go back to work if parliament orders it, Frank H. Hall, co-leader in the strike, said today in an interview.

"If a law is passed ordering the men to go back, they will obey it but they won't like it," said Mr. Hall, chief spokesman for 90,000 international union members among the 124,000 engaged in the stoppage.

"If the law requires resumption of negotiations," Mr. Hall added, "the unions no doubt will comply."

Mr. Hall's statement came as cabinet was meeting to draft emergency legislation for ending the strike, which is to be presented before a special session of parliament convening tomorrow afternoon.

No Announcement

Cabinet rose at 1:15 p. m. EDT after meeting 2¾ hours, but at the conclusion Prime Minister St. Laurent told reporters he could say nothing on what the ministers were doing.

The Prime Minister said he could not even state whether the cabinet had settled on the course of action it will follow. It will meet again at 3 p. m.

Mr. Hall's declaration that the unions would resume work in response to a parliamentary order indicated it might not be found necessary to attach penalty provisions to any directives that might be issued from the government.

Dealing with a published report that the government might abrogate certain seniority and pension rights of employees if they refused to obey a back-to-work offer, Mr. Hall said he did not think "for a minute" that the government would do anything to prejudice employees' pensions.

Rights Defined by Law

"Their rights in this regard are set out in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act," he said. "This says that they cannot be taken away as the result of an illegal strike."

The union leader reiterated that the strikers would be opposed to compulsory arbitration —reported as one means that might be used by the government to clear up the differences between the railways and unions.

Today, there were no moves in any direction towards a settlement before parliament takes action. Union leaders met here but did not take any action along this line.

The government plans no further moves on its own before parliament is scheduled to set up special machinery at its emergency session opening tomorrow, and today there were no indications of any among the strikers and railroads.

"Intervention by parliament now is inevitable," a high government authority said yesterday after Prime Minister St. Laurent had received a personal report from union heads on the collapse of new and final negotiations with the companies Saturday night.

This informant said the government would not intervene further in the strike before placing its urgent legislation before parliament, and that this had been made plain to the union chiefs in their Sunday conference with the Prime Minister.

Meanwhile, the country's two major labor organizations—the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada—came out with a joint statement saying their membership of nearly 1,000,000 Canadian workers stands "100 per cent" behind the 17 unions involved in the strike.

Robbed of Money After Ride With Strange Men

London, Ont., Aug. 28. (CP)— Believing she was on her way to a dance in Kitchener, a woman from Preston wound up in London Saturday night, robbed of her money after she accepted a ride with four strange men.

The girl told London township police she believed she was being taken to Kitchener—until the men took her purse containing three dollars and pushed her out of the car in the Broughdale area.

Only a year in this country from Europe and employed as a domestic, the young woman had arranged to meet a girl friend at a dance in Kitchener, she said. Police said they were not sure how she came to be picked up by the men but they had not harmed her.

Three Baptist Evangelists Held At Val d'Or

Val d'Or, Que., Aug. 28. (CP) —Three Baptist Evangelists were arrested during the weekend in this northwest Quebec town on charges of obstructing traffic when they attempted to hold a public meeting.

Arrested here and taken to jail at Amos, Que., were Marquerite McCradie, a teacher in the French Protestant School, Lasarre, Que.; Jean Cloutier, Val d'Or farmer, and Ernie A. McWilliams, of Val d'Or.

The arrests brought the number of Baptists evangelists held in the Amos jail on obstruction charges to 12. Those arrested previously refused to pay fines on the grounds they were innocent of an offence. They are serving alternate jail sentences. They were arrested following disturbances at four consecutive Saturday night meetings held in the town.

Police said the weekend arrests followed a similar pattern to previous occasions. The evangelists holding their meeting on a street corner were told to move on, refused and were arrested.

FOURTH UNIT WORKING

Toronto, Aug. 28.(CP)—The fourth unit of the Big Des Joachims power development on the Ottawa River was turned on Sunday night, Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission reported. Half the total development of 480,000 horsepower now is in operation and the balance is due to be operating by the end of January, Mr. Saunders said.

PICKET CAPTAIN THANKS MOTORISTS FOR CO-OPERATION

Bob Duvall, picket captain for local strikers, said this morning that as a result of an appeal to the public in the Ontario-Intelligencer on Saturday, danger from speeding cars has greatly lessened. He wishes to thank the public for their co-operation in the matter, and asks that it be extended until such time as the strike is over.

Veterans Pay Tribute to Dead Of World Wars

Close to 209 Army and Navy veterans paid tribute to fallen comrades Sunday afternoon during annual Decoration services as 430 graves at the Belleville Cemetery were decorated.

Headed by the Salvation Army Band and by the Argyle Pipe Band, the veterans marched from the local Armouries to the foot of Bridge Street Hill where they were picked up by buses and cars for the remainder of the trip to the cemetery. The parade was headed by William Ford, president of the Army and Navy Veterans and by Parade Marshal Bobby Browning.

At the cemetery there was a brief service conducted by Rev. F. R. Harback minister of Tabernacle United Church. Major H. Honeychurch of the Salvation Army, and Father J. Buckley of St. Michael's Church.

The Kilty Band played Lament and during the period when the graves were being decorated the Salvation Army Band much loved and well known hymns.

Today officials of the local Army and Navy Veterans expressed their appreciation to Belleville and district citizens who donated flowers for placing on graves of veterans in both wars.

Lumber Dealers Begin to Feel Effects of Strike

Lumber merchants and building products dealers in the city are beginning to feel the pinch as result of the railway strike, according to one lumber dealer in the city.

Since the commencement of the strike one week ago there have been no rail deliveries of Ten Test or of gyproc the nature of these commodities and shipping distance making it not feasible for delivery by transport. Ten Test comes from Quebec province while gyproc comes from Western Ontario.

Also such lumber as California pine and spruce from the eastern provinces has had delivery cut off since the rail strike. There is no local lumber which can satisfactorily substitute for the above grades, it was stated.

Belleville Rink Wins Cup, Prize At Tournament

Bowling is a peculiar and fascinating game. This was proved at the bowling game on Saturday, when the district trebles tournament was played. Jack Lee with his rink of Bert Ashley and Garn Dobbs won the Corbin trophy and the prizes that accompanied the cup. A rink composed of William Anderson, Gordon Edwards and L. E. McLean as skip won the second three-high score. John Shaw, Mark Vanner and Ernie Vanner as skip was third three-game winner and Pat Doheny, Harry Baker and Morley Galt of Kingston was the last prize winner in that group.

A rink composed of Bill Wright, Gordon Watkin and Austin Watkin as skip tied with Duncan of Kingston for the two-game high winner and four extra ends were needed to decide the winner with Watkin getting the nod. Al Black, Charles Hyde and Joe Black as skip won the one-game high score.

It is not always the plugged rinks which win a trophy. Generally it is a bunch of fellows who get together to have a game of bowls and to enjoy the fellowship of the courts instead of making it an attempt to win a meagre prize. This was the case on Saturday. Jack did not enter the rink until Friday night and he took a first-year bowler and Garn Dobbs, a steady player in any league. The boys pulled together and marched to the top with three wins of nineteen points each a plus of one in every game. They defeated three Kingston rinks, the last one being the toughest of all. Duncan had Lee down ten in the first five ends but from there in the Belleville boys kept rolling them in and finally overcame the handicap and went on to win by a 19-14 score. Kingston never touched the chalk from the fifth to fourteenth end. Mr. Lee had never skipped a rink in a tournament before.

The skip had his draw shot working perfectly and time after time drew for shot, when the opposition was lying one and two. A large gallery followed the game and the rink received the congratulations of the local club members for their fine effort. The greens were perfect.

Wes Evans Sets Proud Record Has Made, Sold Taffy at Fairs For Over Quarter of Century

Give the public a better brand of "pull-taffy" and it will beat a new path to your country fair concession.

This, to paraphrase a well-known saying is the secret of success Wes Evans well-know caterer who has been "slapping the daylight" into the luscious sweetmeat, so popular with young and old fair-goers, for the past 26 years.

Wes and his good lady and their well-stocked concessions are as familiar a sight to district fall fairs as are the merry-go-round, the midway and the racetrack. For nearly three decades they have been catering to the inner man of impatient fair patrons and during the past few years have been aided by son Ernest and his wife Ruth.

For the past 26 years, he figures he has made and sold an average of a ton a year of this delicacy. His record is 240 pounds in one day "pulled" at Picton Fair. On another occasion in conjunction with Gilly Ellis, the late Ben Sanford, Geo. Evans and Bill Lucas, he produced 1900 pounds of the sweetmeat in one day.

Wes has his own formula for making the taffy. It contains such ingredients as corn syrup, white sugar, water a lot of "elbow grease" among others. He claims there is actually a great amount of nourishment in one "strip" of this candy.

Started Years Ago

And it all started, years ago with some syrup, a large spoon a small kettle and a wood fire. Now the candy is made with modern portable gasoline stoves, large roomy cooking pans, and other up-to-date equipment. But there is something that cannot be replaced by modern mechanical devices. And that is the "pulling slapping procedure."

From nine to ninety, the folks gather around when Wes suspends the golden mass on a large iron hook attached to a corner of his concession. He pats it like a mother fondling her children until the color starts to lighten and the mass slowly stretches into a long snake-like strip. He "slaps and pulls" carefully that the strip does not sag to the ground. Comes a time when the candy is nearly white when it is removed from the "hook" and easily moulded into long strips. Large shears go into action. The candy is cut into oblong pieces, wrapped in clean white paper, and the slap-happy sweetmeat is ready for consumption.

Weather and temperature are two important factors in the manufacture of the taffy. "Kneading" is important too. It has much to do with the flavor. Damp weather calls for longer cooking. A hot day demands more "pulling".

Father in Business in 1900

Wes comes by this somewhat strange occupation naturally.

In 1900, his father and mother, George Evans and Frances Detlor operated from their home on Bridge Street. Driving a two-horse democrat loaded with large sacks of peanuts and gumdrops, they catered to every fair in this district as far as Roseneath on the west and Kingston on the east.

They stood knee-high in grass in these old fair grounds selling their five-cent wares to patrons whose "teeth" were as "sweet" as their modern counterparts. The peanut trade dropped off, and commensurately the gumdrop trade increased. Mr. Evans decided to try out the new candy-making procedure and a new occupation was born.

Decided to be Taffy-Maker

Wes whose "eye-teeth" were cut on the taffy decided on the spot that he would be a candy-maker when he grew up. He has made good and today his products are said to be among the best offered anywhere.

He has other "occupations" besides catering to the fair-going public. He is well-known, as is Mrs. Evans as operators of refreshment booths at the Exhibition Grounds, and the canteens in Memorial Arena. Mrs. Evans is the former Nell Herrington of Brighton, Ont.

Strikers Enjoy Extensive Program Of Entertainment During Weekend

The weekend spotlight was on entertainment for local striking members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and International Unions. Two shows were held at the CNR Athletic Association grounds, one Saturday night and the other last night. Last night's entertainment was curbed slightly by rain, but still pronounced a success by the audience.

The talent list, all local and all voluntary, sparkled with dancers, singers, violinists, and a host of others. Harold Foote, of the strike headquarters' entertainment committee, was master of ceremonies both nights. Saturday night's show ran almost three hours, and officials estimated the crowd at more than 2,000.

Other Saturday night artists were Miss Gracie Leeman and her piano accordion; Harry Hagerman and his guitar; Ross Sweet and his Quinte Oldtimers; stepdancer John Ranking; Cliff Sweetman, who sang and played an electric guitar; John Ward, trick violinist; Ed Brown, singer; The Grants and their xylophone, Miss Cornell a singer. Miss Verna Fox, community song leader; the Winstanley brothers, with piano and violin.

Sunday night's entertainment was provided by Miss Verna Fox, Bruce Sills, Ed Brown, Geraldine Gill, Mrs. Marion Kilpatrick, the Winstanleys, and the Commodores, Phil Huddleston, Stan Wiggins, Jimmy Elliott, Frank Howard and Art Duby, vocalist.

Standouts in the weekend's shows were Marion Thorn and Barbara Thrasher doing the Highland Fling, Cliff Sweetman, John Ward, Ed Brown, Miss Fox, Miss Gill and the Commodores. Also of note was Mrs. Kilpatrick's rendition of the Lord's Prayer Sunday night.

Again tonight, entertainment is being lined up for strikers and the general public. If the weather is fine, the committee hopes to arrange cars in a square on the ball diamond at the grounds, let the headlights provide illumination, and have an oldtime dance. Also, Rev. F. R. Harback will speak to the strikers.

Saturday night, a collection was taken up for Bill Parry, CNR employee, who was injured last week at the grounds, and Allan Meagher, of the publicity committee, thanked the general public and the entertainers in particular for their efforts.

Hamilton, Aug. 28. (CP)—Rt. Rev. W. E. Bagnall, D.D., Bishop of Niagara, today announced the appointment of Rev. Canon Edward Hammel Costigan as rector of St. Thomas' Anglican Church. Canon Costigan will replace the Ven. R. C. Blagrave, who is retiring October 1.

Ven. Dr. Blagrave was for years rector of Christ Church, Belleville.

WELSH TRAIN WRECKED

Conway, Wales, Aug. 28 (AP) —The crack passenger train Irish Mail rammed into a switch engine early today as it raced toward London a half-hour behind schedule. Five passengers and dining car attendant were killed and 35 others were injured.

Alleged Dice-Throwers Refuse to Try Skill As Judge Suggests

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP) —Three men arrested for rolling dice rejected Judge Nuncio J. Bonelli's proposal yesterday that they try their skill in the courtroom.

"If you can throw a pass (7 or 11) or make your point I will discharge you," Bonelli told the three men who had been arrested on disorderly-conduct charges. "Otherwise you will go to jail for 30 days."

"We had nothing but bad luck" the three chorused.

Judge Bonelli smiled, then dismissed the charges against the men.

Former Staff CJBQ Announcer Wins at C.N.E.

A former staff announcer at station CJBQ, Lyle H. Stanway, of Toronto, won the $50 first prize in a newscasting competition at the CNE Saturday. One hundred and thirty competed.

Mr. Stanway, a graduate of the Central Technical School's radio broadcasting course in 1948, worked for a while after graduation at station CHUM in Toronto, and then came to CJBQ. From here he went to Chatham for a short time. About a year ago, he retired from radio and entered business in Toronto.

Each of the contestants was required to prepare and deliver a three-minute newscast from news supplied by wire services. Proceedings hit a snag, when teletype machines on the spot were silent because of the rail strike. News was brought by messenger from a telephone exhibit. Candidates were judged on the bases of news, arrangement and delivery.

Member Presents Cup to Batawa Football Club

Batawa Football Club won the Belleville Merchants Charity Cup Saturday afternoon, scoring a decisive 6-1 win over Trenton Flyers at Trenton. Frank Follwell M.P., presented Batawa captain, Tony Kuklis, with the cup following the game.

The airmen, unable to field a team at full strength, were outclassed by the Batawans, taking a 4-0 drubbing in the first half, on two goals by Hawryliw, and single tallies by Mueller and Planovsky.

Miller tallied the lone airforce goal just after the changeover. Mueller connected for his second goal of the game and Gill booted in the final tally as the Shoemen made it a rout.

U.C. Moderator Preaches At Hay Bay Church

Historic old Hay Bay Church, the first Methodist Church in Upper Canada, Sunday marked the anniversary of Aug. 2, 1819 when 10 persons were drowned while crossing Hay Bay to attend church services. Rt. Rev. Willard Brewing, moderator of the United Church of Canada preached the sermon. The church originally was built in 1792 and the original building has since been repaired. It is 50 yards away from the birthplace of Canada's first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald.

Strong confidence in the youth of today was voiced by Dr. Brewing. He said he liked to think the present generation is best in health, education and opportunity. He challenged the young people to harness their new knowledge to Christianity.

The offering was taken in the original collection boxes. They are wooden and equipped with long handles for reaching full length of the pews.

A modern cottage for the use of the clergy was built on the site this summer and presented to the United Church by Harvey J. McFarland, of Picton. The keys were presented to Dr. Brewing by William Mallory, on behalf of the donor.

Ben Gold Resigns From Red Party Says Daily Worker

New York, Aug. 28 (AP) — Ben Gold, president of the International Fur and Leather Workers Union has resigned from the communist party to comply with the federal Taft-Hartley Labor Law, the Daily Worker says today.

(The Taft-Hartley Law, now two years old, provides that officers of unions wishing to take advantage of services provided by the national labor regulations board must take a "non-communist" oath.)

Gold said he had not abandoned the convictions gained in his membership of the communist party, the official publication reports.

Thunderstorm Rages in East, Damage $40,000

Ottawa Aug. 28 (CP)—A heavy thunderstorm raged for four hours in the Ottawa and Gatineau valleys last night causing $40,000 in fire damage and plunging nearby Hull, Que., and other communities into darkness for three hours.

Most serious fires were around Alexandria, Ont., 35 miles southeast of Ottawa, where a sawmill, barn and a farm building were destroyed.

A small farm house also was levelled on the property of Edgar Lagoie near Green Valley and close to Alexandria. The extent of the damage there has not been estimated.

In Hull, Que., low voltage transformers of the Gatineau Power Company, controlling two-thirds of the city's electrical supply were blown out of action, resulting in a three-hour blackout bfore power was finally restored at midnight.

Five miles east of Shawville, Que., about 50 miles north of Ottawa, lightning set fire to a barn stables and chicken coops on the farm of William Lucas. The $15,000 loss included 70 loads of hay, five loads of grain, and farm machinery.

At Smiths Falls, Ont., about 50 miles west of the capital, the town was without power for several minutes when a bolt of lightning cut off hydro power at nearby Carp, Ont., residents were without power until late into the night.

Suburban Eastview streets were in darkness for most of the night when municipal power sources were cut off by the storm

POLICE BLOTTER

Police circles both provincial and city, were comparatively quiet over the weekend with only routine matters coming to the attention of either department.

Provincial police reported only one highway accident, this being of a minor nature with no persons injured as a car went off the highway east of the city and turned over.

A South Front Street woman reported a wedding ring and wrist watch missing from her home, the articles apparently being taken during her absence.

A westbound American tourist driving on Dundas Street suddenly turned up Pinnacle Street when he belatedly noticed the highway route sign and failed to straighten his vehicle up in time to avoid collision with a parked vehicle. Damage was about $200.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP) —Western oil stocks climbed strongly as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The remainder of the market settled into a narrow price path. Volume for the first three hours was 576,000 shares.

Pacific Petroleum highlighted the advance in western oils, gaining 45 cents at $7.40 in brisk dealings. Interest has slackened in oils in recent sessions but buyers moved in strongly at the opening today. Anglo-Canadian, Royalite, Atlantic Oil and Central Leduc were features.

Traders were wary in the industrial list as the rail strike continued. A few leaders weakened fractionally. Ford A was down 1-2 at 52 3-4 and International Paper, McColl-Frontenac and Distiller's Seagram were among the losers, Goodyear tire added $2 at $93 and Winnipeg Electric and Steel of Canada were fractionally higher.

Junior gold producers moved very quietly with a few leaders dropping pennies. Base metals started weaker but recovered in mid-session. United Keno Hill rose 40 cents at $7.90.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP)—Trade was active at the Ontario stockyards today and prices were generally 25 cents to 50 cents higher. Receipts: Cattle, 3,400; calves 420; hogs, 260; sheep and lambs 180. Left from last week were 400 cattle.

Good to choice weighty steers sold for $30-$32; good to choice light steers $29-$31; good heifers $28.50-29; medium to good cows $20-$23.50; canners and cutters $15-$17.50; good bulls 23-$24.50; good to choice fed yearlings $30-$33.50; few common to medium stockers $23-$27.

Calves were steady at $30-$32 for good to choice vealers; common to medium $20-$29.

Hog prices were not established.

Lambs were $1 higher at $30-$31 for good ewes and wethers; bucks $1 discount; good light sheep $14-$16.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Aug. 28—(CP)—Produce prices quoted on the spot here today:

Korea Briefs

Tokyo, Aug. 28 (Reuters) — An unidentified aircraft strafed the 1,750-ton Japanese ship Chiyoda Maru in the Korean Straits yesterday, the Japanese Jiji news agency said today. The ship escaped damage.

London, Aug. 28 (Reuters) — Gen. Guzman Derevenko, a former Russian envoy in Tokyo, was responsible for assuring Stalin that the U.S. would do nothing more than protest if North Korea invaded the south, according to a report in today's London Daily Express. The message from Tokyo was by the Daily Express correspondent there, Sefton Delmer.

Taipei, Formosa, Aug. 28 (Reuters) —Chinese Nationalist intelligence authorities said today that it now is "definitely established" that three Russian equipped Chinese communist armies crossed the Manchurian border into North Korea last month.

Eight other Chinese communist armies, two cavalry divisions and one artillery division totalling 270,000 men now are concentrating on the North Korean Yalu River frontier, they said.

Red Leaders Given 30 Days to Stay Jail Terms

New York, Aug. 28 (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals today revoked the bail of the 11 convicted American communist leaders and gave them 30 days to try to stay their jail terms.

The order was in a 2-to-1 decision by the three-judge court.

U.S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol said the ruling in effect gave the red leaders a 30-day stay of their prison terms.

During the time, he said, the convicted men may apply to the U.S. Supreme Court for a further stay of sentence pending determination of their case before it.

The Court of Appeals, at the same time, denied a petition by the red leaders for a rehearing of their appeal.

The 11 communists were convicted last fall of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

All but one of the 11 have been free in bail totalling $260,000 which would be continued for 30 days under the decision.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the communist party, already is serving a one year term on a separate conviction for contempt of Congress.

Doctor Loses Race With Stork

London, Ont. , Aug. 28—(CP) —A lucan doctor lost a race with the stork to a London Hospital early today and a 10-pound baby boy was born in his car at Calamity Corners, the junction of No. 4 highway and the Sarnia road.

The baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Brayman of Lucan in the automobile of Dr. W. T. Banting of Lucan shortly after midnight.

"This is the first time anything like this has happened to me in 58 years of practice," said Dr. Banting.

Gasoline Shortage In North Ontario Is Not Serious

Toronto, Aug. 28 — (CP) — A shortage of gasoline exists in most Ontario communities north of North Bay but so far it is not serious and few restrictions have been imposed on sales. Elsewhere in Ontario, supplies are adequate.

But spokesmen for major Canadian oil companies said that if the rail strike continues much longer, the pinch will be felt in Northern Ontario and Northern Quebec.

An official of the Ontario Motor League said that pleasure driving north of North Bay was not being recommended by the League.

At Timmins, some service stations have restricted sales but for the most part, any amount of gasoline can still be obtained if the buyer is willing to shop around for it.

Some Timmins garage operators said that no restrictions would be necessary if customers would stop hoarding. They said that a number of persons living outside the town were storing gasoline in barrels, bathtubs, cans and any container that would hold it.

A measure of assurance that the shortage would not reach serious proportions came from Hearst today where permission has been granted the Algoma Central Railroad to load gasoline direct from tank cars to tank trucks, a practice prohibited under ordinary conditions.

The A. C. R., one of the few railroads still running, loads gasoline at Sault Ste. Marie for the run to Hearst. From Hearst trucks will travel round-the-clock to supply Timmins, 150 miles southeast, and other Northern Ontario communities.

Should Withdraw Licence

London, Aug. 28 — (AP) — A British engineering firm, preparing to begin shipping £1,000,000 worth a machine tools to Russia Saturday, said today the British government should withdraw the firm's export licence for the materials.

The firm will go ahead with the shipment unless Prime Minister Attlee acts, its chairman Joseph Greenwood told reporters. He is the head of Craven Brothers, a large tool-making concern.

Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservative opposition, charged Saturday in a radio address that British firms were filling Russian orders, some of which were for tools "of a class required for the manufacture and repairs of tanks."

The Ministry of Supply conceded that several machine tool makers were filling such contracts and that Russian inspectors are permitted in the factories.

Arthur Bottomley, secretary for overseas trade, said, however that "in supplying goods to Russia. Britain has been careful to withhold any commodities which come into the category of strategic priority." He added that Britain has obtained essential supplies from Russia, including grain and timber, "and in return we have had to make payment."

Greenwood said the first instalment of the tool order for Russia, £20,000 worth, is packed and ready to go.

"We should complete the £1,000,000 order by the end of 1951," he said. "But we could sell these tools quite easily to British buyers. We are quoting them a three-year delivery date for tools of the type we are sending to Russia next Saturday."

Canada to Co-operate

Ottawa, (CP) —A trade official said today Canada will co-operate to the fullest in any United States move to keep strategic materials out of the hands of communist countries, including Russia.

He was commenting on a Washington dispatch which said state and commerce department officials conceded that important war potential goods have been leaking out to the communist countries through loopholes.

Canada has maintained a "close liaison" with the United States in carrying out controls, the official here said. In no case does Canada want to be in the position of being a "back door" in the trans-shipment of strategic goods which may be destined for Russia.

CHOSEN CANDIDATE

Welland, Aug. 28—(CP)—Dr. William H. McMillan, mayor of Thorold, was chosen Saturday as Liberal candidate in the forthcoming by-election in Welland federal riding. The by-election, expected in October, will fill the Commons seat left vacant by the death of Labor Minister Mitchell, Welland's federal member since 1942.

Two CNR Telegraph Wires Repaired To Restore Vital Communication

Two leased lines on Canadian National Telegraph wires were repaired in this district yesterday despite the rail strike. Both were out of commission because of blown fuses, and the action to have them repaired was expedited by the local strike committee and Peter Stewart, district chairman of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union in Toronto.

Both lines were cleared because their maintenance was considered to be of a national defence nature. One line was into the weather bureau of the RCAF station, Trenton, and the other was a Toronto - Montreal wire used by operators of transports.

An engineer and a draftsman were sent from Toronto to correct the trouble, and had the lines working within an hour.

Strike officials said here this morning that when they investigated the case and found it to be important to national defence, they asked for orders from Toronto. Permission was granted from Toronto headquarters, and the strike committee here agreed that the lines should be repaired.

Eight Arrested As Police Crack Down on Gang

Hamilton, Aug. 28 (CP)—As a result of a police crackdown on an outbreak of teen-aged gang fighting here during the weekend, eight youths appeared in court today charged with disorderly conduct.

About 20 youths were rounded up by police last night in the Dundurn Park area after residents complained.

Entered as an exhibit was a set of brass knuckles. Mr. Burville said there was no evidence to indicate any of the eight youths was carrying the weapon at the time of arrest.

Break up Scrap, Old Torpedo Explodes, 25 Die

Hong Kong, Aug. 28 (AP)—A Hankow junk store bought 16 tons of scrap iron including three old Japanese torpedoes from the Chinese communist government. Workers were breaking up the scrap Friday when one torpedo exploded. The toll, as reported today by the Hong Kong Ta Kung Pao:

Twenty - five dead, three missing, 20 seriously injured, 13 slightly injured, 31 houses demolished, scores of homes damaged.

Bus-Car Collision Injures Two

London, Ont., Aug. 28 (CP) — Two persons were injured in a bus-car collision at an intersection here today. Damage to the auto was estimated at $500.

Miss Bertha Hutchison, 74, of Stanley Aven., Chatham, suffered chin lacerations, and Warren Campbell, 76, of R. R. 2 Chatham. forehead abrasion and in injured knee.

Police said the two were passengers in a car driven by Stanley Hutchison of R. R. 2 Northwood. The car collided with a bus.

Halt Production In Memory of R.E. Olds

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 28—(AP) —The production lines of Oldsmobile division of General Motors and the Reo plant here will halt Tuesday in memory of Ranson E. Olds the man who set them in motion a half century ago.

All work at the two plants will halt for two minutes at 3 p.m. when funeral services start for the automotive pioneer who died Saturday at the age of 86.

The originator and manufacturer of the first low-priced automobile, Olds was the first to produce cars on a mass basis. His 1901 runabout inspired the song, "My Merry Oldsmobile."

In 1904, Olds sold his interest in his Lansing automobile plant, which he had moved here from Detroit two years before. It continued as an independent plant for three years before affiliating with General Motors. After the sale, Olds organized the Reo Motor Car Company, combing his initials for its name.

SEARCH FOR PLANE

Callander, Aug. 28—(CP)— A provincial police search party headed into the bush near here Sunday night in search of a plane that several Callander residents said they had seen go down in flames. Airports, landing floats and government agencies reported they had no planes in the area.

Strikers Permit Army to Unload Carload of Cement

Picket lines maintained by local strikers on Station St. were broken this morning, peacefully, by an army detail from Kingston. Reason for the break was that a district contractor had borrowed 400 bags of cement from the army at Kingston, and wished to replace it.

A truck transport carrying the army detail, and about ten trucks, arrived this morning, and had the car of cement unloaded in jig time. The car was spotted on north Station St. about two blocks above the Swift plant. Used railroad ties were employed to fill in a small ditch so that the trucks could back up to the car and facilitate unloading.

Had Borrowed Cement

The attempt to get the cement unloaded began last Friday when the contractor approached local strike headquarters with the proposition. He asked that he be allowed to unload the car, because army authorities were pressing him for the cement he had borrowed. It was to be used for building army huts at Barriefield, he told them.

Local strike officials expressed a desire to help the man out of his problem, but reminded him that they could not practise any discrimination. Hence, they told him that if he could get army authorization, and the army would provide the labor to move the shipment, they would endeavor to co-operate as much as they could.

Only reason that would justify any moving of shipment from any strikebound car would be of a national defence nature, and officials considered that this fell in this category. The matter was discussed in special meetings held by the strike committee.

1,000 Bags

It is believed that the car held approximately 1,000 bags of cement, all of which was unloaded. The contractor explained to the strikers that he had tried to order the shipment so that it would arrive in Kingston before the rail strike hit, but that it had not arrived. Investigation revealed that the car was designated as a "cripple" when it arrived in Belleville, and was cut out of the train. That was Monday night, and it didn't move again.

The contractor involved was the Drury Supply Co., of Kingston.

Amnesia Victim Identifies Self

London, Ont., Aug. 28—An amnesia victim in hospital here since Wednesday has regained her memory and identified herself as Mrs. Garver James Sargent, of Windsor, police said today.

Mystery surrounded the woman from Wednesday when she walked into the hospital and tearfully told attendants she must have lost her memory for she didn't know who she was.

A newspaper picture created further mystery. A London man identified her as his wife, Mrs. Alfred Switzer. Then Mr. Sargent said she was his wife and that she suffered amnesia about a year ago in Windsor. In October she had disappeared and he had been unable to trace her until he saw her picture in the paper.

See Man Wade Into Niagara R., Go Over Falls

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 28. (AP) — Rivermen and police were on the lookout today for the body of a man they believed plunged over Niagara Falls yesterday morning.

Several tourists said they saw a man answering the description of Orunzo D'Amuro, 49, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.. wade into the Niagara River and go over the cataract.

A note found with D'Amuro's coat and wallet on a bank said he could not stand the pain." A sister, who identified the effects said he had been ill.

LONDON'S "NEWEST ARRIVAL"

Seretse Khama, tribal chief of the Bamangwato, whose exile by the British government created a world-wide stir, is shown with his wife, the former Ruth Williams, ex-typist from London, and their new baby daughter, Jacqueline, who was born in Bechuanaland, Africa. Shortly after their arrival in London, Eng., Seretse's exile was ordered by the British government because his marriage to a white girl allegedly caused unrest in the tribe. — Central Press Canadian.

City Will Resurface Part W. Bridge, W. Dundas Streets

The city will proceed immediately to resurface part of Bridge Street, West, and Dundas Street, West, from the Devil's Elbow to the city limits, members of city council were told this morning at a special meeting of council.

The portion of Bridge Street to be resurfaced will be from the bridge to the top of the hill, while Dundas Street, West, will be repaved from the end of Highland Ave., to Sidney Street.

No Word on Front Street

Although it was originally intended to resurface Front Street, this work will not be started this year, it was stated. The cost of resurfacing the above two named streets will be borne out of the general rate. The McFarland Construction Company of Picton will do the work and it is expected an immediate start will be made.

The special meeting of council was held to deal with matters pertaining to the public works department.

Council passed a recommendation asking for payment from the department of highways of the statutory grant toward maintenance of highways within the city. A certified statement of expenditures calling for a grant of $55,000 will be forwarded to the department.

Jeep For Snowplowing

Members of council also authorized purchase of another jeep for snowplowing on city sidewalks this winter. Chairman of public works Alderman Donald Thomas told councillors that approximately seven miles of new sidewalk had been added this year and the additional jeep was necessary to do the work.

Jeeps now are in big demand by the American army and Alderman Thomas stated it was doubtful if the jeep would be available before late in the fall.

"Actually three more jeeps are needed if all sidewalks in the city are to be snowplowed," he stated.

Several by-laws were passed authorizing the borrowing of money for the construction of new sidewalks, and also for the purchase of a new street sweeper.

Two Tropical Storms Cause Anxiety on Coasts Along Atlantic and Mexican Coasts

New Orleans, La., Aug. 28 — (AP) —Two tropical storms — one a full-blown hurricane and the other likely to become so— caused anxiety along the Atlantic and Gulf coast lines today. At the moment, however, no coast is in danger.

The gulf-storm—hangover of a 120-mile an hour hurricane — gathered new power as it edged deeper into the Gulf of Mexico after brushing Havana Cuba.

The Atlantic hurricane, third of the season, blew up far out at sea. Information on it is meagre. Ships reported it about 900 miles southeast of Puerto Rico but its speed and force were unknown.

The gulf storm was centred at 5.30 a.m. EDT 260 miles west of Havana and 150 miles north of the Yucatan Peninsula. It moved slowly toward the west-northwest.

It was blowing winds up to 70 miles an hour—five miles shy of hurricane force. The weather bureau warned it would probably increase in intensity. Gales extended outward about 125 miles to the northeast.

This storm lashed tiny Antigua Island last Monday with 120-mile an hour winds, then busted up into a squall wave. The wave began picking up force again as it passed over Cuba. Little damage was reported from it on the island.

New Storm Sewers Being Constructed In Foxboro

In an effort to prevent recurrence of highway flooding conditions which exist each spring and after heavy rains, new storm sewers are being constructed in the village of Foxboro. The work is being done by the Ontario Highways Department.

Storm sewers were originally placed along the roadway but these have become broken down with result that during the spring break-up the roadway was easily flooded and there were many complaints of motorists "splashing" pedestrians.

CONSTRUCTION PLANNED

Over $250,000 In Bonds Stolen And $13,000 Cash

Beaverton, Aug. 28 — (CP) — Value of bonds stolen during Saturday's holdup of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch today were estimated at more than $250,000. The three bandits, two of them masked, also got $13,000 in cash.

About $25,000-$30,000 of the bonds are said to be negotiable, a bank spokesman said.

STRIKE CALLED

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP) — A system wide strike against International Harvester Company was called Sunday by the farm equipment division, United Electrical Workers (Ind.). The strike call, directed to 27,000 F.E.-U.E. workers in 11 plants, will virtually bring the big implement firm's operations to a standstill. Nine other Harvester plants have been shut down since Thursday by another strike called by the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) who represent 22,000 employees. Union contracts are the issue.

Gunmen Secure $13,000 in Cash At Beaverton

Beaverton, Aug. 28 — (CP)— Three gunmen held up the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch here Saturday and escaped with between $12,000 and $13,000 in cash and an undetermined number of bonds.

As they sped from the village in a stolen automobile they scattered half a keg of 2 1-2-inch nails on the highway to Orillia in an attempt to delay pursuers. Beaverton is 75 miles north of Toronto.

A teller, Kenneth McLaughlin, fired two shots as the bandits roared away in a stolen car one bullet was believed to have hit a rear fender. McLaughlin stopped firing because children were playing nearby.

The holdup men entered the bank a few minutes after it opened. Two wore cloth masks, the other wore dark glasses.

Hawke said the bandits took an undetermined number of bonds from the vault but overlooked thousands of dollars in securities and cash.

Twenty-five provincial police patrol cars from the Barrie, Aurora and Peterboro districts set up roadblocks.

AN INSPIRING SIGHT

Markets in centres of various districts give a happy picture of what Canadians can look forward to in the nature of food for the months ahead. It is a picture of variety and plenty — the fare to which the people of this country have been accustomed.

At this season of the year such market places provide an index of the production of the many thousands of farms which have been producing for generations the food which has helped to make Canadians a well-fed, a chearful, self-reliant and happy people, living on the bounty of Providence and on human industry and able to export to many parts of the world much of the production of the country's rich acres of agricultural land.

Canadians can contrast their fortunate condition as one of the great exporting nations with that of some of the nations of Europe which in the rather recent days knew what scarcity meant. That was in the time when Hitler was struggling to crush Europe. Our people have never had to face what many other peoples have had to face, a real scarcity of crops. In fact were there scarcity in the production of food in the United States and Canada, the rest of the world might well tremble for the great sources of food supply, the nations of North America, possess have a real significance for the world at large. For the sake of all the world it is well that such other lands as Australia, New Zealand and the South American countries, too, are numbered among those which are providers for the tables in many lands of the Old World.

To a number of facts the people of Canada owe their most happy state, and one of these facts is their vast area of agricultural land. This outstanding fact taken with the country's resources in water power and in mineral wealth of all sorts is one of the reasons Canadians are a happy nation, ready to share food with peoples whose lands are not so rich or have been tilled for many generations.

A big and bustling market centre is one of the most cheering aspects of any part of a country. It gives the sense of stability and makes for self-reliance and for happiness.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE POPULAR

Modern languages are taking an increasingly important place in French secondary education, says Henri Membre in the French Information Service. Greek and Latin which so long formed the basis of classical education are slowly but surely being supplanted by languages which put French young people into immediate communication with the peoples of the world today. The reasons for this derive in part of course from the utilitarian standpoint rather than from a cultural point of view, the use of modern tongues in trade and international exchange and the increase in the number of girls in schools and colleges. Up to 1939 English and German had a privileged position in the parental choice with a marked preference for English. From 1940 to 1946 for political and psychological reasons English consolidated its popularity considerably. Latterly it has lost that advance but recovered its pre-war figures, having been chosen by more than 60 per cent of the matriculation candidates. It is pre-eminently the language essential for those who desire to enter the world of international exchanges. In the United Nations for purpose of discussion texts and reports are drawn up in French and English. In the navy and army of France, which are being reconstructed, English is obligatory for inter-allied contacts. In addition English is the language of commerce and culture and therefore it is the career language for young French people who look to wider prospects.

Twenty-one per cent of the candidates are choosing German, still a considerable number, and almost comparable with that of pre-war years. It is looked upon as necessary to future historians and philologists, engineers and chemists. It is also a language of tradition. Future officers, for instance, have always found it useful. Finally, with the possible development towards industrial co-operation and eventually a European federation, France and Germany must study the languages of their two countries, for comprehensive and lasting understanding, says M. Membre.

There are other factors at work giving young people in Frence a taste for English, these are travelling, emigration and the growth of international organization.

As for the use of Russian and Portuguese there is quite an interest shown for these tongues but the difficulties of both these tongues limit the number of candidates to a minimum.

DAY'S CLOSE

Done with the hazards of the street,
The fear of failure and the dread
Of all that may our hopes defeat;
At last the children safe in bed,
We make the doors and windows fast
And give the day unto the past.

No more to fear save that alone
Which can't be barred by gate or wall.
The record of the day is known,
No deed to change, no word recall;
A little while to rest we stay.
This day will soon be yesterday.

Oh, there are days when tears will flow;
But there are many through a year
That unremembered come and go
And end with nothing left to fear,
When gratefully we shut the door,
Glad to be safe at home once more.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At the conclusion of a regatta last week, up at one of the popular summer resorts, a sorry sight was to be scene.

All over the place, motor boats were towing dinghies and canoes back home. The dinghies, with sails lowered, lumbered yawning behind their engined masters. The canoes, with an abject air, spun and bounced over the wakes of the power boats.

After the gay regatta, nobody would dream either of sailing the dinghies home or paddling the canoes. These once useful craft have become museum pieces, or festival garments, to be trotted out once a year, as one might dig an old cutter out of the barn for a Christmas sleighing party.

There was a day when all the summer resort waters of Canada were sliced with sail aslant, and when canoes clustered around all the steamer wharves and community docks. Engines were for wealthy and elderly people who would not permit any young folk near even the mahogany rails of the masterpieces of steam or gasoline. But today, every nobble-kneed kid of ten has an outboard motor; and by the time he is fifteen, if he hasn't got a speed boat to slash around in, he feels underprivileged.

Those who cling to the cult of the canoe are looked upon as queer; and families that still love to sail are regarded with kindly amusement by the majority, the kindly amusement one experiences on meeting somebody in a buggy on a side road.

Thus in the August gloaming, when the pretty make-believe of the regatta is over, you see the canoes and the dinghies ignominiously being towed home behind the power boats filled with tired and cranky youths whose muscles have been vulgarly put to use at weilding primitive paddles or hauling on damp ropes. They will be glad to hoist the canoe back upside down on its brackets in the boat house; glad to jerk the dinghy's painter fast to its morning buoy. The old-time stuff is over for another year.

Greater Returns For Dairy Industry Needed

Toronto, Aug. 28 — Ontario dairy farmers warn that they will seek higher prices for their products. Unless their returns are increased, many dairy producers will have to seek other means of livelihood, was the unanimous opinion of the Ontario Dairy Producers' Co-ordinating Board at an emergency meeting held here Thursday.

Serious alarm was expressed over the recent marked trend toward increased prices of other commodities Prices now received by dairy farmers have been brought so far out of line with production costs that it constitutes a crisis in the industry. Concern over the increasing dangers in the international situation was also emphasized. The board was convinced that unless the dairy industry received immediate relief, there was a serious doubt as to its ability to fulfill its function in the event that another world crisis developed.

The recently formed board is composed of executive officers of the Ontario organizations of Whole Milk, Cheese, Cream and Concentrated Milk Producers, representing 100,000 dairy farmers in the province.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

BLANKETY-BLANK

Because I sometimes tote around more than two dollars, and because my house has demonstrated a tendency to get burgled, I have a license to carry a revolver —and sometimes do. But I certainly hope I never get into a spot where I have to use it, because I doubt whether I could hit the back wall of a brewery if I were twenty feet away.

And it isn't because I haven't practiced a-plenty. There's a makeshift pistol range back of my house up at Mt. Kisco, and over the years. I guess I've used up enough ammunition to keep a small Balkan war going. But no matter how carefully I sight and squeeze the baby gun with the short nose. I've never been able to do much more to the bullseye than glare at it. And two will get you twenty that most of the Dead-eye Dicks you read about can't do much better.

The U.S. Army evidently agrees with me about the difficulty in handling this tricky bit of mechanism effectively. Next time you see newsreel closeups of the kids who are doing the fighting in Korea, look closely and you'll see they're armed with rifles—Garands and Browning automatics—but about the only place you'll see a six-gun will be in the holster of a two-star general.

I first learned that expert shooting with a revolver is more bull than bullseyes when I moseyed down to Ft. Worth fourteen years ago to stage that city's Centennial Exposition. One of the whoopty-dos I put on, "The Last Frontier," was a wild west show, and the cast included the best hoss hands in the business—Galahads in 10-gallon hats who had won prize money in every rodeo from Pendleton, Madison Square Garden. Naturally, I wanted to include an exhibition of pistol shooting, and as a character member of the Zane Grey Club I figured that almost any one of my bronco busters could pop a clay pipe out of girl's mouth at 30 feet.

Well, I figured wrong. There was no one in the cast who could hit the pipe without taking the mouth with it, and I wound up having to import the national pistol champion—a skinny kid from Brooklyn who had learned his markmanship in a Coney Island shooting gallery.

This ineptness with what Damon Runyon used to call "the equalizer" is even more common among gangsters. Sure, the hoodlums of the '20's pistoled many a citizen, but almost invariably the victim was in a motor car, and the range a couple of inches from the nape of his neck. Whenever the corpse-to-be figured to be more than a few feet away, the killers used sawed-off shotguns with a three-foot spread, or tommyguns which produced a spray like a garden hose.

A few years back, an ex-bootlegger—now vice president of a national whiskey company—told me a story about Al Capone which illustrates my point. It seems Al was tipped off that one of his bodyguards was playing footsie with a rival gang, so he threw a banquet for 200 of his hired help, and after the feed made some complimentary remarks about the double-crosser and asked him to get up on the table and take a bow. As the guest of honor was bowing, the 200 hoodlums reached for their rods and let him have it. But when Capone—always the good bookkeeper—counted the bullet holes he found only twenty in the carcass—180 of the triggermen had missed.

Years ago, I used to haunt the 42nd Street shooting galleries, and got so handy with a .22 rifle that I could knock the dancing celluloid ball off the stream of water five times out of ten. And I was plenty cocky about my marksmanship until one day when I went up to see Ben Hecht at his place in Nyack.

Hecht, fed up with my big talk about small arms, suggested I shoot it out with Charlie Lederer the screen writer, who was spending the weekend with him.

"I've got nothing against Lederer," I said modestly. "Let him live."

"The target will be a tomato can at ten feet," said Ben, "and you and Charlie can take turns with my .22 automatic pistol."

We went out on the lawn and Lederer, sighting carefully, hit the can two out of three times. I didn't even nick it.

Last month while vacationing in Hollywood, I lunched with Hecht and reminded him of the debacle which ended my career as a marksman.

"I might as well have been shooting blanks," I said.

"As matter of fact," grinned Ben, "you were."

TAPPING THE SOURCE OF POWER

A vine in Hampton Court for many years disappointed the gardener's expectation. It was a puny vine, producing very few grapes. Suddenly in one year it had an astonishing growth, and after that produced an abundant crop. The gardener, wishing to find out the reason for this remarkable change, began to lay bare its roots, and to his amazement found that they extended a long distance until they tapped a nearby spring.

Jesus spoke of Himself as a well of water springing up unto eternal life. When men find that well, their lives begin to grow in an astonishing fashion. They have been satisfied with their growth up to that time, and the world indeed may have been satisfied with it, but when the roots of a man's life reach out and tap the spiritual resources of the Eternal, something new begins to happen not only with reference to his peace of mind but especially with reference to his fruitfulness. His harvest is no longer puny, but plentiful. He has found that abundant source of life which enables him to bring forth a harvest of sixty and a hundredfold.

Our lives are spiritually weak not because God is indifferent to our needs, but because we have not spread out the roots of our lives until we have tapped the sources of His power.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HEART OF A TOWN

I recently read of a beautiful act that the small town of Morton, Illinois, performed in memory of its smiling mailman, who died at the age of but 35, because of an injury to his shoulder caused by the carrying of his heavy daily pack. Harley Hasty was his name.

After his funeral it was learned that he had a mortgage upon his home for something over $7,544. The town decided to do something about this and so suggested that all who had been served by this kindly friendly, smiling mailman should put on their porch lights so that the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, appointed to collect a fund to clear that mortgage, might know just where to call for contributions. Well the lights began to shine all over the town, and in short order a third was subscribed. One anonymous and generous man said that as soon as the fund reached $5,544 he would pay the balance of $2,000.

I hope the total was realized, as I am sure it must have been, for that fine public servant left a family of five kiddies and his wife.

When I read that item, it brought to my mind how universal is the response of the human heart to the needs of others. In this small community was a town with a heart, the same as if it had been just an individual. And these towns are scattered everywhere in this free land of ours. We always feel better after giving a helping hand to someone else in need. It is this spirit that has given birth to the various funds raised to benefit all humanity and to such great organizations as the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, and the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

A heart isn't educated until it has gained the urge to feel for others, to be kind and friendly to all creatures, whether man, beast or birds, to love the earth, its beauty and fragrance — and its endless wonders. The richest bank in the world is the human heart, and the more funds you dispense from its savings, the richer you become!

GERMAN YOUTHS HELD

Essen, Germany, Aug. 28 (AP)—A mass meeting of the Evangelical Church Congress was infiltrated yesterday by German youths seeking to distribute communist leaflets. Two were arrested. The leaflets sought support for the Stockholm "peace" petition to outlaw the atomic bomb.

THREE ESCAPE INJURY

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 28 (AP)—Three men escaped with minor injuries last night as a big trailer truck loaded with dynamite collided with another truck and then caught fire. All three leaped clear of the wreckage seconds before the gasoline tank of the larger truck —carrying 600 cases of dynamite —exploded.

CHRONIC RHEUMTIZ IS JUST P. D.

Although Webster calls it slang the abbreviation T B means tuberculosis now—formerly it was professional lingo and meant tubercle bacillus; a doctor might say in the presence of the patient that sputum examination had had not revealed tubercle bacilli, but not now.

The abbreviation C V D is meaningless to the laity but to physicians it signifies cardio-vascular disease or degeneration—heart-and-artery wearing out, breakdown, pathological changes which impair function.

When a doctor decides your complaint calls for a G I series the term has no military connotation. It means a serial X-ray study of the progress of an opaque meal through the gastro-intestinal tract — the esophagus (gullet), stomach and intestines.

The term "rheumatiz" in these talks has no specific meaning. For that matter, there is no such disease or ailment as "rheumatism." Whether physician or layman refers to "rheumatism" he doesn't know, no one knows just what he means. The complaint of "rheumatism" covers numerous conditions which have in common only pain, stiffness and impaired function or use of joint or joints. For this reason it is childish to imagine that any particular medicine, combination of medicines, diet, climate, bath, massage, manipulation, light, heat, electric treatment or magic can cure "rheumatism." Yes, we have no panaceas today.

Any poor geek who is content to have "rheumatism" and "try" this or that remedy or treatment is to be pitied. In this respect "rheumatism" is like bellyache: better let the doctor determine what ails you before you mess with homely remedies.

In most instances of insidious chronic progressive joint lameness called rheumatiz the trouble is, in my opinion, the earlier or later stage of physical degeneration. Call it P D for short.

Degeneration in the medical or biological sense means deterioration; a change in cells or tissues in consequence of which functioning capacity or power is impaired or lost. The change consists of gradual conversion of the living substance of the tissues or organs into inert substance—fatty, fibrous or scar tissue, or in advanced degeneration deposits of calcareous material in place of new cells.

Sooner or later degeneration must come to every one who survives the age of maturity or full adult growth and development—say 33 years for men, 38 years for women. The women, you should know from census statistics. outlive men by several years, However, by the age of forty, we all begin to die, and barring accident we do our dying by the retrogressive process described—degeneration.

Physical degeneration which begins too early or progresses too rapidly is due in most instances to long-continued nutritional deficiency, not for a month nor for a year but throughout childhood, youth, adulthood and maturity. For instance, iodine deficiency.

Please don't infer from this that I recommend iodine or iodides for the rheumatiz. That is a question for your physician to consider I speak only of nutritional iodin, the wee bit of the element which every child, youth and adult should get in his or her daily food or drinking water and so many millions do not get, and suffer in health and happiness because of the long-continued nutritional deficiency. If you would like more detailed information about the daily iodine requirement send a stamped self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for the pamphlet The Iodin Ration. If you send a clipping you will not receive the pamphlet,

Handy Bit of Hokum

Much written about change of life in women. But how about men? Husband, 46, has changed from hard-working, happy, contented man to some one I hardly know. He is so nervous, moody, tired and has numerous imaginary ailments. Doctors says he is normal and will be as good as new in a few months. Is change of life in a man... (L. G. S.)

Answer—No, nor in woman. The notion of change of life is a handy bit of hokum to supply a plausible explanation for whatever ails a man or woman of middle age or for whatever misbehavior...Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask in writing (clipping will not suffice) for pamphlet on The Menopause.

China's Demand Matter of Bluff For Propaganda

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Communist China's demand through the United Nations that American "forces" be withdrawn from Formosa, coupled with the threat that the reds intend to capture that huge island, is largely a matter of bluff for immediate propaganda purposes.

However, it would be a mistake to write this fresh challenge off as nothing but propaganda. Underlying it is the undoubted determination of the Peiping government ultimately to occupy Formosa, which now is the last stronghold of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist regime.

And why all this bother about Formosa, even though it is a Chinese possession?

There has been considerable argument recently about the value of the Pacific island defence line, including Formosa, to the United States and her allies. Some military experts have shrugged their shoulders over its importance.

But Gen. MacArthur has let it be known that he believes the United States or a friendly government must hold Formosa if our position is to be secure in the Pacific.

Added Help

He has advocated most material and support for Chiang on Formosa through an American military mission based on the island.

This being so, many military experts hold that there can be no question of the United States abandoning this key island to the reds.

Actually the United States has no ground troops in Formosa and has no present plans to send any there. However, President Truman at the end of June ordered the United States Seventh Fleet to prevent any attack on the island. And it should not be overlooked that at the same time he asked Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to halt all operations against the communist - held mainland of China.

As far as the threat of a red invasion of Formosa is concerned, the communists are up against not only the U. S. Seventh Fleet but there are other obstacles. Not the least of these is the fact that Chiang has a large army—variously estimated at between 250,000 and 400,000. It would take a lot of doing to land invading forces in face of that. And American air power is available in that general area.

A Long-shot Stab

Still, the time may arrive when the Chinese communists will dare to undertake an assault on Formosa, for a successful gamble would win huge stakes. However, if the attempt is to be made this season it will have to come quickly, because the bad weather is about to break, bringing the devastating typhoons which would be death to an invasion fleet of sailing junks.

Old Fire Pumper's Days Ended Through Engine Failure; In Use 33 Years

Trenton—(Special)— Trenton's oldest fire engine has gone to its last fire. Thirty-three years after it was proudly displayed at the 1917 Canadian National Exhibition as the latest in fire fighting equipment. The ancient LaFrance "died" on the job on Friday, the opening day of the 1950 CNE while racing to a fire at the town dump.

The old fire wagon ended its career by throwing a connecting rod through the oil pan and a mechanic who examined the damage states "she is definitely done for."

"After being with us for 33 years, it went out at a time when we could ill afford to spend money for a new engine, but in order to maintain our low insurance rates we will have to keep up our fire protection," said Mayor Ken Couch this morning. "The question of replacement is coming up before council on Thursday night, and councillor Graham who is in charge of that department is making an investigation and will report to council."

"It was really a better pumper than either of the two newer trucks," said Fireman Gerald Lewis this morning as he leaned against the hood of the open cab engine which is still parked in state at its old location in the south end of the Fire Hall. "There were originally hard tires on her, but we had her converted to air filled tires about 12 or 13 years ago. She could really roll too, as Jesse Baker says he had her up to 90 miles an hour on the Carrying Place road just after the road was paved."

The old LaFrance was the "mechanical fireman" that helped extinguish all of the major fires in Trenton during its 33 years of active service. When the St. James Hotel burned in 1944, the old engine's water pump wasn't working, but the fire was so serious that it was rushed to the fire and water was pumped through the motor from the big force pump which sprays water on the fire. Again in the paper mill fire in 1933, it pumped steadily for two days and a night. It was also a major factor in smothering the serious blaze in the Saylor Block in the early 20's according to firemen.

There were two fires at the dump on Friday—one at 11.45 in the morning and again at 1.15. The fires were caused by the wind blowing sparks into the surrounding grass.

Both fires were easily put out and the only loss was the fire engine which conked out on the way to the first one.

Bus Lines Able To Handle Traffic Says Manager

Trenton — (Special) "There is a lot more bus travel, but we are handling the traffic very well", stated Norman Rickett, manager of the Trenton bus terminal this morning. "Very few passengers out of Trenton have had to leave standing", he added.

"Parcels are also very heavy," said Mr. Rickett, "as people are using the buses to get around the strike which has stopped parcel post service."

Buses of several different lines have been chartered by Colonial Coach Lines to accommodate the public in the emergency and as many as 15 sections are on some of the runs where normally two or three buses take care of the traffic.

Trenton Wins All Five Tennis Bouts From Quinte

Trenton Intermediates made a clean sweep of their matches against the Quinte Intermediates Friday night, when the downed the locals 5-0 on the Quinte courts.

Results of the play are:

Ila Bayliss and Bob Burns, Trenton, beat Mary McNally and Barry Kells Quinte 6-3, 6-1

Two Jet Pilots From Trenton Thrill 'Ex' Crowds

Trenton. — (Special.) — Two Vampire jet fighter pilots, from Central Flying School, RCAF Station, Trenton, who have been thrilling spectators at air shows throughout Ontario this summer, displayed their aerial artistry twice daily during the first two days of the 1950 Canadian National Exhibition on Friday and Saturday.

In addition to the regular evening performances, the "Vamps" whooshed through their aerobatic display in a special noon-hour performance as they raised the curtain on the daily RCAF air show which takes place over the waterfront.

The two pilots, F.O. Harold Knight, of Cobourg, and F.O. Jerry Billing, of Windsor, are instructors at Central Flying School and both are World War II veterans of overseas fighter operations.

Immediately following the Vampire show, at 12 o'clock and again in the evening, a helicopter from RCAF Station, Trenton, carried out a demonstration rescue of a "stranded airman". Commentary for the entire air show engagement is provided by F.O. L. W. Cook.

Starting today, a team of five Vampires from the Air Defence Group, St. Hubert, Quebec, which were appearing in Boston when the CNE opened, will take over from the Trenton aircraft for the remainder of the exhibition.

Local Car Damaged

Trenton—Five traffic accidents over the weekend caused only slight damage to the vehicles involved and there were no injuries.

Saturday afternoon, a car driven by George Sprental, 74, of 123 Henry Street, which was proceeding west on King Street, collided with another car operated by Albert E. Taylor, 35, of 92 Lansdown Avenue, Scarboro Bluffs. Eighty-five dollars damage was done to the Taylor car. Police did not estimate the amount of damage to the other car.

Australians Told How to Counter Diabolical Threat

Canberra, Aug. 28 — (Reuters) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies today gave Australians a three-point program for countering the "diabolical" threat of international communism.

Broadcasting after his recent world tour, he said "Aggressive international communism" was trying to weaken the democracies by creating scattered dangers, dispersing their efforts, and creating economic burdens designed to produce conditions favorable to the spread of communism.

He said Australia should not be put on a total war footing to counter the threat. It would mean a diversion of manpower and materials, development would be checked, and inflation would become "a greater danger than ever."

The three tasks Australia must face were:

1. Create higher living standards and get on with national development;
2. Increase output to stabilize costs and prices and defeat inflation;
3. Increase military production and strengthen the armed forces.

"We never know where danger may present itself," Menzies said. "We must be ready, and instantly ready, to defend the things that mean everything to us."

If the Korean campaign were lost there would be other thrusts "involving serious dislocation of the world-wide strategy of the democratic powers and exposing all to increasing dangers."

FEWER DAYS LOST

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (CP) —Fewer days were lost as a result of strikes and lockouts during the first seven months of this year than in the corresponding period of 1949, Labor Minister Gregg announced today.

In the Jan. 1-Aug. 1 period, preliminary figures showed there were 91 strikes and lockouts, involving 21,189 workers and a time loss of 210,322 days. In the corresponding period of 1949, there were 78 strikes with 28,615 workers involved and a time loss of 729,737 days.

Delegate Claims Woman Died Through Neglect

London, Ont., Aug. 28—(CP)—Robert Findlayer, delegate to London Labor Council from local 35 Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, charged Sunday in council session that a woman accident patient died two weeks ago "through neglect" of Victoria Hospital emergency department.

At Victoria Hospital to have a cinder removed from his eye, Mr. Findlayer said he was present when a woman was brought in from an accident. He said she lay in the corridor for an hour before receiving attention.

It was "just through neglect" of the emergency department that the woman died, he said.

Commenting on complaints about the hospital, delegate Stan Dawson, local 96 C.B. of R.E. blamed individual staff members and "lack of staff."

Workers May be Forced to Return To Their Jobs

Toronto, Aug. 28 — (CP) —The Globe and Mail says that cabinet will meet this morning to "draft legislation which, when passed, will face railway workers with the alternative of returning to their jobs or running the risk of dismissal with any sacrifice that this might entail in regard to pension rights."

In a dispatch from Ottawa, the newspaper says legislation probably will provide:

1. An order that the men go back to work within a few hours of the time that the bill receives royal assent. After the hour set, failure to report to work without cause would be a breach of the law.

2. Provision that the railway heads and union leaders resume negotiations, this time with the railway in operation.

"3. Compulsory arbitration to follow any failure to bargain in good faith of any deadlock in negotiations."

Not Many Targets To Warrant Atomic Attack

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP) —Defence Minister Brooke Claxton said Saturday night there are not many targets in Canada which appear important enough to warrant atomic attack by an aggressor.

But Canada is not imune from attack, he warned in a speech prepared for delivery at the National reunion of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service.

He cited Russia as the potential aggressor and said:

"We must assume that some atomic bombs would be used and we must also assume that they might strike at important and vital Canadian targets."

"We know the Russians have aircraft of the B-29 type capable of delivering atomic or conventional bombs and we believe that they have atomic weapons. How many they are likely to deliver on North America depends on how many they have and how many they will need for other purposes.

"Having regard to other urgent and important objectives, there would not appear to be many targets in Canada which would be sufficiently important to warrant an atomic bomb unless they have considerably more than most people believe.

Mr. Claxton said such an attack would have one and possible two obvious objectives.

The first would be to strike at some vital point such as the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The second would be to panic the country into putting a disproportionate amount of effort into civil defence.

Farseeing Ducks Plan for Future

Winnipeg, —(CP)—Wild ducks seem able to foresee and make provisions for future dangers and difficulties says B. W. Cartwright chief naturalist of Ducks Unlimited. (Canada)

In a four-year study of duck-nesting in potholes southwest of Moose Jaw, Sask., It was found that whereas nesting density was 64 broods a square mile when pothole water was sufficient, numbers dropped to four broods a square mile in the year when water supply was unsafe.

He said some of Manitoba's Mallards seem have laid smaller clutches this year in order to catch up on time lost through unseasonable cold weather and flood conditions.

Malik Steps Down as Council's President But May Remain As Delegate From Red Russia

By A. I. GOLDBERG

Lake Success, N.Y., Aug.28 — (AP)—In five more days Jakob A Malik steps down for the Security Council presidency.

He may stay on as the Russian delegate. Some delegates and United Nations officials think he will. Others think he won't. Malik wouldn't say anything except that he had come back to the council after a seven-month boycott because it was Russia's alphabetical turn in August to hold the presidency.

He will give up the chair at the end of August after the most severe word lambasting any council president has ever had to undergo.

Those who watched him in action during the month rarely saw any emotion showing on his fair, fattish face while delegates raked him and his obstruction of council business.

Whatever inner squirming he did when delegates called him "slave driver," "dictator," "ignorant' and called his words "lies" was reflected only infrequently by the way he pushed his lips, like someone biting a lemon, or by twiddling his pencil.

While most delegates talked, he sat impassively. For some he clamped on his headphones or cradled one against his face to hear the simultaneous translation in Russian.

But while he sat in the presidential chair, never a smile from him.

Malik is no back slapper. He speaks English brokenly but is understandable, and several times briefly broke into council discussion in English.

Once he enters the Security Council chambers he becomes an official in the grand style—frosty, erect, unmoving—as he takes his seat at the head of the horseshoe table.

Malik is 44. He's one of the young "Old Bolsheviki"a youngster of 11 when the Bolsheviks took over from the Czars and Kerensky's middle-roaders in Russia. He learned his lesson well, however going up from a writing job in Pravda, the communist party newspaper, to the foreign office press section, and later becoming ambassador for Russia in Japan.

Live In Compound

Malik and others in his delegation live in compounds on great estates once owned by American millionaire families on the north shore of Long Island. Chief amusement of the groups is watching private showings of Soviet films sent over from Moscow.

He is affable enough at diplomatic cocktails parties, where he manages an occasional cigaret somewhat awkwardly, or quaffs a cocktail.

He goes lightly on tobacco and alcohol because he has a weak heart which has also interfered with his favorite sport, swimming.

By sticking to one theme in the Security council this month he managed to stop the council cold merely by refusing to carry out presidential functions of making a ruling and by switching with agility from role of council president to that of Soviet delegate when he wished.

Asiatics in Titanic Struggle To Break Europe's Domination

London, Aug. 28. (AP)—Russia is riding the bandwagon of a force in Asia that is more immediately powerful than communism.

That force is nationalism.

Students of Far Eastern affairs say that in its break-neck scramble to halt the spread of Soviet communism, the west is in danger of losing sight of this important fact.

For the last 100 years or more, millions of yellow and brown people in Asia have known nothing but white masters.

They are now engaged in a titanic struggle to break the shackles of European domination.

Events which will fill many pages of future history books have taken place in Asia in recent years. Tick them off:

1. India, a sub-continent of 389,000,000 poorly-fed, inadequately-housed people, was given its independence from Britain.

2. China, whose 450,000,000 people form the biggest population chunk of Asia, threw off a monarchy, adopted a republic and now has come under communist rule.

3. The Philippines obtained independence from the United States.

4. Indonesia, one of the richest areas on earth, became a sovereign state bound by tenuous ties to her former master, The Netherlands.

A Minor Power

5. Japan, once the aggressive leader and would-be boss of all these peoples, was reduced through war to the status of a minor power.

Countries which have failed to shrug off colonialism, like French Indo-China and British Malaya, have plunged into bloody internal revolutions.

This, then, is the pattern: a handful of big Asiatic countries slowly and cautiously getting to their feet after years under white domination. Another handful desperately trying to achieve national status.

Into this situation, the Soviet Union has cunningly and effectively intruded. It has announced that it is on the side of Asiatic nationalism.

Added to this, now, is a struggle to win the friendship of the little men and women of Asia.

People who ought to know say that unless this is done, the United Nations, while it may win the battle in Korea, might, in the process, lose the war in Asia.

Communist Saddling East Germany With One-Man Rule

Berlin, Aug. 28. (AP)—East Germany is saddled with one-man rule again.

This time it's not a nazi—it's a communist.

He's cold and ruthless. He smiles without mirth. When he enters a room, conversation dies.

He tries to look like Lenin but doesn't quite make it. He tries to be unobtrusive and doesn't quite make that, either.

This is 57-year-old Walter Ulbricht who has slugged his way to the top of the communist heap in the Russian zone of Germany.

Ulbricht isn't chairman of the ruling Socialist Unity (communist) party. He isn't even prime minister of the "German Democratic Republic". He's only deputy P.M.

But the spade-bearded communist of 30 years' loyalty to the Kremlin vaulted into the role of boss just as Stalin did. He whipped the S.E.D. party from within its central committee until he finally got the job he wanted. . . secretary-general.

Ulbricht's creed:

Destroy all opposition within the Soviet zone.

Spread Communism Creed

Spread communism westward by any means.

Crush all Germans who turn their backs on the Russians and German communists.

He even threatens "People's Court" trials of the West German Chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, and other elected representatives of the rival republic west of the Elbe river.

Ulbricht probably believes he will be in a position to do that some day.

Ulbricht started life in Leipzig as a youth who wasn't a good table finisher in a cabinet-making concern.

As a Social-Democrat under the Kaiser's regime, he was usually just a step ahead of the imperial police.

Lenin, meanwhile, made several trips to Berlin and Ulbricht became a convert.

In Spartacus Society

Out of Lenin's clandestine trips to Berlin grew the old Spartacus Society. Ulbricht was right in there, along with Wilhelm Pieck, Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht.

The Spartacus Society became the first communist party in Germany modelled after the new Lenin-Trotsky-Stalin show in Moscow. Out of early rioting, Liebknecht and Frau Luxemburg were killed. Pieck and Ulbricht survived. Today Pieck, at 74, is president of East Germany without much to say, while Ulbricht handles the political hammer and anvil.

NO ANIMALS

St. John's, Nfld.—(CP)—Newfoundland children may never get to see lions, tigers or elephants—not even in a circus. The islands narrow gauge railways are unable to handle the wide cages necessary for the animals, officials told a circus promoter.

Welsh Choirs Simply Don't Ask For Financial Aid

London, Aug. 28 (Reuters) — Something that's been known a long time became official yesterday: The Welsh sing because they like it.

James Wilkie, secretary of the Crenegie United Kingdom Trust, told an inquiring committee at the House of Lords that Welsh choral groups, among the best in the world, simply didn't ask for financial aid. He had been asked why the trust had not given some of its money to Welsh music lovers.

It also appears that the Welsh are pretty independent—something that's been widely suspected for a long time too.

"Efforts have been made in the last few years to get these Welsh societies to co-operate," Wilkie said, "but they don't seem to be very fond of co-operating even for the sake of making music."

Nearly 50,000 Inter. Harvester Workers Strike

Chicago, Aug. 28—(AP)—Nearly 50,000 workers at International Harvester Co. plants throughout the United States were on strike today.

The farm equipment division of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) yesterday ordered its 27,000 members on strike in 11 plants.

The strike call brought the big implement manufacturing firm's operations to a standstill. Eight other Harvester plants have been shut down since Thursday by a strike called by the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) who represents 22,000 workers.

Announcing the U.E.W. strike, Gerald Fielde, director of the union's Harvester council, termed the company's withdrawal from a tentative contract agreement last week. "The most brazen double croos in modern labor history."

He said the company's action was an attempt to impose a "wage freeze at the time of its greatest profits in history."

W. J. Reilly, Harvester's labor relations manager, said "the company has been and is willing to make very substantial wage increases for employees."

The rejected agreement had been reached last Monday. It called for a seven-cent-an-hour wage boost and semi-annual opening of the contract for wage discussions during the two years it was to have been in force.

Two Arrested Near Cobalt

Police found silver ore and milled silver, estimated by mining men to be worth $6,000, in the trunk of the car. The driver, Arthru Kensett, 27, of New Liskeard and Earl Williams, a Cobalt mechanic, were charged with being in illegal possession of "rock, ore or minerals."

Kensett was quoted by police as saying in a statement that a "well-known New Liskeard and Cobalt business man" hired him to drive to an unnamed place 40 miles north of Toronto.

Then the business man directed Kensett to a sideroad near Haileybury where they met Williams, police said. The trunk was loaded and the business man drove off, leaving Kensett and Williams to drive on in the taxi.

Police said further arrests probably will be made today.

Six are Killed In Train Wreck

Conway, Wales, Aug. 28 (AP) —Six persons were killed and 25 injured in the ramming of a switch engine by the London-bound crack passenger train Irish Mail five miles west of here yesterday.

The train, 30 minutes behind schedule on its run from the Irish Sea port of Holyhead, was carrying many persons homeward bound from holidays in Ireland.

Jack Williams, an injured fireman aboard the Irish Mail, averted a possible second disaster by scrambling from the wrecked cab to halt an approaching freight train laden with high explosives.

78 Persons Killed In Guerrilla Raids In Philippines

Manila, Aug. 28 — (AP) — It was quiet in this Philippines capital today — in sharp contrast to the weekend of terror in nearby communities in which 78 persons were killed in guerrilla raids.

Guards ringed Manila and other Central Luzon cities Sunday night — on the alert against a continuation of raids which began Friday night. National Defence headquarters reported 78 persons were killed, nine missing and 66 wounded in attacks on 12 small towns.

The Defence Department reported 35 Huks were among the 78 slain in raids on San Rafael, 30 miles northeast of Manila, and other towns.

About 1,000 Huks held San Rafael for three hours early Sunday. The municipal building and two homes were burned.

Hit-run raids by the Huks began in the spring of 1946 and have continued sporadically since. Claiming they sought Agrarian reform, they at first denied any communist affiliation. Later their leader, Luis Taruc, announced he and other Huk leaders were communists.

POST INJURES GIRL

Guelph, Aug. 28—(CP)—Barbara Stark, 10, weighs only 80 pounds but when she leaned against a steel lamp post it toppled, hitting six-year-old Linda Gray, who suffered a broken leg and face cuts. Police explained that the post had been struck by a car recently and snapped at the base. It took only a slight push to knock it over.

From Belleville to Vancouver

By CHARLES R. BONE

Editor's Note: The following pen picture is another interesting travelogue by the artist and traveller, Mr. Charles R. Bone, whose articles have appeared in these columns from time to time. It will provide a foil to "Our Town" which is now running daily, permitting the readers of the Ontario Intelligencer a contrasting view of Canada's lovely scenery by means of rail.

With the relaxed feeling of one about to embark on a pleasant journey, we leave the old familiar surroundings of Belleville on the first leg of our trip to Vancouver.

Passing over the Moira River bridge, the spires of the churches point the "V" sign, while the old buildings along the bend of the river cling snugly to their solid foundations.

Approaching Trenton, a white glimpse of the airport flashes by, in the distance, facing Brighton is Presqu'Ile, a point of land jutting into Lake Ontario, dotted with cottages and punctuated with a lighthouse; approaching Cobourg great clouds of sea gulls rise and wheel away, while at Port Hope, mounds of discolored earth, bereft of the healing powers of radium or the destructive forces of uranium, like human derelicts huddle against the embankment, while on higher and more solid ground stands Trinity College, a residential school for boys where careful and individual training fit them for proper leadership in world affairs.

Swinging inland through prosperous farms, we reach Oshawa, home of Canada's General Motors; then on to Pickering where the many buildings now are put to more peaceful use; past Frenchman's Bay sprinkled with fishing boats and the reflection of white clouds, then to Toronto to change for the second leg of the journey.

World of Mountainous Rocks

Lulled to sleep by the rumbling wheels, we travel northward through the night to Sudbury, and upon awakening find ourselves in another world; a world of mountainous rocks whose undulating surface is broken only by a spire, a mining shaft; gone are the farms whose soft layers of fine earth produce the common things of life; here, by probing into the depths of silent stones, substances of rare value may be found and put to good or evil use, depending on the influence of others.

After leaving this wilderness of stone, we enter an area of small, placid lakes, mirroring so perfectly the overhanging trees and shore, that it is difficult to tell where land and water meet; while on the wooded hillside, a black bear stands poised, preparing us for further transformations, for here many species of wild-life abound, and the lordly moose charges the oncoming trains which challenge his domain.

In a clearing of log cabins, tents and shacks, a group of Indians wave as we pass on, wondering how they exist, seemingly so far from other habitation, but at Missonabie, the Hudson Bay Company provides for them a modern trading post while at Chapleau stands the Indian Mission School of the Church of England.

From Heron Bay to Nipigon, along the heights of Lake Superior, the train clings to the embankment high above the rocky shore, passing through tunnels and around curves so sharp that both ends of the train may be seen at once. From the tip of Lake Superior vast forests stretch endlessly as though defying the rivers choked with logs, which in turn were being slowly raised up along a sluice-way and then down to a waiting ship, to be transformed into articles for city use.

Great swaths of trees have been cut from the hillside to check the spread of fire, while that already seared bravely sprouts new growth. Lake Superior, with the great gaunt hills wading into its depths, and the coal-grey striped sky present a bleak and foreboding picture as so faithfully depicted by the Canadian artists of the Group of Seven.

Waving Sea of Grain

Arriving at Fort William in the darkness, we set our watches back one hour from eastern to central time. Upon awakening, we are nearing Winnipeg, where men are working in the peat-bogs and where so recently, such a disastrous flood occurred, from which the populace is cheerfully and determinedly recovering as befits the pioneering spirit of the West. After a short stop, we continue on through more familiar surroundings; though magnified many times, for stretching far to the horizon, is a waving sea of grain with giant elevators, like ships afloat, along the right of way.

The small villages now have taken on a Western appearance with wooden facades and the picturesque names of 'Wapella' and 'Sintaluta', 'Indian Head' and 'Pilot Butte', and such unlikely places, 'Sidney', 'Melbourne', 'India', and 'Madrid', and the more familiar names of 'Brandon', 'Moose Jaw', 'Medicine Hat', and 'Swift Current', while at Broadview the time is set back another hour.

Next morning we arrive at Calgary, and find a clean and sparkling city in the clear western air with the foothills of the Rockies forming a soft ruffle in the distance like white clouds along the horizon; but which upon approaching loom higher and higher until all is lost in the depths between them.

Leaving the train at Calgary and motoring through the foothills, we pass ranch land alive with herds of cattle and horses, while brightly-hued prairie daisies, shooting-stars and Indian paint-brush color the roadside. Prairie thrush, magpies, and other strange birds liven the air, and high on a plateau, silhouetted against the bright sky, sits an Indian chief on horseback, his squaw squatting on the ground before him, a picture that only the 'West' can paint.

Ceremonial Sun Dance

Nearing Morley, we turn off the main road to the Reserve of the Stoney Indians, where Chief John Hunter (Sitting Eagle), his family and tribe are celebrating their religious ceremonial Sun Dance in honor of the sun as a divine power, and is performed at the time of the summer solstice. The reserve, situated on a wide, flat plain and backed by the Rocky Mountains, is a fitting setting with teepees, huts and wagons arranged in a wide semicircle around the enclosure of the Sun Dance. Many wild horses, tamed by the Indians, graze at random over the vast range.

With the invitation, "You come", we enter the circular enclosure where the Sun Dance ritual is in progress. This enclosure is built of newly felled trees, the strongest and straightest, with the 'tree of life' forming the central support, while all others lean against it. The erection of the enclosure is accompanied by singing as they chop and gather suitable limbs and branches from the top of which fly colorful pieces of cloth to keep away the evil spirits.

Within the completed circular structure is a low hedge behind which the Indians and squaws, on separate sides, dance to the accompaniment of tom-toms and make music on willow whistles decorated with colored feathers and ribbon. Seated on the ground on either side are braves and squaws waiting their honored turn as the dancers drop from exhaustion, while at the base of the tree of life lies a horned skull and an ever-burning fire.

The Sun Dance of today is sanctioned by the Canadian government which condemned past barbaric practices, when young Indian braves were lashed and dragged behind galloping horses with leather thongs drawn through their flesh.

After prayers for peace, good will among men, rain or fine weather, we bid them "Ombostich" (goodbye) and "Esniash" (thank you). The Stoney Indians are a loyal race, and in 1885 were employed as scouts during the Riel Rebellion and also assisted in building the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Wild Life, Majestic Mountains

We now continue on through Banff National Park, where mountain sheep, deer, bear, elk and buffalo abound in this haven for wild life in a majestic setting of mountains, trees and lakes. At Banff and Lake Louise are immense and beautiful hotels situated among snow-capped mountains and emerald lakes, accented with iceland poppies and hot sulphur springs, picturesque golf courses, and collonaded swimming pools.

The colored lights hidden in the trees, and flowers of the gardens, the shadows of the clouds drifting across the mountain sides, as though the earth could be seen in motion, makes this a masterpiece of beauty in which the hand of God and man vie for pre-eminence. The roads girding the mountains seem narrow and treacherous, the ascent dwarfing things below and from the summit looking down contains more perils than when looking upwards.

Between Banff and Lake Louise is Mount Eisenhower, named in honor of General Eisenhower, of the United States army. The mountains in this district are considerably younger than those beyond the Great Divide, which is the boundary between British Columbia, and Alberta, the backbone of the continent, where rivers flow west to the Pacific, or east to the Atlantic and Hudson Bay.

From Banff, we take the train bound for Vancouver and for 400 miles from dawn till dusk, we travel upwards and across the great Rocky Mountains, and the Selkirk range, which were once below the level of the sea before the great upheaval of the crustaceous Age. Sea shells and fossils of pre-historic animals have been found in the district and are reproduced in stone in Calgary's public park.

Snow-capped Mountains

Gazing down into the purple shadows of the Kicking Horse Pass and Yoho Valley that lie between the shaggy peaks of Mount Stephen, and Mount Niblock, we see the depths below and looking upward the heights above, for these mountains rise two miles into the sky, capped with white snow, while flowers bloom on the slopes below. So great is the heights and impassability of the mountains that it was found expedient to tunnel through them, a remarkable engineering feat, resulting in two spiral tunnels through which the train emerges 98 feet below, while ever-towering above and thrusting its spire into the sky, is the aptly named Cathedral Mountain, and Mount Ogden through which the tunnels pass. After spiralling downwards on this gigantic scenic railway, the train grinds to a stop at Field amidst screeching brakes and hissing steam.

We are now in the Pacific time zone.

From Field to Vancouver, we Gate and into the Devil's Wash-Horse, Columbia and Fraser rivers, and the Cariboo Trail, looking down into deep canyons through which the rivers race in swirling eddies and rushing torrents, pushing through Hell's follow the gorge of the Kicking basin on their way to the Pacific Ocean. Overhead are many snowsheds built for protection against avalanches of snow or rock, while around and in the distance, are the mighty mountains. Gradually the country opens out into the lowering slopes of the coastal plain. At Craigellachie an obelisk commemorates the completion of the railway from coast to coast on November 7th., 1885.

Next morning approaching Vancouver, the many activities of a busy harbor are apparent, fishing shacks, deep-sea fishing craft, drying nets, piers, docks, and factories lead into Vancouver with its huge deep water harbor—gateway to Alaska and the limitless Pacific Ocean.

Longest, Single Span Bridge

Spanning narrows under which ships pass to and from the Orient, is the Lion Gate bridge, longest single span bridge in the British Empire, and the first bridge in Canada with clover-leaf approach. The Hotel Vancouver dominates the business section, while choice residential districts look down upon the city or across the blue Pacific from the well-kept heights.

Along a sandy curve is English Bay, the city's popular bathing beach, while Stanley Park, with its stately trees and fragrant rose garden provides a matchless setting for the "theatre under the stars", and the many shady paths lead to colorful totem poles and log canoes, the work of an ancient race.

Vancouver with its distinctive modern homes, shops and hotels, its cosmopolitan air and great mixture of races from India and the Orient, is a fitting end to an eventful journey, for Vancouver faces west to the Pacific, north to the "Lions" (a formation on the mountain tip) south to the United States, and east to Belleville.

Queen Opens School For Disabled Women

Leatherhead, Surrey, England, —(CP)—Training of disabled women for new careers will be undertaken at Springbok House recently opened here by Queen Elizabeth.

Springbok House is an addition to the Queen Elizabeth training college for the disabled, opened in 1935 for the training of handicapped men. The hostel will affer disabled women similar opportunities.

The name of the new institution was chosen because more than half of the cost was contributed by the South African Gift to Britain Fund. The hostel will accommodate 30 women.

Six-months courses after offered of training as telephone operators, typists, dressmakers, clerks and cooks. The youngest of the first contingent of women to attend is 18 while the oldest is 47.

Since the Queen opened the training college in 1935, more than 3,000 men have completed the course which comprise 140 different trades ranging from carpentry bookbinding and gardening to electrical engineering. Situated in a country mansion, the college is only one of several institutions in the United Kingdom which train disabled men and women for new careers.

RAWDON

Miss M. Chamber Reviews Recent Toronto Meeting

Rawdon.—The August meeting of River Valley Woman's Missionary Society was held recently at the home of Mrs. Stanley Irven with 15 members and eight visitors in attendance.

The service was opened with the singing of "Wonderful Love" and Mrs. Roy Bush read an appropriate poem and offered prayer for Missions everywhere.

The roll call was of special interest and brought out many truthful answers. It was worded thus, "If I read my Bible daily why do I? and if I don't read my Bible daily, why don't I?"

Mrs. Gerald Brooks read the minutes and several reports were given by the secretaries. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ross Bush.

The program committee, Misses Adelene Bush and Iris Holland, then took charge and based their message on the theme "Jesus Christ our Teacher and Lord".

The various hymns were centred on unity and the girls presented the devotional Bible lessons, responses and prayer.

Mrs. George Heasman and her daughter, Catharine, sang as a duet, "Fairest Lord Jesus".

Guest Speaker

The special feature of the afternoon was an address given by Miss Mary Chambers, who was one of the delegates from Sidney Educational Council to the Toronto Convention. The group went by bus and Miss Chambers gave the highlights of that meeting. She graphically pictured to her audience that large gathering of 4,500 delegates, which represented 62 different countries. She described the lovely costumes worn by these delegates from other lands. It was estimated that if all the children in the world who attend Sunday School were lined up three abreast it would take them exactly two years to walk past the monument in Toronto.

Miss Eleanor Bush contributed a piano solo.

Refreshments were served after the close of the meeting.

Men 'Too Trusting' For Beauty Judges

Halifax — (CP) —Betty Jean Ferguson, "Miss Canada, 1948" says women are better beauty contest judges than men. She thinks men are less able to cope with the wiles of the girls and are not so familar with tricks of make-up. Men, she says are too trusting.

A good smile can do wonders for beauty contestants, says Betty Jean. Then there is carriage, the way a girl walks. Shoulder well back gives a woman a queenly appearance.

"The contestants expression when greeting judges when introduced has a lot to do with the marks she gets. Most judges she says, go for naturalness.

The outdoor girl types are prime requisites for beauty titlists say Betty Jean but the bathing suit is not the asset it once was.

"A good figure is always an asset," she says, "but the trend today is toward brains and away from other appeals."

WEST HUNTINGDON

Departing Neighbors Honored By Community Friends

West Huntingdon—Mrs. Sandy McCurdy, Joan and Donald, were tendered a farewell party on Tuesday evening which was largely attended by many friends and neighbors. The honored guests are taking up residence in Foxboro.

Mrs. Charles Fargey presided over the program, which consisted of the singing of "O Canada"; a reading by Miss Barbara Fargey; duet by Miss Margaret Haggerty and Mr. Harold Thompson and a solo by John Haggerty. Mrs. W. Grant also contributed a solo; duet by Pauline McCurdy and Carol Fargey; reading by Mrs. Don Fargey.

Mrs. Melville Donnan read an address from the community and Mrs. McCurdy was presented with a beautiful tri-light lamp, a chenille bed spread and a linen tablecloth and Joan and Don, pen and pencil sets.

Miss Margaret Haggerty read an address from the Young People's Union and Joan, was presented with a bracelet and Don with a billfold.

The Endeavors' Class gave a silver cream and sugar set to Mrs. McCurdy. Each one made suitable replies and appreciated very much the kindness of a host of friends.

Following the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds", a social time was enjoyed.

Women's Activities

STONE CHURCH W.M.S.

4th Sidney— Monthly meeting of the Stone Church W.M.S. was held Wednesday in the community hall with a fair attendance.

The president, Mrs. E. B. Phillips, giving the theme "Jesus Christ, Teacher and Lord", and the call to worship.

A reading by the president on World Convention on Christian Education being held at University of Toronto, was given. People gathered from Angola to Venzuela and 55 other countries, some in western costumes, and some in graceful costumes of the foreign countries. The statue of Robt. Raikes, who in 1780 gathered his first class of ragged boys roaming the streets of Gloucester on Sunday afternoons, was shown. He it was who could foresee the great Sunday Schools movement that would result from teaching children about Jesus Christ that within his lifetime 250,000 boys and girls were enrolled in the Sunday Schools of England.

Helpers assisting in presenting the program on "Christian Education in Korea, Angola, India, Trinidad", were Mrs. A. Wright, Mrs. C. Rushnell, Mrs. F. Tucker, with Mrs. A. Seeley singing the solo, "Fairest Lord Jesus". The W.M.S. part to help here is by prayer and giving.

Closing worship and prayer by Mrs. E. B. Phillips.

The W.A. in charge of the president, Mrs. J. Detlor, followed. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Ed. Phillips. Mrs. Detlor gave the worship service.

Business followed. It was moved and carried that a number of members attend Scott's W.A. on Sept. 13.

A social time with refreshments served by the conveners, closed the meeting.

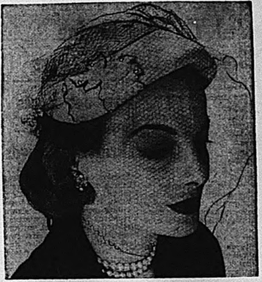
Flattering Hat Fashions



By ALICE ALDEN

WHEN in doubt about a hat color, pick pink for sheer flattery and charm. It always works. B. J. Goldenburg designs a feminine bonnet of delicate pink felt for the new season. Its softly cushioned brim is appliqued with base relief grapes of the same pink felt for a softly sculptured effect that is set off by rhinestone highlights. A sheer forest green veil is softly draped over this pretty pink hat.

Doctor Delivers 10,500 Babies In Half Century

So much so, that the 73-year-old doctor was unaware that among the more than 8,000 Shawinigan Falls births he attended was one instance of three generations.

Checking through his files the veteran of 48 years in his profession—38 years in Shawinigan Falls—noticed that a recent birth accomplished just that. That day he delivered Mrs. Jacques Martin of a child and remembered he also brought the mother into the world.

Mrs. Martin, born Rolande Doucet, was the daughter of Mrs. Alfred Doucet, whom the doctor recollected was another of his "babies".

In his 48 years of practice, the doctor estimated he attended 10,500 births.

A native of St. Prosper, Que., Dr. Frigon graduated from the University of Montreal in 1902 and set up practice at St. Casimir. After 10 years there, he moved to Shawinigan Falls and now is vice president of the Ste. Therese hospital here.

Despite his advanced age, Dr. Frigon continues to take an active part in community affairs. He is a former president of the Roman Catholic School Commission here.

His one hope is that his son, now an interne at the St. Lawrence hospital in Lawson, Mich., will succeed him as family doctor in this industrial centre some 120 miles northeast of Montreal.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Playing with Fire

There are three kinds of people who play with fire.

There are those who are either too naive, or too stupid, to realize what they're doing. Those who know exactly what they're doing and don't care what may eventually happen, as long as they get a delicious thrill out of it in the meantime. And those who, perfectly aware that they're running dangerous risks, have some sort of curious idea that because they have so far managed to enjoy their hazardous pastime without any conspicuously serious results, they're somehow very brave, as well as very smart. Some of them, indeed, arrange their thinking so cleverly, that in time they actually have themselves believing that they're quite noble just because, by their alertness, they've kept the sparks from the bonfire started on someone else's property from burning down his house.

To drop the metaphor and get down to facts, the kind of fire I have in mind, with which a great many men and women enjoy playing, is making love to another man's wife or another woman's husband.

Typical of the first— and whether she's naive or just plain stupid is anybody's guess—is a girl who writes to tell me that she has fallen in love with a married man who appears to reciprocate her feeling, so what shall she do?

"The way we happened to meet was because we both work in the same office," she says. "He'd been there quite a while when I came, and from office gossip, I learned that he'd been married about a year to a girl who also used to work there. Somehow we were always running into each other around the place, and as time went on, we'd stop and chat a few minutes when we met. It was all just nice and friendly, and when he asked me out to lunch one day. I said yes without thinking twice about it.

"Well, one thing led to another, until now here we are, crazy about each other and wondering where we go from here."

Now, whether or not the young man is really in love with the girl, or just another sly wolf on the prowl, is beside the point. Parenthetically, though, one might remark that if he sincerely believes himself in love, after having been married to another girl for only a year, then what passes for love in his book is a very superficial and untrustworthy emotion.

The real point is, of course, that the situation never could have developed as it did if these two had not let a perfectly harmless workaday friendliness transform itself into the old familiar game of playing with fire. Whether through stupidity or naivete, the girl seems to have failed to recognize obvious signs at the right moment, so that she might have stopped in time. Now, someone, if nobody but herself, is bound to get hurt, and quite unnecessarily.

Or how about the girl who knows she is playing with fire, but is so intrigued by the fancy that she does it anyhow?

One who told me the story the other day admitted that she was not in doubt about what she was doing for a minute. In fact, her eyes were so wide open from the start that she resisted temptation for months.

But instead of sticking firmly to her first wise refusal to be lured into fire-playing, and resolutely putting her attention on other things, she toyed with the idea for months and finally yielded.

She met the man through a friend. He asked for a date and she agreed. Then, a few days later she learned he was married, called him and broke the date.

Undismayed, he continued to pursue her. Every week or so, he would telephone and urge her to spend an evening with him. To her statement that she didn't go out with married men, he brought out the oldie that he was a husband "in name only", still living in the same house with his wife merely for the sake of their small children. Though instinct reminded her this was not something to be taken at face value from a stranger, she preferred to let it pass. After all, what harm in a little fun, when nobody who mattered would ever be the wiser?

So she thought.

Today, she is frantically trying to persuade an outraged wife to keep her name out of an ugly divorce suit.

As for those who incredibly build themselves up as fine and noble characters in the midst of their two-timing frolics, there's the chap in his early twenties who has fallen for a young wife a year or so older than himself. Her husband works at night, and since her mother can easily be pressed into service to sit with the small son when she wants to go out in the evening—just with her girl friends, of course—nothing could be simpler than for him to pick her up a few blocks away from the house whenever they like.

ADD PLAYING WITH FIRE ..

"We have grown to love each other very much," the young man declares; then adds, bringing out his high ideals with self-conscious flourish, "but I keep telling her there is nothing we can do about it. After all, I wouldn't want to be responsible for breaking up the home of a man who, so far as I know, has always been good to this girl. And there's the baby to consider, too.

"A few weeks ago I took her to a party, and after the party she didn't want to go home. She wanted to stay with me. So to make her go home, I had to tell her I didn't really love her very much. But that hurt her and me, too.

"All we can do, I guess, is to go on seeing each other when we can and trying not to hurt anybody. After all, it's not as though we were having a real affair."

See? So long as he keeps an eye on the man's house, so it doesn't catch fire and burn to the ground with everybody in it, he can dance around the bonfire he built on the lawn with a clear conscience, even with a sense of smug self-satisfaction.

Playing with fire is always exciting, certainly, But never excusable. And the person who yields to the temptation to have a fling at it is simply telling the world that he has a long way to go before he reaches maturity.

"Look alive, dopey"; said the boss, meaning ME

"I was slow man on the Hydro project . . . last one on the job every morning and making a snail look jet-propelled at that. I was sluggish, grouchy and too tired to jump when a truck nearly knocked me for a loop.

"That's when the boss yelled for me to pin my eyelids up and get a wiggle on. Later on in the mess hall he took me off to one side. 'Here', he said, you're due for a course of Kruschen. Get Kruschen, get active . . . or get off this job'."

"One little old pinch of Kruschen Salts in my morning coffee saved the situation. I noticed the difference first day when I pitched in with our gang to break the shift record for concrete pouring. I was so full of zip I could have gone through two shifts". So if life is getting you down, if you want to feel perkier than your age, see what a spot of Kruschen in your morning tea, coffee or fruit juice will do for you. QUITE SMALL is the rule for the hats now ready for early Fall. One designer shows several versions of the riding bowler. One in sleek black hatter's plush banded in red and black grosgrain ribbon, has two veils—one red, one black. Vells are taut and have loose ends in back.

NO DOUBT about it, television is the reason for the big variety of stay-home costumes now in the shops and coming into the stores soon for Fall shoppers. Deep taupe velveteen makes a neat smoking jacket and slim, tapered pants. Jacket is bound with black silk braid and there is braid down the sides of the pants in best men's dinner suit fashion.

A NICE BLEND of luxury and practicality marks a new line of lingerie. The fabric is all-over crinkled silk sheer that tubs in a jiffy and requires no ironing. A beautiful slip in this fabric has a bodice top and much of the skirt in washable Chantilly type lace in rose point design. Tiny appliques embellish the lace, worked as a wide, pointed panel above the hemline.

HOLDING OVER for next season is navy, especially for outdoor wear. Navy broadcloth for a handsome coat on easy lines, with a big square collar of fox dyed exactly to match the fabric. Bloused, push-up sleeves.

MANY MORE long evening gowns noted in recent showings. White nylon net for a handsome full-length evening dress, the top strapless, the skirt fully flared, with appliques of bronze-brown Chantilly lace. Matching net stole edged and appliqued with the brown lace.

PLENTY of work ahead for gray flannel, which emerges as just about the most desired fabric for Fall suits and toppers. Deep gray flannel for a smart suit of boxy jacket and slim skirt. The jacket is lined with and has long, tapered revers of bright red corduroy.

Don't Neglect Beauty Care

Hair brushing should be part of every fastidious girl's beauty program. Set aside a few minu tes a day for this important duty and your locks will shine

By HELEN FOLLETT

DO you feel that you may be slacking up on good looks tasks? Do you use the powder pad less and less, sometimes forget the lip tinting? That won't be, not if you are to keep on good terms with the ever-present companion who stares at you from the looking glass.

Your good points are likely to take care of themselves, you may fancy. Nothing to it. Faces and figures are ever in the making or the unmaking. Suppose you take a little time off from your rushing activities and give yourself a survey. Ask yourself questions. Answer truthfully, cross your heart, hope to die.

How about your hair? Are your silky tresses carefully shampooed every week or two? Do they carry a satin sheen, showing that the ducking has been thorough, all the soap rinsed away? Do you give your scalp an occasional mauling to keep the circulation galloping? That little thing you should do faithfully.

Is the coiffure up-to-date, of flattering becomingness? No need to ask the young dolls that question; they hail a new hairdo as a blessing from heaven.

Do you cream your complexion, thus insuring it against the ravages of weather changes, atmospheric dust and general debility?

What about your figure? If you are inclined to take on weight, be it ever so little, it won't do to indulge in those good things of the table that you enjoy. Adipose cushions sneak up on one. If you gain five pounds in two months, you'll probably gain ten the next two months. It is easier to fight fat cells when they first appear. When they get a toehold, it is tough going to send them into a state of dissolution.

All you have to do is to cut down on fats, sweets and starches. There are plenty of delicious foods that do not contain these elements. Close your eyes when you go past the pastry shop. Don't be enticed into the sweet shop for a soda. Put less butter on your bread; take tea and coffee clear.

If your pocketbook needs coddling, serve eggs as substantial main courses.

The cost of a dozen eggs is less than the price of a pound of meat. The eggs will furnish 6 average portions—the pound of meat will furnish 2 to 3 portions. The dozen eggs contain as many proteins as the pound of meat.

To take eggs out of the breakfast class, use a small amount of meat as a garnish.

In today's recipe, warm hard boiled eggs are served with grilled Canadian bacon and newburgh sauce. Newburgh sauce is a smooth cream sauce slightly thickened with egg yolks and flavored with sherry.

Ordinarily newburgh sauce is combined with lobster, crab meat or shrimps. It is just as delicious with eggs or poultry. Care should be taken when adding the egg yolks to use a very low flame and to keep stirring constantly, or the sauce will separate.

Eggs Newburgh with Canadian Bacon.—Serves 4.

Cook 8 hard boiled eggs. They will be better if the water is not rapidly boiled but merely simmered. Cook in boiling water 8-10 minutes. Cook in simmering water 15 minutes.

Peel the eggs. Keep in warm water until needed.

Melt 2 tablespoons fat in a saucepan. Remove from the flame. Add 2 tablespoons flour, mixing well. Gradually add 2 cups of hot milk, mixing with a wire whisk until smooth. (For extra richness use 1 cup of milk and 1 cup of light cream.) Return mixture to a slow flame and simmer 10 minutes. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika and 1-8 teaspoon white pepper.

In a small bowl beat 2 raw egg yolks slightly and combine with 1-4 cup dry sherry wine.

Add egg yolks to the sauce while it is simmering very gently. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thick, about 2 minutes. Remove from flame. Keep hot in a double boiler or in a pan of hot water.

Cut 8 slices of Canadian bacon about 1-4 inch thick. Cook under a moderate broiler flame about 3 minutes on each side or pan fry about 2 minutes on each side.

Make 4 slices of toast. Place the Canadian bacon on the toast. Cut the eggs in half lengthwise and place on the bacon. Pour the hot sauce over the eggs.

Casual Glamor Hat

By ALICE ALDEN

"CASUAL glamor" is an expression that you'll be hearing quite a bit in connection with the latest hats. It is rather hard to describe so what better than to offer a prime example of this trend. Topps fashions a gold felt derby-cloche which takes care of the casual side of things. For the glamor there's a double band of ginger and coffee brown grosgrain tipped with a gold-beaded felt bird applique, and a ginger-brown mesh veil. This smart model is budget price too.

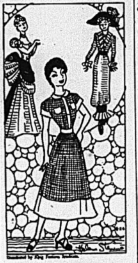
BEAUTY

Dress and beauty fads

Some day, when you are book-hunting at the public library, ask for a history of fashion. You will find it fascinating reading; the illustrations will delight you. You will have reason to congratulate yourself that you live in this period when clothes are reasonably sensible and the feminine body has freedom of movement.

Elderly women remember the time of the upholstered hairdo. No matter how much hair a woman had—and yard-long mops were not uncommon—she had to wear what was called an inside fringe or pompadour, a thirty-six inch coronet braid that weighed four ounces, and a crown of curls as big as a biscuit tin. These demountable tresses set a woman back about $60. Often she had two complete sets. They were a great bother, we hear, as they had to be taken to the hairdressers' shop to be cleaned and waved. But no woman would have been caught dead without them. A long step from that hirsute slavery to the present-day cap cut.

It was fine for the beauty industry as the sales of hair goods are highly profitable. But one sad day the fad blew up. It had run its time, as happens with all fashion frenzies. Factory hair was definitely out, has never been worn since except by a few unfortunate baldies.



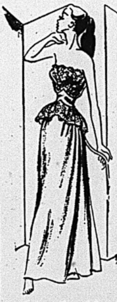
The fads of the last two decades have not been very exciting, compared to those of the yoretime.

It is not so long ago that the blondies of our nation were seized with a madness for platinum hair. The late Jean Harlow started it, the troubled darlings whose sun-kissed tresses had started to tarnish took to it like crazy. The hair was bleached until it was nearly white. As there had to be frequent touch-ups, the overhead was expensive. But that wasn't the worst of it. Over-bleaching caused the silky shafts to become jute-like; they broke at the touch of the comb. That was that, and the platinum blonde practically disappeared. Bleaching still goes on, but in moderation.

When vivid nail polish was first used, it was considered a terrific adventure along the road to good looks. It has survived for a long time, as has lipstick, but there is a tendency now to revert to coral shades that are close to the natural coloring of the pink shells on the fingertips.

The fads of the last two decades have not been very exciting, compared to those of the yoretime, when bustles were fashionable, when the hobble skirt made women take tiny mincing steps, when the straight front corset created a figure as soft and pliable as a ram rod. Along about that time, there was the "kangaroo walk" whatever that was.

Beautiful Nightgown



Nylon satin and lace.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

SHOWN, here, with a strapless top, is a nightgown equipped with a shoe-string halter for those desiring same. It is fashioned of rose colored nylon satin and Alencon type lace dyed to tone. A set-in band of the satin above the pert little lace peplum terminates in sash ends at the back. The waist is elasticized in back, and the skirt fullness is concentrated in back. It is a pretty and impressive gift selection.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Manners Memo

Don't take hospitality for granted. Don't take favors for granted. Don't take for granted the thoughtful plans and kindly deeds of your friends or relatives or family, If you're inclined to take such courteous gestures for granted, open your eyes and heart to be aware. . . and open your lips to say "Thank you". Most difficult-to-take is the tight-hearted, tight-minded, tight-lipped person who seems scared to death to express appreciation. You aren't that kind of person . . . are you?

Party to honor son's graduation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) Our son is to graduate from our state university next month, and we would like to give a reception on a Sunday convenient to the date. Would it be better to give this reception on the Sunday before he graduates, or on a date about ten days after he graduates?

(2) How many days before the date of the reception should I mail the invitations?

(3) Our son is very active in our church. Therefore would it be proper to have the announcement of the reception made at church service, or in the Bulletin? Then I would send invitation to certain other friends and relatives.

(4) Would the hours 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 be all right?

Mother

(1) You definitely should not give this reception before the graduation. Give it the first convenient Sunday after the graduation.

(2) Mail the invitations about two weeks before the date of the reception.

(3) Yes. . .an appropriate and gracious gesture to his church and his participation in church activities..

(4.) Yes, there may correctly be the two groups of hours, but since the reception is to be given on a Sunday, why not just concentrate on the afternoon hours, the usual four to seven, or, if you prefer, three to six, or even three to seven?

Bride's minister and groom's minister to perform ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to have both my minister and the minister of my fiance's church officiate at our wedding? We will be married in my church, but as his minister is such a close friend of his family we would like to ask him to take part in the ceremony.

M.

Yes, this invitation to the bridegroom's minister is indeed proper, is gracious, and is quite often given. But the invitation is given through the minister of the church in which the ceremony is to be performed. That is the bride and her mother go to see their minister to make this request, and he in turn invites the bridegroom's minister. Then they consult together as to the part of the ceremony each is to perform. (Incidentally, the bridegroom gives a fee to each minister, the larger amount to the minister of the church in which the ceremony is to be performed.)

It is "cream pitcher". . . not "creamer"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion, please answer this question: Is it correct to say "creamer" instead of "cream pitcher"?

Marie

No! "Cream pitcher" is correct. "Creamer" is a provincial expression. . .to be avoided.

NO ANTELOPE SEASON

Regina — (CP) — Game Commissioner E. L. Paynter said present information indicates there will be a closed season on antelope in Saskatchewan this year. An aerial census showed the antelope down 30 or 40 per cent from the number counted last year. The drop was attributed to "continuous, severe winter conditions."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The beleaguered Batawa Shoemen, who have had a fantastic record in the COBL this summer, wrote one of their zaniest chapters last Saturday in Smiths Falls when they dropped the first game of their best-in-five semi-final series with the Royals 6-0. The Shoemen, rushed into the playoffs by a series of almost unbelievable manoeuvres, just about forfeited the game because they could not muster nine players. This preposterous state of affairs was finally resolved late Saturday morning with the Shoemen finally going into battle with a lineup that contained four pitchers.

* * *

Contrary to what you may be thinking, all the pitchers did not pitch simultaneously, or even in relays. But there were four pitchers in the Batawa lineup. Ken Peacock a centrefielder who has been used on and off all summer went all the way on the hill for the Batawans. With the exception of a four-run first inning, he held the potent Royals to just two runs over the rest of the course. Centrefield was patrolled throughout by Art. Wright who vied with pitcher Noble Willis for flies that drifted over to right field. On first base was "Cuffer" Noakes, a pitcher - firstbaseman who was qualified for the playoffs last Wednesday evening in the second game of the doubleheader with Kingston Leafs.

* * *

That in itself is a story. To qualify for the playoffs in a higher classification a player must play in at least three games with the team in the higher classification. The, "Cuff" played his second game of the season with the Shoemen in the abbreviated first game last Wednesday, and then acquired the necessary credentials as the second last man to bat in the full length feature following. His replacement of John Acquino, who had been clubbing the ball in both games, left some of the fans cold but it was a strategic move that had to be made if he was to be used at all later. And that is how the 'Cuffer', whose personal baseball odyssey is such that he is a natural to be playing with the Shoemen, was the fourth Batawa pitcher playing last Saturday.

* * *

Tonight a full crew is expected to be on hand to do-or-die in the second game of the series. The Batawans must win this one to keep their playoff hopes alive. Should they lose they will be faced with elimination in Smiths Falls this Wednesday. Art Wright, who has been the Batawa workhorse all summer, will get the starting assignment.

* * *

The Belleville Cubs, somewhat shaken by the manner in which their outfield collapsed last Thursday evening, are meeting the Sixardee Repairmen tonight out at the Repair Depot in the third game of their city league finals. A win will square the series at one game apiece — the first game having been a 3-3 tie. The boys go at it hammer and tongs here Wednesday night.

* * *

The sizzling softballers from Stewart Warner meet the sagging Ramsay Paint squad tomorrow night at the Alemite Field in the final game of the season for both teams. A win for either team means a playoff spot, while a loss means elimination. The Alemite crew, who lost three of their first six games by one run have been coming fast in the last few games, downing Brewers, 6-5, and Point Anne 3-2 to gain a three-way tie with the Painters and the Cementmen for the last playoff spot. Ramsays, after several great games early in the season have slowed somewhat. The showdown tomorrow should prove to be very interesting.

CHIPLETS: The historic Davis Cup, emblematic of world tennis supremacy takes a boat ride back to Australia after four years in the United States. The slashing Aussie tennis squad wrapped it up in three straight victories — the first two singles and the doubles matches. After that they just went through the motions. One of the ironic sidelights is that Ken McGregor, the Aussie's number two man in the singles is just 21. Yet Herb Flam, a 22-year-old American whiz who climaxed a brilliant career by winning the Nationals last month was not picked for the U. S. team because he was too young . . . Hill Prince, the big horse from Virginia that lost the Kentucky Derby to Middleground, but downed that horse later in the Preakness, roared back into contention as the best three-year-old in the nation Saturday by copping the rich American Derby at Washington Park in Chicago. The big horse picked up $30,000 a minute for two minute's work as he charyed from last place to a 1½-length win in the mile and a quarter stakes . . . Danny Kaye, the man with the plastic puss, scored a 'tour de force' in his opening at the CNE Friday night from all reports. It seems he was worried about "getting across" to more than 20,000 fans who packed the grandstand located a couple of hundred yards from the works. The fact that he did, and in such impressive fashion, rates mention in a sports column if only for the new record he established in throwing his personality the length of two football fields. Some guys can't even drive a golf ball that far.

Jim Ferrier Wins Canadian Open Golf Title

Montreal, Aug. 28 (CP) —Big Jim Ferrier, gum-chewing Australian who makes golf his living on the big-time American circuit headed for his California home today with the Canadian Open title added to his profitable business.

The 35-year-old shotsmith clicked on his fifth attempt in the country's blue-ribbon golf classic Sunday with a 72-hole 271 score, 17 under par and three better than Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N.Y. Jim ended in the money in previous Open tries but until this year he just couldn't take the major booty.

At that, Ferrier had a spot of trouble to bag the $2,000—in U.S. funds and minus Canadian income tax—as Kroll, 31 and playing in tournement golf for the first time, made him hustle. Touring the Royal Montreal course with Ferrier, he posted a final-round-round six under-par 67 against Ferrier's 70.

For a time in the four day tournament it appeared that Vancouver's Stan Leonard might give Canada it's first home-bred champion since Royal Ottawa's Karl Keffer won the Open in 1914, but the Marine Drive pro didn't have it when the chips were down. He led Ferrier by one stroke after the first 36 holes with 68-66 rounds but faded badly and salvaged a fourth place tie—and $750—with Glenn Teal of Memphis, Tenn.

Cracked Under Pressure

The hard-hitting Leonard appeared to crack under the pressure and his brilliant game fell apart in the final two rounds. He posted a 71-73 on the final 36 and was fighting all the way as his usually deadly-accurate drive went haywire and his putting was far off color.

The disappointment of the tournament was Sam Snead, leading money winner of the year with $31,593, who ended in a ninth place tie with Jerry Barber of Philadelphia, Pa., and Tom Bolt from Durham, N.C. They each gathered in $343.50 for their 282-total.

Apart from Leonard, the only Canadian pro to finish in the money—the first 20— was Len Harman of Knowlton, Que. He shared 15th spot, good for $138, with four Americans.

Leading amateur in the championship was Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., Essex Club whose game fell apart in the final round with a four-over par 76. Previously, he posted 68-71-72 rounds

Sammy Urzetta Wins National Amateur Title

After the 24-year-old son of an immigrant janitor won the National Amateur title Saturday, his opponent, Frank Stranahan, voiced the opinion of all:

Stranahan, who has won the British, Canadian, French and other amateur crowns but never has been able to nail the U.S. diadem in five attempts, was a champion loser.

Urzetta and the millionaire's son from Toledo, Saturday battled 39 holes in the longest marathon in the 50-year history of the National amateur meet. Stranahan's drive went out of bounds and he eventually missed a 10-foot putt to take a 6 on the final hole. Urzetta's tee shot was in a trap but was on with his third for two putts and a winning par 5.

Urzetta was even par for the distance and Stranahan was one over. Frank was never up at any time, was out driven on nearly every hole and was forced to make a half dozen pressure putts of from 6 to 8 feet to halve holes. Four times he came from behind to square matters, but could never press ahead.

Miss Canada Ready to Race At Detroit

(By The Canadian Press)

Today is the last day for powerboats to qualify for the United States Harmsworth trophy team which will defend speedboat laurels against Harold Wilson's Miss Canada from Ingersoll, Ont., next Friday and Saturday.

The selection committee, however, is still looking for two boats to be running mates for Stan Sayre's Slo-Mo-Shun.

The record-holding craft from Seattle, turned in a qualifying speed of 96.72 miles an hour for the test distance of 15 miles. If no other boats qualify by the end of today's trials, the selection committee, will probably name boats on their past records.

In that case, likely choices would be My Sweetie, who won the 1949 Gold Cup, and Guy Lombard's Tempo VI.

My Sweetie was out on the Detroit River course Sunday, breaking in a new Engine. Lombardo raced at Baltimore Sunday and was slated to have Tempo in Detroit today for its trial run.

Russia's track and field team closed out the European championships at Brussels by winning their only track event of the five-day meet and with it the unofficial team title.

An Associated Press count gave Russia 112 points compared with 100 for Great Britain, which won eight titles. Russia had six firsts in all, the other five coming in field events.

France winning four titles, was third with 107 points. British athletes dominated the last day's activities yesterday, capturing four finals.

A crowd of 20,000 gave the Soviets a big hand as balding Nikolai Karakulov, anchor man of the 400 Petre relay team, overhauled the leaders on the last leg and hit the tape in 41.5 seconds.

The Russian success gave rise to speculation that the Soviets might compete in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki. In recent years they have avoided international competition.

George Bevan of Winnipeg Saturday headed a strong international field to capture the Canadian National Exhibition's two mile Canadian amateur swimming championship.

The smooth-stroking Winnipegger covered the Lake Ontario course in 49 minutes, 14 seconds to finish two minutes ahead of George Park of Hamilton, Ont. George Joe Miskho of Tonawanda, N.Y., was third.

The win gave Bevan, Ontario one-mile swimming champion last year, possession of the men's Ross gold trophy.

Manitobian went into the lead right from the start and was never headed. At the mile he held a one minute lead over youthful Bob Eason of Stratford, Ont.

Eason was tired near the end and wound up sixth behind two Detroit entires, George Leduc and Bernard Serrester, who finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

The Canada and Belgian Davis Cup teams split the final two singles matches of their exhibition tennis series at Toronto Saturday.

Phillipe Washer, Belgian's No. 1 player, defeated Brendan Acken of Montreal, Canadian champion, 9-7, 6-1, 6-3 while Lorne Main of Vancouver whipped the other Belgian player, Jacque Brichant, 6-3, 10-8, 7-5.

Main's victory was Canada's only triumph in the four singles and one double match played over three days.

More than 200 junior tennis stars from various parts of Canada and the United States are in Ottawa, ready for the Canadian junior tennis championships which start today at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

Despite the rail strike, most of 150 out-of-town entrants arrived, by plane, bus and automobile. About 20 juniors from the Maritimes will compete. The Buffalo, N.Y., Country Club has 10 entrants and others were scheduled to arrive from Montreal, Toronto Quebec City, Cornwall, Ont, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

James Scriben of Halifax, Nova Scotia junior champion, is seeded No. 1 in the junior men's singles tourney and Jim Killeen of Vancouver is No. 2. Barbara Wood of Vancouver leads the junior women, with Miriam Rainboth and Diana Lowe of Ottawa second and third.

Bata Shoemen Lose First Game Of Playoffs

Dean Rothrock ace lefthander of the Smith Falls Royals gave the Royals a first game edge in theCOBL semi-finals series with Batawa Shoemen Saturday afternoon when he shutout the locals 6-0 on five hits.

The smooth working lefthander had little difficulty with the Shoemen until the ninth inning when the Batawans collected two of their five hits with two men out. Noakes went out at first to retire the side. In all Rothrock struck out 12, and walked only one, as he posted as impressive triumph.

Four runs in the first frame got the Royals away winging against a makeshift Shoemen lineup. With one away White drilled one through third for a single. Kasepchuk and Majec walked to load the bases and Smith doubled to centre field. Pyndus struck out, Muldoon singled to centre field but was forced out short to second on Rothrock's roller.

After going down in order in the second frame the Royals collected their fifth run in the third on a double play by Majec and a single by Smith. They added their final run in the seventh. With one out, Stelmach singled but was thrown out at second trying to stretch it. White singled and came all the way round on Kasepchuk's double to left field.

Ken Peacock did the flinging for the Snoemen, walking two, striking out four and being tagged for 11 hits and six runs.

Spencer led the hitters for Batawa with two singles in four tries. For the winners, White Smith and Pyndus each had two in four attempts. Kelleher was the only man in the Royals lineup who failed to hit safely.

Australians Out To Win National Tennis Title

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28 — (AP)—The United States had held the Davis Cup since 1939, but the Australians, unimpressed with power as is the case of most youth, won it back during the weekend.

And today the Aussies begin their quest for a double— the American national championship, which has been in the United States since 1936, when Fred Perry of England beat Don Budge in the final for his third time in four years.

The Australians could do it, too. They have a better chance of winning the singles than they had of taking the cup which they grabbed in three straight matches. Yesterday's final two singles were anti-climatic. Frank Sedgman won from Ted Schroeder 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 and Tom Brown salvaged something for the American cause by licking Ken McGregor 9-11, 8-10, 11-9, 6-1, 6-4.

Schroeder, making his farewell in cup competition was far below his best, but Brown played as though the entire outcome of the cup hinged on the match.

As someone remarked, if Brown had played McGregor first intended of Sedgman, the result might have been different. There was no doubt that Brown was impressed by Sedgman's reputation. Had he whipped McGregor first he might have had more confidence going in to face Sedgman. The 21-year-old McGregor, of course, was completely unimpressed by Schroeder's big name.

Sir Norman Brookes, president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association, observed that his team had the breaks and that he is not at all sure the Aussies will hold the cup long. His lack of confidence is not shared by the American delegation who think it will be a good many years before the cup will come back to the United States.

With Budge Patty, Wimbledon winner, having defaulted because of an injured ankle, McGregor or Sedgman loom as the likely favorites to take the American National singles title. However, on the basis of his performance against McGregor, Brown stands the best chance of getting over the hurdles thrown up by the foreign players.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Clyde Vollmer, Red Sox—Hit a grand-slam homer as a pinch hitter to give the Red Sox a 9-7 victory over Cleveland.

Pitching—Allie Reynolds Yankees—Allowed only two hits as the Yankees nipped Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings.

Waterloo Rink Wins Bowling Title of Ontario

Ottawa, Aug. 28—(CP)—A team from Waterloo, Ont., skipped by W. Hilliard Saturday won the Ontario Lawn Bowling Rink competition.

Third and fourth places were decided in a consolation match in which W. C. Livingstone's Cannington rink edged out Ed Pound's Toronto four by a score of 19-18.

In doubles competition, F. Bell and J. Beacom of Kew Beach, Toronto, defeated H. G. Freeman and W. W. Jefferies of Peterborough 37-14, while in the consolation game F. Walmsley and J. Smart of Niagara Falls defeated J. H. Crawford and O. Haslegrove of Wingham, 25-13.

A. Atkinson of Ottawa defeated Alex Barbour of Toronto Lansdowne in singles competition, 21-20, while J. S. Muir of Galt posted a 23-13 win over W. Telfer of Parkhill.

A cup was presented for the first time in Junior doubles as Lorne Heldman and Joe Dorsch of Waterloo ousted Don Robinson and Barry McFadden of London Elmwood, 22-20. Consolation game in that class was won by J. McCowan and D Randell of Toronto, with a 27-111 win over Norman Roberts and John Neilson of Ottawa.

WITHIN GAME OF TITLE

Brampton, Aug. 28—(CP)—St. Catharines Junior Athletics came within a game Saturday of qualifying for a trip west to defend the Minto Cup and the Canadian Lacrosse championship, by beating Brampton Excelsiors 20-6.

St. Catharines now lead 2-0 in the best-of-five Ontario finals. Third game is in St. Catharines tonight.

Doug Smith had five goals and three assists, Jim Bradshaw four and Al Frick three for Athletics while Don Moore and Ed Howe each added a pair. Sutherland, the Caruso Brothers, Blakely, Sibbald and Burton scored for Brampton.

Saskatchewan Roughriders Start Right, Score Touchdown First Time They Get the Ball

(By The Canadian Press)

Saskatchewan Roughriders have found the ideal way to start a football season.

They scored a touchdown Saturday the first time they got the ball this season, and kept right on scoring them for a 25-12 victory over Calgary's famed Stampeders.

In the other opening game of the Western Conference, the surprising Winnipeg Blue Bombers licked Edmonton Eskimos 18-7.

In the east, Montreal Alouettes 1949 Grey Cup champions, came from behind to set back Ottawa Rough Riders 14-7 while Toronto's rebuilt Argonauts crushed the Ontario Union's Sarnia Imperials 47-0 in an exhibition game.

Al Bodine went crashing across Calgary's line for a major to culminate Roughriders' first quarter 65-yard touchdown drive. Ken Charlton went for two more touchdowns—both of them on passes—and Tony Hungle got another for Riders at the end of a lateral from end Johnny Bell. Jack Hartman kicked the four converts.

Royal Copeland, who moved west from Argos this year, scored the two touchdowns for Stampeders. Vern Graham and Keith Spaith converted them.

Tom Casey, former Hamilton Wildcat, contributed two touchdowns to Winnipeg's victory over Edmonton, both of them in the second quarter after Edmonton had built up a first-quarter lead on a major by Moarris Bailey and a convert by coach Annis Stukus.

Jacobs kicked a field goal, three singles and two converts for Winnipeg. Ken Moore kicked a single in the final quarter for Edmonton's other point.

Built Up Lead

Ottawa built up a 7-0 lead before falling before the Alouettes. Bruce Cummings and Buck Rogers kicked singles. Tom Clavin bucked three yards for an unconverted touchdown. Then Montreal went to work.

Johnny Taylor dashed 65 yards for a touchdown when the ball went wild on a blocked placement attempt by Eric Chipper. Rod Pantages converted and Nick Scollard kicked a field goal to put them ahead by the final quarter. Pete Thodos scored on a one-yard plunge in the final quarter.

In the exhibition game, the main interest after the first few plays was whether Argos would beat the 57-0 licking Hamilton Tiger-Cats gave Sarnia the week before.

The Toronto club found weak spots in their pass defence. But Billy Bass went for two touchdowns while Ulysses Curtis, Gerry Tuttle, Doug Smylie and Ernie Becker each got one. Nick Volpe convereted six and Bob Heck one.

North Bay Team In Semi-Final Round of Tourney

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP) —North Bay Palangio Dodgers entered the semi-final round of the Canadian National Exhibition softball tournament Saturday by beating two of the strongest senior 'B' clubs in Toronto.

Dodgers return next Saturday to play a team which will be decided during this week's play.

In reaching the semi-final Dodgers downed Fairbanks Memorial of the Scarboro League 10-6 and St. Stan's of the Bellwoods loop 9-4. St. Stan's had eliminated Peterborough Mutuals, also by a 9-4 count.

Sixteen B clubs representing numerous Ontario centres, are entered in the tourney.

PICTON

Athletics Bow Out With 6-3 Win Over Smiths Falls

Picton—Picton Athletics bowed out of the C.O.B.L. Thursday night making their final game a winning one. It was a 6-3 victory over Smiths Falls Royals here.

Smiths Falls scored all three runs in the fifth on three hits and two errors. Picton scored two in the second, one in fourth and three in the sixth when Haydon, as a pinch hitter, drove out a single to score two.

Frank Dyer went the route for Picton, giving up nine hits in seven innings, walking two, striking out six, two of them in a row when bases were loaded. Sam Seman was on the mound for the Falls, allowing seven hits, walking one, fanning four. Picton had 5 errors, Smiths Falls 4.

Stelmach opened the first for the Falls with a single and stole third. The run was cut off when Maken forced Pyndus at second and was out at first on double play. They threatened in the fourth when Maken singled but was forced at second by Muldoon, D. McKinney singled, Kelleher safe on error, loading bases, Dyer retired side by striking out G. McKinney and Seman.

Three in Fifth

Smiths Falls got three in fifth. Stelmach and Arnold doubled, Pyndus struck out, Maken singled, Muldoon safe on error and Arnold scored, D. McKinney safe on error but forced at second by Kelleher, Rothrock, pinch hitting forced Kelleher at second. Stelmach singled in the sixth, Arnold flied out to Perry, Pyndus singled and with men on second and third, Dyer fanned Maken. In the 7th Muldoon flied out to centre field, McKinney's drive to first was taken by Wardhaugh, Rockrock fanned.

Perry tripled in Picton's first inning but was left there as two fanned and MacDonald flied out. Two in the second came when Dean grounded out, Dyer singled, Zimmerman on erorr, Bill Greer singled and scored Dyer, Dorland flied out with Zimmerman scoring Perry grounded out.

In the fourth, Dean singled, Dyer hit to first and Dean was nabbed at second on double play. Zimmerman struck out.

Four - Run Rally

A four-run rally in the 6th gave Picton victory. Wardhaugh and Fitzgerald flied out on long drives, MacDonald was safe when high fly dropped in left field, Dean and Dyer singled, Goyer as pinch hitter walked, Haydon as pinch hitter singled to score two, Goyer scored on a throw to second, Dorland flied to centre field.

For Picton, Dean and Dyer each had 2 singles; Perry a triple, Haydon and Greer singles. For Smiths Falls, Stelmach had two singles and double, Arnold, two doubles, Maken two singles, Pyndus and Don McKinney singles.

Wings on Verge Of Clinching First Flag in 10 Years

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester Red Wings are on the verge of clinching their first International League pennant in 10 years.

The Wings lead the second - place Montreal Royals by 10 games and the third - place Baltimore Orioles by 11. The leaders have 14 games to play, the Royals 13 and the Orioles 14. If the Wings win four of their remaining games they are in, even if Montreal and Baltimore win all the rest.

Rochester took a big step in the right direction yesterday by beating Toronto Maple Leafs 7-6 in 10 innings while Baltimore dropped a doubleheader to Syracuse Chiefs and Montreal split with Buffalo Bisons.

Boston's 'Secret Weapon,' Coming From Behind Puts Team Back in Flag Contention

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Credit Boston's bounce back into flag contention to the re-discovery of a long-lost "secret weapon" — coming from behind.

Overcoming enemy leads — something that was a lost art to the Red Sox earlier this year — plus a two-week stay at friendly Fenway Park, have combined to rekindle the team's pennant spark.

Currently the hottest club in baseball, the Red Sox have been catching up with the American League leaders at a furious pace. Twelve victories in the last 13 games have helped Boston cut an eight-game deficit in two.

They picked up half a game on the league-leading Detroit Tigers yesterday when they overcame a 7-0 Cleveland lead to defeat the Indians 11-9 while Philadelphia Athletics were holding the Tigers even in two games. The A's won the opener 4-3 and Detroit won the second 8-1.

Boston's triumph over Cleveland helped New York Yankees gain undisputed possession of second place. The defending champions eked out a 2-1 victory in 10 innings over Chicago White Sox, thanks to Tommy Henrich's pinch single to cut Detroit's 1st-place margin to one game. Cleveland trails by two.

Washington and St. Louis Browns split a doubleheader. After Joe Haynss had pitched the Nats to an 8-0 first-game victory, the Browns won the second game 11-10 when Ray Coleman scored Roy Sievers from first with a triple in the 10th inning.

Phillies Increase Lead

Philadelphia Phillies increased their National League lead to 5 games over Brooklyn, defeating Chicago Cubs 6-1 while St. Louis Cardinals were battering the Dodgers 13-3.

The Cubs battled the Phils to an 11-inning 4-4 tie in the second game of their doubleheader that was halted by darkness. The two teams play two games today.

Led by Stan Musial, who slammed a pair of homers, the Cards pounded four Brooklyn throwers for 14 hits. Tommy Glaviano and Bill Howerton also homered for the winners to halt a 10-game Dodger winning streak.

Boston's third - place Braves swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 7-3 and 4-1. Sid Gordon's second homer of the game followed by Buddy Kerr's circuit clout with two on in the 13th inning won the opener. Ralph Kiner banged his 40th for the Pirates.

New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds divided, with the Giants winning the opener 11-6 and the Reds taking the second game 3-1.

Oshawa to Meet London Majors For Championship

(By The Canadian Press)

Oshawa Merchants, unbeaten in the National Baseball Congress tournament, were forced to go 10 innings Saturday before they squeaked past Strathroy Royals 6-5 to keep their record intact.

Oshawa now is scheduled to meet London Majors for the Sandlot Championship Thursday. London lost to Oshawa 8-7 in the afternoon session, their first whipping of the tournament.

If Merchants beat London Thursday they take the title, but a loss will force a playoff game the same night.

In the Saturday night contest Royals appeared to have the game tucked away going into the eighth inning when they held a 5-2 lead. But three singles and a fly to centre field enabled Oshawa to score three times.

In the only intercounty game Saturday Brantford climbed into first place by defeating London Majors 9-0. The victory gave Brantford the Hiram Walker Trophy, symbolic of the championship.

Strong-armed Lefty Gavey, a Hamilton boy, limited the Majors to five hits, scattering them in as many innings.

Brantford sluggers were led by Lockington and Gavey with three hits apiece, Burns and Lipka getting two.

In the viaduct baseball league, Peterborough clinched second place by taking two wins over New Toronto Fords. Fords dropped into fourth spot.

Petes won the opener 3-2 behind the brilliant pitching of Doug Plunkett and bunched four hits in the fourth in the nightcap to win a 5-2 decision.

St. Catharines Stags beat Buffalo Senecas 14-7 Saturday to qualify for the Niagara District Senior League playoffs. Welland Stokes finished on top of the league, with Niagara Falls second and the Stags third.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

This is a case of the experts against Kibby. When partner has bid a suit, which card should be led from king or ace with two small? My claim is the middle. Most bridge authors say the smallest.

Take the club spread shown in these hands:

NORTH
♣Q 6 4

WEST ♣K 7 2
EAST ♣A J 10 8 3

SOUTH
♣9 5

East had made a defensive bid in clubs before south became the declarer at a contract of four hearts. The opening lead is from west. Should west lead the seven or the deuce?

If he leads the seven, east will know that west has less than four clubs. This tells him that south must have at least two clubs. Therefore, south positively does not have a singleton club.

Suppose dummy does not cover the queen. East will lose nothing by playing the ten. Because if south has the king, going at once with ace will give declarer two tricks with king and queen.

Suppose west starts out with the lead of his deuce. East may read this as fourth best of four clubs. If so, south would have no more than one club. It may be the lone king.

East must then go with the ace at once for fear of losing the first trick to south king. Also for fear of losing his ace by a ruff in south on any future round of that suit.

If west held both the king and queen the correct lead would have been the king. So, suppose the queen did not show up in the north hand of dummy. East would know that south held it.

Therefore, east would take the first lead with the ace and come back with the jack. This would trap the south queen. Thus, the lead of a middle card answers its purpose without misinforming partner.

There may be some good reason for expert preference of lowest led from three to king or ace. But leading the middle has better reasons. Bring in the jury.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 28 (AP)—Bob Hope, as good a business man as he is a wisecracker, has negotiated a fabulous deal with his studio, Paramount.

When I asked the comedian about reports that he was talking over a new contract with the studio, he replied: "The talks are over; everything's set. I'll do two pictures a year, one as a partner and one participating in the profits."

Hope's old deal called for three pictures a year (although he usually made two). Two were on straight salary and one provided a split of the returns between Paramount and Bob Hope enterprises. The new pact means that he will have some share of the profits on all his pictures.

Old Money Bags

Since Hope is Hollywood's top box-office draw, the new contract will mean a lot of moola. His current film is "The Lemon Drop Kid," but could be called "The Greenback Kid."

Film-Town Chatter

Jack Beutel will stay out west for his third picture. In "Best of The Bad Men," his first film since "The Outlaw" nine years ago, he plays the youngest of the younger brothers. Although he now is 32, Jack looks no older than he did when playing Billy The Kid.

Ezio Pinza says he has no plans to play "South Pacific" in London for the simple reason that "nobody asked me." But he says he is willing to repeat his role if he has the time and if Mary Martin does her role in the London Company. Pinza expects to rest after he finishes "Mr. Imperium."

AT THE McCARTHY — Frank Lovejoy, as the ship's doctor, finds Shelley Winters in tip-top shape in "South Sea Sinner," from the sensational screenplay, "East of Java," Shelley's latest Universal-International film in which she is co-starred with Macdonald Carey and Helena Carter, opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

RAWDON

Rawdon—Mr. Boyd Ritchie, Annepollis, Nova Scotia, is spending some time with his aunt, Mrs. S. J. Elliot and Mr. Elliott.

Master Allan Warren is spending some time at his father's cottage at Papinau Lake.

The frost on Monday evening blackened tomato and cucumber plants in the low lands of Rawdon. The weather man certainly sent along chilly weather.

Mrs. R. Quelch, Scarboro, visited Mrs. John Hay and other relatives over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes entertained on Thursday Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald, Carrying Place, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Huycke and Bonnie Rae, Toronto.

Miss Irene Tiddle, Detlor, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Andrews this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hoard are visiting four of Mr. Hoard's cousins and their families. Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hoard, Mr. and Mrs. Murney Hoard, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Probst, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Probst at Rochester, N.Y., for a week.

The farmers are very busy with threshing operations and sometimes three machines are at work in one neighborhood.

Visits Old Country

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scott, Moira, sailed on the S. S. "Samaria" on Tuesday, Aug. 15th, to visit their relatives in Surrey, England, and brothers and sisters in Belfast, Ireland. They plan to be away six weeks. It is over 25 years since Mr. and Mrs. Scott came to Canada. Their own family in Rawdon, Stirling, Moira and Foxboro are anxious to hear of their safe arrival.

Mr. Harry Heath is delivering the rural mail at Harold, due to the illness of Mr. S. J. Elliott.

Master Robert Jeffs, Beaverton, had a delightful holiday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffs and attended Belleville Fair.

Miss Hazel Tiddle, Detlor, spent Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Andrews.

'Coons Feast on Corn

Several raccoons are busy ruining the ears of the sweet corn in several gardens in Rawdon township and Stirling. One man has shot two and counted several others. The animals are particularly fond of corn on the cob but they also ruin many other ears that are not ready for table use.

Miss Betty Ranson, Brandon, Manitoba, was a delegate to the Christian Educational Council in Toronto, and spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffs spent a couple of days recently at Beaverton with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jeffs.

The memorial flowers used at the August W.M.S. meeting at Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church were given to Mrs. Gilbert Smith and Mr. Cyrus Summers. Both are recuperating from recent illnesses.

Mr. Harry Ketcheson and his father, Mr. J. F. Ketcheson, Phillipston, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs Ross Hoard.

Rev. Elgie Joblin, Muncey, Ont., gave a special message on his work in connection with Indian missions at Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church on Sunday evening. Mr. Joblin grew up here while his father, Rev. F. Joblin was on the Rawdon circuit.

Mrs. Sid Williams is spending this wek in Trenton with her husband's mother.

Rain Helps Gardens

The heavy rainfall early Saturday morning gave a new lift to gardens and pastures. However there was a fly in the ointment, the new road at Anson was a sea of mud. The bulldozer was kept busy all morning drawing milk trucks and other vehicles through the hill from Don Campbell's to Ross Hoards'. Several trucks worked all forenoon, despite the rain, drawing coarse gravel to give the road bed a good heavy topping in order that motor travel could carry on as usual. The hill at Mount Pleasant United Church also had to be given attention.

Mrs. Herbert Smith, Eleanor, Roger and Kenneth, and Miss Phyllis Allan, who was a guest from Annepollis, Maryland, spent a day at Oak Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heath and Mrs. Thomas Taycock, Bethel, attended the Sunday evening service at Mount Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell Broad, Madoc, and Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy, Belleville, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Loizeaux, and Miss Phyllis Allan of Annapollis, Maryland, U.S.A., spent last week with the former's aunt, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mr. Smith. During their holiday in Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Loizeaux and Mrs. Frank Smith visited the latter's sister, Mrs. A. Sweetings, in Toronto.

Mr. William Gay, Niagara Falls, Ontario, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Abrams, Holloway, at Mrs. Everett Sine's Maternity Home, on Thursday, August 24th, 1950, a son (stillborn).

Mr. and Mrs. David McCounell, Mr. Robert MacDonald, and Miss Olive Rose, attended the celebration at Gananoque on Saturday, and visited their aunt, Miss Mary Montgomery at Ivy Lea Inn.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Mountain View—Master Bobby Hamilton, of Belleville, spent last week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague and amfily entertained Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bowness, of Detroit, and Mr. Robert Barber at their farm home at Big Island on Sunday.

Miss Muriel Howe, of Consecon, who has been spending solidays with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste, returned to her home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Sprung spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Huff and family at their cottage at Oak Lake.

Mr. Charles Sprague spent the supper hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Campbell and children of Edmonton, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wallbridge, of Massassaga, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. J. G. Sprague and Miss Elizabeth Jordon.

Miss Pearl Hamilton, Reg. N., was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hamilton of Napanee.

Mrs. Alfred Poste and Lawrence and Miss Muriel Howe spent Monday afternoon with Miss Mary Huff and Mrs. H. Huff at their cottage, Oak Lake.

Mr. J. G. Sprague, Miss Elizabeth Jordon and Miss Lillian Sprague spent Thursday afternoon in Kingston.

13-Day Strike Of 8,000 Packard Workers Ended

Detroit, Aug. 28 (AP)—The 13-day strike of 8,000 Packard workers was settled early today with agreement on a five-year contract and a four-cent-an-hour annual wage increase.

In addition, there will be an immediate cost-of-living raise of five cents.

Packard and the United Auto Workers Union (C.I.O.) jointly announced the settlement.

Packard workers are expected to return to the job Wednesday.

The settlement also provides for $125 monthly pensions (including social security), an expanded insurance program, and other benefits.

A management statement called it "one of the most liberal and progressive agreements ever signed."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was eating my breakfist this morning and wishing Satturday felt as exciting during vacation as it does during school, and ma said, What time is it, oh dear I'm msising the Prize Package show on the radio. Oh well, I can catch the end of it, anyway, she asid.

And she terned it on, and the man was saying, And so, having ansered the most questions in the least time, Mrs. Ruby Diamond is the lucky winner of today's Prize Package.

My, I cant wait to hear what she's going to get, ma said.

Which she didn't have to wait long, the man saying, Today's Prize Package is donated by the Gloria Household Appliance Company. I take pleasure in informing Mrs. Ruby Diamond that she is the happy recipient of one Gloria washing machine, to which she can safely entrust her fleecient blankets, one Gloria automatic ironer, to whose tender care she can confide everything from her largest sheets to her smallest bibs and tuckers, one Gloria automatic floor and furniture waxer, a full assortment of Gloria scrubbing brushes, mops and brooms, 20 in all, and a 2 years supply of Gloria soap flakes, he said.

Oh, the poor woman, ma said. She'll be forced to do every last shred of her own housewerk and laundering, she'll be a proverbial slave to the machine age. The very thawt is a nightmare. Really, I mean really, I must do something to get the taste out of my mouth. I believe I'll do something I seldom do, I'll go to see a movie in the daytime, she said.

And she called up Mrs. Hews and made a date to go with her and see Rita Balboa in This Side of Heaven this afternoon.

RCAF ORDERS NEW

Negotiations which led to Canada obtaining 100 of the single-seater, piston-driven mustangs have been in progress for some time, and in a message today to Defence Secretary Louis Johnson of the United States, Defence Minister Claxton said the move will "greatly strengthen our immediate position, pending construction of later types on an accelerated basis, and is additional evidence of the close-working co-operation between the two countries in our common defence."

Provided by U.S.

RCAF officials said that Mustangs are being provided by the United States to allow the RCAF to form the additional fighter squadron immediately, and to allow the auxiliary fighter squadrons to be equipped with additional operational aircraft.

Mr. Claxton said the 73 Vampire jet fighters the RCAF still has will be used chiefly for regular force squadrons, though they will continue to be used by auxiliary squadrons.

The Mustangs will be used as an interim measure until jet fighters being built in Canada are available. An important factor in acquiring the Mustangs is their immediate availability.

The Mustang, one of the most successful fighters of the Second World War, is still rated by Canada and the U.S. as a useful operational aircraft.

Two of the Best

The defence minister said that F-86 order is one of the most important features of the expanded equipment program with the Mustang the new twin-seater, long range, all weather jet fighter "gives us two of the best fighter aircraft in the world."

Air cadet league officials say many of the 200 air cadet squadrons have more applicants than they could absorb under the old establishment. The increase would also permit formation of several new squadrons at additional places.

Today's announcement followed an announcement last night that ground training in the air force is to be speeded up. This will be done by elimination of theoretical instruction previously given to newly-enlisted recruits as part of their initial training.

Some of this instruction will be eliminated; some will be given at a later date. The initial training period itself will be shortened.

NOTHING WILL BE

Gordon Acting for C.P.R.

The statement, issued by Percy Bengough, T.L.C. president, and Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the C.C.L., said that Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, has been acting as chief spokesman for the Canadian Pacific Railway—"the largest privately-owned corporation in Canada".

In doing so, Mr. Gordon now was "determined for the sake of his own ambition and in the interest of the C.P.R., to use the Parliament of Canada against Canadian workers and their families."

The two Labor organizations said they are calling on all their membership to support the railway unions "because of the extreme seriousness of the situation, and because we believe that labor, which constitutes a large section of the population of Canada, will be directly affected as Canadians by the outcome of this dispute."

No New Overtures Made

Following the break-off of negotiations Saturday, Frank H. Hall, union negotiation leader, said the negotiators representing 124,000 strikers had neither received new overtures from the railways nor made any since Saturday night.

From all indications today the prospects were that the trains could not get rolling again before Thursday at the earliest.

Informed quarters said the government is planning to introduce its emergency legislation before the Commons, Wednesday. Even granting immediate passage through both Commons and Senate, it would be physically impossible to have the government work out a settlement and get train service going again before late Thursday.

From the time the union heads gave their members the green light to report to work, it would take around 24 hours to get the rolling stock back into normal activity.

Make Final Decisions

The Cabinet planned to meet today to reach the final decisions on its course of action in the crisis, and informed quarters said it was likely this would take the form of a requisition that parliament give blanket authority to the government to use whatever methods it considers expedient to end the stoppage.

A number of courses of action, it was understood, were being considered but this was regarded as the one the government would favor before a caucus of its parliamentary members to be held Tuesday after the opening formalities of the session.

No firm information was available here on what form the government's action might take, though there have been persisting reports here that it might propose compulsory arbitration of the remaining points at issue. The unions are opposed strongly to this type of settlement, which does not appear in the Dominion's normal labor legislation.

Strike Blank Wall

The major issues, Mr. Hall said after Saturday night's collapse of round of negotiations, are the amount and the effective date of wage increases and the question of including hotel and water-transport employees of the railway companies in the same terms of settlement as the bulk of the workers.

The negotiators struck a blank wall on the unions' insistence that these groups be included, and the railways' refusal to grant them an increase only half that extended the others.

The general increase offer of the companies was four cents an hour effective Sept. 1, 1950. In the final negotiations, the unions held out for seven cents effective last June 1.

Another difference was on the timing of the inauguration of a shorter work week. The last offer of the company was that from Sept. 1, 1950 the employees would be given 48 hours' pay for 40 hours' work

The unions, who had originally demanded this to become effective Sept. 1 of last year, backed down to an effective date of June 1, 1951, with a three months' "transitional period" during which overtime would not be paid up to 48 hours a week.

Alternatively, the unions proposed a two-year contract with a five-cent hourly increase, retroactive to last Jan. 1, and with a clause tying the increase to fluctuations in the cost-of-living index.

The increase proposals by the union and by the railways would be over and above the increase involved in providing a 40-hour week with the same take-home pay as for a 48-hour week.

GEN. MacARTHUR

It had been made available last week to V. F. W. officials in Chicago. They in turn distributed it to newspapers and wire services for use this morning, when it was scheduled to be read at the meeting.

However, Clyde A. Lewis, commander, cancelled plans for its reading and asked through an aide that it not be published after MacArthur cabled him last night.

Secretary Rebuked

The incident was the second in as many days of Knuckle - rapping for high officials of the military establishments who do not agree fully with administration foreign policy.

Navy Secretary Francis Matthews was rebuked Saturday by the State Department — evidently with Truman's approval — for saying in a speech that the United States should be prepared if necessary to institute a war to compel other countries to co-operate for peace.

It appeared to be only coincidence that the directive to MacArthur to withdraw his statement came less than 38 hours after the State Department rebuke to Matthews.

The general has previously expressed his views on the importance of Formosa to American security to high officials who have talked with him in the Far East While they are known to differ with State Department policy, there has been no public disclosure of how wide that divergence might be.

STORM KILLS THREE

Paris, Aug. 28 (Reuters) — Three deaths and heavy damage to buildings and crops were reported last night from storm-ravaged areas in central and southern France. Two children and an Italian workman were swept away and drowned when a dry river bed was turned into a torrent by a cloudburst at Saint Chely D'Apchar, in the south.

U.S. Railroads Operate Normally Under Control

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP) — Railroads in the United States maintained on-time operations today under the army's direction—but the labor dispute which had threatened to halt the trains still was unsettled.

The army took over the rail system at 5 p. m. EDT yesterday. This was on orders from President Truman, who last Friday ordered the railroad industry seized by the government to avert a country-wide strike.

After Truman ordered the seizure, the two strike - threatening unions called off their walkout scheduled for today. The labor groups — the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Order of Railway Conductors — said their 300,000 members will stay on their jobs for the government.

So the actual taking over of the railroads by the army was rather a perfunctory affair. No troops boarded locomotives or manned depots. About 50 uniformed army officers assumed a general sort of supervision under Karl R. Bendetsen, assistant army secretary.

The presidents of seven major railroads were put in charge of rail operations in various sections of the U. S. — with the rank of army colonels.

About the only difference under seizure that the public could notice were placards telling of army operations posted in major railroad stations.

All Negotiations Off

The dispute back of the union strike involved pay demands by trainmen and conductors. They ask a 40-hour week and 31-cent hourly pay boost for yard workers and wage boosts for workers on moving trains.

The carriers accepted a White House proposal for a 23-cent increase and 40-hour week for yard employees and a five-cent increase for road workers, plus a three-year no-strike pledge and a living-cost adjustment arrangement. But the unions rejected that plan and called the strike.

All negotiations are off for the time being, but talks are expected to be resumed after a few days. Probably the White House will seek to initiate and air renewed talks. The government has made it clear that it won't try to make a deal with the unions, but that it is up to the carriers and unions to settle their own argument before the seizure order can be lifted.

The army indicated that it will permit any railroad to handle its own finances, retaining all profits as usual, if the carrier will waive any claim for losses which might occur under seizure.

50 P.C. of Korean Imports From Russia Consisted of Armaments and Machinery

Washington, Aug. 28. (AP)—More than 50 per cent of Korean imports from Russia during the last year or two have consisted of armaments and machinery.

Imports from Russia are North Korea's major source of outside supply of all commodities. North Korea's economic plan for 1950 was for 77 per cent of North Korea's foreign trade to be with the Soviet Union.

This information comes from a United States government report that has never been made public and for security reasons cannot be specifically identified.

The statistics are of special interest in view of the Russians' denial that they are furnishing arms to the North Koreans. They admit selling them some before they withdrew occupation forces in 1948.

American forces, however, have captured from the North Koreans large quantities of Russian military equipment marked as manufactured in 1949 and 1950.

The government report reveals that North Korea, completely dominated by the Soviet Union, is the most docile of all the satellite states; in the five years the Russians have been in North Korea there have been no purges, since no dissident elements have emerged.

The men who run North Korea now, under Russian direction, are practically the same ones the Russians chose for the job in 1945. The Premier, Kim Il Sung and the top communist party administrator, Ho Kai, used to live in the State of Kazakstan, in the U.S.S.R. Others worked with the Chinese communists in Yenan Many served in the resistance movements in Korea and Manchuria.

Here are other things the report says:

Major policies are directed by the Soviet Union.

In foreign policy the Soviets have dealt more arbitrarily with the North Koreans than with nearly any other of the satellites. They set the policy and to a large extent carry it out.

They permit the North Koreans to have little contact with the outside world.

The Russians watch jealously the relations of North Korea and red China. Besides being next-door neighbors, they are natural economic partners. One of Russia's diplomatic policies in the Far East is to see to it that North Korea doesn't drift into the Chinese orbit.

Strong Force of Chinese Nationalists Stands Guard on Formosa Coast

Taipei, Formosa, Aug. 28 — (Reuters)—A half-million battle-tried Chinese troops, armed with Second World War American weapons, Saturday mounted guard on the 200-mile west coast of Formosa.

Well fed and clothed, they wait patiently and train hard to defend the last stronghold of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek against possible invasion from red China.

Despite the fact that Chiang is a discredited leader in the eyes of many Asians and that many countries have recognized the rival communist regime, morale is high in the generalissimo's military and civil ranks.

The 100-mile choppy Formosa strait separating the island fortress from the Chinese mainland prevents surprise attack.

Hard Task for Invaders

The nationalists believe that the communists can muster only enough transport craft to carry 250,000 fully-equipped soldiers. The nationalists say that in the 12 to 19 hours it would take an invasion fleet to reach Formosa's west coast at least half this force could be put out of action by available air and naval strength.

Foreign observers believe troops total at least 500,000 and possibly up to 650,000.

The air force, they believe, comprises at least 500 aircraft fighters, bombers, transports and non-combatant training planes. It is believed to be at least 90 per cent operational and well stocked with fuel. It has about 5,000 American-trained pilots.

The same observers believe the Chinese navy has at least 20 warships of more than 1,500 tons —mostly of destroyer class. These are supplemented by a larger number of gunboats.

These observers say the Chinese nationalist armed forces are now in a better state of training than they have ever been.

In the 10 months since the remnants of the nationalist army fled to Formosa, Chiang has had breathing space to reorganize his armed forces—weeding out incompetent officers and executing those convicted of pro-communist actions.

Two Question Marks

With no Chinese territory left from which to retreat, Chiang announced last November on resuming the presidency in the Formosa capital of Taipei he would himself die before Formosa fell.

Nationalist optimism must be tempered by two big question marks hanging over Formosa's chances of survival as an anti-communist Chinese territory:

1. The chances of deflection by nationalist troops in event of a landing in Formosa.
2. The possibility of greater Russian naval and air support than at present believed accorded to the communists.

SURPASSES QUOTA

Moscow, Aug. 28 (AP)— Russia's minister of the coal industry, A. F. Zasyadko has announced that coal production in the Soviet Union has surpassed its quota under the current five-year plan.

Briefs From Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

London. (CP)—A live lamb named Matilda was used as a model in biology classes at Peckham girls' secondary school.

Eton, Buckinghamshire, England, (CP)—A large muzzle-loading cannon at Eton College has been inscribed with the words "for export to Korea" as a schoolboy prank.

Bereton, Staffordshire, England (CP)—A new coal field containing 200,000,000 tons of first-class coal has been found.

Bexley, Kent, England (CP)—With a barrel of ale for a prize an old English cricket match, played in top-hats, will be fought out on Bexley Green.

London. (CP)—Told that some people believe that the ghost of Bishop Bonner (1495-1569) still walks in London's Fulham Palace, the present Bishop of London, Dr. J. C. Ward, said: "I am not the kind of person who sees ghosts."

Thetford, Norfolk, England.—(CP)—A 15th-century half groat and a byzantine 10th-century coin have been unearthed in a Thetford field.

Pinewood, Buckinghamshire, England. (CP)—Film actor James Robertson Justice plays the title role in a new British film, "The Blackmailer". In one scene actress Fay Compton shoots Justice dead and says: "Justice has been done."

London. (CP)—The borough council in London's St. Pancras district will buy new mayoral robes. A report said the present ones are nearly 50 years old and have to be changed every year to fit the new mayor.

Tipperary, Eire, (CP) — Mrs. Annie O'Shea told a court her neighbor, Martin Quish, not only used abusive language, but hypnotized her hens and induced them to live in his yard.

Wilmington, Kent, England — (CP)—The old vicarage here has a "refrigerator" nearly 200 years old. It is a hollowed stone chamber buried 12 feet below the roots of a large yew tree. A block of ice can be kept there all year.

Leeds, England. (CP)—Disturbed in court by Planes Justice Croom-Johnson called to a police officer and said: "I should be obliged if you would ask who ever is responsible to desist flying low or high over this building."

London (CP)—Halfway House tavern in London's Fulham district has a clock with only six figures on the dial. It gives only the pub's opening and closing times—the makers thought these were the only times worth notice.

Bath, England (CP)—"You are a free person", a magistrate's clerk told a woman after reminding her that a wife need not give evidence against her husband. "If you like you can say 'Be blowed to the lot of you' and walk out." Said the woman: "I will" and strode out.

Leeds, England (CP)—Unauthorized persons have been seen lurking at night in the extensive grounds of St. James hospital, so boy friends escorting nurses home are to be issued with numbered identity discs. Said one 18-year-old nurse: "I think it's crazy."

Some Communities Virtually Isolated By Railway Strike

(By The Canadian Press)

Some remote communities are virtually isolated by the railway strike but nobody so far is suffering serious hardship, a Canadian Press survey shows.

A few provinces are not affected at all in this way. The others have emergency trucking systems and airlifts to maintain the flow of essential foods and medicine to outlying centres.

In the case of Atikokan, deep in the Northern Ontario bush, striking railway employees okayed proposals for a "mercy train."

There are no reports of isolation in the Maritimes. Most communities can be reached either by water or by highway.

Scores of places in Northern Quebec, served exclusively by railroad, are cut off for the duration of the strike. In any emergency, local officials may ask help from the nearest railway superintendent who, in turn, calls on the local union representative to arrange relief. So far, railway officials said in Montreal, no such request has been made.

Forty tons of food and other emergency supplies moved during the weekend from Port Arthur to Atikokan and other communities along the Canadian National Railways line which have no highway outlet and no regular air facilities.

An Ontario Hydro Commission airplane flew to Abitibi Canyon, a Northeastern Ontario community where hydro employees reported a growing scarcity of food.

Police in Ontario said they will be able to arrange for provincial government planes to make relief flights if necessary. A plane carrying meat, milk, bread and yeast was reported to have flown into Hornepayne, 65 miles southwest of Hearst.

Arrested Man Under Armed Guard in Hospital

Simcoe, Aug. 28 — (CP) — Wounded by a police bullet after he was chased from the rear of a main street bakery early Sunday, Jack D. Henson, 36, of London is in Norfolk General Hospital under armed guard.

He was arrested shortly after 3 a.m. when three Simcoe police officers and a provincial constable flushed him from the laneway behind Jackson's bakery.

With police bullets whining around him the man ran more than a block before capture, half the distance with a bullet wound in the upper part of his leg.

When arrested Henson was carrying six shells for a 12-inch shot gun, a five inch hunting knife, a jack-knife, a pair of pliers and a cold chisel.

A 12-gauge sawed off shot gun loaded with six shells was found by police near the bakery, together with a 14 inch crowbar.

No formal charge has yet been laid.

Say Buckoski Will Fight to Avoid Extradition

Toronto, Aug. 28. (CP)—Police said today they have learned that Stanley Buckosi, held in Los Angeles on a warrant charging him with a year-old Toronto murder, plans to use every means at his disposal to avoid extradition.

Legal moves to have Buckoski brought here to stand trial for the holdup slaying of Alfred Layng are under way in California. Detective Inspector John Nimmo of the Toronto police has been in Los Angeles all week questioning the suspect.

If Buckosi can obtain adjournment of the extradition hearing, "it might be months before he is brought back," a senior official said.

The Gentle Heart

By Kay Hamilton

"Catering!"

"Oh, yes, they've invited a few of their friends in—only a few you understand, because they thought the excitment might be too much for you—aud Ruthven is out in the kitchen helping Mrs. Henlo. I think she's hopeful for a match there, but she doesn't realize as I do, that Ruthven was born a bachelor, and will never let himself be caught. He's a cagey one that fellow. He can do everything in a house that a woman can so what would he ever need a wife for?" she demanded, completely ignoring the emotinonal side of marriage.

There were very few guests invited. Gary and Natalie had kept their list small and the living room never became too crowded. The punchbowl appeared with Jerome Mayhew's Christmas punch in it, and tiny hot canapes and crisp little sandwiches came from the kitchen in a steady stream. Everyone talked at once and the wedding party was in full swing when Natalie came to rest briefly beside her sister After their first tearful embrace, Natalie had stood to receive her friends.

Now she said, in a low voice, "Gary and I are going to slip away soon Jenny and Brent has orders to see that the party doesn't last too long. We don't want you to be overtired."

Jenny said, "How long will you be gone?"

"Only a week. We hadn't expected that much time because Gary took his full vacation this summer but his boss said a wedding was something special and we could have until after New Year's We're going down on the Cape."

"The Cape!" Jenny echoed. "But nothing will be open this time of year, will it?"

Natalie smiled happily. "Jack Tyson has a little place down there, and he's lending it to us He'll have it opened by the caretaker and everyhing in readiness for us. It's a year-round house, and has a furnace so we'll be comfortable. And beautifully alone," she added her eyes shining in anticipation.

And then suddenly realizing that Jenny might be wondering how she would get along by herself, she added, "Fred and Diane are going to stay here with you. Mrs. Henlo has her son home for Christmas vacation so he'll keep the house on Trevelyan Road, and Di is going to do the housekeeping here."

"Di!" Jenny couldn't believe her ears.

Natalie giggled. "So she says. She says she wouldn't trust anyone else to look after you properly and if that isn't love coming from Di I don't know what is! She has even cancelled her modeling engagements for the coming week. There wasn't much anyhow it being Christmas," she added hastily lest Jenny should fret about Diane's saerifice.

But Jenny still could not believe it. Diane deliberately giving up her work in order to keep house for her, Jenny. She hugged her newly married sister with fervor. "You'll have a wonderful time, I know," she said.

Over Natalie's shoulder she spied Dick standing in the doorway unsure of whom to greet first She called to him, 'Come over here, Dick and felicitate the bride."

He took Natalie's hand solemnly glancing askance at Jenny "Don't I congratulate her?" he asked in puzzlement.

"It's the groom who gets the congratulations," Jenny smiled, and he sighed with relief.

Then staring hard at the bride he said, "But she doesn't look a bit different, does she? Except happier of course."

Jenny laughed outright. "That's a big except," she told him, "and counts for a lot. The sandwiches are over there on the cherry table" she added and watched him start toward them purposefully.

She studied her sister who was slowly edging toward the hall door Yes, Natalie did look happier—immeasurably happier. God grant, she said softly to herself that she would always remain so.

It was a strangely peaceful week. Not that life in the Mayhew household was dull or that nothing happened. The peace was inward and Jenny letting its healing powers permeate her being grew strong and almost happy again.

Diane proved a distressing housekeeper but Jenny deliberately shut her eyes to her sister's deficiencies and remembered only that Di had made a real sacrifice in order to stay with her. The linens were wrinkly Diane had let them get too dry before she ironed—and the silver grew tarnished, but she really did try to keep the place clean and her beautiful manicure was marred by two broken nails before the week was out. She didn't mention them either or complain any way and that was the big thing to Jenny.

Fred came home every evening to the Mayhew house and they all dined together and sat afterward in the comfortable living room. Diane was usually exhausted from her unaccustomed efforts and Jenny had to smile to think that the girl who could stand unwearyingly for hours beneath the glare of bright lights who could pose with graceful immobility for a period of time which would leave anyone else stiff and cross, was tired by this simple round of duties in the home.

"We're all different," she murmured to herself more than once "I couldn't possibly do what she does."

Diane did try to do her best. On the morning when the oatmeal was so salty that no one could eat it she burst into tears but Fred and Jenny soon comforted her and they all ate dry ctrial instead Soon Diane was able to smile at her mistake, and took extra pains with the dinner that day. Yet no matter how hard she tried, her meals were simply food, no more

"I don't understand it," she said rebelliously, coming to stand by Jenny's chair. "I do exactly what you tell me, or what it says in the cook book and yet it never seems to be tasty. Like your cooking! What do I leave out?"

"Love," Jenny smiled. "The love of cooking. If you haven't got it, you can't put it in, so don't worry about it, Di. Your cooking is fine as far as I'm concerned. And you have improved wonderfully."

Diane sat down suddenly on the hassock beside her sister. "Love," she said thoughtfully. "That's true of anything isn't it? Oh, not the man-and-woman kind of love although that's fearfully important, too But there are so many kinds Love of life; and the kind of love we three sisters have for each other—family live; and love for your work. You know Jenny when I first started modeling, I didn't really like it. But it was so much more interesting even in its dullest moments than housework that I stuck with it. And now I'm really beginning to love it. I want to do a betttr and better job and I suppose that's a sign isn't it?"

Jenny nodded. Diane was seldom so articulate and she did not interrupt. "And yet there's always my love for Fred. I tried to deny it there for a while you know." Diane gave a sidewise glance at her sister. "Because it seemed tied up with so many things I didn't like. But I found out that some of them anyway went along with Fred and being married to him, so I had to learn to accept them. At least, I am learning," she corrected herself honestly, "and it isn't always easy. But now that we have Mrs. Henlo and I'm really enjoying my work.." Her voice trailed off and Jenny said quietly "What if there are children, Di? Have you thought of that?"

Dian's laugh was perky. "It's kept me awake at nights," she admitted. Then frankly, "I don't know Jenny. I just don't know. It's one of those things that will have to be met when it comes. I'd feel a lot happer if I could be settled in my mind one way or another."

Jenny rested her hand on Diane's shoulder. "Don't forget," she told her sister, "that you are growing all the time, Perhaps when that problem comes, you'll have grown enough to solve it."

Jenny alone with her thoughts when Di went to the kitchen to make a jellied salad, went back over the conversation. Even in this short time she realized, Diane had changed. Her life had taken new direction and it looked as if it were permanent direction. The Barbours would never have a marriage which ran too smoothly she decided now, but it could be a happy one neverethe-less, if Di continued to grow and if Fred in his heart could accept the change. That was the real difficulty, for while Fred was a man of real control he would never be happy with his wife until this inner acceptance occured. And if there were children—

She sighed and left the problem to the future. Worrying would get her nowhere, she knew and perhaps the best thing she could do was to continue to love her sister as she had in the past. Love did work miracles.

She was glad now that she had never spoken to Diane as she had said she would, about her brief flirtation with Pete Torres. It had been innocuous enough, she was sure Pete had been desperately trying to escape an uncomfortable situation at home and Di as usual had welcomed any masculine admiration. Mention of it might have made a rift between them.

One evening some friends of the Barbours gave a party and Jenny insisted that Fred and Diane go.

"Mrs. Folsom will sit with me," she said, "and I think it's ridiculous for you two to stay home right through the Christmas season when so much is going on."

She had her way and her elderly friend came over leading a willing Ghillie, who settled down in front of the fire with a gusty sigh.

"I declare, that dog acts more at home over here than he does at my house," Mrs. Folsom said with raised eyebrows. "I sometimes think he is the most ungrateful creature ever made but I don't know what I'd do without him—die of lonesomeness I guess. Well Jenny what did you think of your sisters marriage Did it please you?"

Jenny smiled. "More than I can say Natalie writes that they are very comfortably situated. The house is darling and they are cozy and happy. I think it made an ideal honeymoon for the two of them."

"Mmm." Mrs. Folsom's thoughts were obviously elsewhere. "Very nice. When are you and Brent going to get married?"

The swift color rose in Jenny's cheeks, and the corners of her mouth were indented with annoyance. "Now, now, don't act stuffy with me," Mrs. Folsom warned her. "I'm an old friend and might have been your mother if Jerome hadn't fallen for that French girl! Hasn't he asked you yet? Whatever is the matter with the man? Anybody could see—"

FRANKFORD

Frankford.—The Legion boys have been out every night of late working on their new building on King Street. The floor is almost complete, and the Vets are planning on holding a dance, on Tuesday night on the new floor.

A number of citizens of Frankford have made cash donations toward the building, and others have donated materials and labor. If any citizen would care to make a donation toward this worthy cause, kindly see any Legionnaire and he will be very happy to turn it into the building fund on your behalf. Some of the boys will be calling around your way shortly, and any contribution you can make will be greatly appreciated.

Latest donations: H. J. Madill, $5; E .G. Lohnes $5; Tom Burkitt, $2 (material).

Mr. Leslie Frost has very kindly offered the Legion a generous donation in material and labor in making the windows for a reasonable fee.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of Branch 387, Canadian Legion was held in the Club room on Wednesday evening, following the work party at the building. Among the items of business was the Street Carnival, coming up in September. Full details of this will appear later. It was unanimously decided not to bring the donkey baseball back to Frankford this year, since it had been put on here last year. Two new members were welcomed in, Comrade Earl Crowe, and Comrade Ralph Molleson.

The Young People of the Catholic Church in Frankford, held a wiener roast and social evening Wednesday evening. The wiener roast was held on the Gair Co. Island, following which the young folk returned to the home of Mrs. Patricia Bennett where dancing and recreation were enjoyed. Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Hopkins did a splendid job in organizing the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Guy Stickle of R.R. 3, Frankford, was fatally injured when he fell from the hay mow of his barn, Tuesday morning. He suffered a fractured skull and never regained consciousness. An ambulance rushed him to Belleville Hospital, but he passed away at 3:00 a.m., Wednesday morning. The sympathy of the district goes out to hos famfly.

MADOC

Madoc.—Searles Beach, Oak Lake, was an ideal setting on Sunday for the third re-union of the Carmen families. Lovely weather prevailed and there were 29 present to enjoy it.

Tables were spread and a sumptuous dinner was enjoyed by all. The younger folk enjoyed swimming and boating while all indulged in a good visit.

During the afternoon, the president, Mrs. Beryl Carmen, conducted a short business session. After she had welcomed everyone, the minutes of the last year meeting were adopted as read by secretary, Mrs. Delbert Carmen. A short program was conducted and prizes were awarded as follows:

The oldest one present, Mrs. Jas. Mumby; the oldest couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Mumby; the youngest, Joyce Carmen.

The new president will be Everard Carmen. It was decided to have another re-union next year at the same place, date to be decided later.

After an early supper, all departed for home feeling it had been a pleasant get-together and looking forward to another next year,

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Derry, Margaret and Norman Derry spent the weekend at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Carmen are camping at Crowe Lake at Mrs. Stanley Morton's cottage, with Mrs. Charles Thompson, Miss Hazel Thompson, Mrs. John Moore and daughters.

DIES OF HEMORRHAGE

Halifax — (CP) — A United States visitor claims it just isn't possible to make coffee in the Maritimes. After several attempts in various kitchens she came to the conclusion the water isn't right.

Dozen Railroad Companies Not Hurt by Strike

(By The Canadian Press)

Despite the strike, there still are whistles to be heard, freights to be hopped.

They're few and far between but about a dozen railroad companies in Canada are virtually unaffected by the walkout.

There's the Huntsville and Lake of Bays Navigation Company Railway, a 1 1-8 mile single track in Ontario's Muskoka district, still busy with its handful of passengers and freight. And the two mile Mattagami line owned by the Abitibi Power and Paper Company in Northern Ontario.

Also operating in Ontario are the Algoma Central, a 250-mile line between Sault Ste. Marie and Hearst, the Essex Terminal, which links Windsor industries with the larger railways, and sections of the New York Central and the Chesapeake and Ohio.

N.Y.C. has a 250 mile track across southwestern Ontario between Windsor and Fort Erie, C. and O. runs between Windsor and St. Thomas. The N.Y.C. still is running also between Valleyfield, Que., and New York and from Ottawa to Russell, Ont., 22 miles south of the capital. On that short run, however, passenger service has been suspended. The rest of a usual N.Y.C. service between Cornwall, Ont., and Ottawa is not running during the strike.

The 97-mile greater Winnipeg Water District Railway is in operation between Winnipeg and Waugh, on the Manitoba-Ontario border, with three mixed trains a week.

The Pacific Great Eastern, serving points along the 348 miles between Squamish and Quesnel, B.C., is affected only in that cargo is cut off between Vancouver and Squamish, its southern terminus.

The B.C. Electric has trains in operation between Vancouver and Chilliwack, 65 miles in the interior. The 150-mile great Northern between Seattle, Wash. and Vancouver is maintaining service on its 40 miles of track north of the border.

Nova Scotia has two railways still operating—the 118 mile Sydney and Louisburg, owned by the Dominion Steel Company and the 15-mile Maritime Coal, Railway and Power Company Line.

START DISCUSSIONS

Kingston Aug. 28 (CP)—Kingston city council today starts discussion of the proposed annexation of Portsmouth village and parts of Kingston township. Between 8,000 and 10,000 persons would be added to the city if the Ontario Municipal Board approves the scheme.

Reds Lose Chance Of Safe 'End-Run' To Port of Pusan

British Troops Arrive in Time U.N. Forces Hard Pressed

By RELMAN MORIN

Tokyo, Aug. 29 (AP)—A north Korean force whipped behind Allied lines at Pohang today, cutting the road to Yongchon near the eastern anchor of the 120-mile Korean battlefront.

A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said, however, the reds had lost all chance of a relatively safe "end-run" to Pusan, the main Allied seaport on the southeastern tip of the peninsula.

Red forces of 40,000 to 60,000 men still were building up for a big push against the Allies.

A United States 8th army communique announced the communist infiltration and roadblock three miles southwest of Pohang by a red force of undetermined numbers. But it said a south Korean division had retaken Kigye, nine miles northwest of Pohang.

U.S. Infantry Repairs Positions

Near the central sector, south Korean forces were attacked Tuesday afternoon by elements of 20,000 north Korean troops four miles south of Uihung, 22 miles north of the central front hub city of Taegu.

On the southern flank before Masan, U.S. infantry counter-attacked at noon Tuesday and regained positions in the Sobuk hills which had been lost Tuesday morning.

Noting a building red mass on the central front above Taegu, the spokesman said Allied ability to move reinforcements quickly to any threatened point of the box-shaped defence perimeter, plus added troops including British infantrymen who arrived Tuesday, removed all chances of the reds reaching Pusan in a quick thrust.

Cripple Red Efforts

To cripple red efforts at a build-up for the anticipated big drive, Superfortresses dropped 230 tons on enemy rail yards at Chongjin, communist supply centre 60 miles from Soviet Siberia. Light bombers plastered supply lines on the west coast from Kyomipo in the north to Sunchon in the south.

While the situation appeared improved, the MacArthur spokesman warned of the dangers of a break-through still existing in the east.

The British troops, first of a large group of ground forces officially promised by other members of the United Nations, arrived at a moment when the United Nations line — held until now by United States and South Korean infantrymen — was under heavy pressure on its northeast wing. And a giant communist offensive plainly was building for another and possibly the greatest effort to smash through the whole position.

Wage Increases For Bush Workers Are Announced

Toronto, Aug. 29—(CP)—Wage increases for bush workers employed by 19 Ontario pulpwood producing companies were announced today.

They are provided for by an agreement signed after 10 days' negotiations between the companies and the Lumber and Saw Mill Workers Union (A.F.L.)

Principal changes from the former contract include a general increase of 50 cents a day for day workers, with comparable increases for piece workers. In addition, piece cutters again will receive a cutting bonus of 55 cents a cord. Other improvements include liberalized vacations with pay and time-off benefits. As a result of increased costs, the charge for board is raised to $1.75 a day from $1.65.

Hon. Earl Rowe was chairman of the negotiating conference. The union delegation, representing locals in Kenora, Port Arthur, Timmins and Sudbury, was headed by Andrew Cooper, international representative, and Bruce Magnuson, secretery-treasurer of the Ontario Joint Council.

Curtain-Raiser Talks Will Precede Parley

London, Aug. 29 — (AP) — Curtain-raiser talks prior to the coming Big Three Foreign Ministers' Conference will begin in the United States within the next few days.

Diplomatic officials today reported that two subjects certain to figure high on the agenda of the American, British, and French ministers will be:

1. West Germany's role in the defence plans of the 12 Atlantic Pact partners.
2. The future status of Formosa.

The diplomatic chiefs are to meet in New York Sept. 12.

In preparation for this, their expert assistants will get together either in New York or Washington within the next few days.

Lewis Douglas, United States Ambassador to Britain, is flying to Washington Wednesday to attend these talks.

An official statement issued by the United States Embassy here said today that Douglas has been called back "on official matters." He will be absent from London for about three weeks.

Douglas has been the American representative on a three-power group looking into West Germany's political and economic future.

The entire German question is expected to have an important place in the Big Three talks.

In addition, the foreign ministers will cover the entire "cold war" question, including:

How to dovetail, and carry out, their often-conflicting policies throughout Asia.

How to speed a Korean settlement, militarily and politically.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Synopsis: The mass of humid tropical air that has been firmly entrenched over the southern fringe of the province is beginning to move this morning. Over the southern half of the province where skies are clouded and rain is falling, skies will clear tonight. Wednesday will be sunny with little change in temperature in these regions.

Over northern regions the weather is abnormally cool. Temperatures fell below freezing in many sections during the night.

OMNIBUS BILL TO GOVERN ARMY'S SPECIAL BRIGADE

Would Authorize Govt. Send Force Anywhere

Ottawa, Aug. 29—(CP)— The government will introduce at the special session of parliament that starts today a single omnibus bill governing the army's special force. It would, among other things, authorize cabinet to send the force anywhere, including Korea, to back Canada's international obligations.

The decision to introduce a single measure to cover the brigade's establishment, maintenance and use was disclosed as informed military quarters said it should be ready to go into battle by next January or February.

The bill will be injected into the special session along with supplementary estimates that will add roughly $150,000,000 to the already-passed record defence budget of $425,000,000 for this fiscal year. The new vote would cover the costs of a general and broad expansion of the defence program.

Government officials have also prepared the legislative steps to launch Canada's arms-for-Europe program, one that is expected to cost in the hundreds of millions over ensuing years.

The omnibus bill will represent primarily a transfer from order-in-council to a legislative or statutory basis of the steps already taken by cabinet to form the special force, to pay and maintain its 8,000 to 9,000 men and to guarantee them certain rights as veterans. It may, however, contain some details not yet made public.

MacArthur Proud To Have British Troops in Korea

London, Aug. 29—(AP)— The Daily Mail publishes a personal message from Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the British public welcoming the arrival of British troops in Korea.

"I cannot over-emphasize the gratification and assurance the arrival of Brigadier Coad and his advance party of British officers gives me," the message says.

"I have always had a sense of security when British soldiers were at hand as I know from long experience they will never fail me.

"These troops will add further lustre to the great traditions of the past, and I am proud indeed to have them in this United Nations command.

"May a merciful God be with them in the trying days ahead."

TOBACCO PRICES UP

Montreal, Aug. 29 (CP)—The Imperial Tobacco Company announced today a five cent increase on some brands of tobacco in half-pound tins. A company official said the increase was "a minor adjustment on a few brands."

Speech From Throne Forecasts Strike Settlement and Defence Legislation

Ottawa, Aug. 29— (CP) —Immediate introduction of legislation to deal with the rail strike was forecast today in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of an emergency session of parliament.

The 200-word speech—probably a record in brevity for a Throne Speech at the opening of a session—also forecast new defence legislation and expenditures. It was read by Viscount Alexander, governor-general, to members of parliament assembled in the Senate.

"You were summoned to meet somewhat earlier than was anticipated because of the disruption of railway transportation facilities resulting from the dispute between the railways and the unions representing the non-operating employees of the railways," said the Speech.

"A measure to deal with this situation will be introduced at once."

The Speech said that originally a special session had been scheduled to deal with measures for increased national security and international co-operation required by the fighting in Korea.

The railway strike now will be dealt with first.

"You will also be asked," said the Speech, "to give urgent consideration to the measures for increased national security and international co-operation required by the fighting in Korea and the increasingly grave international situation which that struggle reflects."

"You will be asked to approve additional appropriations for national defence and the meeting of our obligations under the United Nations charter and the North Atlantic Treaty."

Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise Name of New-Born Daughter Of Elizabeth and Philip

London, Aug. 29 — (AP) — Princess Elizabeth's new-born daughter will be named Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise, it was announced officially today.

A birth certificate was taken to Clarence House, Princess Elizabeth's London house, to be filled out by the child's father, Prince Philip.

An identity card and ration book were also taken along for the baby.

Princess Anne was born Aug. 15. She is the second child of the heiress-presumptive to the throne and her naval-officer husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. The baby has a brother, 21-month-old Prince Charles, who is second in line to the throne.

The new Princess will bear the names of two great queens of England — Elizabeth, who reigned from 1558 to 1603, and Anne, who held the throne from 1702 to 1714.

The choice of the name Elizabeth was also a tribute to the grandmother of the baby Princess, the present Queen Elizabeth.

Common Names

Alice and Louise are names common in recent generations among members of the Royal Family.

Alice also is the given name of Prince Philip's mother, who is known formally as Princess Andrew of Greece, Andrew being the name of her late husband.

Alice is one of the names of the Princess Royal, the dowager Countess of Harewood, who is the sister of the King.

Alice also is the Christian name of the Countess of Athlone, the aunt of the King and the wife of the former Governor-General of Canada.

The baby's proper title and name will be "Her Royal Highness Princess Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise of Edinburgh."

Edinburgh is the name taken by Prince Philip when the King named him Duke of Edinburgh just before his marriage to Princess Elizabeth in November, 1947.

The method of announcing Princess Anne's name came as a surprise. It had been thought that, as in the case of Princess Elizabeth, she would not be named until her christening, the date and place of which have not yet been announced.

Unions Charge Railways Have 'Exaggerated' Cost of Workers' Demands on Country

Ottawa, Aug. 29 (CP) —Unions involved in the general rail strike today charged that the railways have "exaggerated" the impact of the cost of the workers' demands on the Canadian economy.

The union heads, in a letter circulated to members of parliament arriving here to consider government measures to end the strike, said the railways have stated that the demands will mean higher freight rates and a consequent higher cost of living.

"But why this should be so is not clear," said the letter, signed by Frank Hall, head of the 15 international railway unions, and A. R. Mosher, head of the two Canadian unions involved in the strike.

Railway management has not argued inability to pay, the union chieftains continued. "So why a need for higher freight rates? Apparently their present revenues are sufficient to meet the cost."

The letter reviewed the workers' demands for higher wages and shorter hours and noted that the request for a five-day, 40-hour week and a seven-cent wage increase was served on the railways 14 months ago.

In Effect in Other Countries

The five-day 40-hour week is in effect on railways in other countries, including New Zealand and Australia, said the unions.

"It has been in effect for the same classes of employees on United States railways since Sept. 1, 1949. United States railways gave it to their employees in Canada. Canadian railways gave it to their employees in the United States. It has become increasingly adopted in other Canadian industries."

In Canada, the railway employees did not think they should be required to "subsidize" the national railway industry— "a public utility"—by accepting lower standards of employment than obtained elsewhere.

The unions said the railways have not been consistent. When the management wanted higher freight rates "they say that freight rates are a minor factor in costs."

"When we want something, they say it will necessitate higher freight rates and that their impact on the cost of living will be tremendous.

Other Contention

"The railways insist upon excluding their hotel and water transport employees from the terms of a general settlement. They claim that these are separate operations, not an integral part of the railway industry. We contend otherwise—that the railways have gone into the hotel and water transport business and that therefore these are employees of the railways.

"They have been included in previous settlements. There is no real competition between railway hotels and others. The railways direct their patrons to their hotels, as far as possible, and are thus at an advantage. To get from Vancouver to Victoria, or Seattle, a railway passenger takes a ship owned by the railways, on through ticket. It is no less a railway operation because the vehicle is a ship instead of a train."

Rainfall Sets 13-Year Record

Hamilton, Aug. 29 — (CP) — The heavy rainfall here last night set a record dating back officially to 1937. The Ontario Meteorological Bureau here recorded a rainfall measuring 3.04 inches in the period from 5.30 p.m., Monday to 8 a.m. Tuesday. Official records for the Hamilton area date back only to 1937.

Approximately 13,000 Hamilton residents were without electricity for more than five hours as a result of the rain.

Piles of garbage through city streets, uncollected because of the strike of garbage collectors, were turned into a soggy mess as the cardboard cartons in which the refuse was stored disintegrated in the rain. Some of the garbage was washed into gulley drains, blocking them and flooding the streets.

Fast Talking Leads to Arrest

Hamilton, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Some fast talking by a Hamilton taxi-cab operator last night resulted in the arrest of Pierre Terrien of Montreal on a charge of attempted hold-up.

Taxi driver Clayton Johnson picked up Terrien and was directed to drive to Toronto. Terrien put his hand in his coat pocket and pointed at the driver.

"You drive me to Toronto or you'll get it," he told Johnson. The driver explained the seriousness of the act and talked him out of carry on. He let his fare out at Clans on the Queen Elizabeth Way and radioed back to Hamilton. Provincial police at Dundas were notified and they arrested Terrien.

BRITISH GROUND FORCES ASHORE AT KOREAN PORT

First Commonwealth Troops to Land

A South Korean port, Aug 29—(AP)—British ground troops in their jungle-green battle dress stepped ashore today to give the Commonwealth its first fighting force in the United Nations action against north Korean communists.

Tan and hard Scotsmen and lean young warriors from the London area disembarked from the aircraft carrier Unicorn and the cruiser Ceylon to the cheers of south Koreans and Americans.

The carrier Unicorn touched the pier at 12:20 p.m. (10:20 p.m. EDT Monday).

The bagpipes played "The Glen Aurel Highlanders" as B company of the Argyll and Sutherland Higherlands regiment trotted down the gangplank of the cruiser Ceylon.

They were cheerful, these men from Britain who were brought here from their station at Hong Kong. Sgt. Ian Bell of Paisley, Scotland said:

"The lads feel we should have been here sooner."

Csm. Robert Murray of Glasgow commented. "we are quite happy. We can handle the mountain fighting. We have always taken it—so we can carry on."

Just an Immigrant

One laughing soldier said: "I am just an immigrant."

And another put an identification tag in his eye, as if it were a monocle, and inspected Korea.

A moustached soldier called to an American on the pier and asked: Any gum, chum?"

Pte. Patrick Boyd of Port Glasgow yelled "are there any pubs here where a mon can get a drop o' drink?" He looked a bit sad when he was told the staple native drinks are sake and unguaranteed apple brandy.

As the carrier slid up the pier, an American army band played "God Save the King." It was a moment of high emotion for those watching.

Come to Attention

On the decks of the carrier, the Britons came to attention. They stood at the rail, tall and straight. And then, as the notes died away, they cheered.

A south Korean band also welcomed the British force and a chorus of south Korean girls sang "God Save the King." Most of the girls had fled Seoul, capital of south Korea which fell to the reds early in the invasion.

Then the girls sang the "United Nations Welcome Song," written by a south Korean. They sang: "The United Nations Army is Coming, Holding up the Forces of Righteousness, to put an End to Wickedness."

The first officer ashore from the Unicorn was Maj. R. A. Gwyn of Scotland.

Ready for Fight

"Our men want to know what they have got to do — and they are ready to do it," he said briefly.

The Ceylon touched the pier a few minutes after the Unicorn, and the wild music of bagpipes swirled across the water. They were playing "The Barron Rocks of Aden."

The bagpipers were resplendent in kilts and sporrans, with cocky Glengarries perched on their heads.

Legislation Will Order Both Sides To Continue Talks

Report Says Arrangements Will be on Temporary Basis

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 29—(CP)—The Canadian Press learned today that proposed government legislation will order both the railways and the unions to get Canada's strike-crippled railroad operating immediately.

The legislation, to be introduced in parliament this afternoon, also will ask the unions — on a temporary basis only — to accept the best offer on the main points in dispute made to them by the railways in the long series of negotiations which collapsed here Saturday night.

It also will instruct the two sides to negotiate a settlement.

May Appoint Arbitrator

If this settlement is not forthcoming within a short period — believed to be 10 days to two weeks — the government will appoint an arbitrator whose decision in the dispute will be final.

The arbitration will deal with all points in dispute, including those on which the unions will be asked in effect, to immediately, but temporarily, accept the best offer made to them thus far from the railways.

The arbitrator's decision, in effect, will be law. Presumably, there will be penalties provided in case either side refuses to accept it.

Yesterday, Frank H. Hall and A. R. Mosher, co-leaders of the 124,000 strikers, said that if the employees were directed by a Parliamentary order to go back to work, they would do so.

Expect Break in Strike

Constitutionally, the order for an immediate return to work cannot be effective until the bill has been adopted by both the Commons and the Senate and given Royal assent — in other words, until the bill becomes law.

However, the government is believed in well-informed sources to be hoping — and expecting — that the mere fact that such an instruction has been placed before Parliament will be sufficient to bring the strike to an end.

If the disputants settle their differences before the time limit set for appointment of a government arbitrator, Parliamentary sources suggest the legislation likely will be modified and its terms softened.

The offer to which the bill refers was believed to be that laid before the unions by the railways in the final series of negotiations that collapsed Saturday night.

Railway Offer Outlined

This contains:

1. A four cents-an-hour wage increase to become effective Sept. 1, 1950.
2. A five-day, 40-hour week to begin Sept. 1, 1951.
3. A two-year contract to run from Sept. 1, 1950.
4. There would be no overtime pay up to 48 hours a week in the event of a national emergency.
5. Hotel and water-transport employees of the railways would not be included in the main terms of the agreement but would be given a separate one-year contract effective Sept. 1, 1950, and providing for an increase of two cents an hour.
6. Certain rule amendments sought by the railways originally as a necessary prerequisite to their compromise offer, would be negotiated separately.

At that stage of the negotiations, the unions were holding out for a seven-cents-an-hour wage increase effective June 1 last.

They also wanted the 40-hour week with the same take-home pay as for the present 48 to become effective next June 1 — three months before the date proposed by the companies—but they were willing to accept a three-months' "transitional period" during which no overtime would be payable up to 48 hours a week.

The unions were insistent, too, that the hotel and water-transport employees should be included in the main terms of any settlement.

Meanwhile, parliament tomorrow will embark on three sittings daily.

Girl is Killed, Converted Jeep Runs Under Truck

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 29—(CP)—Anne C. Cummings, 21, of Rochester, N.Y., was killed and a companion injured last night when their converted army jeep ran under the back of a truck about 20 miles east of here.

Martha Coachman, 20, of Ballston Spa, N.Y., is in hospital here. Her condition is not considered serious. She suffered deep facial lacerations when the windshield of their vehicle was swept off by the rear of the truck.

Police said the two women were following a truck driven by William Gray, who slowed to turn into his home. The top portion of the jeep was sheared off by the truck platform and the two women were thrown clear.

Russian Sub Officers Said Sailing Secretly in Soviet Merchantmen

London, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Daily Herald in a story from Stockholm today says Russian submarine officers are sailing secretly in Soviet merchant ships to all parts of the world.

"They are under orders to achieve pinpoint navigational skill and learn snapshot recognition of foreign vessels in the shortest possible time," the dispatch says.

A. J. McWhinnie, the Herald's Stockholm correspondent, says his facts were "pieced together from three authentics sources of information.."

"My information is that the total of Russian submarines has reached 380, and the prefabrication plant could produce 45 to 50 new boats each months if the trained crews were available," the dispatch says.

It adds that 120 of the 380 are obsolete and that half of the remainder were built for purely defensive operation around the Russian coastline.

"So Russia's long-range operational underwater strength at this moment is 130 submarines" the dispatch says. "Fifty of these are believed to be in the Baltic and 60 in the Pacific."

Little Damage From Storm

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Heavy rains lashed the countryside bordering the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River late yesterday and early today and caused some damage to crops and property.

Heaviest rainfall was recorded in the Hamilton area where the weather office recorded 3.04 inches in the period from 5:30 p.m. Monday to 8 a.m. Tuesday. The storm left 13,000 residents of the city without electricity for more than five hours.

In the Niagara district damage to the ripening fruit crop was slight.

Property damage was fairly heavy in the London area where high wnids tore shingles off roofs and lightning caused a five-hour power blackout.

MARKET VENDORS BRAVE ELEMENTS TO SELL PRODUCE

A few — a very few, as a matter of fact — vendors braved this morning's downpour to offer produce on the farmers' market. Those who did stick it out hid themselves inside their trucks and let the rain wash their vegetables until they glistened.

One lone individual was completely brave. He stood out under the grey skies and got completely drenched. By the same token, however, he seemed to be the only person selling anything. Buyers were as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

Produce shown compared in price with Saturday's market.

WINNER OF CAR VISITS IN CITY

The Kinsmen Club $4,000 Packard automobile which was drawn for on the closing night of Belleville Fair is still in Belleville with the winner not yet having accepted delivery, it is reported by Kinsmen officials.

Winner of the car, Elsie St. Hillaire of Montreal, was in the city on Saturday to have a look at her new Packard but after taking pictures of the new car, returned home without the machine. Kinsmen said she was making arrangements to have the machine shipped to Montreal by highway transport.

NAME OMITTED

Omitted from the list of entertainers at strike headquarters in Sunday night's show was George Gulliver, who played the piano accordion.

ROCHESTER PILOT FORCED DOWN BY BAD WEATHER

Forced down by bad weather, a Rochester pilot, Joseph Boyce, tied his plane up at the Belleville Harbor last night and stayed overnight in the city. Boyce brought his plane down to land in the harbor shortly before dark and asked police to check on the craft during the night.

DRIVERS' LICENCES IN SHORT SUPPLY AT LOCAL OFFICE

Persons wishing to take out drivers' licences in the city were disappointed this week when they were told at the local motor licence issuing office that the office was all out of forms.

It seems the highway department ships such stationery by second class mail and with the railway strike the postal department ceased accepting mail of this class.

One local man seeking a driver's licence yesterday went to Trenton when he could not obtain one in the city. The office there stated they were much in the same boat as in Belleville with only a few such applications forms left.

DINNER MEETING OF CLUB CANCELLED

The regular fortnightly dinner meeting of the local Kinsmen Club was called off last night, the next meeting being scheduled for September 11th, which will see the installation of officers for the new year. President-elect of the club is Murray Davis.

Club President Ernie Colebourne last week attended the Kinsmen national convention which this year was held in the city of Winnipeg.

Cobourg Firm Not Allowed To Remove Coal

Following yesterday's movement of cement from the Belleville yards by an army detail from Kingston, local strike headquarters received a request from a Cobourg firm, that a car of coal be released. The request was turned down on the grounds that it did not comply with the rules covering a national defence emergency.

The appeal was made by the Dominion Wheel and Foundry Company of Cobourg, and after consideration by the local strike committee, the answer was no. The company told officials here that 400 men would be put out of work if the coal was not released.

The strikers told the Cobourg firm that they sympathized with them in their position, but they could not discriminate in their favor. "In addition," they said, "there were 1,200 men out of work here, and their pledge could not be violated if the request was not of a national defence nature.

FARM HAND DROWNS

Manotick, Ont., Aug. 29—(CP)—Roger Bourgeois, 19-year-old district farm hand, drowned last night in the Jock River, about four miles northwest of this village. Unable to swim the youth was believed to have drowned when an inflated inner tube he was holding slipped from his grasp. Manotick is about 20 miles south of Ottawa.

Obituary

JAMES JOHN MACKIE
(Campbellford)

James John Mackie, 80-year-old Scottish immigrant, who has lived in Campbellford for the past five years, passed away at the home of his son, James L. Roy Mackie, in Campbellford, on August 24.

Mr. Mackie came to Canada in 1882, at the age of 12 years, and lived for a time at Dartford in Percy Township. Besides his son Roy, he leaves five grandchildren and one great grandchild. His wife, the former Eliza Dunk, passed away three years ago.

A farmer for most of his life, Mr. Mackie received part of his education here and part in Scotland. He was a lifelong member of the United Church.

The Rev. John McKibbin, of Christ Church in Campbellford, conducted funeral services on Saturday at 2 p. m. from Bennett's Funeral Parlors on Frank Street. Burial was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The bearers were: James Bailey, James Mackie, John Martin, George Smith, Robert Mackie, Donald Mackie.

Family Quarrel Over Children Ends in Courts

Neighborhood children do sometimes get on families' nerves, but it is seldom that "over the fence" arguments over children go so far as to warrant court appearance.

Just this however was the outcome of a hose aiming, hair pulling argument occurring in the city over the weekend. As a finale to the argument over the children one party was alleged to have turned the garden hose on the other with result that a hair pulling party ensued.

Today both parties appeared in court, one party being charged with assault. Outcome of the court case was that the charge was withdrawn and both parties were bound over to keep the peace.

Trenches Dug Around Big Tent At Headquarters

Strike headquarters at the C N R Athletic Association grounds were flooded out last night and this morning by the heavy rains, but by noon today everything was under control. Trenches were dug around the big tent, and sawdust was put on the muddy ground under the canvas.

The striking railroaders worked part of last night and this morning to dry things up. The ground is clay, and the runoff of water from the field swamped part of the tent. Also because of the rain, last night's outdoor entertainment was called off, and an impromptu concert was held inside the tent. Pickets carried on in the downpour.

Educational pictures were scheduled in last night's show, but mechanical troubles prevented the screening. Rev. F. R. Harback and Elmer Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West, were visitors to strike headquarters, and both congratulated the men for the way in which the strike was being run here, and both thanked the strikers for the opportunity of seeing the setup.

Further entertainment is scheduled for tonight, rain or not.

3 B.C.I. Students Given Bursaries Of $400 Each

Joan Allen, Tom Buchanan and Roy McMillan, recent upper school graduates of the Belleville Collegiate Institute have been awarded Dominion-Provincial Bursaries to the value of $400 it was announced early today.

"I feel wonderful" said Joan Allen when told of her award. Joan plans to attend the University of Saskatchewan in the fall to take a course in modern languages.

"This is the first we've heard of it," said Mr. Buchanan, Tom's father, when called by the Ontario-Intelligencer reporter Tom leaves for Western University September 20th. He plans to take a two-year course in science preparatory to a course in medicine.

Tom, who is an all-round athlete, playing baseball, basketball, and football hopes to perform for Western basketball team in his spare time.

Roy McMillan the other scholarship winner, was not available for comment.

It was learned, however that he intends to enter Queen's University in the arts course.

Other Dominion-Provincial bursaries awarded to collegiate students include a $250 Normal School scholarship to Jean Harkins.

Gerald Brennan and Elizabeth Kellar were awarded Grade 12 Vocational School bursaries valued at $100 each.

The Collegiate copped the only three university entrance scholarships given for the County of Hastings this year. They collected one of the three normal school scholarships and two of the six awarded to pupils of the vocational classes.

Belleville United Wins Soccer Match by 4-1

Belleville United beat 6 RD in a scheduled Bay of Quinte Soccer League match played at Bain Memorial Park, Trenton, last night. The score was four goals to one. 6 RD played the game with ten men but the Belleville boys had one or two reserves out to replace players who were injured in Brockville last Saturday.

Gemmel opened the scoring for the United from a corner by Alexander. Loutit equalised for the Depot after a further 10 minutes of play. Seven minutes before half time Gemmel scored a second goal to give Belleville the lead again and the teams changed over with score Belleville two, 6 RD one. Fifteen minutes after the resumption of play Gemmel got his third goal of the match and Lane increased the lead two minutes before the final whistle from a shot from just outside the penalty area.

Teams

Belleville United—Terry, Dale, Findlay, Lane, Moody, Alexander, T. Barclay, Ellis, Gemmel, H. Barclay, Cox.

6 RD—Warren, Batt, Collington, Rimmer, Eatherley, Fletcher, Law, McNiel, Loutit, Hatton.

Referee Bob Murphy.

ISRAEL REFINING GUM

Tel Aviv, Aug. 29 (AP)—Israel now is refining oil for her own needs. A government announcement said oil refineries in Haifa resumed operations yesterday for the first time since the shutdown two years ago when Iraq cut off pipe-line supplies during the Palestine war. Israel is buying crude oil from British and American companies to meet its annual consumption needs.

B.C.I. Requests Music Instruments For Instruction

Under the guidance of C. E. Templer, music teacher at Belleville Collegiate Institute, a program is being launched to provide string instruments for the instruction of students at the school. If the instruments can be procured, plans call for two periods per week per class for instruction, and the possibility of a rehearsal after school.

Difficulty in the proceedings is that the school does not own any violins, violas, cellos or bass viols. Since the procuring of them would require too large an outlay of money, Mr. Templer is considering a very successful plan used in large Toronto school.

Anyone with any sort of stringed instrument is asked to lend it to the school under the following conditions: it will be put into playing condition if necessary; owner's name will be put on instrument; the best care possible will be given the instrument and it will be returned to the owner on request anytime after the first year, in excellent condition.

Mr. Templer believes that there are a great many children whose talents are not being put to use simply because there are no instruments available.

Persons wishing to contribute may contact Mr. Templer at the school or at his home, 164 Albert Street.

STOOD ON LADDER

Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP)—An uncomfortable police constable stood on a step ladder yesterday in the midst of heavy traffic along busy Lake Shore Road. With a loudspeaker, he was diverting traffic away from the congested Canadian National Exhibition area. The constable cast occasional uneasy looks at his ladder and said: "I'm just waiting for one of these cars to go right through this thing."

Sixty-One Pounds Of Trout Taken From Opeongo L.

Sixty-one pounds of lake trout as the reward for a Saturday afternoon fishing trip in Algonquin Park district is the boast of Roy McNevin, Glen Roy Creameries, and Walter Johnston, local hydro employee.

The two local Izaak Waltons caught the six fish weighing 61 pounds in Opeongo Lake last Saturday afternoon and then went back on Sunday to add to their haul with five extra smaller ones.

The biggest lake trout of the entire haul weighed 20 pounds, four ounces and measured a trifle over 34 inches in length, while the smallest of the Saturday afternoon catch was a trifle over 24 inches and weighed 6 pounds, 6 ounces.

All the fish were caught by trolling with the fishermen using copper wire line.

Posing for pictures to record their good luck Mr. McNevin reported Joe Avery, proprietor of Avery's Lodge on Opeongo Lake as saying their catch was the biggest haul taken out of the lake in 12 years.

But the two Belleville fishermen have had enough fishing for the time being. They said they were going back to Opeongo Lake in about another month to again try their luck.

MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS

Berlin, Aug. 29 — (Reuters)—Leo Bauer, director of the Soviet-controlled East German radio station in Berlin, has mysteriously disappeared, station employees stated last night. Bauer, a member of the (communist) Socialist Unity party, was last seen Aug. 22 when he left the broadcasting station building in the British sector of the city. Officials at the station said they believed he had fled to West Germany or had sought political asylum in West Berlin.

Choral Society Of N.E. Gives Concert at Tweed

Tweed's Memorial Community Park program got a boost last week when the Northern Electric Choral Society from Belleville put on a variety night in the village. Proceeds from the show are to be used for the purchase of playground equipment for the children.

The show, which was emceed by Al Coyle, had 18 acts, including tap dances, songs, piano selections, gymnastic displays, comedians, song stylings, dialogues, and violin and organ selection.

Those taking part in the show were Dean Whalen, Barbara Thrasher, Sheila Fisher, Jackie Calnan, Glen Tamblyn, Freddine Smith, Bill Salter, Stan Creeggan George Locke, Ed Waterhouse, Doug Tufford, Lilliam Tamblyn, Madeline Meagher, Bert Brown, and a barbershop quartet of Alf Evans, Ed Lewis, Bill Gander and Frank Grandame.

The Tweed park, which was started as a community institution, has been transformed from low marshland into a fine ground and ball diamond.

The show was presented Thursday and Friday nights. Eddie Rickardo was stage manager, and Phil Alcorn and Wally Benger were in charge of stage lighting and effects. Female members of the club acted as usherettes and Bill Gander compiled and arranged the program.

After the show, the Choral Society was entertained at the Tweedsmuir Hotel at supper. This was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Burkett of Tweed.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) —Prices climbed strongly as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Leading industrials found strong support as traders forgot their wariness of recent sessions and moved in with buy orders. Volume for the first three hours was 670,000 shares.

Paper stocks led the industrial climb. Reports indicate that the paper companies, generally, have been able to continue operations despite the rail strike. Traders at first felt that this group of companies was especially vulnerable. Steels also gained and agricultures, textiles and refining oils brightened. Aluminum was the outstanding gainer, rising 2 1-8 to a new high at 34 3-4.

Base metals broke through into new high ground with United Keno Hill, Noranda and International Nickel leading the way. The list last week sold at the highest average prive levels as measured by the excizee's index, since 1937.

Western oils, yesterday's feature, bounced well ahead in early dealings but encountered mild profit-taking as the session progressed Gains ranged up to about 10 cents.

Golds were quiet and slightly firmer with a handful of junior gold producers adding pennies.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) —Trade was dull and prices were a shade easier at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 1,050; calves 300; hogs 180; sheep and lambs 90. Left from yesterday were 1,400 cattle.

Medium to good weighty steers sold for $29-$30.50; common to medium light steers and heifers $24-$28 with good at $29; medium to good cows $21-$24; good bulls $23.50-$24.50; common downwards to $19; fed yearlings $26-$33; few stockers $24-$27.

Calves were steady at $30-$32 for choice vealers; common to medium $20-$29.

Hog prices were not established.

Lambs were firm at $31 for good ewes and wethers; bucks $30; few good sheep $10-$15.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 29—(AP)—Cattle 150; good Holstein cows 19.00-21.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 22.00-24.00; good weighty sausage bulls 24.00-25.00.

Calves 100; good and choice handyweight calves 34.00-35.00; culls and strongweight bobs 29.00-30.00.

Duties of Labor Department Outlined by Deputy Minister To Members of Rotary Club

"There are no pat, set answers to the problems facing industry and there never will be. There is no formula for the settlement of labor disputes; what works today may, and very often does, fail when applied to a similar problem tomorrow," stated J. B. Metzler, Deputy Minister of Labor for the Province of Ontario, in an address to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club held Monday noon in Hotel Quinte.

"I take this opportunity to tell you men some of the problems facing us in government service. It is only fair, too, to take time from the many activities of the department to come back to the people who are our masters and answer for what we are doing."

"The Department of Labor is one of the smaller departments of the Ontario government," the speaker stated, "and is called a service department because it spends more than it receives. Last year we collected about $300,000 and our expenses were more than a million dollars."

Mr. Metzler then compared the structure of the Department to a corporation whose base is the individual shareholder in industry, and at whose head is the Minister of Labor.

Everyone Shareholder

"Everyone in Ontario is a shareholder in this corporation," he said. "We all have a big stake in this large and prosperous province, which is getting larger all the time. Running this province is big business," he continued. "In 1949 it cost the taxpayers $235 million. There are few businesses in Canada as big as Province of Ontario."

The Department of Labor, which was formed in 1919, to assume some of the tasks formerly done by the Department of Public Works, has many functions, Mr. Metzler pointed out. Included in its services are the factory inspection branch, the minimum wage and hours branch, the Ontario Labor Relations Board, Workman's Compensation, boiler inspection branch, and the Board of Examiners of Operating Engineers.

The Deputy Minister went on to outline the duties and accomplishments of these various bureaux.

Promotional Work

"The basic principle of the Department of Industrial Relations, is to help in the promotion and preservation of good industrial relations, and the restoration of industrial relations when they have broken down. But industrial relations is only one aspect of their work. Good surroundings, hours of work, technical training and many other factors are basic to the establishment and maintenance of good industrial relations, and we are proud to say that in Ontario these matters are not fields for bargaining but are matters of law."

"It has always been a matter of industrial pride in Ontario," he added, "for employers to provide modern and up-to-date factories and working conditions, and it is a constant source of pleasure to note the many clean bills of health that come into the department all the time from our inspectors throughout the province."

Safety for the workingman is another aspect of the industrial setup that is taken care of by the Department of Labor.

"All industrial premises and places of business in Ontario, two or more stories high, must be inspected by the Department of Labor to insure safety in all its aspects. In 1949 alone plans for industrial plants in this province to the value of $67,000,000 were examined and approved by the department. That figure just covers the cost of the buildings and does not take into account the value of the machinery or other equipment in these premises. This constant vigilance for the safety of the worker gives him a feeling of security as he sees the foundations of permanent, well-paying-jobs firmly laid. This strengthens the industrial fabric of Ontario.

World Pioneer

In discussing workmen's compensation, Mr. Metzler said that "Ontario was the world pioneer for the establishment of Workmen's Compensation, and the system in Ontario is recognized as being the finest in the world, serving as the model for similar plans in every part of the globe. In Ontario the workman's problem is characterized by a sympathetic and humane approach."

In his remarks about the Conciliation Service provided by the department, Mr. Metzler paid special mention of Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville.

In speaking of Judge Anderson he said, "his patience and tact as an impartial mediator in industrial disputes in many parts of Ontario have reflected great credit on himself and on the department for which he has done much valuable work."

In summing up, Mr. Metzler said that "good progress has been made, in a democratic way, to good social legislation. We have built our lives on freedom and on free institutions. If better things are to come," he concluded, "they must come through the initiative and enterprise of free people working through their free institutions."

The speaker was introduced by Gilbert Scott and received the thanks of the club as expressed by Alan Sprague.

Hunt Young Man As Prowler Who Shot Eccentric

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29 (AP)—A tall young man with a "southern drawl" was sought by police today as the prowler who shot and killed eccentric 76-year-old Anthony Skotzke early yesterday.

The retired merchant was slain in a gun fight before two granddaughters in his old, castle-like home at 5:30 a.m.

Evidently the intruder climbed up a ladder and through a window, after pacifying three dogs which guarded the house.

A high wall and a spiked iron fence protect the home. Neighborhood gossip has been that Skotzke kept a large sum of money in the house.

The granddaughters, Jane Barger, 19, and her sister, Margie, 15, said they were awakened in their beds by a light flashed in their faces.

"Shut up or I'll kill you," they said they were told.

"We screamed anyway," Margie said. "Grandpa came running upstairs."

The girls said that Skotzke exchanged shots with the man, who fled. Skotze fell dead of a shot in the heart.

STORM AT AMHERSTBURG

Amherstburg, Ont., Aug. 29—(CP)—Strong winds accompanying a thunderstorm cut hydro power in Amherstburg and sections of Malden township last night when a falling tree limb tore down hydro lines and two poles here.

Repairmen worked for three hours to restore service. No heavy damage was reported elsewhere in Essex county.

SEARCH FOR 1.500 FISHERMEN

Colombo, Ceylon, Aug. 29 — (Reuters) Five R.A.F. planes today were searching off Ceylon's west coast for about 1,500 fishermen in a fleet of outrigger canoes hit by a violent monsoon gale along the coastal area last night.

No Mass Layoffs in Near Future Contemplated in City

Belleville, thus far, is escaping the effects of the railroad strike in labor circles. There have been only two people laid off as a result of the strike, and while the transportation slowup has affected nearly all the industries, no mass layoffs are contemplated in the near future.

Many of the manufacturers had sufficient supplies in before rail traffic stopped, and others have shifted to truck transport to keep their products moving. The overall picture is one of waiting — waiting to see how long the rail men are going to stay out.

Stephens-Adamson Company, through president Gustave Freeman, said this morning that if the strike is not settled by next week, there may be a shakeup at the plant. Mr. Freeman said that no one would be laid off, however. A shortening of hours for each employee would accomplish the same end, he said, and none of the employees would suffer too much. "That way," he said "everybody makes a few dollars, and no one does without." Present hour schedules might be cut by 25 per cent or 30 per cent, he said.

No Layoff Anticipated

At Corbin Lock, L. E. McLean said that no layoff was anticipated "for at least a month." Much of the Corbin production is now being moved by truck, as far east as Halifax. Mr. McLean said that no employees had been laid off as yet.

If the strike is settled within a reasonable length of time, Ed Bernstein of Mead Johnson said, that company will be able to get along in fine shape. "At the present time," Mr. Bernstein said, "all that is being handled generally is the Ontario and Quebec trade, and in a few isolated instances, to other points."

Some of the Mead Johnson products are being shipped by truck, and the general situation will not become tight as long as the railroads get into operation "within a reasonable length of time", Mr. Bernstein said.

The Stewart - Warner - Alemite plant is the only one interviewed in the city that has laid off any employees. Their total is two, and unless the strike continues for more than a week, no more layoff is expected. Some of the workers have been transferred to other work to make for efficient production during the rail troubles.

Arthur Young, general manager of the Stewart - Warner plant told the Ontario Intelligencer that they are shipping their products by truck to American rail points. He said that the plant was suffering no interference of any magnitude because of the rail stoppage.

Shipping by Truck

Mark Vanner, at Belleville Lock, said that there would be no upset at that plant as long as the strike did not last too much longer. The same feeling was evident at American Optical, whose light products are being shipped by truck during the trouble. The optical firm expects to be able to operate for two weeks or more without being affected seriously by the tieup.

Northern Electric said that the strike hasn't affected them materially yet, and they are hopeful that the work stoppage will be solved before it does. J. E. Buchan, of the Bakelite plant, in reply to the layoff question, said that the strike had affected his plant "not at all". Some of their materials are being shipped in by truck, and other materials were obtained before the strike. "There is no layoff in sight," he said.

In all, the labor situation in Belleville seems very hopeful, and if the strike is settled by government within a reasonable period, the effects of the stoppage will be almost negligible.

Wages of Rail Workers Form Complex Structure

Ottawa, Aug. 29 (CP)—Wages of railway workers, at issue in the general rail strike with which parliament grapples today, form a complex structure with wide variations.

They are established in various bases, including hourly, daily and monthly scales.

The unions are asking a straight increase of seven cents an hour all around, which amounts to $2.80 for the 40-hour week they want. In addition, there would be an hourly increase through the fact that the unions want the work week reduced. A conciliation board estimates that the net result would be that the average non-operating railway man would work seven hours less per week than now and earn $4.47 more per week.

At present, the pay rates under negotiation vary between the $313 to $355 a month received by train despatchers to the 81 to 86 cents an hour received by sectionmen.

Telegraph operators get from $203 to $221 a month; agents, $213-$233; assistant agents, $156-$162, and telegraph linemen $227-$250.

Among the big group of maintenance of way men, some 25,000, foremen's pay ranges from $8.11 to $9.16 a day.

Among construction workers, foremen get a top of $9.16 a day. Masons, bricklayers and plasterers get $1.08 an hour; carpenters, $1.04-$1.08; plumbers, pipefitters, tinsmiths, blacksmiths and electricians, $1.03-$1.20; painters, $1.01-$1.04.

In the repair shops, mechanics get $1.22 an hour, and so do electricians. Other shop workers range down to lows of 87 cents for coach cleaners and 82-90 cents for shop laborers.

500,000 Men Covered by New Wage Increases

Detroit, Aug. 29 — (AP)—The automobile industry's new upsweep in wages soon will have covered 500,000 workers.

As pay raises were extended today to another 42,000 workers, the added "nickel and dime an hour" pattern had reached the 500,000 mark.

The bulk of this, including the five-cent cost-of-living jump for about 330,000 General Motors employees, takes effect Friday.

Latest to grant wage boosts were the Briggs Manufacturing Company for 38,000 employees and Motor Products Corporation for 4,000.

Previously, raises had gone to Chrysler's 120,000 workers and Packard's 8,000.

Like Chrysler's, the raise at Briggs was a voluntary company move outside its contract with the United Auto Workers. Union (C. I. O.).

Except for Ford and its 115,000 employees, the average hourly wage in the industry in the United States now is estimated at $1.75, an increase of 10 cents.

Coincidentally, union sources reported a minor work stoppage at Ford's Rouge plant yesterday.

Carl Stellato, president of Ford Local 600, said it was due to unrest over what he called Ford's refusal to give "an immediate pay increase."

There was no comment from the company.

Under the Ford-Au. A. W. contract no wage talks are called for until Jan. 1. Ford and the union, however, have been reported to have talked informally on pay rates recently.

Archie Sexsmith Of Bancroft Killed in Crash

Rockport, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Archie Sexsmith of Bancroft, Ont., just starting his first holiday trip in 22 years, was killed last night in a collision between his car and a Colonial Coach Lines bus at this village 26 miles east of Kingston. Fourteen other persons were injured and one was unconscious in hospital this morning.

Sexsmith, driving the auto, was travelling with his wife and a daughter. They planned on stopping for the night at Rockport. Mrs. Sexsmith suffered a fractured left kneecap and other injuries. She was taken to hospital at Kingston. Their daughter was unhurt.

Morris Warner of Morrisburg, Ont., was unconscious from head injuries, nature of which have not been determined.

Warner was a passenger in the Montreal-bound bus driven by Winfield Down, 46, of Brockville who is in hospital at Brockville with a fractured left kneecap and other injuries.

Constable George Elson of the Brockville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Down deserved "a good pat on the back for his coolness and courage." Elson credited Down with saving "a lot of lives."

Two Kingston residents are in hospital at Kingston — Mrs. S. P. Norris and her son Arthur. Their injuries are not serious.

Nine other persons received minor injuries and continued their trips after receiving emergency treatment.

District Farmers Welcome Rain

"Just what we needed" chorused several farmers on the local produce market this morning as rain falling in buckets full made customers as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

It was one of the heaviest rainfalls of the year with a total of 2.06 inches of rain falling over the district from yesterday noon until today noon.

Yesterday three quarters of an inch of rain fell, while today a total of 1.31 inches of rain fell up until noon.

Although crops in the district are now practically all harvested, farmers said the moisture would benefit tomatoes and late garden crops, while the rain would be doubly welcomed to boost fall pastures and to soften the ground for fall cultivation.

Threshing came to a standstill as stooks standing in fields got a thorough drenching, but many farmers took the time off to do their shopping in the city.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) —Prices climbed strongly as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Leading industrials found strong support as traders forgot their wariness of recent sessions and moved in with buy orders. Volume for the first three hours was 670,000 shares.

Paper stocks led the industrial climb. Reports indicate that the paper companies, generally, have been able to continue operations despite the rail strike. Traders at first felt that this group of companies was especially vulnerable. Steels also gained and agricultures, textiles and refining oils brightened. Aluminum was the outstanding gainer, rising 2 1-8 to a new high at 34 3-4.

Base metals broke through into new high ground with United Keno Hill, Noranda and International Nickel leading the way. The list last week sold at the highest average prive levels as measured by the excizee's index, since 1937.

Western oils, yesterday's feature, bounced well ahead in early dealings but encountered mild profit-taking as the session progressed Gains ranged up to about 10 cents.

Golds were quiet and slightly firmer with a handful of junior gold producers adding pennies.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) —Trade was dull and prices were a shade easier at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 1,060; calves 300; hogs 180; sheep and lambs 90. Left from yesterday were 1,400 cattle.

Medium to good weighty steers sold for $29-$30.50; common to medium light steers and heifers $24-$28 with good at $29; medium to good cows $21-$24; good bulls $23.50-$24.50; common downwards to $19; fed yearlings $26-$33; few stockers $24-$27.

Calves were steady at $30-$32 for choice vealers; common to medium $20-$29.

Hog prices were not established.

Lambs were firm at $31 for good ewes and wethers; bucks $30; few good sheep $10-$15.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 29—(AP)—Cattle 150; good Holstein cows 19.00-21.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 22.00-24.00; good weighty sausage bulls 24.00-25.00.

Calves 100; good and choice handyweight calves 34.00-35.00; culls and strongweight bobs 29.00-30.00.

PRODUCE PRICES

Churning cream: No. 1, truck price, 54 cents; delivered 57 cents.

Creamery prints: first grade, 55 cents.

The egg market was steady this morning with grade A large in light supply. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: grade A large 53; A medium 50; A pullet 35; grade B 39-40; grade C 28. Wholesale to retail: grade A large 55-56, a medium 53-54; A pullet 41-42; grade B 42-43; grade C 32-33.

Butter solids: first grade 54 cents; second grade (nominal) 50-51 cents.

HOG PRICES

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Truck hogs were $32.75 at Stratford today.

Dressed, grade A hogs, delivered were $33.50 at Hull, Que.

Duties of Labor Department Outlined by Deputy Minister To Members of Rotary Club

"There are no pat, set answers to the problems facing industry and there never will be. There is no formula for the settlement of labor disputes; what works today may, and very often does, fail when applied to a similar problem tomorrow," stated J. B. Metzler, Deputy Minister of Labor for the Province of Ontario, in an address to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club held Monday noon in Hotel Quinte.

"I take this opportunity to tell you men some of the problems facing us in government service. It is only fair, too, to take time from the many activities of the department to come back to the people who are our masters and answer for what we are doing."

"The Department of Labor is one of the smaller departments of the Ontario government," the speaker stated, "and is called a service department because it spends more than it receives. Last year we collected about $300,000 and our expenses were more than a million dollars."

Mr. Metzler then compared the structure of the Department to a corporation whose base is the individual shareholder in industry, and at whose head is the Minister of Labor.

Everyone Shareholder

"Everyone in Ontario is a shareholder in this corporation," he said. "We all have a big stake in this large and prosperous province, which is getting larger all the time. Running this province is big business," he continued. "In 1949 it cost the taxpayers $235 million. There are few businesses in Canada as big as Province of Ontario."

The Department of Labor, which was formed in 1919, to assume some of the tasks formerly done by the Department of Public Works, has many functions, Mr. Metzler pointed out. Included in its services are the factory inspection branch, the minimum wage and hours branch, the Ontario Labor Relations Board, Workman's Compensation, boiler inspection branch, and the Board of Examiners of Operating Engineers.

The Deputy Minister went on to outline the duties and accomplishments of these various bureaux.

Promotional Work

"The basic principle of the Department of Industrial Relations, is to help in the promotion and preservation of good industrial relations, and the restoration of industrial relations when they have broken down. But industrial relations is only one aspect of their work. Good surroundings, hours of work, technical training and many other factors are basic to the establishment and maintenance of good industrial relations, and we are proud to say that in Ontario these matters are not fields for bargaining but are matters of law."

"It has always been a matter of industrial pride in Ontario," he added, "for employers to provide modern and up-to-date factories and working conditions, and it is a constant source of pleasure to note the many clean bills of health that come into the department all the time from our inspectors throughout the province."

Safety for the workingman is another aspect of the industrial setup that is taken care of by the Department of Labor.

"All industrial premises and places of business in Ontario, two or more stories high, must be inspected by the Department of Labor to insure safety in all its aspects. In 1949 alone plans for industrial plants in this province to the value of $67,000,000 were examined and approved by the department. That figure just covers the cost of the buildings and does not take into account the value of the machinery or other equipment in these premises. This constant vigilance for the safety of the worker gives him a feeling of security as he sees the foundations of permanent, well-paying-jobs firmly laid. This strengthens the industrial fabric of Ontario.

World Pioneer

In discussing workmen's compensation, Mr. Metzler said that "Ontario was the world pioneer for the establishment of Workmen's Compensation, and the system in Ontario is recognized as being the finest in the world, serving as the model for similar plans in every part of the globe. In Ontario the workman's problem is characterized by a sympathetic and humane approach."

In his remarks about the Conciliation Service provided by the department, Mr. Metzler paid special mention of Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville.

In speaking of Judge Anderson he said, "his patience and tact as an impartial mediator in industrial disputes in many parts of Ontario have reflected great credit on himself and on the department for which he has done much valuable work."

In summing up, Mr. Metzler said that "good progress has been made, in a democratic way, to good social legislation. We have built our lives on freedom and on free institutions. If better things are to come," he concluded, "they must come through the initiative and enterprise of free people working through their free institutions."

The speaker was introduced by Gilbert Scott and received the thanks of the club as expressed by Alan Sprague.

Hunt Young Man As Prowler Who Shot Eccentric

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29 (AP)—A tall young man with a "southern drawl" was sought by police today as the prowler who shot and killed eccentric 76-year-old Anthony Skotzke early yesterday.

The retired merchant was slain in a gun fight before two granddaughters in his old, castle-like home at 5:30 a.m.

Evidently the intruder climbed up a ladder and through a window, after pacifying three dogs which guarded the house.

A high wall and a spiked iron fence protect the home. Neighborhood gossip has been that Skotzke kept a large sum of money in the house.

The granddaughters, Jane Barger, 19, and her sister, Margie, 15, said they were awakened in their beds by a light flashed in their faces.

"Shut up or I'll kill you," they said they were told.

"We screamed anyway," Margie said. "Grandpa came running upstairs."

The girls said that Skotzke exchanged shots with the man, who fled. Skotze fell dead of a shot in the heart.

STORM AT AMHERSTBURG

Amherstburg, Ont., Aug. 29—(CP)—Strong winds accompanying a thunderstorm cut hydro power in Amherstburg and sections of Malden township last night when a falling tree limb tore down hydro lines and two poles here.

Repairmen worked for three hours to restore service. No heavy damage was reported elsewhere in Essex county.

SEARCH FOR 1,500 FISHERMEN

Colombo, Ceylon, Aug. 29 —(Reuters) Five R.A.F. planes today were searching off Ceylon's west coast for about 1,500 fishermen in a fleet of outrigger canoes hit by a violent monsoon gale along the coastal area last night.

No Mass Layoffs in Near Future Contemplated in City

Belleville, thus far, is escaping the effects of the railroad strike in labor circles. There have been only two people laid off as a result of the strike, and while the transportation slowup has affected nearly all the industries, no mass layoffs are contemplated in the near future.

Many of the manufacturers had sufficient supplies in before rail traffic stopped, and others have shifted to truck transport to keep their products moving. The overall picture is one of waiting — waiting to see how long the rail men are going to stay out.

Stephens-Adamson Company, through president Gustave Freeman, said this morning that if the strike is not settled by next week, there may be a shakeup at the plant. Mr. Freeman said that no one would be laid off, however. A shortening of hours for each employee would accomplish the same end, he said, and none of the employees would suffer too much. "That way," he said "everybody makes a few dollars, and no one does without." Present hour schedules might be cut by 25 per cent or 30 per cent, he said.

No Layoff Anticipated

At Corbin Lock, L. E. McLean said that no layoff was anticipated "for at least a month." Much of the Corbin production is now being moved by truck, as far east as Halifax. Mr. McLean said that no employees had been laid off as yet.

If the strike is settled within a reasonable length of time, Ed Bernstein of Mead Johnson said, that company will be able to get along in fine shape. "At the present time," Mr. Bernstein said, "all that is being handled generally is the Ontario and Quebec trade, and in a few isolated instances, to other points."

Some of the Mead Johnson products are being shipped by truck, and the general situation will not become tight as long as the railroads get into operation "within a reasonable length of time", Mr. Bernstein said.

The Stewart - Warner - Alemite plant is the only one interviewed in the city that has laid off any employees. Their total is two, and unless the strike continues for more than a week, no more layoff is expected. Some of the workers have been transferred to other work to make for efficient production during the rail troubles.

Arthur Young, general manager of the Stewart - Warner plant told the Ontario Intelligencer that they are shipping their products by truck to American rail points. He said that the plant was suffering no interference of any magnitude because of the rail stoppage.

Shipping by Truck

Mark Vanner, at Belleville Lock, said that there would be no upset at that plant as long as the strike did not last too much longer. The same feeling was evident at American Optical, whose light products are being shipped by truck during the trouble. The optical firm expects to be able to operate for two weeks or more without being affected seriously by the tieup.

Northern Electric said that the strike hasn't affected them materially yet, and they are hopeful that the work stoppage will be solved before it does. J. E. Buchan, of the Bakelite plant, in reply to the layoff question, said that the strike had affected his plant "not at all". Some of their materials are being shipped in by truck, and other materials were obtained before the strike. "There is no layoff in sight," he said.

In all, the labor situation in Belleville seems very hopeful, and if the strike is settled by government within a reasonable period, the effects of the stoppage will be almost negligible.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEAS

A replica of a silver chalice made in 1572 will be presented to a church in Vancouver, the gift being an acknowledgment of donations sent by the people of Vancouver to the restoration of Petersham Church, where Captain George Vancouver, the explorer, is buried. The vicar, the Rev. R. S. Mills, said that about $2,150 had been received from Vancouver, out of which the city council itself had subscribed $500.

These proofs of the relationship and friendship of the people of the British Isles and the people of this Continent are a happy evidence of understanding and appreciation. Not many weeks ago people of Britain were showing their sympathy in a very practical way with the people who suffered in the floods along the Red River.

Not long ago there was announced an exchange of British and Canadian teachers for the coming school year. The other day there was news of the visit of a boys' band from Vancouver on a tour of good will and education to call upon the Lord Mayor of London at Mansion House. The boys serenaded the Lord Mayor who had been a visitor in Canada before the Second World War.

During the summer many Canadians have visited the Old Country and groups of boys have been privileged in their early years to cross the seas and visit England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

To see one another in their own country is to understand better and appreciate.

For these visits across the seas, these tributes such as Vancouverites paid to the home town of the explorer after whom the great British Columbia city is named have a richness of experience and understanding binding the Motherland and the Dominion in ties which will last the passage of time.

SCHOOL DAYS DRAW NEAR

Soon one of those inevitable events will take place, the annual return of the many thousands of schoolboys and schoolgirls to their institutions of education in city, town, hamlet and in the broad countryside.

These thousands have heard their friends and families talking about the rather unseasonable conditions of the receding summer and no doubt they have had as much reason to complain of the rather cool weather and the considerable rain. But they have the faculty of knowing means of entertaining themselves, of finding something new everywhere they go and of course of storing up treasures of memory, pictures which remain on their minds of the many things they have seen and come to know during the vacation. They show the benefits which come from the rays of the sun in which they have bathed themselves as well as in the waters of lakes, bays and rivers and even ponds.

Though weather handicaps the range of the activities of parents and other elders it rarely handicaps the foraging body and mind of schoolboys during the holidays. From the fields and the woods, from the trees and from their wide travel with their parents or in their friends' cars they have learned geography of their own district and province which they have visited.

To these boys and girls the summer vacation has not been unusual because of weather conditions, it has rather been packed full of interest to the fact-seeking minds of the youngsters.

Now they are thinking of the approach of the fall term of the school year. Again new things will meet them on every side, new studies and new books of course, because it is the beginning of a new year. Many will have new teachers. And so the school life of the children marks a new stage which will bring many new experiences. But this is easy and natural for the boys and girls have developed and grown in the past year. A year in their precious lives means more than the year means to their parents who know how swiftly time passes. Of course there is no doubt some regret that summer is going all too swiftly even to the schoolboy and schoolgirl. In the vacation they have learned more and more of life and are richer in experience than they were before the vacation. And now they are prepared for all the new experiences, the new studies, the new friendships the coming term will bring.

All is anticipation of the coming school days not only for the children but also for the mothers who have the task of getting preparations complete for the day when the boys and girls move into new classes and resume their formal education.

The noblest contribution any man can make for the benefit of posterity is that of a good character. The richest bequest which any man can leave to the youth of his native land, is that of a shining spotless example. — Winthrop.

Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves. — Benjamin Franklin.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

BEST TOWN

Never a distant town
I see
But it makes my own seem best to me.
Never a city great and proud
But what its folk are another crowd—
Happy or sad, as the case may be,
But seldom a face with a

I think as I travel, how much we share
In the tasks we do and the things we wear,
In the urge to gain and the will to give
We're much alike wherever we live,
But north or south or east or west
I long for the folk that I know best.

Away from home I am sure of this
There's a ring to laughter I always miss.
I may hear a sigh, but I know not why,
So it's never the same as a home-town sigh,
For there's something that understanding lends
To the joys and griefs of the home-town friends.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Shyness is the excuse offered nowadays for all sorts of bad manners. If a person is rude, snooty, sulky or wilful, the excuse immediately trotted out is that the poor boy, or the poor girl is just terribly shy.

This is a downright dirty trick to play on one of the most attractive characteristics of the human species: shyness. For truly shy people are never rude or ill-natured. It is totally impossible for them to be so. A dash of shyness in anybody's makeup ensures good manners. And a full dose of shyness gives us those rare and most lovable of boys and girls, men and women, whom it is the joy and delight of the rougher natures among us to protect, coddle, attend and serve. Shyness must be a terrible burden to those who have to bear it. Those who are shy and have failed to attract to them those bolder personalities who take a curious satisfaction out of championing the more timid natures must have a pretty poor experience of life. But for those who do attract their champions, the burden must be worth the carrying. Surely some of the greatest love stories, written and unwritten, must be those of a tough man and a shy woman, or a shy man and an aggressive woman. Literature is full of it.

Shyness is one of the most appealing of all characteristics in nature its self. The shyness of deer, the fox, the trout gives them a spot a little higher in our affections than that won by rougher creatures.

To allow a surly person to be palmed off as shy by friends and relatives is something not to be countenanced by those of us who hold a shyness in high esteem. The whole trend of the times is to increase surliness and decrease shyness. What little true, gentle shyness there is left in the world let us guard and cherish.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

The North Way

North Bay, Ont., —Here on the sandy shore of Lake Nipissing, we have our finest campsite yet.

We arrived last night after a 400 mile drive. It was a black night and we had no idea of what a choice location the attendant at North Bay's civic trailer park had assigned us.

"All the way from British Columbia?" he said. "In that case I'll have to find something special."

He directed us some distance from the orderly rows of caravans with their bright, friendly windows. 'Lake's out that way," he announced, pointing into the darkness and left us.

We awoke this morning to find that we were not at North Bay at all, but on the beach at Waikiki.

I am writing on the cardtable now, out under the awning and the view from here is very Hawaiian. There's a tidy patch of green grass at our doorstep and then a small private beach with sand as clean and fine as salt. Two large willows, each leaning at a sharp angle out over the lake and looking for all the world like coconut trees, frame the view. The blue, ruffled lake stretches off into a summer mist and a tiny surfs sighs on the shore.

Matter of fact, all of this country is a knockout scenically.

I always seem to have passed through Northern Ontario in winter and so this great area of lakes and streams and woodland in late summer is something in the nature of a discovery.

North Bay, itself, which is just a town of back yards from the train window, is a pleasant spot in its own right and the hub for the lovely vacation land to its north, a county aswarm now with visiting Americans.

Direct Route

In the last two days we've come nearly 800 miles across Northern Ontario from Port Arthur.

In crossing the prairies we looked many, many times at the map and that thin red line which indicates Ontario's Highway No. 11. The road runs through country uninhabited for long stretches and within 300 miles of James Bay. Indeed, in this area the rivers run "uphill" into Hudson Bay

A great many tourists advised us against it. We seriously considered two alternatives One was to get a boat down Lake Superior to Sault Ste. Marie. No dice on this, because they don't take trailers of our dimensions. We also considered the alternative of skirting the big lake through Wisconsin, but that would have meant abandoning the all-Canadian route.

Then, in Port Arthur we crossed paths with Austin Cross, columnist for the Ottawa Citizen, who is out looking over Canada from east to west. Austin was enthusiastic about No. 11 and so we decided to do it in two long hops.

We set ourselves this goal because we've got to get a move on if we intend to complete our safari before winter sets in. Last night on the radio we heard of frost reports in Alberta and Saskatchewan. During our drive we saw many maples getting their first autumn blush. Here in North Bay there's the feeling of Indian summer in the air.

For this reason we've decided we'll have to bypass southern Ontario and try to see something of the country on our way back. From here we'll cross over into the Ottawa Valley and down to the nation's capital, then on to Montreal and Quebec and into New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and then, at Halifax, deliver our vital Pacific Ocean water to the mayor (who must get awfully tired of this sort of thing).

Meanwhile we are getting tidied up for the cities ahead. We started washing the trailer this morning. Found it has five or six layers of dust, the final coating being a pink color that we picked up through northern Ontario.

Lonely Road

The drive from Port Arthur to here wasn't nearly as difficult as we'd been led to believe.

Of approximately 800 miles only a hundred is really bad and that because of construction work. The various contractors who have the job have softened the blow somewhat by erecting large signs asking you to please be patient, explaining that all this roughness is necessary for your good driving in the future. Good public relations, that.

We stopped overnight at a place called Hearst, a kind of pinpoint of humanity in the wilderness. Not since our jaunt up the Alaska Highway have we been on a road as lonely as this one. Judy, who is our statistician, recorded a stretch of 85 miles in which we saw not a sign of humanity. One porcupine, a dead pedestrian, was the only sign of animal life.

From about 180 miles north into North Bay we hit a superhighway and again we were in the marvellous lake country where every mile presents a view that sets the spirits soaring.

On this stretch of road, by the way, we saw crews at work clearing the right-of-way for the new Trans-Canada Highway carving a broad path through the jackpine and spruce. What a thrill it's going to be, some five years from today, to do this trip over again and to say of the road "I knew it when."

HOW TO BE HAPPY

Some people have the idea that they would be perfectly happy if all the time they could do just what they want to do. With this in mind, they look forward to retirement. Or if they come into a comfortable fortune, they knock off work and begin to take things as easy as possible.

But probably the most mistaken notion in the world is that people achieve happiness by doing what they want to do. Very often what one ought to do and what one wants to do are identical, in which case a person performs his duty without any conflict. But frequently with duty pointing definitely in one direction, the disposition of all of us is to go in the opposite direction as fast and as hard as possible. The result is conflict, or what the psychologist calls "frustration."

The reason why we are never happy unless we are doing what we ought to do is because we are spiritual beings. We have souls to satisfy, and until we satisfy these souls, we are in a state of unrest. The only way to be happy is to follow the promptings of conscience. And this brings not only peace of mind but a most unusual increase in efficiency.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WITH ODDS AGAINST YOU

A study of both human figures and nations proves that the greatest achievements have been accomplished when the odds were against both. The epochal revolutions among nations have been instituted by minorities, with the odds against them.

The odds have been against many of us at certain periods of our lives, yet we have learned to face them, and have gained our greatest victories when we knew that they were against us. We do our greatest work when we are cornered and challenged. Then it is that we think, take invoice as to our reserve forces, and do our best and most lasting work.

The odds were against Pasteur, as he experimented and sought to convince others that he had a remedy that would save the lives of mothers and their babies. But he persisted, had faith in himself, his convictions, and in God. So the world today honors his memory.

The odds were aginst Henry Ford, Edison, and Westinghouse, with their visions of something better for all humanity, but they won out. They told E. H. Harriman that he could not build a railroad bridge across the great Salt Lake—but he did it! It takes these odds against one to inspire one, to stir one's blood, and to put victory into one's veins.

The odds were against Wright brothers, as they experimented on their flying machine — but they convinced the world that such an idea was feasible, so that today men fly around the world! The odds are against the democracies, as they seek to establish the right of nations to hold their independence and have a free life of their own, without interference, yet in time that principle will triumph, or there will be no freedom for any nation!

With odds against you, there are sure to be plenty of dark days —days full of questionings and anguish, as well as many a sacrifice, yet that has been the story back of all high resolves and achievements. When all else fails, an unconquerable faith can lead to a triumphant victory!

YANKEE DISCOVERS THE PORES

New England manufacturer says he agrees with me about the desirability of shower instead of tub in private home or hotel room.

Having wheedled me to that extent the Yankee brings in his discovery, introducing it with the following patter:

"We all know, of course, that the skin is the most important organ of the body and when it fails to eliminate the accumulated poisons of the system, anything can happen."

Now, wait just a moment. I, for one know nothing of the sort. So before you show your sample please be more explicit—just who knows what you say we all know about the skin? Or, to save time, never mind that till later. Go ahead with your demonstration.

"Some seventeen years ago I picked up a pair of mittens made of hard twisted cotton yarns and liked them so much that I persuaded a knitter down East to make up a few dozen pairs of them. I have used and distributed them among my friends. I can tell you that in almost every case where the mittens have been used regularly and the pores kept clean there has been no sign of the common cold or C-R-I as you call it. I send you herewith a pair of the mittens. Please give them a good trial and I am sure you will not have any more colds. I await your candid opinion after you have given them a good trial."

You asked for it, sir. The mittens might be excellent protection for the hands of a person doing rough work, if they were more closely woven or knitted. They seem too full of holes to be of much use, as compared with mits made of canvas, leather or other material.

The skin excretes or "eliminates" no "accumulated poisons." The intestines, the kidneys and the lungs excrete waste products and any poisons that can be excreted. It is a popular notion, based on ignorance of physiology, that all sorts of harmful substances, waste products or "poisons" are "thrown off" by the skin. Drunks and other delinquents imagine they can sweat out the alcohol in a Turkish bath or some similar stewing process. An active sweat would do them more good than any kind of passive sweat can—not because the sweat in either instance carries enough alcohol out of the body to matter, but because the exercise necessary to produce sweating increases the absorption of oxygen and the combustion of alcohol and its incompletely oxidized derivatives and their secretion or blowing off through the increased breathing.

The skin has no "pores" if by "pores" you mean to imply that anything is or can be absorbed through the skin. The primary meaning of the word pore is a minute opening or orifice through which air, other gases, moisture, liquid or solid material may be absorbed or expelled. The idea conveyed by the word porous is that the porous surface will absorb moisture or liquid or air.

The minute orifices in the skin commonly called "pores" are the surface openings of the sweat and sebaceous or oil-gland ducts. Sweat and sebum (skin oil) are expelled upon the skin surfaces through these orifices. It is anatimically and physiologically impossible to reverse the direction of the flow through the sweat and sebaceous glan ducts and the sweat and sebaceous glands into the blood. So the notion that the unbroken skin can in any circumstance absorb anything is absurd.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Sot

Is it harmful to drink beer every day, about six glasses? (C. M.)

Answer—Yes.

Lockjaw

Company wants all employees to be immunized against smallpox, typhoid, para-typhoid, diphtheria (if positive Schick reaction) and lockjaw or tetanus. Is immunization against tetanus advisable? (L. J. A.)

Answer—Yes.

Kidneys

Would a woman's kidneys be taxed more or the same as man's by a high protein and carbohydrate diet? (E. C. T.)

Answer—Sex makes no difference.

Riboflavin

Is riboflavin or B2 the same as protein. My son, 3, will not eat vegetables. Is there something I can give him in place of them? (Mrs. E. E.)

Answer—Riboflavin is not identical with protein. I know of no substitute for vegetables in the hild's diet. Generally wrong habits and bad psychology are accountable for a child's refusal to eat vegetables.

Gen. MacArthur's Position in East May be Impaired

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The furore which has developed over the message from Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the Veterans of Foreign Wars is unfortunate—and it could be dangerous.

By dangerous I mean that MacArthur's position as the United States No. 1 man in the far east might be seriously weakened if Asiatic peoples place a wrong interpretation on what has happened. Should they get the impression that the general has suffered a rebuke from the president, it could work out badly.

The White House announced that President Truman had directed MacArthur to withdraw the statement on Formosa "to avoid confusion as to the United States position."

The statement declared that the safety of the United States depended on Formosa remaining in friendly hands. This didn't conform to the administration policy that Formosa's future must be settled at the international level.

Promptly Complied

The general promptly complied, but the call for withdrawal came too late. The statement already had been widely distributed in advance for publication and it was impossible to stop all the wheels. The story was out.

I asked a Chinese friend (a Nationalist official) what he thought the effect of the development would be in Asia. He hesitated, and then said:

"No damage will be done in Nationalist China. We understand Washington methods. However, if the impression got about behind the iron curtain that MacArthur had been rebuked by his president it would give the reds another chance to knife the general.

Matter Of Face Involved

"You see, the matter of 'face' is involved. We of the orient attach much more importance to face than does the western world."

What MacArthur said about Formosa in his statement was, in substance, what he had said before. It also represented the consensus of many western military experts.

The general asserted that "we may have peace" by holding the Pacific defence line of islands—including Formosa, which is the key spot—but lose that line and "war is inevitable."

The president's stated policy is that Formosa must be neutralized as respects the Korean war, but the United States will make no commitment other than to block any invasion attempt during the current crisis.

Series of Storms Lash Western Ontario Monday

London, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP) — A series of violent electrical storms lashed Western Ontario late Monday flattening standing crops and doing widespread property damage.

With gusts of wind of upwards of 60 miles an hour, accompanying the pouring rains, the shingles lifted by the winds allowed rain to pour into many homes.

Embro suffered the worst electrical blackout, with power off for five hours. Crops were flattened during the half-hour storm.

Hydro and telephones were out in rural areas surrounding Drumbo for an hour.

Petrolia's hydro was off and on for five-minute periods. Drains and cellars were flooded, and standing crops were pounded.

Expect Layoff of 145 Men In Key Industries if Strike Continues For Another Week

Trenton—(Special—At least 145 men in Trenton and District will be laid off this week unless the national rail strike ends immediately.

In an interview Monday afternoon, J. W. A. Russell, manager of the Trenton National Employment office said the Gair Co. of Canada Ltd., in Frankford has used up its available supply of raw material and the 45 workers employed by the company will likely be laid off today or Wednesday depending on when the present supply is exhausted.

The company manufactures wood pulp and the last of its pulp wood supply was used up on Saturday. As soon as the material now being processed is finished and shipped out by truck the entire staff will be dismissed temporarily.

"In Trenton, the Canada Creosote Company will probably be forced to lay off 100 employees if the strike is not settled by the end of the week," Mr. Russell said. A shortage of fuel is the cause for this layoff. The Creosote company's fuel supply is brought in by rail and has been cut off by the railway strike.

There is no immediate threat of layoffs in other Trenton industries fo rtwo or three weeks according to Mr. Russell. In fact Trent Cottons report they can continue for as long as eight weeks.

Workers Eligible

According to Canadian Press reports from Ottawa the Unemployment Insurance Commission has ruled that all these workers are eligible for Unemployment Insurance benefits. However no payments will be made for at least nine days, after the persons who are laid off, have filed their individual claims with the National Employment Service. At present, Unemployment Insurance rates are $2.40 a day for single workers and $3.05 a day for married workers. There is no additional allowance for families.

No Emergency in Transport Handling Says Chairman

Trenton (Special)—While local transport companies are busy, "the traffic is not abnormal at all and no emergency has arisen as yet," said A. Ray Fox, Chairman of the Trenton Emergency Action Committee this morning. This committee was set up by the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario to maintain delivery of essential food and medical supplies during the strike emergency.

"Things are going pretty well as usual. We thought that the emergency would be breaking before now, but we have had no calls of a drastic nature as yet," said Mr. Fox.

Mr. Fox said that "we are fortunate in being in an agricultural district." Other areas particularly in the north that are served entirely by rail are really feeling the effects of the strike but as yet, the most noticeable effect of the strike in Trenton is the absence of trains which normally shuttle back and forth along Division Street several times daily.

Two trucks with two drivers each have left Trenton with 160 bags of doughnut mix from the Canadian Doughnut Company. The company is trying to keep its customers as far east as Prince Edward Island supplied and it took the company three days to find trucks that would do the job.

"It is a bit expensive to ship so far by transport but we are doing the best we can," said R. H. Haker, plant manager.

The two transports will take the mix to customers in Quebec and the Maritimes. Mr. Haker said the company warehouses in the west were well stocked and that unless the strike was prolonged, they would be fairly well supplied. All the company's shipments to the east coast are regularly sent by rail.

Slight Injuries Sustained

Trenton (Special)—Slight head injuries were received by an American woman in a car truck crash at the intersection of Dundas and Dufferin Streets, early Monday afternoon.

The injured woman, Anna Englert, 217½ Erie Street, McKesport, Penna, was a passenger in a car driven by Isobel Fey of Boston, Penna, which crashed into the rear of a truck, which had stopped for the red light at the intersection.

Approximately $200 damage was done to the car. The truck, owned by Peter Dunford, 176 Brock Street, Peterborough and driven by G. J. Kelly, Indian River, was not damaged. It was raining heavily at the time of the accident.

Six Trenton Men Serving

Trenton (Special)—Six Trenton men are now serving with the Canadian Korean Brigade.

In a letter to his wife, Mrs Keith Beckwith, 116 Division Street, Pte. Keith Beckwith who is stationed at Petawawa, states that three other Trenton men are also stationed there, Hugh Blight, Billy Greene and George Vieau

These four together with Dave Shuttleworth, 89 Bay Street and Alex. C. Miller, 103 Byron Street brings the total number of Trenton men serving with the special force to six.

Col. Alex Davidov Dies Suddenly Moscow Reports

Moscow, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Russian army newspaper Red Star today announced the sudden death of Col. Alexander Davydov, 54, chief of a section of the ministry as "an important executive worker."

The dispatch, passed through the Soviet censorship, did not further identify Davydov.

The Russian-licensed Berlin newspaper Nacht Express quoted an engineer Davydov Nov. 10, 1949 as saying that atomic explosions were used to drive a canal through the Yurgai mountains between the Ural mountains and Kirgiz range.

The Nacht Express said engineer Davydov disclosed before the Moscow Institute of Energy the use of atomic energy to blast an entire mountain to open the way for a man-made river wider than the English channel. The newspaper reported that a huge power plant would be built in southwestern Russia, turning a desert into 75,000,000 irrigated acres for cotton planting."

ASK GORDON TO WITHDRAW

Toronto, Aug. 29 —(CP) — A meeting of local railway strikers Monday passed a resolution asking for the withdrawal of Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, as one of the railway strike negotiators.

Letters will be sent to heads of political parties in Ottawa "demanding the removal of Mr. Donald Gordon as a negotiator, since union men have lost confidence in him."

Thieves Enter And Take Small Amount of Cash

Campbellford, Aug. 29—Thieves entered the office of the Foldaway Furniture Company, operated by David Ness of Campbellford on Thursday night and got away with a small amount of cash from the cash drawer. Entry was believed to have been gained by a rear window. The robbery was discovered on Friday morning when the office staff reported for work. Chief Geo. H. Hardy is investigating.

Broda's Team Wins

Campbellford, Aug. 29—Turk Broda's N.H.L. All Star team invaded Campbellford on Thursday evening, to take an exhibition game from a T.V.L. pick-up team headed by Bun Crosson of Campbellford, by the score of 14 to 11.

Broda's playful antics, coupled with the cavortings of the rest of his squad, gave the crowd lots of enjoyment. Dr. F. G. Robertson (Lib. Northumberland) pitched the first ball to open the game. Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, called the balls and strikes behind the plate and Harold (Baldy) Cotton, a former Maple Leaf hockey star, now scout for Boston Bruins, handled the duties of base umpire.

PICTON

County Wardens, O.C. of School Will Open Fair

Picton—Reports presented by chairmen of committees at the meeting of Picton Fair Board indicated that the Sept. 14-15 and 16 exhibition will be one of the best on record.

It was decided to hold the official opening or the first afternoon following the parade of school children and the Lions Club Band of Trenton. Lt.-Col. R. J. Fisher, C.O. Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), Warden Norris Whitney of Prince Edward and Warden C. Rollins of Hastings County will take part.

The secretary-treasurer, Phil Dodds, reported that the Havelock Pipe band with Highland dancers would be present for the last two days. The first day is to be devoted to Junior Farmer events including club competitions, a rooster race, calf race, nail driving contest, pie eating contest and a tractor rodeo. A group of professional entertainers has been engaged for each day and at night, a big rodeo will be presented in front of the grandstand.

Races on Two Days

The secretary also reported that horse races would be held the last two afternoons. He stated that there was a great demand for space for exhibits of various types of merchandise and farm machinery. The midway had promised more shows and rides, he said.

Directors voted to have a committee composed of Willis Sills, Harold Spencer, Herb Kerr proceed with erection of sheep and hog pens at an estimated cost of $200. There would be 24 pens each 8 feet square.

It was decided to have a hydro meter installed. George Cockburn was named to secure hay for horses and Clarence Hicks, necessary straw.

In order to cut labor expenses, directors were asked to look after the grandstand, under the direction of Harold Spencer, and wives to volunteer their services to the secretary to help handle exhibits.

Directors decided that there would be a closer checkup of cars entering the grounds as many have been gaining admission without paying.

Will Use Tents

County Council was commended on the new roofs put on the Crystal Palace and fruit building. It was reported that tents will be used to house flowers and plants and school exhibits due to lack of space.

Elmer Gerow reported contacting a number of horses and indicated that there would be a heavy entry of light horses for the one-day show on Friday, Sept. 15. This was arranged so that horses might leave to attend Kingston and Stirling Fairs held the same weekend.

The bacon hog competition is to be continued with a committee of Donald Taylor, Willis Sills, Herb Kerr, Whytock Fox and Gerald Sprigings in charge. Hogs are to be shipped through the shipper the exhibitor desires and the rail grade accepted in judging.

It was decided that calves entered for the Quinte Artificial Breeding Unit be judged the first day.

Agricultural Representative D. Taylor reported that 68 calves are possible for the calf club competitions. The junior farmers and Institute will also have grain, garden and poultry clubs and a large space devoted to exhibits shown by members.

W. P. Marvin reported that Quinte Beekeepers would have a special display. The RCAF Association will take charge of a model aircraft competition and flying display, E. Bateson reported.

The secretary reported that though it is early, several hundred entries have been received and there are many new exhibitors.

Sir Henry Drayton Dies in Muskoka In 82nd Year

Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP)— A former Canadian finance minister died Monday as the country's railway system, whose difficulties he once helped to solve, lay paralyzed by a strike.

It was as chairman and chief commissioner of the Dominion Railway Commission that Sir Henry Drayton was knighted in 1915 for his work in organizing Canada's financially - harassed railroads into an efficient supply-line for the allies in the First World War.

As Sir Henry died in his 82nd year at the Muskoka Hotel where he was spending his vacation, the railways were grappling again with the problem he faced as railway commissioner from 1912 to 1918—how to operate its widely-extended lines successfully in a thinly populated dominion.

Key figure during the war years, he also served as a commissioner to deal with ocean freight rates, expedited shipment of food and supplies to Europe from Canada and the United States and directed evacuation of women and children from Europe to the United Kingdom.

After the war, Sir Henry entered the unionist cabinet of Sir Robert Borden as finance Minister and receiver-general, playing a prominent part in Canada's post-war reconstruction. His term ended with the defeat of the Conservative government of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in 1921, but he sat in the House of Commons as a private member until his retirement in 1922.

Defeated in 1945

In Victoria, B.C. where he had lived since the Second World War, Sir Henry made an unsuccessful attempt to return to politics in 1945, suffering defeat in an effort to win the constituency for the Progressive Conservatives in the 1945 dominion general election.

Born at Kingston, Ont., he was called to the bar in 1891 and handled a number of important cases before he entered government service as chief railway commissioner. Following his retirement from politics, he served as chief commissioner of Ontario Liquor Control Board from 1928 to 1932.

An active lay member of the Church of England in Canada, Sir Henry served on a number of key church committees in his later years.

He married Edith Mary Cawthra of Toronto in 1892. They had three daughters, of whom two survive. In 1943 he married Constance Louise Musgrave of Victoria.

Hospital Head Demands Charge Made in Writing

London, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP) — William Loveday, chairman of Victoria Hospital Trust, demanded Monday that a London Labor Council delegate put in writing a charge that an accident patient died two weeks ago "through neglect" of the hospital emergency department.

Robert Findlater, Local 35, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, made the charge at a meeting of the L.L.C. Sunday.

In a statement Monday Mr. Loveday said: "something has got to be done to stop these slanderous statements." He said the hospital trust was "very happy" to receive constructive criticism, but "this continuous razzing of us by members of London Labor Council is unfair."

Mr. Loveday said in his statement: "No deaths occurred from the emergency department on the day Mr. Findlater received treatment (August 14). One accident case did die the following morning, but this patient received medical attention within a few minutes of arrival at the hospital. The Hospital Trust will demand that Mr. Findlater substantiate his statement in writing, which if not true would appear to be slanderous."

WEDDINGS

WALLACE—NICKLE

Marmora.—St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, was the setting for three pretty weddings on Saturday, August 26, with the pastor, Rev. G. D. Young, B.A., B.D. officiating at each. The church was tastefully decorated with gladioli in assorted colors.

At 2:30 p.m., Laura Margaret Nickle, Reg.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Nickle, of Malone, became the bride of Grant Hamilton Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace, of Campbellford.

The wedding music was played by Miss Ann Nichols, of Campbellford, and as soloist, Miss Marion Wallace, sister of the groom, sang before the ceremony "O Perfect Love", later, "The Lord's Prayer", and during the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was daintily attired in powder blue lace. Her shoulder length veil was held by a coronet of seed pearls. Her bouquet was of white fleur-d'-amore and pink carnations.

Mrs. Borden Cripps, of Toronto, as matron of honor, was gowned in rose crepe with white accessories and she wore a corsage of rose and white gladioli.

Beverley Joy Cotton, of Harold, and Carol Anne Johnston, of Madoc, nieces of the bride, were junior bridesmaids, the former dressed in pink sheer, with trimming of lace, and the latter in yellow sheer, with lace trim. Both carried nosegays of gladioli.

The groomsman was Alex. Johnston, of St. Catharines, and the ushers were William Nickle, brother of the bride, and Edward Smith, of Campbellford.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in St. Andrew's Hall, the banquet being served by members of St. Andrew's Women's Association to a large number of guests. The bride's mother received wearing a gown of taupe grey with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, assisted, wearing a gown of navy crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace left later for a trip to the Lake of Bays, the bride travelling in a blue dress with white accessories.

They will reside near St. Catharines.

TENHUNEN—KOSKI

At 4:30 p.m., Aino Eija Koski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvi Koski, of Deloro, was united in marriage to Tevvo Tenhunen, M.D., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Tenhunen, of Toronto. The bride, a medical student at Toronto University, has one more year of study before graduation.

Mrs. A. F. Fraser played the wedding music and before the wedding ceremony played a Finnish wedding composition appropriate as both bride and groom are of Finnish parentage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pink tulle over taffeta and lace, with open neck and lace bertha. Her floor-length veil of pink tulle was in bonnet shape and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and bouvardia.

Ruth Koski, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of blue nylon.

The bridesmaids, Roseanna Wholton, and Terttu Tenhunen, wore gowns of yellow and mauve nylon, respectively. Each carried a bouquet of multi-colored flowers.

Ray Tyynela performed the duties of best man, and the ushers were, Bill Koski, brother of the bride, and Keiju Sappala.

A reception was held in Deloro Hall, when about 100 guests were present, many of them coming from Toronto. The bride's mother received in a gown of grey crepe with hat of grey straw and a corsage of pink roses.

She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore chocolate brown crepe, trimmed with lace, brown hat and corsage of roses.

Finnish marriage customs were introduced following the toast to the bride, proposed by Rev. G. D. Young, and was responded to by the groom. This included the singing of a Finnish hymn, and the chairing of the bride and groom.

Congratulatory messages from Finland and other parts in the Finnish language, were read by Keiju Sappala, and translated by him.

COURTNEY—WRIGHT

In a candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m., Marion Kathleen Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wright, of Marmora, exchanged vows with Edwin Ralph Courtney, son of Mrs. R. Carr and the late Harold Courtney, of Frankford.

Mrs. A. F. Fraser presided at the organ. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Percy Gray sang "Until", and during the signing of the register, "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was prettily attired in white satin, with embroidered lace neckline, flower patterned with seed pearls. Her fingertip veil was of rayon net with floral embroidery and coronet. Her bouquet was of red roses and white gladioli.

Miss Betty Marie Wright was her sister's bridesmaid, gowned in powder blue brocaded satin and net. Her shoulder-length veil was of blue embroidered net, with floral spray headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and 'mums.

The best man was Donald Davis of Frankford, and the ushers were, James Howard and Sherwood Reid, of Frankford.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received wearing a dress of grey faille with black hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother also received wearing a dress of wine faille with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney left for a trip to Northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a powder blue gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. They will reside at Frankford.

Out-of-town guests included: Aafke Streekatra, Mr. and Mrs. James Reid, Muriel Powell, Sherwood Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carr, Boyd Carr, Karen Carr, Donald Davis, James Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet McFarland, Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Courtney. and Robert Courtney, Clara Smith, Tweed; Mr. and Mrs. Everett King, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scalia, Port Credit; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peever, Toronto.

FISHER—GOODFELLOW

Baskets of gladioli and summer flowers formed a lovely background in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin, on Saturday, August 26, at 2 p.m., when Gladys Elizabeth Joyce, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Goodfellow, of Roslin, was united in marriage to Norris Samuel Fisher, son of Mrs. Clayton Fisher, of Thomasburg, and the late Mr. Fisher, in a double ring ceremony. Rev. Canon Ernest Teskey, of St. Paul's Church, Kingston, great-uncle of the bride, officiated, assisted by Mr. Charles Staples, of Roslin.

Mr. Fred Porter, of Thomasburg, provided the wedding music. Mrs. Arnold Dilts was soloist, and sang before the ceremony, "O Promise Me" and during the signing of the register, "Through the Years".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her traditional white slipper satin bridal gown with Alacon lace inserts, featuring a shirred bodice with "V" neckline and long-fitted sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Her full length veil fell from a coronet of matching satin and seed pearls. A single strand of pearls and pearl earrings were her only adornment and she carried a crescent bouquet of glamellias and Johanna Hill roses with white maline.

Mrs. Kenneth Fisher, matron of honor, wore yellow taffeta and carried a bouquet of orchid gladioli in line arrangement.

Mrs. Donald MacInroy, bridesmaid, wore periwinkle blue taffeta and carried a bouquet of cream gladioli made similar to that of the matron of honor's.

Mrs. Lorne Holmes, as second bridesmaid, wore apple green taffeta, and carried a similar bouquet of orchid gladioli.

All three gowns were made alike, and were fashioned with gathered skirts and fitted bodices, drop shoulders and all wore matching ribbon headdresses and mittens.

Little Miss Janet Graham, who was flower girl, wore a turquoise taffeta gown and carried cream gladioli, a miniature of the bride's bouquet.

Mr. Kenneth Fisher, brother of the groom, was groomsman, and the ushers were: Mr. Richard Palmateer, of Tweed, and Mr. Gordon Morrison of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about 60 guests. The rooms were tastefully decorated in pink and white with streamers, tapers and flowers.

The bride's mother, wearing navy sheer with white trim and navy accessories and corsage of Bettertime roses, received the guests assisted by the groom's mother wearing black crepe and matching accessories with corsage of Bettertime roses.

Those who served were Georgina Morrison, Helen Goodfellow, Lois Tracey, Betty McCullough, Joan McCrea and Mary Bates.

For travelling to the Thousand Islands, Rochester, Syracuse, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls, the bride wore a gown of navy nylon marquisette, pale pink coat, navy accessories, and corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

On their return they will reside at the groom's home in Thomasburg.

Out-of-town guests were present from Kingston, Belleville, Demorestville, Marlbank, Tweed, Moira and other points.

WATSON—SAUNDERS

Kingston Road United Church, Belleville, was the setting for a pretty wedding on Saturday, August 26, at 2:30 p.m., when Hazel Wanda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Saunders, Belleville, became the bride of Hugh Mathieson Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Watson. The Reverend Roy Rickard, of Palmerston, Ontario, officiated, before a background of evergreens and pastel-tinted gladioli. The guest pews were designated by white satin ribbon bows and summer flowers.

Miss Isabel McGirr, of Mimico, provided the wedding music, and Miss Lorraine Hopkins, of Belleville, sang before the ceremony, "Because", and during the signing of the register, "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown of white taffeta, featuring dropped waistline with tiny buttons down the front, short sleeves and Queen Anne bertha, bouffant skirt with over-peplum of Chantilly lace, long matching mitts and headdress of seed pearls holding the three-quarter length veil of silk illusion trimmed with a wide border of Chantilly lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white gladioli and pink Sweetheart roses, and wore a gold necklace set with pearls, worn by her mother on her wedding day.

Miss Betty Way, of Picton, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, becomingly gowned in blue taffeta fashioned similarly to that of the bride, with matching headdress and mitts. She carried a cascade of pink gladioli tied with pink satin ribbon.

Mr. Binnie Watson, of Galt, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Norman McGirr, of Mimico, and Mr. Michael Gleeson, of Hamilton.

The wedding reception was held at Golden Acres Inn, where the many guests were received by the bride's mother, who was gowned in burgundy crepe with matching lace accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy and white printed crepe with navy sheer redingote and corsage of red roses.

For travelling, the bride chose a grey ensemble with navy accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Galt, Hamilton, Picton, Campbellford, Mimico, Montreal, Palmerston and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson will reside at 176 Charles Street Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by miscellaneous showers given by two members of her office, Miss Edna Gilmour and Miss Lorraine Hopkins. Several teas were also given by the bride's mother, in honor of her daughter's approaching marriage.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

WHITE'S W.A.

White's District—August meeting of White's Woman's Association was held at White's Church on Thursday afternoon last with Mrs. Leonard Young acting as president. The meeting was opened with the theme song with Mrs. Frank Sandercock as pianist. The devotional service was taken by Mrs. Walter Jones. Mrs. Casey Ketcheson gave the scripture reading Psalm 107, verses 1-19.

Mrs. H. C. Lord and Mrs. Jermyn Palmer joined the Woman's Association. It was decided to pay the treasurer of the church board $100.

A very interesting report of the morning session of the W.A. convention held at St. Paul's Church, Stirling was given by Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson gave a report of the afternoon session which was prepared by Mrs. R. J. Filyer prior to her departure to Stouffville. These reports took their hearers back to a worthwhile convention and its many suggestions to improve the Woman's Associations.

It was decided to get a card of thanks to send to Mrs. Filyer to be signed by each member at September meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. George Bilham.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. E. Curtis and Mrs. R. Ketcheson, for their splendid reports.

Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson took charge of the program, which consisted of poems "The Fun of Age" by Mrs. Floyd Sandercock; "Friendship" by Mrs. W. A. Jeffrey; and "Working Together" by Mrs. Ernest Curtis. A prayer hymn was given by Mrs. C. Ketcheson.

A jumbled pie contest was enjoyed with Mrs. Casey Ketcheson winning a fancy flower pot for a prize.

The meeting was closed by the Rev. A. C. McCallum.

TO MOTHERS OF LITTLE GALS FROM 5 TO HIGH SCHOOL AGE

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and give her a baby-soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rainstorm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks pretty as she can will be smart as she can — and happier — in school.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Eloping is a poor way to gain independence

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I am 22 years old, my parents are so strict that they never let me go out with men. A month ago I met a fellow who was in the Navy, who has since asked me to marry him.

I never can tell my parents I am going out with a man as they would be very angry about it. I have been thinking about going away with this fellow and getting married without their knowing it. If I tell my parents anything about him, they will never let me go out again.

Please tell me what I can do.

D.M.

Dear D.M.:

You don't really mean that you have any intention of eloping with a man you have known just one month, do you? I can't think of a more foolish thing you could do.

Your trouble is, of course, that you are so anxious to get away from your parents that this looks like too good an opportunity to miss. But I am sure you must realize, if you stop to think at all, that any such hasty step would be very unwise. It would be far better for you to work out some other plan for gaining your independence.

You haven't told me whether or not you have a job, but if you do, and are able to support yourself, perhaps you could go off on your own and live away from your parents. This would not be anything to do in a hurry, either, but something to be carefully considered and well planned for before you attempt it.

My advice is that you talk the situation over with some older person. A member of the staff of your local YWCA would be a good person to consult if you have no one else in mind with whom you might talk.

Attentions of older men should be discouraged

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16, and somehow it seems as though the nicest boys I meet are always five or six years older than I am.

I would really rather go with boys of 17 and 18, but how should I tell these older ones that I don't care to go with them? I'm always running into them on the street, and they want to stop and talk.

R. D.

Dear R.D.:

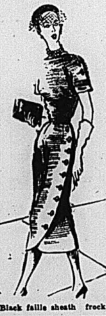
Are you so flattered by the attentions of older men that you don't want to tell them you prefer to go with those of your own age, or have you been finding it hard to get boys of your own age to pay attention to you?

If boys of 17 or 18 see you allowing young men of 20 or 21, or older, to hang around you, you may be sure they're not going to care much about going out with you themselves.

When any of these men want to stop you on the street and talk, the only sensible thing to do is to have an engagement somewhere which makes it necessary for you to hurry off.

If you really want to discourage them, it won't be difficult.

Early Fall Fashions



Black faille sheath frock

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THE shops are rich with dresses that are right for summer's end and perfect for wear right through the fall. An excellent choice might well be this slim sheath of a dress in black tissue faille, accented with bone buttons. The neckline is cut straight across and this points up the button-trimmed shoulder and sleeves. The skirt has a deep lap-over, curved at the bottom, and buttoned all the way down one side.

BEAUTY

Irregular features may be no beauty handicap

Make every effort to improve your appearance; but, if there is some small defect, don't let it get you down. Do you regard your nose with disapproval? If you are young, you probably do. Noses seem to be a pet peeve among the youthful contingent. Do you consider your mouth too large? Nothing to it. Full lips were not the old fashioned ideal but look at the movie stars who accent theirs. There is nothing appealing about a Cupid's bow, or thin lips that are kept tightly compressed. That cute little pucker appears infantile. It belongs to the pretty-pretties who are a dime a dozen these days.

What you may regard as a defect may be the feature that makes your face interesting. Not long ago we heard a husband remark "My wife has one little crooked tooth and I adore it. Makes her different, somehow." And the wife commented, "I shed bitter tears about that crooked tooth when I was younger. But it seems that it helped me to get my man. Crazy isn't it?"

Girls with narrow, slanting eyes may yearn for round ones. They don't realize that the shape of the eyes is of little importance. It is the radiance you put into them, the sparkle of animation that makes them glamorized and beautiful. Shape and color are of little consequence. Anybody can have nice eyes. Have nice thoughts about people, and friendliness will shine from them.

Artists are always talking about beautiful bones, but the sisters regard them dubiously.

Heavy eyelids are considered a beauty curse by those who have them. There is something to be done about that. Bathe them with hot water, then with cold. Never powder them. Massage them lightly with cream; don't wipe the cream away. When preparing for the merry evening, touch them lightly with the rouge pad. The rosy pigment will send them into a shadow. They will look more normal.

The girl with a thin face bawls about hollow cheeks. She doesn't like to look like a famine victim, she says. If she is healthy, all she has to do is to stoke up on good groceries as she is probably suffering from malnutrition. She should not apply rouge to the centre of them; that will only make her face look thinner. A touch of rouge along the cheek bones, around the eyes to the temples will make her face more curvaceous.

Greta Garbo, a beauty if there ever was one, calls attention to her high cheek bones by the manner in which she uses make up; she places the blush pigment high.

Artists are always talking about beautiful bones, but the sisters regard them dubiously. They don't want to be plumpies, neither do they desire to be skinnies. And that's all right. Regard for eating habits and daily exercise will keep them in form.

LONG-HAIRED felt reigns supreme when it comes to the new hats, especially those sleek numbers that rely on surface interest and clever manipulation, rather than on trimming for their appeal. Lilly Dache uses gleaming long-haired felt in a soft taupe shade for a pretty peaked bonnet. A silken mesh nose veil to tone curves softly over the tiny brim. This model would be ideal with coats and suits.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Courtesy Tip

The delightful way some people say those simple words "How do you do", acknowledging an introduction, is packed with charm. It is a melody of manners . . and "the melody lingers on"!

Appealing way to send flowers to hospital patient

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear friend of mine is about to enter a hospital here, for what will probably be quite a long stay. She loves flowers and I would like to keep her supplied with some, but my budget isn't very ample and besides I've so often heard what a difficulty it is for nurses now, when there aren't too many nurses available, to find the time to care for flowers. Have you a suggestion about this?

Dorothy M.

I've figured out this situation in a way you might like to follow: I try to find a small vase with a personality that would particularly appeal to the patient . . . .charmingly delicate, perhaps, or picturesque, or quaint, or of the feeling of a nation or a part of the country for which the patient has special interest and enthusiasm. This can be endearing, without necessarily being expensive. To greet the patient on arrival the case can be sent, or delivered personally, with one or two flowers, most happily favorites of the patient. Then all the nurse need do is to fill the vase with water. And during the friend's stay in the hospital, you may send or bring small flowers for the same vase. (Of course not flowers too heavily fragrant.)

When mother gives bride in marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The circumstances that caused my divorce were so unpleasant and my ex-husband's re-marriage so objectionable, that my daughter, who is to be married in December, does not want her father to give her in marriage, nor does she wish to have his present wife invited to her wedding. So my oldest son, two years older than the bride, will escort her up the isle. Then when the minister asks, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" should he reply "Her mother" or "Her mother and I"?

M.

It is quite correct, suitable, for the bride's brother to escort her up the aisle. But I think you should have the honor of giving your daughter in marriage. There are various correct ways for this. For example, your son may escort the bride up the aisle to the first pew on the left of the aisle; then you step from your place in the first pew, to join your daughter; and your son steps into your pew. Then, when the minister asks the question "Who giveth —," you reply "I do," and step into your pew. Or it is correct for you to make your reply standing in your place in the front pew, saying, "I do" or merely nodding your assent.

TWO HUSBANDS

Police have finally unravelled the mystery surrounding the identity of a woman amnesia victim, who walked into St. Joseph's Hospital at London, Ont., suffering from head injuries and fractured ribs. The police have identified the slight, dark-haired woman as the wife of Garver James Sargent of Windsor, Ont., whom she left mysteriously last October. Since then she has been living in London, as Mrs. Alfred Switzer. The woman had tearfully told hospital attendants she didn't know who she was or where she came from. — Central Press Canadian.

Everything wrong about this shower plan

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be proper for me myself to give a Jack and Jill shower. . .mentioning on the invitations that it is to be a Greenback Shower . . . .or for my fiance to give it, or for my fiance and me to give it, or for my family to give it?

D. M.

None of these plans is at all correct. The bride-to-be never gives a shower for herself. . .nor is it correct for a member of her family to give a shower for her . . and certainly her fiance should not have any part in the giving of a bridal shower. A Greenback Shower is not considered good taste. . .and it would be incredibly low taste for a bride to give a Greenback Shower for herself! A bridal shower is correctly given by a close friend of the bride, or a group of her friends, and the guests bring the type of present mentioned on the invitations, presents for the new house, but not money.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

The French word filet means the best cut. Thus a filet mignon is the best cut of beef, or at least the most tender cut.

But a filet of fish is the only cut of certain types of fish which is practical. It is boneless and skinless strip cut from the top or bottom of flat fish, like sole, flounder or fluke.

When you buy a fish filet you are not shopping in the dark. It's all solid meat. One pound of filet of fish equals from 2 to 3 pounds of other fish with the head, skin and bones. One and one-quarter to 1 1-2 pounds of filet of fish makes four generous servings.

To restore the fresh flavor to fish, soak it for a few minutes in a strong salt water solution. Ordinarily fish loses moisture after it has been caught and stored. When soaked in salt water it regains its natural moisture through osmosis—the same process that occurs when a flower stem absorbs water.

Baked stuffed filet of flounder in today's recipe includes a mashed potato stuffing. Keep the potatoes rather dry so that they will hold their shape. Add little or no liquid after forcing them through the ricer.

Baked Stuffed Filet of Flounder.
4 Servings

Wash 1 1-4 pounds filet of flounder. Place for three minutes, no longer, in 2 cups of cold water to which 4 tablespoons salt have been added. Remove from salt water. Cut fish into 8 pieces of equal size.

In a saucepan melt 2 tablespoons butter or vegetable fat. Add 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper and 1-2 cup finely chopped cucumber. Simmer over a slow flame, stirring frequently until tender but not browned.

Mash enough cooked potatoes to fill 1 1-2 cups. Add vegetable mixture to the potatoes. Mix well. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add a small amount of milk or cream if potatoes are too dry to spread.

Place 4 pieces filet of flounder on a greased baking sheet. Spread mashed potato mixture over fish. Smooth with a spatula. Place 4 pieces of fish over stuffing. Brush top of fish with melted butter or margarine.

Place a bacon strip on each portion of fish if desired. Fasten pieces of fish with toothpicks. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees 20-30 minutes or until bacon is browned. Transfer fish from baking sheet to serving dishes with a wide spatula. Remove toothpicks.

Children Spoon-Fed Summer Class Told

Halifax, (CP)—A Pine Hill divinity college professor recently told a teachers' summer school class here, "we tend to spoon-feed our children too much instead of educating them."

Prof. J. B. Hardie said the teachers' job is to produce minds that can move on their own. They are catering too much to the students' whims, fads and fancies, and discipline is suffering.

"I suggest we are producing parrot-like children," said the professor. "We are not letting them do enough on their own and are deliberatly crushing initiative."

In religion, too, he said, the importance of young people is stressed too much. He caused a laugh when he added that "child psychologists are beginning to declare that one may actually spank a child."

Dr. Hardie said there must be more study of languages and Canada should emphasize the study of French because the nation is bi-lingual.

SECRET WAS SIMPLE

"Isn't it amazing what children notice? Last night my little girl said, 'Mommy, why is Granny's washing whiter than yours?' I swallowed my pride and found out today. The secret's a swish or two of Reckitt's Blue in the final rinse for it's Reckitt's Blue that prevents clothes turning yellow. There is no pure white without blue. Costs only a few cents a month, and means I take no chances with anything that may damage fabric. It is the safe way to keep clothes snowy white." A-1-R

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The fabulous 50's will go down in history, if for no other reason, for the fabulous salaries paid to sports personalities. In baseball, Ted Williams, considered by many to be the best batter in the game today, receives 125,000 dollars this year from the Boston Red Sox to go fishing. Joe DiMaggio, who has been sidelined with injuries for much of the past two seasons, and was so ineffective this past month that he was benched for a week, will draw a six figure stipend from the wealthy New York Yankees. Lesser luminaries draw correspondingly smaller pay checks, but they manage to live from week to week.

* * *

In horse racing the turf's fastest nags pull in double-barrelled loads of the long green every Saturday. Citation has earned nearly a million dollars, if earned is the word, and a trotting horse called Proximity will some day be put out to pasture after collecting several hundred thousand dollars in a sport which is supposed to be confined to fall fairs back in the woods.

* * *

Even amateur hockey and football players in this country lay away tidy nest-eggs for their muscular efforts during the appropriate seasons. Some boys in the small towns are even provided with jobs and spending money for toiling on the playing fields and in the arenas.

In the light of all this loose gravy, salary reports on the United Kingdom's athletes come as a disturbing shock.

* * *

Rumors are brewing that English soccer players are about to blow the roof off their favorite sport because they are underpaid. And when you hear the figures, it leaves you wondering how they have put up with it so long. Top British soccer stars, who have been sold for sums as high as $50,000 American dollars, earn only $36 dollars a week.

* * *

Some with $35,000 price tags refused to sign contracts this past spring which would pay them $25 a week. Their refusal to come to terms did little for them, however, as they were maintained on the playing strength of their original clubs, without pay.

The ability of the clubs to pay better wages is obvious when it is learned that on opening day this year, in the three divisions, more than a million people turned out to witness the 48 games played. That averages out to more than 20,000 per game. Their season lasts for eight months, and aside from horse racing, is not seriously challenged by any other sport as a drawing card.

* * *

Some of the sports great stars have been offered as high as $50 a week to play for industrial teams and squads not organized in the three major divisions. How long a sport could operate in North America on a comparable basis brings laughs to sports promoters. How long the British athletes continue to suffer, and they must be suffering financially, will be a neat problem for the psychiatrists.

Writer Calls Four-Way Tie At End of American Loop If All Teams Play to Form

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

So you thought those recent two-team dead heats in the American and National Leagues were hot stuff?

Pooh! They were just routine finishes compared to what may happen this year for those who are looking for real spine-tingling excitement. How about a 4-way deadlock for first place?

Don't scoff. It could happen. The way the American League race has been moving along it wouldn't cause too much of a surprise if Detroit, New York, Cleveland and Boston wind up even Oct. 1 — the regular season's final day.

Get a close-up of the last two days of the campaign. The Tigers will be host to the Indians Saturday, Sept. 30 and Sunday, Oct. 1. On the same two afternoons, the Red Sox will tangle with the Yankees in Boston.

Should the four contenders enter the final weekend all knotted up, and should they split those series, the baseball world would witness an unprecedented four-way playoff for the American League flag. The World Series — which probably would be played around Christmas time — would be an anti-climax.

Thanks to the Red Sox' comeback and the Tigers' skid, only three games now separate the four clubs in the first division. Here is the picture: Detroit is on top with 34 games left to play. New York is second, one game behind, with 32 left to play. Cleveland is third, one game behind New York, with 30 games to play. Boston is fourth, one game behind Cleveland, also with 30 games to go.

Boston was the only one of the Big Four to win yesterday. The Red Sox came from a mile—12-1 — behind, to outlast the Indians 15-14, Detroit bowed to Philadelphia's oft-beaten Athletics 4-3 while Chicago White Sox upset the Yankees 6-4.

Phillies Increase Lead

Philadelphia Phillies increased their first - place margin over Brooklyn in the National League to 5½ games. The Phils split a doubleheader in Chicago while St. Louis Cardinals were taking the second straight from the Dodgers, 3-1.

Three consecutive homers by Hank Sauer gave the Cubs a 7-5 victory over the Phils in the first game. Solid slugging by Den Ennis and Andy Seminick and another brilliant relief performance by Jim Konstanty helped the Phils win the second game 9-5.

Homers by Stan Musial, Tommy Glaviano and Del Rice accounted for all the Cards' runs. Gerry Staley won his 11th while Preacher Roe suffered his eighth loss against 17 victories.

A home run by Homer Howell with two out in the last of the 9th gave Ewell Blackwell and Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory over New York Giants. It was Blackwell's 13th victory against the same number of defeats.

Young Jim Pearce pitched shutout ball for eight innings as Washington defeated St. Louis Browns 9-3 in the only game played at night.

Pittsburgh and Boston Braves were idle.

70 Swimmers Go For $12,900 In Prize Money

Toronto, Aug. 29—(CP)—Some of the world's top marathon swimmers were ready to dive into Lake Ontario today for $12,900 in prize money and the world's 15-mile professional swimming championship.

An even 70 swimmers, including defending champion Cliff Lumsden of Toronto, were entered for the big race scheduled to start at 11.30 a.m. EDT, But officials of the Canadian National Exhibition, sponsors of the marathon, said the number competing probably would not be known until a few minutes before the start.

Pre-race favorites to grab the $5,500 first-prize money were Lumsden and Steve Wozniak of Buffalo, N.Y.

Temperature of the water was about 67 degrees—rated "warm" by marathoners. Swim experts looking over the list of entries before the race said the temperature might be a deciding factor. Wozniak, a fast swimmer for a marathoner, was forced to drop out of last year's race because of the cold. He won in 1948 under warm-water conditions.

Also given a better-than-even chance of finishing in front by pre-race forecasters was husky Ben Gazel of Toronto, winner of the 1947 race who last year finished second and 27 minutes behind Lumsden's time of seven hours, 37 seconds. Also rated strong threats were Jerry Kerschener, Columbus, O.; Gianni Gambi, veteran marathoner from Ravenna Italy, who won in 1935; Tommy Park, Hamilton; William Sadlo, Whitestone, N.Y., who, like Wozniak, is at his best in warm water; and Alfred J. Stein, Newark, N.J.

Rain Gums up Three Opening Games in Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Rain gummed up two of the three opening games in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League's round-robin playoffs last night, but not all the teams concerned were unhappy.

There were no complaints in St. Thomas, where the Legion had retired only two batsmen and yielded 11 runs to London Majors in the top of the first inning when the rains came. Waterloo Tigers blessed the Stratford climate when the downpour halted proceedings in the fourth inning with Stratford leading 11-2. Both games will be replayed tonight.

But at Kitchener, prayers for rain went unrewarded until it was too late. By the time the showers fell in the eighth inning, Brantford Red Sox had piled up a 7-2 lead over the Legionnaires for an official victory. The only Kitchener player who got his shower early was playing-manager Bobby Schnurr, who was chased from the mound in the fourth after yielding all seven runs.

The Legionnaires were held to three hits by Ray Kirkgasser and Tom Quest. Kirkgasser retired with a sore leg-muscle after yielding a hit and a run in the fifth. Quest gave up the remaining two hits for Legionnaires' final tally in the sixth before settling down.

Defence Weak

The Kitchener defence was weak as shortstop Irv Ler bobbled three times and his teammates committed two additional boots. Jim Burns, Gene Patton and Pedro Juarez led the Brantford attack with two hits apiece.

Stratford's George Franko smacked home five runs with a pair of homers as the Nationals drove Al Dumouchelle to cover in the second frame and continued their assault on Mike Kvasnak in the abbreviated Waterloo-Stratford tilt.

Chief victims of the nightmare at St. Thomas were Legion hurlers Dick Long and Doc Doherty

Long walked two men and yielded a single and a double for four runs, retiring only one Londoner, before seeking cover.

Doherty fared even worse. He walked five of the first six men to face him, lost another on an error by Jack Randall, and then was walloped for an inside-the-park homer with the bases loaded by Joe Bechard.

Then it rained.

COLLISION INJURES 12

Elmira, Mich., Aug. 28—(AP)—A Pennsylvania railroad passenger train collided head-on with a freight train near here Saturday, injuring 12 persons. Eight were taken to hospital. Band of Youthful Mermaids From Fergus Cleans Up

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—A small band of youthful mermaids from Fergus, Ont., and a smooth-stroking Vancouver lad stole the limelight Monday at the annual Canadian National Exhibition Children's Day swimming championships.

Gerry McAmee of Vancouver splashed through chilly Lake Ontario waters to win the junior men's Canadian one-mile amateur swimming championship with a time of 24 minutes, 30 seconds.

Attractive Shirley Campbell, 14, of Fergus, won the junior women's one-mile title. Rated one of Canada's most promising swimmers, Shirley came back to place third in the 50-yard dash for girls under 16 and helped the Fergus contingent make a clean sweep of the girls' relay events.

London and Toronto swimmers shared honors in the two boys' relays. Toronto speedsters swept to victory in four of the eight children's individual events, with two going to Hamilton and one each to Peterborough and Fergus.

Shirley's sister, Joan, won the girls' under 14 dash and Shirley Jones, Hamilton, churned her way to victory in the under 16 class. In the boys' events winners concluded:

Under 16, Bill Cameron, Hamilton, and under 14, John Boorman, Peterborough.

New York, Aug. 29—(CP)—Although Eddie Sawyer, the Phillies' manager, deserves the credit for making a relief pitching specialist out of Jim Konstanty, Jim had quite a reputation as a "fireman" in his college days at Syracuse. . . In basketball he was the sub coach Lew Andreas sent in when he figured a set shot would produce needed points. . . When heavyweight boxer Caeser Levine was hurt just before the 1939 Intercollegiate Tournament, Roy Simmons drafted Konstanty and he took third place. . . Jim was captain and regular third-baseman on the baseball team but filled in at first on occasion and pitched some for batting practice. . . He didn't become a regular pitcher until well along in his professional career. . .

Shorts and Shells

Latest complaints of a football "invasion" come from Arkansas, where they say they can send boys to Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana and still have a fair home-state team, but they just can't supply Kentucky too. . . Chuck Raylor, the Coalport, Pa., welterweight, has fully recovered from the leg burns he suffered in an explosion in his home and has begun training again. Manager John Costello reports Chuck weighs only 152, four pounds over his best fighting weight. . . Georgia's Wally Butts has cooked up a pre-season football training schedule that has the boys rolling out at 5:30 a.m. and drilling from 6:30 to 8:30. . .

Balmy Beachers May Not be As Bad as They Look

By WILFRED GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 29—(CP)—Toronto Balmy Beach, shunted this year to the role of farm club for the city's other senior team, head into the Ontario Rugby Football Union season determined to show they're not as bad as they look at first glance.

Its going to be a man-sized job for Beaches' new coach, Teddy Morris, who has nothing to work with except a good number of green-as-grass Canadians and a few American imports whose ability is still of unknown quality.

Never before in his coaching career has the former Toronto Argonaut pilot had so little talent to shape into a team. Nevertheless, he thinks he can produce an O.R.F.U. title-winner of the imports trun out as good as they claim.

Won Three Titles

It was Morris who coached Argos to three straight Dominion championships with all-Canadian teams in 1945-46-47. He was replaced as coach after failing to get the scullers into the big four playoffs the last two seasons. He then was persuaded to become the club's manager for this season but gave up that job to become Balmy Beach coach. Shortly afterward Argos announced an arrangement for "an exchange of players" with Beaches in return for financial help.

Morris is bent on having a young team, with the idea that some of his inexperienced players will "find themselves" during the season and show perhaps that they are future stars. The club will be a mixture of former junior and intermediate players, imports, some of last year's squad and one or two who played previously with other senior clubs. It opens the season at Sarnia, Sept. 4.

Imports Are Castoffs

Except for outside wing Cecil Hubbard and middle wing George Gilchrist, who failed to win a berth with Argos and Montreal Alouettes of the big four, the imports are castoffs from Hamilton Tiger-Cats, another big four club. They will be the basis of the first-string team.

Halfback Carl Galbraith and outside wings Oattem Fisher and Rube Ainsworth were cut from the Tiger-Cats last week. Fisher, who played at one time for North Carolina State College, may be converted to a halfback to do some of the passing.

Ainsworth, a junior in the United States, was with Hamilton Wildcats last year. Galbraith at one time also played with North Carolina State. Gilchrist came to Canada after starring with Tennessee State College and Hubbard previously performed for Morgan State College.

Canadians Considered

Among the Canadians being considered for the starting halfline are quarterbacks Andy Thompson and Bill Scott and halfbacks Art Scullon, Bob Dunlap, Billy Haddleton, Dave West and Gary Smith, a shifty runner who was with Hamilton Wilcats in 1949.

Possible first - stringers from among the Canadian linemen are napback Tom Harley; insides Babe Levantis, Ken McKim and Ted Gieruszcak; middles Pat Patterson and Blair Jarvis and outside wings Ian Hamptou, Boyd Hendry and Don Leck.

Morris expects to pick up some players who will be cut from Argos this week. He has an idea who they are and believes they-re unlikely to be much help.

"Altogether we have 12 or 14 good boys and we won't be too bad as long as our first team is out there," Morris says. "If the Americans are any good we'll surprise a lot of people and perhaps win this league."

Oshawa Pedlars In Semi-Final Round at C.N.E.

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Oshawa Pedlars pushed across one run in the eighth inning to edge out Toronto Diamonds 1-0 and advance to the semi-finals of the Canadian Senior Men's Softball Championship Monday night.

Pedlars will meet North Bay Saturday in one of the semi-final games. The other semi-final brackets will be filled later this week in the tournament sponsored by the Toronto Telegram and the Canadian National Exhibition.

Young McGregor On Sidelines In U.S. Tourney

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 29—(AP) — Don McNeill, who at 32 likes to call himself a "weekend" tennis player, may be just that.

But don't try to tell young Ken McGregor, the Australian Davis Cup team's boy wonder. Ken had himself a spot in the stands today, along with some 50 other also-rans, while McNeill, the 1940 national champion who hasn't even entered the U. S. national tournament since 1946, took on Bill Talbert.

McNeill's stunning 9-7, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1 triumph over McGregor in the first round of the national singles championships yesterday proved that it takes more than a mighty service to get by the court-wise veterans.

Except for that match which was played as dusk was settling, there was little to get excited about yesterday. The top stars still were in the running but by nightfall tonight some of them are going to be spectators with McGregor. The Talbert-McNeill match shapes up as the best.

Talbert polished off old Frank Shields 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2. Herbie Flam, top domestic seed, beat Gil Bogley of Chevy Chase, Md., 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4, and meets Philippe Washer of Belgium, who is capable of causing trouble.

Harry Hopman, captain of the Aussie Davis Cuppers, went up against Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, second foreign seed. Both experienced some anxious moments in the first round, with Hopman prevailing over Bernard Schreibber of Baltimore, 10-2, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-2, and Drobny shading Dr. Arnold Beisser of Santa Ana, Calif., 5-7, 9-7, 11-9, 6-2.

If the Aussies are going to carry off the singles title, their best bets now would seem to be Frank Sedgman, No. 1 among the foreigners, who stopped Harold Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 10-8, or John Bromwich, who met Tony Trabert of Cincinnati today in the last of the first round singles.

Among the women, everything went according to expectations, but Althea Gibson, the first Negro to play in the tournament, will run into some rough sledding today when she tackles third-seeded Louise Brough. Miss Gibson beat Barbara Knapp of England, 6-2, 6-2 and Miss Brough outstroked Laura Lou Jahn of Clearwater, Fla., 6-0, 11-9.

Jockeys Strike For Brief Spells At Two Tracks

(By The Canadian Press)

Jockeys went on strike for brief spells at two Canadian race tracks yesterday.

At Stamford Park, Niagara Falls, Ont., the little guys struck for 17 minutes. They went back to work only after the stewards modified their suspension of apprentice jockey Jack Bromby.

In Vancouver, the jockeys refused to ride until the management agreed to pay them $11,660 for equipment lost in a fire which destroyed the park's jockey quarters Aug. 18. Races were delayed at Exhibition Race track for 45 minutes before the management came around.

A Saturday race at Stamford was the point of controversy in the Ontario strike. Bromby was suspended six days by the stewards who charged that he rode wide on Anglesea, causing the horse to lose by a nose to Maple Wood in the Demetre Memorial Handicap. The protest brought modification of the penalty to $100 and two days suspension.

Eric Barber, president of the Jockeys Guild, and officers of the association said it wasn't the first time Anglesea had drifted in the stretch. They said photos showing Bromby standing up when Anglesea crossed the line did not mean he was pulling the horse in.

Tommy Anderson, coach of Oshawa Generals, became mentor of Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League Monday.

Anderson succeeds Aldege (Baz) Bastien, former all-star goalie of the Hornets who took over in mid-season last year. Bastien will become the Pittsburgh business manager, in place of Johnny Mitchell, now coach of St. Louis Flyers.

John H. Harris, owner of the Hornets, said he chose Anderson because of his familiarity with the style of play employed by Toronto Maple Leafs, with whom Pittsburgh has a working agreement.

A speed upward of 90 miles an hour will be needed to win the Harmsworth Trophy speedboat race here next weekend.

That became apparent Monday as more United States boats took trial runs seeking places on the three-boat team that will defend the trophy against the Canadian challenger, Miss Canada IV.

So far only Stanley Sayres' Slo-Mo-Shun IV of Seattle Wash. has definitely won a place on the defending team. The Seattle craft which has done better than 160 miles an hour in straightaway tests hit 97.26 miles an hour in one five-mile lap last Saturday.

Monday Al Fallon's Miss Great Lakes, of Detroit, with 21-year-old Bill Muncey at the wheel, got the boat up to 96.81 miles an hour.

Yet to be tried out, however, are Horace E. Dodge's My Sweetie and Miss Pepsi, owned by Walter and Roy Dossin, of Detroit.

The trials originally were scheduled to end today, but the selection committee waived a few more rules and decided to clock Guy Lombardo's Tempo VI Wednesday morning.

Donald Campbell sent his speedboat, Bluebird II, over Lake Coniston at better than 150 miles an hour Monday but his attempt to smash the American-held world's speed record was balked by a tiny piece of driftwood.

Campbell was midway in a run along a measured mile when his temperature gauge flashed a warning that the engine was overheating.

"I was travelling at more than 150 m.p.h.," he said. "I immediately took my foot off the accelerator.'

Back in the boathouse a check showed that a small piece of wood had become lodged in the water intake scoop of the cooling system.

Campbell said he intends to make another attempt to crack the record of 160.32 m.p.h. today if the weather remains favorable.

Montreal Wins On Three-Run Homer by Shuba

(By The Associated Press)

Maybe Branch Rickey, president of Brooklyn Dodgers, was wrong in sending outfielder George Shuba to the minors. His replacement, Cal Abrams, still is looking for his first hit as a Dodger this year. He's failed in 12 at bats.

Shuba, on the other hand, is going strong for Montreal Royals. He slapped a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning last night to give the Royals a 7-5 victory over Buffalo.

It was vital victory for Montreal, as third-place Baltimore also won, shading Springfield 4-2. The Royals thus attained their half-game edge on the Orioles.

Jersey City picked up a game on Springfield in the battle for fourth place—final qualifying spot for the playoffs—by taking an 8-1 decision from Syracuse. Norm Fox held the losers to three hits. Jersey City now is three games ahead of Springfield.

Rochester and Toronto were rained out.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

The bridge of Elva Tyme is clogged with stuff that keeps her brain befogged. She sinks her head in clouds of mists by memorizing lengthy lists.

Take a look at the table shown here:

A 2	A 7 2	A 7 3 2	K Q 2
K 2	K 7 2	K 7 3 2	Q J 2
Q 2	Q 7 2	Q 7 3 2	J 10 2
J 2	J 7 2	J 7 3 2	K Q 3 2
10 2	10 7 2	10 7 3 2	Q J 3 2
9 2	9 7 2	9 7 3 2	J 10 3 2
3 2	4 3 2	5 4 3 2

This table lists combinations from which leads may come in a suit that partner has bid. Basic rule is to lead fourth from the highest of four; highest of three or less.

From all combinations of only two cards (or less), lead highest. Use no deviations or exceptions of any kind. This applies whether the two cards are close together or separated in rank.

From all combinations containing two touching honors, lead the top. Regardless of how many other cards with them, if any, use no deviations. Except with ace and king, lead first the king.

From all other combinations of four cards, lead fourth from the highest. In special cases, an expert may lead the ace when his four cards contain the ace. Providing he knows when.

This leaves for discussion only combinations containing three cards. From these lead the highest unless it contains one high honor. Then lead the middle of your three card holding.

Thus, in the suit partner has bid, leads boil down to this one sentence: Fourth best of four and highest of three or less; except, top of two touching honors and middle of three with one high.

All other deviations may be ignored. Where experts suggest a deviation elsewhere the margin is too slight to consider. In most cases rule will be just as sound or sounder.

Even the two deviations I have recommended may be saved for expert partners. So, for all general purposes you can forget the whole list if you remember: Fourth best for four; highest of less.

Essentials are sufficient unto the play thereof.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 29 (AP)—Those who are in love with a show called "South Pacific" may be surprised to learn that it is bristling with social significance, both good and bad.

This will no doubt surprise Messrs. Rodgers, Hammerstein, Logan and Michener, who fathered the stage sensation. I, too, was amazed when my attention was called to a letter in the Daily People's World, communist organ on the Pacific Coast. It shows the weird workings of certain minds.

Reader A attacked reader B's critique of "South Pacific" as being "completely asinine" and "insulting to the readers of a people's press." Reader B was said to have distorted with wisecracks "the reactionary as well as the progressive content of the play. He completely ignores, for one thing, the rampant male supremacy of certain sections, notably some of the lines of 'There is Nothing Like a Dame.' (The song is a lament by a group of sailors for the comfort of female society.)

Chauvinism

"B does not at all make clear that the dynamics of the play's chauvinism in the Joe-Liat relationship (a romance between a marine and a native girl) are that the play resolves the 'problem' of miscegenation with the romantic and reactionary device of killing off Joe instead of reuniting (the lovers) as Emile (Ezio Pinza) and Nellie (Mary Martin) are reunited."

But there is a silver lining, says Reader A. He commends 'the dignity and humanity with which the Tonkinese woman 'Bloody Mary', is endowed."

Another mistake by Reader B: He "implies that the play places in a sympathetic light the naval commander's imperialist harrying of Mary and the other souvenir sellers when just the opposite is true."

And here we thought that "South Pacific" was just a solid evening's entertainment!

5,717 Non-Strike Workers Laid Off Due to Strike

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) —National employment service officials estimate that 5,717 non-railroad employees in Ontario have been laid off as a result of the railway strike.

This, added to the 6,511 striking rail workers, brings the number of temporarily jobless in the province to more than 13,000.

The only sizable layoff this week was in Peterborough Monday where the Quaker Oats Company let 800 employees go.

The first reported layoff of workers for pulp and paper companies came from Hawkesbury. Sixty men engaged in stripping bark from pulp timber for the Canadian International Paper Company were laid off.

Other layoffs Monday were reported at Windsor, 46 freight car loaders, Ingersoll, Ont., 36 at Ingersoll Cheese Company, Fort Erie, Ont., 90 at Hart and Cooley, Metal Stampings firm, Brockville, Ont., 35 at Philips Electric Company, 45 at Gilbert and Barker Manufacturing Company.

N.E.S. officials said almost all the layoffs have been made because companies have been unable to ship products or receive supplies of raw materials.

In Kapuskasing, the threat of a layoff for some 500 of the 1,500 employees of the employees of the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company was averted when the town rink was pressed into service for storage space.

Officials of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company at Iroquois Falls said they would be able to keep up production "indefinitely" and there would be no layoffs.

At Port Colborne, the Maple Leaf Milling Company resumed operations Monday after a lake steamer took on a cargo of flour. The plant closed down last Wednesday when storage facilities were loaded.

Black Marketeers Busy in Tel Aviv

Tel Aviv, Israel, Aug. 29 (AP) — An Israeli government SOS today brought an unofficial American Mission flying here to help stop a runaway inflation.

While crowds stormed stores in panic buying and banks for heavy withdrawals, black marketeers did a thriving gouging.

Men's suits, without ration coupons, are selling for as much as £100 ($310) each, shoes bring £20 a pair, a package of American cigarets, 7s 3d, $1.04. Soap is 5s a bar on the "free" market.

The almost - hysterical rush to convert cash into goods apparently is due, for one thing, to a public fear that the government is about to extend its rationing degree.

The Israeli Finance Ministry, which has been cooing public reassurances, blames "false reports" in the Swiss press for starting a run on the banks.

An overseas appeal from Premier David Ben Gurion is bringing some 40 American Jewish leaders by plane from the United States for conferences with the premier next Sunday.

Kingston Plan Annexation

Kingston, Aug. 29 — (CP) — The City of Kingston, outgrowing its boundaries, last night took a preliminary step in seeking room for expansion.

Its city council gave first reading to three bylaws providing for annexation of the village of Portsmouth, the Butteril farm in Kingston township and other sections of Kingston township including the plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

If annexation goes through, the city of 35,000 would get an additional 3,500 population in Portsmouth and 6,000 to 7,000 in Kingston township.

Kingston township has indicated it will not oppose the Butteril farm annexation. However, it has not expressed any view on the plan to take over other sections of the township.

PLACED NEAR RABBITS

Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP) — If wolves could talk, they'd probably be saying uncomplimentary things about the Ontario Lands and Forests Department. In the department's exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, a pair of wolves are penned next door to some tasty-looking rabbits. And there always seems to be at least one wolf with a speculative eye on the rabbits. In another spot in the display, a single wolf is in a cage next to a porcupine but shows absolutely no interest.

COMRADE STALIN IS ALWAYS IN THE SWIM

Hundreds of Soviet sailors, wearing white berets, are shown in the mass swim that featured celebration of Soviet Navy Day in Sevastopol. Dominating the impressive tableau are scores of big posters of Premier Stalin which bobbed about on the waves and looked down benevolently on the efforts of the red mermen. — Central Press Canadian.

ROSLIN

Roslin.—Mrs. Carley, of Winona, and Mrs. Hall of Kitchener, were recent weekend guests of Mrs. R. Clare.

On Sunday morning there was a celebration of the Holy Communion in St. Paul's Anglican church, where members of the three churches in the Parish were present.

The Rev. Henry Hill, of Kingston, was the celebrant.

The service was a slight departure from the regular service as Mrs. C. Staples, explained the full meaning and significance of the service as it was conducted.

Mr. George Maybee, of Kingston, presided at the organ during the service.

Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held throughout the Parish on September 17th.

Mrs. William Weir of Consecon, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. Alexander this week.

Miss Betty Thompson of Wiarton, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Alford and other relatives here this week.

Dr. Sam Stirk and Mrs. Stirk of Brampton, have returned home after spending the past two weeks with their son, Mr. Sam Stirk and Mrs. Stirk.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Carleton, of Thomasburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carleton and daughter and Mrs. H. Carleton, of Kingston, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bates and family.

Grain Harvest Near Completion In South Ontario

Toronto, Aug. 2 (CP)—The grain harvest is near completion in southern Ontario, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today in its weekly summary of reports from its district agricultural representatives.

Frost damage was reported in some areas. In Dufferin County corn was affected. In Algoma district, in the north, potatoes suffered heavy damage and garden crops of Nipissing suffered. Cool weather destroyed the ensilage corn crop in Algoma.

In General across the southern part of the province, pasture is in good shape and are keeping milk production at high levels. Second-growth hay crops are good. Grain crops are yielding well. Labor has been a problem in some areas. In Middlesex, railwaymen idle during the strike are working in the fields.

Average Cow Takes 20,000 Bites Grass, Four Drinks Daily

Wantage, Berkshire, England, Aug. 29—(CP)—Elizabeth Henriques, 24-year-old Danish research worker, has returned to her native land much wiser about the life and habits of the British cow.

With a team of six men she took her turn sitting in a Berkshire meadow in a non-stop vigil stretching over several days and nights, to find the ideal conditions in which a cow should live.

The watchers were doing a stint of exploring in behalf of the National Institute for Research in Dairying. Their findings were expected to have a long-range bearing on the world's milk production.

This is what they found: The average cow grazes 6 1-2 hours a day, takes 20,000 bites of grass, lies down for nine hours, has 8 1-2 hours chewing the cud and four good drinks a day.

They also discovered that the cow suffers badly from nerves if left alone in the dark.

Maritime Libel Action Filed Against Freighter

San Francisco, Aug. 29 (AP)—The U.S. Monday filed a Maritime libel action asking $14,000,000 damages from the Luckenbach Line as a result of the sinking of the hospital ship Benevolence Friday night.

The suit, filed in Federal District Court, also asked seizure of the freighter Mary Luckenbach, which collided with the Benevolence in a dence fog off San Francisco's Golden Gate.

Eighteen persons are known to have died as a result of the crash Thirteen others are unaccounted for pending a final check, and 492 persons were rescued.

The government's libel action listed 8 counts of alleged negligence on the part of the freighter's officers in charge. These are:

Excessive speed on the part of the freighter; failure to sound any or proper whistle at the time of collision; failure to have on watch proper lookouts; failure to have on watch competent officers attentive to their duties; failure of the ship to change course to avoid the collision, as provided by the applicable rules and law; failure of the freighter to keep on her starboard side of the channel, failure to stop her engines and reverse in time to avoid the smash-up; and failure to use her radar or other navigational aids to avoid the crash.

Won't Pay $3 Fine So Goods Auctioned

East Grinstead, Sussex, Eng. — (CP) — Mrs. Ethel Johnsen, 54-year-old lady of Gravetye Manor, near here, told the local magistrate she had no intention of paying a $3 fine imposed on her for a traffic violation.

"I will go to prison rather than pay a fine for something I have not done," she said.

Police went to the manor and impounded several household articles under a justice's distress warrant. They will be offered at public auction to pay the fine as well as the bailiff's fees.

LOST MONEY IN ROBBERY

Chicago, Aug. 29 — (AP)—One of the three young thieves who stole $27 from James Christ's grocery store lost money in the robbery. After grabbing the money from the till, the three fled with Christ in pursuit. They outdistanced him. But one of the robbers forgot to jump on his bicycle. Police said the bike was worth much more than $27.

Pop was smoking to himself in [illegible]s private chair, and ma said, Well, I've been waiting for a sine of life, William, but there you sit as oblivious as a leaf in the wind.

How little you know me, my dear, pop said. I'm a bizzy man, but I know everything that's been going on in my absence. Everything looks wonderful the way you've got it rearranged, he said, and ma said, I haven't changed a stick of ferniture since I finally induced you to move the bookcase over your agonized protests.

I was referring to your new hair-do, it's perfect, pop said, and ma said, Thanks for the compliment, but I regret to inform you that it's a week late. Nuthing is ferther from my mind than my hair-do, she said, and pop said, On the contrary, my dear, your hair-do is directly above your mind But seriously you want to know if I'm aware what day this is. Of course, I am, it's Monday, he said.

Why you big tease, do you meen you knew all the time? ma said, and pop said, Naturelly.

I was sure you'd forgotten, sitting there in your slippers with sutch a permanent expression ma said, and pop said, How could I forget Monday? Are you all reddy to go? he said.

Yes I am, and you'd better get started yourself, ma said We were late the last time we played brige at the Hewses, and they'll think it's a deliberate habit, she said, and pop said, Yee gods.

Proving he had really forgotten and was sorry to be reminded, and he said, Come to think of it, there's a little werk I awt to do tonite.

Oh, tell me about it on the way over, sutch a man, ma said.

Winnipeg Bombers Entrenched In First Place in Western Loop After Two Upset Wins

(By The Canadian Press)

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, out of the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoffs for the last two years, are entrenched in first place as a result of two early-season upsets.

The Blue-and-Gold Club last night edged last year's western champions—Calgary Stampeders —7-4, while Edmonton Eskimos applied a 15-9 licking to Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The Edmonton victory placed Winnipeg, with two victories in two starts, two points ahead of Saskatchewan and Edmonton. The luckless cowboys from Calgary have yet to win. They were defeated 25-12 by the Roughies Saturday while Winnipeg beat Edmonton 19-7.

In its two starts this year Winnipeg has had its two largest crowds in history. Last night 7,700 attended, while 8,000 were on hand Saturday.

Casey Provides Touch

Last night Tom Casey provided the only touchdown of the Winnipeg-Calgary tilt. The Winnipeg half went over the Calgary goal line after taking a hand-off from quarterback Jack Jacobs at the Calgary 45 in the first quarter.

Jacobs' attempted convert failed. Later in the quarter he kicked a 37-yard single, and added another single in the last quarter.

Keith Spaith put Calgary on the score-card in the second quarter by hoofing a 70-yard single. Vern Graham, league-leading scorer last year, booted a placement in the third quarter.

Calgary was without the services of half Chuck Fenenboch—out with a fractured rib— and back Normie Kwong. Both were hurt last Saturday at Regina, the latter suffering a sprained ankle.

Teams Played Close

In Regina, the Eskies, by getting a touchdown and a convert in the last quarter, cooled off Saskatchewan hopes of gaining a league-leadership tie with Winnipeg.

Until then, the teams had played close. Edmonton took a 2-0 edge in the first quarter but Roughies tied it 3-3 before the half. Each team scored a touchdown and a convert in the third.

Big guns for Edmonton included Lindy Berry and Morris Bailey, who razzle-dazzled with a passing combination, and tricky runner Doug Pyzer.

Berry and Pyzer scored the Edmonton Majors, while playing-coach Annis Stukus booted two converts and Bill Briggs kicked for three Edmonton Singles. Al Bodine plunged across for the Rider touchdown and Jack Hartman had a convert and a field goal.

Edmonton meets Calgary and Winnipeg plays host to Regina in the next games scheduled for Friday.

'Body in Bathroom' Puzzle for Sleuths

Reading, England, (Reuters)—Reading Police asked women to bring their husbands, fathers, brothers and boy friends to help the police solve the mystery of the body in the bathroom.

They were taken to a suburban bathroom in which a Reading man, Mr. John Everybody, was found lying face down in the bath. The window was slightly open, a pane of glass had been smashed and there were cuts on the dead man's back,

"Can you help us discover how this man died—whether he was murdered or whether it was an accident?" Experienced detectives from the Criminal Investigation Department asked the men and women of Reading.

"What do you make of the clues you see lying about in the bathroom?"

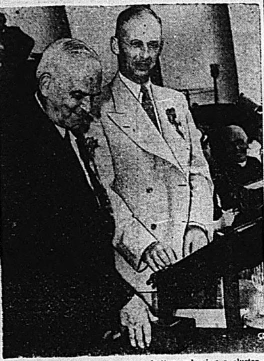
But whatever the deductions of local sleuths, the police made no arrests.

For the "crime" was a test of the people's perception, and was one of the items in the Reading crime prevention exhibition.

The show was planned to demonstrate householders how they can help the police to keep the crime wave down.

A model house, known as the "burglar's house" was designed to show all the mistakes made by people away on holiday when they leave their homes unguarded. One of the most common failings is to leave the blinds down—advertising the fact that the occupants are away.

C.N.E. OPENS



Trade Minister Howe presses a button, releasing a cluster of balloons, and the annual Canadian National Exhibition is open again. Later in an address, Mr. Howe told an audience of 4,000 that Canada's first task is to strengthen its defences against communism. With him at the opening ceremonies is R. C. Berkinshaw, president of the big fair. The exhibition is expected to attract nearly 3,000,000 persons to the 350-acre layout in front of Toronto's waterfront before closing Sept. 9. — (CP Photo.)

FLIMSY COMETS

There is more actual material in one cubic inch of air than in 2,000 cubic miles of the tail of a comet.

Oasis on Prairie Due to C.N. Well

Eatonia, Sask. — (CP)—Citizens of this town 160 miles southwest of Saskatoon have turned their community into a tree-dotted oasis on the bald prairie.

A plentiful water supply made the change possible. And for that Eatonia can thank a chance decision by Canadian National Railways to move its roundhouse from Eatonia to Kindersley.

To supply the roundhouse, water had been pumped from a flowing well two miles northwest of the town. In 1927, when the roundhouse was moved, town officials promptly leased the water supply.

Water lines were laid through the town and Eatonia residents had running water when possibly no other place of its size in Saskatchewan had such service. Gradually the town became a place of lawns and gardens and tree-lined streets.

BONARLAW

Springbrook I.O.O.F. Holds Annual Decoration Service

Bonarlaw—Springbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 429 held their decoration service at Mont Nebo Cemetery Springbrook on Sunday afternoon when they placed flowers on the graves of deceased brothers and sister Rebekahs. Mention was also made of brothers buried elsewhere.

Noble Grand of the lodge Reg McKeown was in charge of the ceremony and was assisted by Past Grand Frank Cosbey who delivered the oration, Chaplain Ralph Wellman Recording Sec. P. S. Kitchener, and Thos. H Prest who acted as marshal.

Stirling Community Band was in attendance and led the parade of Oddfellows from the lodge room to the cemetery and return and also rendered appropriate music during the ceremony. Despite a heavy rain immediately before the hour set for the decoration service there was a good attendance.

Miss Helen Eastwood of Whitby who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baker and other friends in this vicinity, left on Friday last to visit her brother, Jack Eastwood and family at Lancaster, Ont. Jack is a member of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Peake of Toronto were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barlow on Friday of last week.

Jungle Swallows Strange 'Lord X'

Tete, Portuguese East Africa—(CP) — Where is "Lord X," the British Earl who arrived here in a chauffeur - driven Rolls Royce a few years before the war and decided to make his home in the Tete district?

Member of a prominent aristocratic family, he lived a strange life here until war broke out in 1939. He joined up, but returned to Tete in 1945.

The author of a book on arms and ammunition, he hunted extensively in the district and came to know the natives.

He tired of civilized ways of life, adopted the Moslem faith, and afterwards wore a red fez or a burnous.

He lived among the natives in the bush, and learnt their customs.

After the end of the war he returned to Tete and immediately resumed his old way of life. It was said that his family had cut his allowance to £60 ($186.00) a month and his visits to the town became less frequent.

The Gentle Heart

By Kay Hamilton

But Jenny jerked upright in her chair. "Mrs. Folsom," she said with dignity. "anybody can not see! Brent is just a—a friend!" She felt breathless and Mrs. Folsom merely laughed.

"Hoity-toity! There's no need to pretend with me Jenny. I know And, as I was saying, anybody with half an eye can see that he's in love with you. Now that he's earning good money I can't imagine what's keeping him silent or what he's waiting for?"

Jenny did not answer. Her heart was beating in strong irregular thumps and she felt faint with discovery. Was Mrs. Folsom right? Did Brent love her Had she been so blind all these weeks that she had been unable to see what others saw and recognized?

Yes she asknowledged she had been blind, for she honestly had thought he was in love with Natalie and Natalie with him. And how wrong she had been about that! Perhaps she had been just as wrong concerning Brent's feeling for her.

Mrs. Folsom with characteristic capriciousness, had changed the subject. "Max and Faith are doing well. That's going to be a happy marriage," she said with complete assurance. "When I think how that poor little thing looked after Ken was killed and how she looks now! It's little short of miraculous. I was afraid for a while that her mother-in-law would break it up but she seems to have suffered a change of heart. Faith said she even contemplated coming here to live with her and that would have been fatal. I wonder what happened to make her decide differently?" She looked piercingly at Jenny but Jenny's face revealed nothing.

She said sincerely, "I'm glad they are so happy. Faith is a lovely neighbor. Did you know she had offered to keep house here while Nat was gone "

"I'm not surprised. What did surprise me," Mrs. Folsom added drily, "was learning that Diane was gong to take over. By the way she isn't seeing any more of Pete is she?"

Jenny glanced up startled. Had it been that well known? She said "I don't think so."

"No, I don't suppose she will After all, Pete's a pretty dull fellow for a girl like here. He's full of fun, of course or used to be, but he's so much older than Diane and he's a settled married man, in spite of himself. That Dick is a caution! A nice child, really, and devoted to my Ghillie." The dog sneezed. "Isn't that clever? He always says something at the right moment. Come here, Ghillie, and get scratched." But Ghillie rolled over on his side at that moment with a very ostentatious snore.

"You bad dog! You're not asleep at all. Just pretending! Jenny," she suddenly leaned forward, "if you and Brent get married would you and he and Natalie and Gary all live here together?"

Jenny said with decision, "But we are not getting married, Mrs. Folsom."

Her old friend rose. "It's just stubborn of you to deny it, my dear. You can't fool me! Well, I'll run along. Sure you can get to bed under your own power? Can't I help you upstairs?"

"I'll take it a step at a time. Every day I'm stronger," Jenny said. She made no effort to detain her visitor. If she was determined to bring Brent into the conversation, perhaps it was better that she should go.

She climbed to the second floor slowly Her leg was better. In a few days now she would be able to move about a great deal more. But, she thought, it was not her leg which hurt her these days. It was deeper pain and one which was not relieved by the realization that she had brought it on herself.

She sat down in the little slipper chair in her bedroom and made herself face the situation. She loved Brent loved him with all her heart. But she had alienated him and she did not know how to bring him back. On that fateful Tuesday before Thanksgiving, she knew now that he had been ready to love her; that if she had said the right things she would have avoided a great of suffering. But that little scene and the implications behind it had offended him had thrust him from her so sharply and with such apparent decision that he had never made a move toward her since that time.

How had it gone? The farm woman had thought they were married and Brent had carried through the deception in a spirit of fun. Then when they were in the car again he had said, "Well, Mrs. Evans where to now?" And she, because she longed so to be his wife in actuality had been stung into crying without thinking. "Oh don't Brent! Don't say that!"

She could see again the quick draining of all light and pleasure from his face the way his hands had tightened on the wheel. She could remember how all the beauty had been wiped from the day, and how since that time she had never again came really close to him.

It was her own fault, she decided and she would have to correct it. But how? How? The question beat at her from all sides yet wherever she looked she could see no solution. Would time do it? When Natalie and Gary were back and the household had resumed its normal pace would he slowly return to the easy, friendly, loving Brent he had been before? Would she be able to go on from there? Or would time only widen the breach?

Some way, she thought as she started to undress, some way she would have to show him what she felt.

It was one thing for Jenny to make the decision to show Brent how she felt another to put it into practice. Brent came to work in the studio every day, but he did not stay for an occasional meal as he used to, and he hurried in and out by the studio door to which he hadthe key. She hardly saw him, although Diane frequently brought her a small bouquet or a book to read, saying, "Brent left this for you." There was never a card with it, never a personal word from him.

On the last day of the year, Jenny celebrated by walking all over the lowerfloor. "You're coming along so well, I think I can trust you to take over from here," Dr. Higbee said dismissing her. "Just remember to take things easy, and keep off your feet all you can for a while. Let the dust pile up, it won't hurt anything you've got good clean dust in your house!"

Diane was gone part of the afternoon. She and Fred were going to a New Year's Eve party that night, and Jenny seeing how distressed she was about her hair had sent her off to the beauty parlor for a shampoo and set. "Now don't worry about me," she had declared at supper that night. "I'm going to sit and read for a while and then go to bed. I'm practically as good as new—Dr. Higbee said so—and I certainly don't need anyone to sit with me. And tonight you should go out."

So they left about nine-thirty and Jenny, alone in the house, walked about restlessly. Day after tomorrow Natalie and Gary would be home again, and Di and Fred could go back to their own house. Life would resume its normal rhythm again. She would be strong enough to take over the household tasks even though meals would be simple and the dusting sketchy for a while.

She wandered over to the studio Goodness she thought with something akin to horror, this room hasn't been cleaned in weeks! While Brent was working on his series for the bus company, she had had more sense than to come in and disturb anything. And after that Natalie had had a session of designing and it had been put off again.

This would be her first project she decided, looking about the large littered room. And she would have to get right at it with Natalie coming home in a day or so. Absently she went across to the model stand and straightened Lulu, the lay figure, who was sprawled in a chair. Portfolios were stacked carelessly at one side and a pile of pencil sketches, somewhat crumpled and blurred, had slid out of one of them. Or perhaps they were drawings Brent was going to discard. She picked them up and glanced over them. They were too good to throw away. She would iron them for him one of these days.

His paintings tray stood beside the easel and she saw with surprise that the paints were moist. She hadn't known Brent was doing any work in oil just now. At least, he hadn't spoken of it. But he spoke of so little nowdays.

Curious she began to turn over the canvases which leaned, face toward the wall in a double row down one side of the room. And then she started. Draped over one of them—a sketch of fishing boats was her old brown sweater. The sweater she had hunted for so unsuccessfully last week.

"How on earth did that get here?" she said aloud. Had Natalie borrowed it one chilly day, and then forgotten it? Or had she herself left it about in a fit of absent-mindedness? She put it over her arm and went on turning over the canvases.

A white New England church—that was the original sketch from which Brent had made his painting for the bus company. A cornfield with the neatly stacked shocks golden under an autumn sky An old woman in her dooryard peeling apples into a blue bowl. A girl. A girl—

Her breath left here, and she stared at the glowing canvas in her hand with unbelieving eyes. Did she look like that? Was she that beautiful? When had he done it?

She glanced down at the sweater over her arm in sudden understanding. Brent had needed it to complete the picture and Natalie had undoubtedly gotten it for him.

She looked again at the picture. It was herself in the brown sweater that day she had been raking leaves, and Brent had said, "How sweet you look!" The day he had kissed her. Her head stood out against a warm background of golden leaves and blue October sky. a sky that echoed the blue of here eyes. She was smiling. And her eyes were saying, "I love you, Brent!"

She knew now that her eyes had said that. And he had painted her that way. She caught her breath sharply. Then he knew! He couldn't help but know. Was that why he had never shown her the picture Was that why he—

There was a sound at the door behind her, and she whirled in fright. Brent came in, carrying a large package. "Hello, Jenny," he said. "Still up? I've just come from Westport and I thought I'd"

His voice died in his throat as he saw the picture facing him saw Jenny's eyes. "You've found it," he said at last without expression.

"Yes I—I wondered what had become of that sweater," she began lamely.

"It was going to be your Christmas present," he said without listening. "Nat and I went over to Westport and ordered the frame especially from Lothar. He swore he'd have it done on time but of course it wasn't."

Lothar! The man who had always made her father's frames. An old friend of the family really. Was that where he and Nat had been for tea the day they said they had gone to Westport and the first faint pangs of jealousy had come to make her heart miserable? Was this what they had whispered about, what the special sessions in the studio had been for?

She drew a long ragged breath "Is that the frame now?" she asked and he looked down almost with surprise at the package under his arm.

"Yes"

"You could give it to me for a New Year's gift," she said, and her heart hammered so in her ears she could scarcely hear her own voice. "I—I don't want to wait until next Christmas, Brent."

He looked at her sharply, and something in her face, something in her eyes brought him to her in one long stride. "Jenny," he cried "don't say that unless you really mean it."

She was puzzled. Of course she meant it! He said, still in that strained, controlled tone, "Natalie says it's a giveaway. That anyone who looked at it would know I loved you."

It was such a surprise that Jenny laughed breathlessly. "She said that? Oh, Brent and I was thinking that anyone who looked at it would know how much I loved you.!"

His arms caught her in a grip that hurt. "Can I believe that, Jenny?" he asked hoarsely. "Do you really mean it?"

"Of course," she answered him simply. "I always did mean it but I was clumsy about letting you know."

They walked slowly back to the living room, his arm about her, their hands clasped and stood before the glowing fire. "We'll see the New Year in together," she said with satisfaction her lips still warm from the kisses her eyes still bright with visions of the future.

"A new year, and a new life," Brent said happily, stooping to lay his cheek against her hair. "Together. Always together."

Children Flock To C.N.E. in Day Designed for Them

Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Some 807 children found their way to the lost children's shelter. By midnight, 25 of them were still unclaimed. With tags around their necks, they were sent home in taxis.

For tired officials, it was all part of Children's Day at the Canadian National Exhibition.

In spite of the thousands of children who poured over the big grounds, attendance for the day—172,000 — was 25,500 below the same day last year. It left the C.N.E. with a total attendance of 546,000 so far, 18,000 below attendance for the first three days of last year.

Sports events today provide one of the big attractions in today's C.N.E. program.

Topping a program that includes championship archery competitions, softball and water-skiing demonstrations is the men's 15-mile professional swimming race for the championship of the world. A total of 70 crack marathoners had entered the event seeking close to $13,000 in prizes.

Undeterred by heavily-overcast skies, youngsters big and small literally took the C.N.E. grounds over yesterday. They swarmed onto the midway, tramped through miles of industrial and educational exhibits, and both watched and participated in swimming and track meets, yo-yo competitions and even for special prizes for the boys and girls with the most freckles.

Except for occasional thunder-showers, the weather man treated the youngsters pretty well. The majority of youngsters — weary-legged and sleepy-eyed — had tumbled into bed before a near - cloudburst flooded the grounds just as the last stragglers were heading for the exit gates.

Package Freighter Grounds in Storm

Brockville, Aug 28 — (CP) — The Canada Steamship Lines' package freighter Saskatoon ran aground in a driving rain and electrical storm last night on Cole's Ferry shoal in the St. Lawrence River 4 1-2 miles west of here.

Damage was limited to a six-inch split in the plates near the boiler room.

The tug Rival and the barge Cobourg of the London Wrecking Company began removing cargo this morning in an attempt to refloat the Saskatoon.

Cole's ferry shoal is the same one on which the Kingston, a C.S.L. passenger vessel, went aground three years ago.

GOVT.'S 'BACK-TO-WORK' BILL IS INTRODUCED

Drew Calls For Administrator to Operate Railroads

Appointment Would Last Until Settlement Made

Ottawa, Aug. 30. (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, today called for the appointment of a national administrator to operate Canada's railways pending final settlement of the nine-day wages-hour dispute.

He made the request in moving an amendment to the motion calling for second reading of the government's bill that would end the strike by ordering the railways and the unions to resume operations of the railways immediately.

Mr. Drew suggested that the government legislation be shelved and that consideration be given to a measure that would provide for the appointment of a national administrator to assure operation of the railways pending solution of the dispute through the free processes of collective bargaining.

Criticized Proposed Bill

Mr. Drew's amendment, seconded by Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, (PC—Hamilton West), was moved after he had criticized various features of the government legislation introduced at the opening of the emergency session yesterday.

He said section five of the bill—that providing for appointment of an "arbitrator—"definitely and without any reservation provides for compulsory arbitration."

Many people believed in compulsory arbitration but it was "not something which should be established as a principle in dealing with an emergency of this kind.".

Prime Minister St. Laurent had said last night that this was not compulsory arbitration in the "ordinary sense," but, said Mr. Drew, he had to confess that he did "not understand the reservation."

The bill would make the arbitrator's decision final and provided for no time limit on the agreement.

He said it did seem to him that the arbitration section had been drafted "on the assumption" that it would not have to be enforced.

Objectionable Features

It was not enough to say that an arbitrator would not do certain things. Under the legislation, for example, he could order an agreement lasting for 25 years, establish any working conditions and wage scale that he saw fit.

Compulsory arbitration was a "mild term."

He did not believe any legislature would consider the introduction of legislation which gave no definition of its terms.

Mr. Drew said the federal government "must bear a grave measure of responsibility" for the strike.

Mr. Drew said the pattern of procedure followed in previous years had led railway workers and the public to believe that the government would enter the dispute at the last minute and effect a settlement.

If the government had intended not to intervene it should have informed the public so that they could have prepared for the strike which began Aug. 22.

It was the duty of the government to act with recognition of the fact that there might be a strike. It was not an admission of an early expectation of death for one to make a will a good time before one died.

Mr. Drew said it is essential that action be taken without delay to end the strike.

PUPILS TO SEE FAIR

Toronto, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Some 3,500 senior high school pupils will be admitted free to the Royal Winter Fair this year, Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of education announced Tuesday. Preparatory work will be done in each class so that the visit to the fair will be the culmination of a period of study on some topic related to agriculture.

Five Men Killed As Plane Crashes And Burns

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 30 — (CP)—Five men were killed today when an Ontario Provincial Air Service plane crashed and burned near Timagami, about 50 miles north of North Bay.

The plane, from the air service's base at Biscotasing 75 miles northwest of Sudbury, crashed in the driveway of a tourist resort as the pilot sought to make an emergency landing on Milne Lake, a small lake 11 miles south of Timagami.

The dead:

Pilot Sid Hutnick, from the air service's Biscotasing base;

Air Engineer W. E. Geddes, also from Biscotasing;

C. D. Perkins, Fonthill, Ont., employed by the Ontario Lands and Forests Department at North Bay;

R. Phillips, Toronto, on the research staff of the Lands and Forests Department;

J. Tyrell, air service engineer based at Timagami.

The Norseman plane, one of the fleet the air service has stationed throughout Northern Ontario for forest protection work, was seen to be in trouble before the crash.

The pilot was only a short distance from the lake when the plane hit the ground, near the main provincial highway, No. 11, which stretches from North Bay through Northeastern Ontario.

Forestry crews from Timagami rushed to the scene and put out the fire.

The crash occurred about 11.30 a.m.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 30. (CP)—Synopsis: A band of cloud along the lower lakes will clear during the day and bring sunny but rather cool weather to southern regions.

Farther north, with light winds and clear skies, temperatures dropped below freezing in a few sections during the night.

A disturbance over Manitoba is moving toward James Bay and is causing widely scattered showers over northwestern Ontario. The showers will move eastward and affect the remainder of northern Ontario tonight and Thursday. Temperatures on Thursday will be considerably higher over most of the province but along the lower lakes there will be little change.

Church vs State Battle Being Fought Relentlessly in Red Zone of Germany

Berlin, Aug. 30 (Reuters)—A church vs. state battle is being fought in the Russian zone of Germany where the communists are trying to wipe out Roman Catholics and Protestants alike.

Although the battle is being fought just as relentlessly as in Russia's other satellites, the spectacular blows are lacking.

Instead the communists are trying to undermine the two main churches, Catholic and protestant, in much the same way as the nazis used to:

1. Forcing the people to accept materialism as the exclusive state doctrine.
2. "Educating" schoolchildren in an anti-Christian doctrine.
3. Driving people, particularly the young, into mass movements where they are cut off from religious influence.
4. Confining religious life to services within the wall of the churches.
5. Preventing the churches from publishing freely their own periodicals and from receiving similar periodicals from outside east Germany.

East German politicians are trying to crush the power of the church by isolating the leadership and splitting the rank and file. Thus far they've had little success, though a highly-placed spokesman of the Evangelical church admitted recently that "about 80 renegade parsons" have told the east-German government they are willing to cooperate with the new "democracy."

The church has attempted disciplinary action against these clergymen. But it has always been foiled by the government, which has announced it will protect, maintain in office and pay "from funds diverted from state subsidies" all "progressive" clergymen persecuted for their views.

This group of pro-communist clergy is seen here as the nucleus of a state-controlled organization with which the government hopes finally to shatter the authority of the Catholic and Protestant churches.

24 HOURS NEEDED AFTER ORDER TO RESUME TRAFFIC

Must Inspect All Track in Daylight

Montreal, Aug. 30 — (CP)—It will be at least 24 hours after the "back to work" order is given railway strikers before the first trains can begin regular runs, railway and union officials indicated today.

A lot of work has to be done before a train can resume operations and some of it, such as checking rail conditions, has to be done during daylight hours.

On the run from Montreal to Toronto, for instance, every mile of track has to be walked by inspectors who check switches and other equipment. If the strike is called off at night, the track walkers would have to wait till morning to begin their inspection, which would take about a day.

For the trans-continental runs train equipment is available for making up trains at main division points, having been left there when the strike started last week. But engines have to be fired, crews assembled and track carefully cleared before a big train can be got rolling. On the longer runs, all sorts of supplies have to be assembled.

Lodger Charged With Slaughtering Family of Five

East Greenwich, R. I., Aug. 30 — (AP) — A lodger told today, police charged, how he slaughtered one by one a family of five—three children, the husband and the young wife who, he said, was going to have his baby.

The family, Fred J. Dusza, 39, his wife, Beatrice, 31, and their children, were found yesterday in the ruins of their burned house.

Held as their slayer was Edwin H. Reynolds, 27, who had lodged with the Duszas since he and his wife separated last Christmas.

Police Chief Charles R. Johnson said Reynolds will be arraigned later today on charges of murder and arson.

ROUND - CLOCK SCHEDULE

Port Stanley, Aug. 30—(CP)—An almost round-the-clock schedule is being maintained here to load gasoline and oil trucks for inland deliveries. Trucks begin lining up a 4 a. m. and continue loading until late at night. Much of the oil is used by flue-cured tobacco growers to keep their kilns fired.

Jan Bata in Jail on Civil Charge Arising From Dispute Over Ownership of Bata Co.

New York, Aug. 30. (CP)—Jan Bata, 51, head of a worldwide shoe manufacturing organization, is being held in jail here on a civil charge arising from a dispute over ownership and control of the huge concern.

Bata was arrested last Thursday and held on $250,000 bail on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Mary Bata, widow of Thomas Bata, founder of the Bata organization and half-brother to Jan.

His lawyers, who described the bail as "unheard of" and charged the order of arrest was "improper", said Bata was unable to raise the bail since most of his assets are in Brazil, of which he is a citizen, and could not be withdrawn.

His arrest was the latest development in a long-drawn suit involving control of the various Bata corporations.

Jan Bata's control was based on a document found after Thomas Bata was killed in an airplane crash in 1932. This stated he had sold his shares to Jan.

Early this year a New York court ruled the document did not constitute a legal contract. The judgment now is being appealed.

It stemmed from a suit brought by Thomas Bata's widow and her son, Thomas, Jr., who set up Bata's Canadian corporation at Batawa, Ont., to obtain control of the stock of the holding corporation which originally controlled the old Bata corporation. The stock had been held in New York.

Jan Bata's lawyers have been unsuccessful in an effort to have the present order against Bata vacated. They have appealed the court's ruling on this point, and will seek permission to have Bata freed at least until the appeal is heard.

The high bail was set by Justice Thomas Corcoran of the Supreme Court after Mrs. Bata's lawyers, pointing out that the action involved assets of $10,000,000 said Bata might leave the court's jurisdiction.

Hurricane Signals Raised All Along Gulf of Mexico, 31 Cubans Die in Storm

New Orleans, Aug. 30 — (AP) — The gulf hurricane, grown in intensity, blew toward Louisiana today and weather bureau officials hurried to raise hurricane warnings all along the Gulf of Mexico.

The hurricane, after sitting nearly still in the gulf for almost two days, jumped forward overnight and was moving in a north or north northwesterly direction.

W. R. Stevens, Chief Forecaster for the New Orleans Bureau, said that "this is now a big hurricane and will probably strike the mainland around Burwood or Grand Isle."

Burwood is a tiny settlement in the southwest pass at the mouth of the Mississippi River about 50 airline miles south of New Orleans. Grand Isle is a lush beach resort about 50 miles south southwest of New Orleans. It is connected with the mainland only by a low-lying causeway.

Stevens said that normally the weather bureau tried to get hurricane warnings at least 24 hours in advance, "but this time we may be a little shy of time."

Havana, Cuba — (AP)—Possibly 31 persons have died in Cuba as a result of a tropical storm that developed into a hurricane which now is moving south of New Orleans.

Pinar Del Rio province in Western Cuba suffered the worst blow, with subsequent floods adding heavily to crop damage.

Emergency supplies of food and medicine were to be flown to communities cut off by wrecked communications.

93 Fishermen Missing Out of 1,500 in Monsoon

Colombo, Ceylon, Aug. 30 — (Reuters)—Ninety three fishermen were missing today out of 1,500 in a fleet of outrigger canoes hit by a violent monsoon along Ceylon's west coast Monday night. Two deaths have been officially reported.

Authorities believed most of the missing found their way into remote coastal shelters.

C.I.O. Opposed To General Strike Action

Windsor ,Ont., Aug. 30 (CP)—A spokesman for Canadian headquarters of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) here said Tuesday night the union's international policy is opposed to general strikes on any issue, including those in the Canadian rail strike.

He was commenting on the action of Toronto District U.A.W. leaders who urged union leaders to issue a nation wide-strike call if compulsory settlement of the rail strike is forced on the striking unions.

The spokesman here said that U.A.W. Canadian headquarters issued a letter to locals last week asking support of the striking rail unions and opposition to compulsory arbitration of the strike issues.

U.A.W. leaders here had "no intention of urging locals to talk up a general strike" when their support was asked, the spokesman said. The union's policy had always been opposed to general strike action.

Horsemeat Used In Hamburgers Says Department

Ottawa, Aug. 30 (CP) —The Health Department indicated Tuesday that it is just about ready to swoop down on a ring of illegal traffickers in horsemeat who allegedly duped the public by offering it as hamburger beef at Ottawa's Central Canada Exhibition last week.

Officials indicated that the horsemeat had been passed off as beef in various Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec centres.

Centre of the food fraud is said to be "somewhere in Quebec." A Health Department official said the investigation is "practically completed" and "charges will definitely be laid."

Maj-Gen.Kislenko Back in Japan

Tokyo, Aug. 30 (AP) —Russia's No. 2 man on the Soviet mission in Japan, Maj.-Gen. A. P. Kislenko, returned today to Japan.

With his chief, Lt.-Gen. K. N. Derevyanko, he had departed silently and abruptly shortly before the Korean war started. Derevyanko since has been reported in Peiping with Russian vice-premier Molotov, wrangling with Chinese reds over the threatened invasion of Chinese Nationalist Formosa.

The walkout of the top Russians from Japan was regarded as a protest over American occupation policies.

SECURITY COUNCIL AGREES TO AIR FORMOSA ISSUE

Malik Says He Won't Resume Boycott

Lake Success, N. Y., Aug. 30 — (AP) — A United Nations Security Council decision to air the Formosan question brought assurance yesterday from Russia's Jakob A. Malik that he will not resume his boycott of council meetings after his August term as president ends tomorrow.

Malik said, in effect, that he would remain in the council to fight for the seating of a Chinese communist representative who would accuse the United States of aggression against China in Formosa.

The council agreed to put the Chinese communist charges on its order of business, after Korea. The United States voted for the Russian proposal after the council toned down Malik's language. The council voted 7 to 2 to investigate the "complaint of armed invasion of Taiwan (Formosa)."

China and Cuba opposed the consideration of Formosa. Egypt abstained and Yugoslavia did not participate.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb, who succeeds Malik as council president Friday, said later he would call a meeting on his first day in the chair. He added he plans as many meetings next week as other council members will agree to.

Delegates expect Malik to uncork his strongest propaganda speech in days at tomorrow's meeting, the last of his term. With the Korean conflict entirely sidetracked yesterday, he has in reserve at least one more weapon. It is a 12-page memorandum from the North Korean government charging the United States Air Force with new bomb attacks on the North Korean countryside.

The council is in recess today. Malik plays host tonight at the president's usual monthly party. The Chinese Nationalist delegate, T. F. Tsiang, whom Malik earlier in the month tried unsuccessfully to oust from the council, was not invited.

Ends Walkout Aug. 1

The Russian began his boycott last Jan. 15, protesting the council's continued refusal to replace the Chinese Nationalist delegate with a Chinese communist. He ended his walkout Aug. 1 when alphabetical rotation brought Russia to the presidential chair.

Malik had hinted in previous statements that the boycott was over. He said he would take up his objection to Security Council's 1949-50 report at later meetings, which could only be after September. He had also told the council that the substance of communist China's charges against the U.S. would have to be gone into

Yesterday Malik made this statement, from which delegates inferred anew that he would continue to attend the meetings:

U.S. Army Being Captured Against Will by Plight of Korean Children

By HAL BOYLE

Somewhere in Korea, Aug. 30 (AP)—The United States Army here is being captured—almost against its will—by a younger and more numerous force.

It is slowly becoming the prisoner of the children of Korea.

In every country in which the American soldier has fought, he usually has made fast friends of the kids first. To them he is a military croesus with endless stores of chewing gum, chocolate bars and candy mints.

They made the American soldier the hero of childhood from Calcutta to Casablanca in the last war.

It wasn't altogether generosity on the part of the soldier, although he was and is notoriously soft-hearted to children. But he learned quickly that through the kids he could win his way into favor with their families—generally families with pretty daughters.

But the formula hasn't gone that far in Korea. Few have found either temporary or permanent girl friends and most have taken no part in the life of the country.

The frank truth is that most Yanks came here to a disagreeable duty that has taken them longer than they hoped, and they want to leave as soon as it is done. The soldier has shown little interest in learning just what kind of people the Koreans are, although he has developed a great respect for their ability as soldiers.

But slowly the Korean children are winning him over. I suppose it is their plight that has touched him.

As the war goes on, more lost and homeless children, paying the price of a war they don't understand, drift into the cities and beg on the streets. It hurts your heart to see these tiny ragamufins stretched sleepily all alone on a filthy path.

Orders Strikers Back 48 Hours After Bill Passes

Enforces Arbitration Unless Parties Come to Agreement

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Parliament plunged today into non-stop sittings in a drive to deal with the government's bill to end the general nine-day rail strike.

As a general debate brought sharp opposition criticism of the government's measure and its handling of the rail issue generally, the Commons decided to forego lunch and dinner recesses today in an attempt to complete action by tonight.

Meanwhile, strike leaders said that, 'if parliament acts by tonight, the first shift of workers could be brought back to work tomorrow morning.

This word came from Frank H. Hall and A. R. Mosher, joint chiefs of the 124,000 strikers who said the unions could get instructions out to their men if parliament issued a back-to-work directive before a late hour tonight. They estimated it would take eight hours to get the first shift on the job.

With the senate not sitting but standing by for early action, the Commons saw these developments in second-reading debate on Prime Minister St. Laurent's bill directing the resumption of rail operations by 48 hours after passage.

Along with this, there was an assurance from strike leaders to newspaper men that the 124,000 employees in the walkout would be called back to work when the measure became law.

That could mean a cessation of the strike some time today, and trains rolling again tomorrow to end the crippling transport crisis that now is in its ninth day.

Drew to Open Discussion

Today's opening discussion on the bill in the Commons was to be delivered by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, who adjourned the debate last night after it had been explained by Prime Minister St. Laurent. Other opposition leaders were expected to join in, perhaps followed by other members of the Commons.

In placing the bill before an emergency session called to bring a swift end to the strike, the Prime Minister told the house that Canada's transportation system must be started again.

Emphasizing the urgency of the situation, he said that every passing hour increased the gravity of the crisis, and he asked the legislators to handle the legislation as quickly as possible, consistent with "due and serious consideration."

Prolonging the strike, he emphasized, could wreck the Canadian economy.

Deals With Current Crisis

The Prime Minister said the bill, enforcing arbitration on both parties unless they come to an agreement in a specified time after the return to work, is aimed only at dealing with the current crisis and is not intended as a pattern for general labor legislation.

It declares that an arbitrator is to be appointed by the government to adjudicate on outstanding differences between railways and unions unless they reach agreement in 15 days after the return to work, unless this time limit is extended by cabinet at the joint request of the disputants. The decision of the arbitrator would be binding.

Meanwhile, the employees would get a provisional four-cents-an-hour wage increase, which is top offered by the company in the negotiations that collapsed finally Saturday night. The unions, holding out for seven cents, would get the four cents as soon as they got back to work, and any further wage increase determined by the arbitrator will be retroactive at least as far back as the return-to-work date.

Unions Gain Point

The unions gained a point on the bill's provision that hotel and water-transport employees of the railway companies are to be included in the provisional four-cent increase.

The railways had refused to include them with other employees, offering them only two cents an hour in a separate contract. That refusal, and the unions' insistence that they be included, had been a major stumbling block in the negotiations.

The bill contains an implied recognition of the 40-hour work week with unchanged take-home pay from the present, as sought by the unions, but a high labor officer said last night that the unions were disappointed in lack of clarity on this point.

In the negotiations, the companies had agreed to put the 40-hour week into effect Sept. 1, 1951, three months before the date set by the unions in their latest compromise offer before the breakdown of discussions.

Attitude Reversed

The union officer said the strikers' negotiating committee were agreed on calling off the strike definitely today, in the expectation that the bill was going to be acceptable, but that this attitude had been reversed at a meeting last night after the contents of the measure became known.

After sitting through the afternoon and night sessions at which the bill was discussed, the union chiefs held a meeting late last night. There, informants said, they decided against calling the men back to work until the bill had passed, as they wanted clarification on the 40-hour issue and other points which they expected to get in members' questions before passage.

City and District News

BASEBALL GAME HAS BEEN POSTPONED DUE TO WET GROUNDS

Speedy St. Louis announced late this morning that the game between his Belleville Cubs and the Sixardee team scheduled for tonight at the Fair Grounds has been cancelled. Reason for the cancellation is the heavy rain of the past few days, which has washed out the field. This notice will supersede the advertisement in tonight's Ontario Intelligencer.

POST OFFICE HOURS ON LABOR DAY

Postal letter carriers and rural mail couriers will take a holiday on Monday, Labor Day, when no delivery by street letter carriers or rural couriers will be made.

However, there will be one complete street letter box collection in the evening, while mails will be despatched and received in the customary manner. Post office wickets will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and the lobby will be open form 6:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Special delivery services will be given as usual.

$600 DAMAGE CAUSED TO TRACTOR AFTER ACCIDENT

Damage of approximately $600 to the tractor of a Direct Winters highway transport resulted Monday evening on Highway No. 2 about four miles west of the city when the driver swerved into the ditch to avoid striking an auto.

Jamieson Bone, Trent Road, was proceeding west on the highway after emerging from his own driveway and was slowing to make a right hand turn when the transport came up behind and was unable to stop.

The transport clipped the rear fender of the Bone vehicle, as the driver swerved to avoid a collision, then struck a tree before coming to a halt in the ditch. There were no injuries. Provincial Constable Fullerton investigated.

School Guides Given Instruction By Police Dept.

School guides whose duty it will be to guide school children across busy intersections in the city following the re-opening of classes in September, reported to the city police station today where they were given instruction in traffic by Police Inspector J. C. Hayes. Nine school guides reported for instruction.

Inspector Hayes stated that school guides now are under the direction of the traffic committee of city council and are supervised by the city police department.

"We sincerely trust that the guides will receive every co-operation from the motoring public and thus assist in keeping injury to school children to the absolute minimum," stated the Inspector.

Albert College Student Given RMC Scholarship

James David Palmer, Kingston, Ontario, has won a $500 Dominion scholarship to R.M.C. it was announced by Defence Secretary Brooke Claxton in disclosing the winners of the scholarships and the cadetships awarded to R.M.C. and Royal Roads.

Mr. Palmer has been a student at Albert College for the past four years and this year won the Governor-General's award in the final examinations. He is an enthusiastic athlete, playing basketball, and quarter-backing Albert's senior football team last season. He is a track and field man of more than passing ability.

One hundred and fifty-four boys from across Canada were awarded cadetships to the tri-service schools and 15 received Dominion scholarships. Mr. Palmer was one of four winners in Ontario. He intends to enter R.M.C. in the fall as an army cadet.

Three Escape Injury When Car Overturns

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sweet, McAnnany Street, and Oscar Cole, Marmora, escaped injury Monday night when the car in which they were riding on the Belleville-Foxboro highway went out of control and overturned in the ditch.

Lights of an oncoming car, which were not dimmed by the driver, were said responsible for the accident. Sweet told police that he was blinded by the lights and that he lost control of his car on the slippery pavement.

The car, a convertible, turned completely on its top, the steering wheel ripping through the canvas but miraculously no one in the auto was injured.

In a second accident occurring on Highway No. 2 at Milltown damages amounting to approximately $800 resulted to two vehicles which collided at an intersection.

Angus Maxwell, R. R. 1, Corbyville, entered onto the highway from the south when Mario Brogna, Staten Island, N.Y., came over a hill from the east and collided with the Maxwell car. The American car was damaged to the extent of about $500, while the other suffered $300 damage. There were no injuries.

Both accidents were investigated by Provincial Constable L. J. Pelissero.

LATE GUY ELLWOOD STICKLE
(Sidney Township)

Frankford, Aug. 29 —The funeral of Guy Ellwood Stickle, who died on Wednesday last, was held from his late residence in the 8th concession of Sidney township on Saturday afternoon. The service there and at Frankford cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Roy McEachern.

The bearers were Arthur Asselstine, Sandy Morris, Alex. Wannamaker, John Hood, Blake Hearns and Clayton Rose.

There was a large attendance of friends at the funeral and the floral tributes were beautiful and many in number.

THOMAS DURKIN
(Stoco)

Tweed, Aug. 29—Thomas Durkin, a life long resident of Stoco died in Belleville General Hospital on Monday after an illness of two months' duration. He was 77 years of age and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Durkin. In religion he was a member of St. Edmund's Roman Catholic Church at Stoco, and in connection with the parish he was a member of the Holy Name Society.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning.

DR. HARCOURT A. MORGAN
Strathroy—Belfast (Tenn.)

News of the death of Dr. Harcourt Alexander Morgan which took place at Belfast, Tennessee, has been received by his brother Dr. W. C. Morgan of this city, who has just returned from paying him a visit. Dr. H. A. Morgan had been in ill health for the past year.

The late Dr. Harcourt Alexander Morgan was a native of Strathroy, Ont., and was born 82 years ago. He was a graduate of the University of Toronto in 1899 when he received the degree of Bachelor of Agricultural Science. For some time he was engaged in post graduate work at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Massachusetts and also at Cornell University. He had been honored with doctor's degrees by a number of universities.

He occupied a prominent place among leaders in agricultural science of the Southern United States.

When the Tennessee Valley Authority was set up he was one of the first three directors and occupied the chairmanship of the board from 1938 to 1941.

During his last illness he was visited by David Lillienthal with whom he had served on the TVA.

LATE ALFRED B. STEWART
(Maynooth—Belleville)

The funeral of Alfred B. Stewart, a former resident of this city and of late residing at Maynooth who died in the Red Cross Hospital at Bancroft on Saturday morning, was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, on Tuesday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. R. H. Armstrong of Knox Presbyterian Church, Acton, Ontario, a personal friend of the deceased.

Blue Skies Smile Over S. Ontario

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP) —Blue skies should be smiling over most of Southern Ontario today and tomorrow, the weatherman predicts. The public weather office says—with fingers crossed—warmer weather may be headed toward the province by Friday. But, the hurricane now boiling upwards from the Gulf of Mexico could complicate the whole continental weather picture.

The weather office reports the rains which fell Monday night and Tuesday were "about average" for this time of year.

Cloudy skies and rain now in the James Bay, White River and Kirkland Lake areas of Northern Ontario are expected to bypass the lower part of the province.

Campaign May be Carried Past 38th Parallel

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—The question of whether the United States intends to carry the war on into communist north Korea developed a new and interesting facet today.

From an American government agency, the psychological warfare branch of the far east command, came a broad hint to the citizens of north Korea that their communist rulers will be ousted and the 38th parallel dividing line erased.

The suggestion is conveyed in an air-raid warning leaflet being dropped in north Korea. It advises civilians to move away from cities which have been converted into military targets by "your communist leaders."

And it tells them they should join others who have left the cities so that "you can help build a strong, free Korea after the communists have been driven out"

Conceding that this is a psychological manoeuvre, it still is noteworthy that a United States agency has suggested to a Russian satellite that its communist government will be tossed out. A "fre " Korea would mean that the artificial boundry between north and south would be wiped out.

This would be strong medicine for Moscow to take, since the Russians created the north Korean satellite state, using as a pretext a situation which developed when the allies accepted the surrender of the Japanese armies.

WINS BALLOON RACE

Peterborough, England, Aug. 30 —(Reuters) — Eleven-year-old Victor Jakes yesterday won the £5 first prize in a balloon competition held here several weeks ago. The identification disk on a balloon that he released was returned from Slupsk, Poland, 740 miles from Peterborough.

Community Radio Stations Vital to Many Areas in Country Says Speaker at Kiwanis Club

"Community radio stations in Canada are very important, and in the remote regions of Canada, in northern Ontario and northern Quebec where newspaper service is non-existant and mail delivery infrequent, they are vital," stated Bill Stovin, manager of radio station CJBQ in an address to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club held Tuesday noon in Kiwanis Centre.

Mr. Stovin's address on the operation of a broadcasting station completes Kiwanis education into the mysteries of radio transmission. Kiwanian Jim Jarvis, earlier in August, explained technical details to the members.

In commenting on the peculiar status of private broadcasters in Canada, Mr. Stovin noted that "the CBC regulates and has power to govern private radio, while at the same time they are its chief competitor. They have been benevolent dictators, though," he added.

"The CBC is made up of two networks," Mr. Stovin explained. "The Dominion network of the CBC is made up of 30 private stations across Canada, with CJBC i Toronto being the flagship station. The Trans-Canada network of the CBC is composed of 10 CBC stations, seven of them being clear-channel stations and the only ones in Canada, and 13 private stations allied with them."

Act of Parliament

"By an act of parliament, the CBC controls broadcasting in Canada, AM., FM, radio, television and any other form of electro-magnetic reproductions that might be invented in the future. We in private radio believe that the CBC has a place in the sun, and we like many of its feature programs, but with their resources and control it is no wonder that they have these programs and are able to develop and sponsor Canadian talent. Smaller stations, unlike the CBC, are unable to budget indefinitely, for a deficit. The CBC receives the entire $2.50 radio licence fee. The Department of Transport even pays for its collection."

"The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, a trade organization, would like to see radio governed by a commission similar to the Board of Railway Commissioners," he added.

In discussing television Mr. Stovin said, "The CBC is developing television in Toronto and Montreal, taking first choice on the channels available. They have made the rather unusual suggestion to private radio, that several broadcasters get together and operate jointly on the remaining channels. This is like suggesting that businessmen unite with their competitors, and having established a business, start then to sort out the problems of ownership policy and regulation."

"Last year in Canada, the radio industry did a 25 million dollar business. You, the listener, paid less than two dollars per person for all the radio entertainment received in 1949."

Creates Mass Demand

"In discussing radio advertising, and all other forms of advertising in general, Mr. Stovin remarked that, "advertising does not increase the cost of a product. Advertising creates mass demand, which makes mass production and subsequent lower costs per unit, possible."

The general outline of the operation of a station was explained by the speaker with particular attention being paid to various departments of a station, and the work of certain members of the staff.

He finished his address with a tape recorded explanation of how a tape recorder operates.

The speaker was introduced by Jim Jarvis and the thanks of the club were expressed by Jack Walton.

Everett Fairman, Len Fozard, Spike Pryke and Jack McIntosh, did their best, against strong opposition, to lead a sing-song, while Phil Huddleston played the piano. President Taylor Franklin presided over the meeting.

16 Coastguard Men Feared Lost

London, Aug. 30 — (AP)—Sixteen Coast Guard men of two countries were feared dead after ship accidents in widely-separated European waters last night.

In the Adriatic, a Yugoslav patrol boat collided with the American cargo ship Eugene Lykes. Nine Guard members were believed drowned.

Off the Swedish west coast, a Coast Guard tug capsized during a 55-mile-an-hour gale. Ten were saved but one was listed as missing and six more were believed drowned.

Sixty Young People Attend Exhibition

Sixty young people of the Hastings County Calf Clubs, Grain Clubs, Garden Clubs and club leaders, attended the Canadian National Exhibition on Monday.

Transportation to the Ex was provided by two buses, one bus going through Tweed, Madoc and Marmora, while the other picked up its load in Stirling and Belleville early Monday morning. The buses arrived at the C.N.E. at noon, the boys and girls meeting the buses again at seven o'clock for the trip home.

The club members paid their own transportation costs of $4 per person, while the C.N.E. provided admission tickets free. All reported a fine time at the Ex.

Air of Quiet Pervades Strike Headquarters

An air of quiet pervaded strike headquarters at the CNR Athletic Association grounds this morning. Striking employees were content to sit back and await orders from Ottawa headquarters. Any orders to resume work, if government legislation so orders, must come from C.B. of R.E. and international union heads at the nation's capital.

Meanwhile, however, plans here go ahead for another night of local entertainment tonight. Officials say that this evening's show will be the best yet.

Much of the talent tonight is carryover from weekend concerts indicating the success of Saturday and Sunday entertainments. Featured in the holdover slots will be Mrs. Marion Kilpatrick, vocalist, Freddine Smith, tap dancer, John Rankin, step dancer, the Grant Family, Bill Salter, comedian, the Winstanley Bros., Ross Sweet and the Quinte Oldtimers, and master of ceremonies Harold Foote.

Additions to the show tonight will be acrobatics by Stan Creeggan and Fred Locke; comedy by Bud Cavanaugh; Mr. Clark, soloist; Beverley Buck, soloist; Tulford and Waterhouse, blackface; Ronnie Tucker, singer; Jimmy Corradi, pianist; Miss Lucy, vocalist; a hula dance; Ethel Smith; Larry Tucker, soloist; Joe Cavanaugh, violinist and step dancer.

The entertainment will be at the CNRAA grounds, starting at 7.30 p.m. Officials emphasize that the show is for the benefit of the general public as well as railroad workers. The canteen on the grounds, which has been operated all through the strike by women of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the C.N.R. Athletic Association, will remain open until the strike is over, 24 hours per day.

HURRIEDLY REMOVED

Toronto, Aug. 30 — (CP) — A bottle of nitro-glycerine and an electric detonator, introduced as evidence in county court Tuesday were hurriedly removed when Prof. Joslyn Rogers, provincial analyst, warned that it was extremely dangerous.

Injured Youths Taken to Hospital In Baltimore, Md.

Seriously injured in the accident which claimed the life of their father, Robert and Roland Zeender of Washington, D.C., sons of Mrs. Zeender and the late Robert Zeender have been removed to the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., for further treatment.

The two-teen aged boys who suffered fractured limbs and other injuries, were taken to Baltimore in one of Bush's ambulances. Two stretchers were placed in the one ambulance, which was accompanied by a nurse.

The mother and and a third son will be removed to a Washington hospital as soon as they are able to be moved.

The accident in which the Zeender family was injured took place at Shannonville on August 16th when the Zeender car went out of control and swerved across the highway into the path of an oncoming car.

In the second car were R. H. Gillan and Maurice Martin, both of this city. Mr. Martin is still confined to Kingston Hospital, while Mr. Gillan, at first not thought seriously injured was forced to return to Belleville Gen-forced to return to Belleville hospital.

CONTRACT AWARDED

Sarnia, Aug. 30 (CP) —Contract has been let and work is to begin within a week on the proposed $500,000 oil dock to be built by Imperial Oil Limited here as the final link in the pipe and water transport line from Canadian oil fields in Alberta.

A company spokesman announced the contract has been awarded the McNamara Construction Company at Toronto.

Completion of the 610-foot dock, at the St. Clair River shoreline of Sarnia refinery property is scheduled for next spring when first shipment of crude oil are expected from the eastern terminus of the interprovincial pipeline.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Prices pushed slowly higher with base metal stocks leading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity increased considerably from yesterday but gains were held to comparatively small amounts. The base metal list featured the market, climbing further into new high price territory.

Almost all base metal stocks trading pushed higher. United Keno Hill, a feature of recent markets, again held the limelight, climbing to a new high at $8.75. Consolidated Smelters also sold at a new high at 111 3-4 and International Nickel, Noranda and Quemont rose fractions.

Industrials encountered moderate resistance to a continuation of yesterday's strong advances. However, the majority of stocks were fractionally higher. Papers, steels and banks brightened while a few utilities and liquors eased.

Junior golds showed gains ranging up to about 10 cents.

Red Forces Battle Furiously to Gain Two Key Points

Tokyo, Aug. 30 (AP) —Furious fighting wrecked the outskirts of Pohang Wednesday and cost North Koreans heavily in men for a few yards of ground.

At times both sides attacked simultaneously.

United Nations troops held firmly to the No. 2 South Korean east coast port and roads leading westward to threatened Taegu, heart of the Korean central front.

Forty-thousand communists howled down on the two cities. More were on the march to the battle zone.

Northwest of Taegu U.S. troops attacked reds on the highest hill in the Waegwan area.

And on the southern end of the 120-mile long battleline U.S. and South Korean forces retook Battle Mountain near Haman, 10 miles northwest of Masan port. It was the eighth time the dominating southern hill changed hands in two weeks—twice Wednesday.

Twenty-thousand North Koreans were engaged in the Pohang battle.

Twin Drives

Twin communist drives from north and northwest were aimed at the port city.

The communists were fighting furiously but were far behind in their schedule to wipe out American and South Korean forces by the end of August. They were commanded two weeks ago to achieve this goal by North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung.

Another force of 20,000 reds fought today toward Taegu in the heart of the central front.

The reds kept some pressure on the west and south sections of the rectangular allied defence wall, but their main effort still was in the east.

An estimated 110,000 North Koreans were at the long front.

The reds were trying desperately for a break-through.

SAY NONE OF GUNS USED

Toronto, Aug. 30.—(CP)—Police said today that R.C.M.P. ballistics tests show none of the five guns found on Frank Buckoski when he was arrested recently in Los Angeles was used to kill Robert and Gloria McKay.

Buckoski, 24-year-old Toronto mechanic, is being held in Los Angeles, on a murder warrant charging him with shooting Alfred Layng during a groceteria holdup here 13 months ago.

Following his arrest, police said they would question him about the shooting of the McKays, slain the same weekend as Layng.

E.R.P. Gospel Borne by Toy Balloons To Nations Behind Iron Curtain

By DONALD DOANE

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 30—(AP)— Little toy balloons riding the west wind are taking the gospel of the European Recovery Program into countries behind the Iron Curtain.

American officials of the economic Co-operation Administration today cited these two evidences that the balloon propaganda barrage is getting results:

1. Dozens of replies have been received from people in communist ruled countries.

2. The communists have shown their irritation by a counter-propaganda attack. They charge that the printed messages carried by the balloons are infected with poison bacteria and that the balloons are a trick by western war plotters to test wind currents for poison attacks against eastern Europe.

But the replies coming into E.C.A. offices from people in communist areas indicate that the the messages are being read despite the communist warnings.

For example, the Copenhagen newspaper Nationaltidende quoted this reply from a farmer in eastern Germany:

"Your balloon reached that part of Europe where man dares not talk about the ideas for which you are working and which you want to carry through. We, too, are longing for the day when we can live as Europeans."

About 100,000 balloons have been sent up from E.C.A. exhibits in Denmark and Western Germany.

Hundreds are known to have reached the Russian zone of Germany and Poland a few answers also have been received from Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Lithuania.

The balloons are sent up by individuals attending the E.C.A. exhibits, where Europe's recovery under the Marshall Plan is demonstrated.

The balloons are not aimed solely—or evenly primarily — at countries behind the Iron Curtain. They are to publicize the Marshall Plan throughout Europe—wherever they fall.

But the wind seems to blow strongly toward the east these these days.

Four Adventurers Cross Ocean in 36-Foot Craft

Hamilton, Bermuda, Aug. 30—(AP) —It was last Christmas that four 21-year-old Irishmen banded together to realize a long time dream of far-away adventure.

There was Kevin O'Farrel of Dun Laoghaire and Anthony Jacob and John Kenny of Tipperary and Desmond Dalton of Dublin.

They hoped to sail around the world, pausing in North America for one year of architectural study under the noted designer, Frank Lloyd Wright, in Spring Green, Wis.

The intrepid quartet pooled £150 ($465) to buy a 33-year-old 36-foot sailing craft, Ituna, once a prize winning racing cruiser fallen on the plodding life of a shrimper.

For months they labored making her seaworthy, and that she proved in the tradition of her name, Ituna, which in the Greek means "Safety on the Seas." Aug. 1 the Ituna and her four adventurers sailed on their trans-Atlantic odyssey with a message from Dublin's Lord Mayor to New York's Irish-born mayor, William O'Dwyer.

Four weeks they were at sea. They saw only one ship and one whale. Once the skipper, Tony Jacob, was knocked overboard during a sudden squall on a pitch black night in mid-Atlantic. But his companions found him "swimming like a champion, looking like he would make Bermuda under his own steam."

From Dublin to Brest, France, thence to Vigo, Spain, on to the Madeiras, the Canary Islands, and yesterday the doughty little ship moored at the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club here.

The four bearded young Irishmen came ashore—joyful over a dream almost half-realized.

Today, the flag at half-mast on the Ituna signalled a heart-breaking disappointment. Waiting for Kevin O'Farrel was a cablegram that his mother had died and his father was seriously ill.

O'Farrel abandoning his dream is flying home.

Seek 50 Men Here To Help Harvest Crops in West

With one of the largest wheat crops in recent years, the Western provinces this year are looking to the east for harvest helpers whose arrival has been delayed due to the current rail strike.

But as soon as the rail strike is lifted men from Ontario with farm experience will make the trip West. It is expected that approximately 150 men per day for some days will be sent from this province.

Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the local employment office, stated today that at least 75 men from the Quinte area could be used in the harvest fields of Western Canada. Of this number roughly 25 men have applied for jobs and these will be sent West as soon as the rail strike is over.

There is still need however, for about 50 harvesters to go West, and able men with farm experience wishing to assist in the western harvest are advised to contact Mr. Reed at the Belleville employment office.

Cattle, Sports Share Spotlight At Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 30 —(CP) — Dairy cattle and another heavy sports program held the spotlight today as Canada's largest fair moved into its fifth day.

But holding the attention of officials of the rain-hampered Canadian National Exhibition was the weather. Yesterday a light rain fell on the grounds for the second straight day, forcing cancellation of some attractions and hindering others. The weatherman, however, said skies should be sunny most of today.

Considering the rain, a surprisingly-large crowd of 167,000 entered the grounds yesterday compared with 178,000 for the fourth day last year. It boosted the total attendance to 713,000 a drop of 29,000 from last year's four-day figure of 742,500.

Today is "food products and merchants' day" but for veteran fairgoers one of the big attractions is the start of judging of dairy cattle in the Ex's agricultural section. Some of Canada's top Guernseys, Holsteins and Jerseys will be on display. Goats and sheep also will be paraded before the judges.

Bowmen from across Canada began seeking the Canadian and International Archery championships after a one-day delay in the tournament because of the rain. Play is also continuing in the Canadian senior and C.N.E. softball championships.

Despite the rain, the C.N.E. plowed right ahead with a big program yesterday. The evening grandstand performance was held as scheduled as was a matinee attraction. And the weather failed to prevent big Cliff Lumsden of Toronto from capturing his second straight C.N.E. 15-mile men's professional swimming championship.

Eric Stremer, talented young Ottawa pianist was awarded a $500 scholarship as the outstanding pianist at the C.N.E. festival. And Patrick Schumacher, St. Catharines, Ont., was declared winner of a day-long public speaking competition for boys and girls.

Main Provisions Of Govt.'s Rail Settlement Bill

Ottawa, Aug. 30 (CP) —Main provisions of the government's rail strike-settlement bill:

1. The railways and the unions must resume operations of railroads and subsidiary services within 48 hours after the bill becomes law.

2. Pending a final settlement, the workers will receive a provisional wage increase of four cents an hour.

3. If the railways and the unions do not reach a settlement within 15 days after the bill becomes law, the government will appoint an arbitrator whose decision will be final.

4. The government guarantees that no employee will be discharged because he has gone on strike.

5. Once the bill becomes law, the union must withdraw its strike orders.

6. The provisional, four-cent wage increase applies to hotel and water-transport employees of the railway companies, whose exclusion by the railways from the general terms of an agreement has been a stumbling block to strike settlement.

Allied Convoys Proceed Without Sighting Subs

Tokyo, Aug. 30 (AP) —Warships of six countries have convoyed supply and troop ships to Korea regularly without sighting submarines or Russian craft.

Capt. John H. Unwin of Hampshire, England, a veteran of the Royal Navy, said his escort force has not run into any trouble.

Neither have there been international or language difficulties among the British, Canadian, New Zealand, Australian French and Dutch craft participating in escort duties, he told a press conference.

At present the Canadian destroyer Cayuga and an unidentified Dutch warship have been assigned to other duties. Unwin now commands six vessels including a French craft and Commonwealth warships.

He said his frigate fired 76 rounds from its four-inch guns at dock installations, fuel tanks and railway yards. When the bombardment ended he asked a British aerial spotter to locate new targets.

"There is no worth-while target left," the spotter reported.

"The Cayuga also had marked success," Unwin added.

Lions Midgets Lose to Kingston In Last Frame

Frankford (Special) — Frankford Lions Midgets dropped a free-wheeling 18-16 decision to Kingston Kiwanis Midgets in the first round of the Eastern Ontario OASA playdowns.

After leading for six innings, the locals faltered in the seventh as the Kingston squad piled up seven runs on three hits and four Frankford errors.

Savage started on the hill for the visitors being blasted out in the third as Frankford rallied for six runs. McAllister came on to put out the fire and ultimately received credit for the win.

Burkitt toiled the first seven innings for Frankford being knocked out in the seventh with Kingston's big seven-run rally. Wannamaker went the rest of the way allowing only one run. Burkitt walked seven, struck out 15 and gave up nine hits in his turn on the mound.

Burnett of Kingston led all batters with two home runs, and two singles in six trips. Bennett hit a homer for Frankford. O'Brien tripled and singled.

Tool and Die Workers Out At Ford Plant

Detroit, Aug. 30 (AP) —Two thousand tool and die workers walked out at the Ford Motor Company's giant Rouge plant Tuesday "to find out what our local union is doing to get us wage raises like those given at Packard, Chrysler and General Motors."

All are members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO). A meeting with local union president Carl Stellato was called immediately after the walkout.

There was no attempt to picket the plant, which employs 65,000 on a three-shift basis.

Stellato said a recent voluntary increase by Chrysler, a cost-of-living boost in pay at General Motors, and a raise granted in Packard's new contract, brought tool and die workers for those three companies an average of $2.50 an hour, compared with a rate of $2.12 an hour at Ford.

Ford's current contract with the U.A.W. has until January to run, but union officials recently have asked that it be reopened to increase wages. The company has declined.

SCHOOL OPENING DELAYED

St. John's Nfld., Aug. 29 (CP)—School opening in many parts of Newfoundland may be delayed as a result of the railway strike, Education Minister S. J. Hefferton said today.

"With the breakdown in communications and travel difficulties it is hard to say what the situation really is at the moment," Mr Hefferton said.

Schools in most areas were scheduled to open the first week of September, and with the strike likely to last until Thursday at least, it might be impossible for teachers to reach their schools in time for the opening.

Boys Release Railway Ties Into Moira R.

The spirit of natural mischief that is a part of young boys isn't suppressed by even a rail strike, it seems. Railway police on duty during the strike in Belleville have had their hands full with young lads since the beginning of the shutdown.

The piece de resistance, however, came just the other day when a group of boys put a few old railway ties in the water near the bridge just west of Cannifton Road. The ties were floating merrily down the Moira, and got as far as the Upper Bridge before they were spotted. The boys were rounded up, and this morning they were put to work bringing back the railway property.

The tie-movers were made to wade out into the river and haul the "floaters" back under railway police supervision. Then they were taken back to their place of launching.

Lack of Confidence Between Parties In the Dispute

Ottawa, Aug. 30 (CP) — The mediator appointed by the Federal government to attempt to bring about a settlement of the railway dispute reported to the government that there was "almost complete lack of confidence between the parties to the dispute."

This was disclosed Tuesday night in the Commons by Labor Minister Gregg while he was reviewing developments leading up to the railway strike starting Aug. 22.

Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, vice-principal of Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., was appointed by the government Aug. 18 to act as mediator and to attempt to bring about a settlement. He met with the unions and the railways Aug. 19, 20 and 21, but was unable to bring about an agreement.

In a memorandum to the government outlining what transpired at the meetings, Dr. Mackintosh said his work was made extraordinarily difficult by:

1. The almost complete lack of confidence between the parties to the dispute.

2. The number and variety of the unions—17 are involved in the strike—which were attempting to bargain as one unit.

3. The very low level of effectiveness of collective bargaining in the industry.

4. The fact that the rapidly approaching menace of the strike created confusion between genuine bargaining and attempts to make statements of positions before the work stoppage took place.

Mr. Gregg departed from his prepared text to pay tribute to the job done by Dr. Mackintosh. The fact that no agreement had been reached did not detract in any way from the work done by Dr. Mackintosh.

Discuss Plans To Increase Defence Effort

London, Aug. 30 (Reuters) — Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Bevin today discussed plans for increasing Britain's defence effort.

They based their talks on the work of the North Atlantic Pact deputies here during the last few days.

Attlee, who returned to London today from a short holiday in Scotland, is expected to announce tonight in a country-wide broadcast plans for increasing draft service in the armed forces from 18 months to two years.

He also is expected to give details of new pay increases designed to encourage recruits.

Attlee and Bevin are also believed to have discussed Conservative leader Winston Churchill's broadcast criticisms about the supply of British machine tools to Russia.

The government has already stated that Britain has not been supplying Russia with anything essential for building up war potential, but if Attlee decides any further explanation is necessary on this point he will probably broadcast it in a second radio talk Saturday.

The two ministers are also thought to have discussed the program which will go before parliament when it reassembles in emergency session Sept. 12 to discuss defence.

LE HAVRE RESTORED

Le Havre, the second greatest seaport before the ond World War, was badly knocked about in that uggle. It had been the most important commercial port the country after Marseilles. It was founded in the salt rshes at the mouth of the Seine, and in the time of chelieu and later of Colbert began to acquire a prosper- which was to go on increasing. During the nineteenth tury and at the beginning of the twentieth it undernt an enormous development. When the Second World r began it was ranked among the most important of ropean ports, especially for transatlantic passenger ffic.

At that time, Le Havre, three hours away from Paris, mprised ten wet docks, ten miles of quay-side, a port area 70 acres, anchorages 40 feet deep, more than 40 acres of cks and port installations, and a town of 150,000 inhabints stretching beneath a hill over a length of about three les and a width of one and a half. But on the morrow of war, there remained only a few streets, those farthest ay from the river and the sea, covering scarcely a quarof the area formerly occupied by the flourishing city d port.

"One wonders how the French found the courage to dertake to repair the disaster," says Jean Gallotti, in an icle in the French Information Service.

Since the destruction had been almost total and since districts which had been spared had no special artistic historic character, the builders could be given freedom use the most modern types of architecture, without the rry of making them harmonize with old masterpieces or picturesque urban districts. One single small area ere traces still remained of the original town, around at was called "The King's Dock," built by Francis 1st; nanded a harmony of style and meant the using of slate fs. Everywhere Messrs. Perret decided on a plan of aight roads intersecting at right angles and a uniform e of cubic construction built up round a framework of tical and horizontal reinforced concrete pillars with the lls built of concrete. A single model was decided on for the windows of the town.

But later on, just as the State handed part of the work to two private concerns, it also gave the job of drawing the plans to different architects. The authors of the ginal plan however kept a right of control over the plan a whole and were put in personal control of the carrying of a major urban plan which in fact will alone take up whole of the centre of the city and will give to it its aracter.

This will be centred round two big squares, each measng from 100 to 150 yards square, connected by a wide d which is further prolonged over a distance of 500 rds to the port where it ends in a promenade. The buildgs flanking apart of the first square and those separating two squares have already been constructed and make groups whose style is very significant.

A special architecture is reserved for public buildings, rticularly for the Town Hall, situated at one end of the st square, the main body of which, put up by colonnades, l be flanked by a belfry tower of fourteen storeys with a ck and a lantern at the top. Two twelve storey high ildings in the form of towers mark, on the sea front, the try of the main road crossing the town.

When one sees the speed with which reconstruction, rted at the beginning of the year, has been carried on at Havre, one realizes that the plans of Messrs. Perret will t be long in being executed. And one certainly cannot cuse them of being lacking in dignity, grandeur and even ajesty.

RAIN AND POWER

The heavy rain of Tuesday which had been preceded rainfalls during the season which must have exceeded e average rainfall in this part of the country brings a rtain satisfaction when compared with the condition not long ago when the country was in the midst of a lower an normal rainfall over a period of some length of time. hat shortage of rain meant then in shortage of power d restrictions on lighting for a period is too well recalled.

While the extra fall of rain is reason for satisfaction, other factor of importance is the fact that some of the velopments which were underway several years ago are ow serving the province so that the people of Ontario ave greater water reserves as well as much greater electril development which give the assurance of ability to eet the demand for the use of electric energy.

GIANT WATERFALL

A waterfall 3,212 feet high, nineteen times higher than iagara Falls, discovered fifteen years ago from the air, has een visited and measured by triangulation, says New York erald Tribune. It descends from the edge of a great mesa Venezuela, near the Brazilian border. The longest unoken drop of the water is 2,648 feet, reports Perry Lowy, field engineer of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company of enezuela.

Mr. Newton W. Thompson, past President of the Belleville Y's Men's Club, was for the second consecutive year, elected President of International Y's Men's Clubs at the mammoth convention held at Wilkes Barre, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Marsh will spend Labor Day in Montreal.

Miss Grace McIntosh is visiting friends in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Munroe of Walkerville are visiting friends here.

30 YEARS AGO

August 30th., 1920

Mr. James Bailey, West Moira Street, has six potatoes which were grown in his garden and which weigh nine lbs and three ounces; two of the largest potatoes weigh three pounds and fifteen ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Burgess and Miss Deans of Oswego, N. Y., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Aylesworth, Church Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickey of Chicago, Ill., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Buckley, Lewis Street.

Mrs. J. Westlake, Coleman Street, is in Oshawa to attend the Grand Lodge of the Loyal True Blues Association.

Mr. G. Johnson and son, Claude, are visiting friends in Tamworth.

40 YEARS AGO

August 30th., 1910

At Demorestville, Prince Edward County, a memorial window was dedicated recently in the church to the memory of the late Rev. C. E. Gordonsmith, a former pastor of the congregation. The window, which is a beautiful representation of the Sermon on the Mount, is the gift of his wife, Mrs. Gordonsmith, of this city.

Mrs. J. Murphy has returned to her home here after visiting friends in Jacksonville, Chicago and Detroit.

Mrs. S. M. Gilbert of the 2nd. line of Thurlow, is visiting friends in Port Colborne.

50 YEARS AGO

August 30th., 1900

Mr. A. N. Reid, formerly of this city, left today for Guelph where he is now residing.

Private Charles Clarke of the 15th. Battalion, won $2. in the Tyro match and $4. in the Macdougall challenge cup match at the Rockcliffe Ranges yesterday.

The large frame building situated in the fair grounds and known as the main building, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The fire brigade responded rapidly to the call but the men could do nothing to save the building. Mr. Fred Adams, who recently secured control of the grounds, lost a wagon and considerable lumber. The house of Mr. John Miller on Wellington Street caught fire, but the blaze was quickly extinguished. The firemen are very thankful to Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Roblin and Mrs. John Thompson for kindnesses shown them while they were fighting the fire.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

With meat so dear, many of us are eating fewer steaks than formerly, and steaks of a less unctuous fibre. We are meeting up, in fact, with some pretty stringy steaks off wild run steers from prairies far back from the railroads. It goes against the grain of both the thrifty housewife and the restaurant manager to pay the price today for those choice thick steaks with the pretty marbling of fat through them, the kind that gave so kindly to the knife and the teeth.

There are tricks to eating a steak that may have been widely forgotten in the recent affluent years. And the biggest trick of all is a steak knife. In the cutlery stores, you can buy a set of steak knives that are of a good steel which can be given a keen edge, and will keep it. But any knife is a steak knife if, before you sit down to a sizzling T-bone you give it a few whisks on a sharpening steel.

A sharp table knife will go a long way towards minimizing the toughness of a steak or a chop. Your teeth, in fact, take their cue from your knife. If your table knife finds difficulty in slicing off a bite of beef, you may depend upon it that your teeth will be prejudiced against it before it even gets between them. But if the knife goes keenly, then your teeth are fooled.

In Paris, where they know more about the tricks of eating than anywhere else on earth, your waiter as he comes stealthily from behind you with the gear with which to eat even a melting masterpiece of a Chateaubriand will be busily whipping the blade of your knife on that rough bottom ring of the china plate.

To meet the meat crisis, let us keen up our table cutlery.

ORDERED DISSOLVED

Tokyo, Aug. 30—(AP)— More than 100 police raided the headquarters of Japan's largest communist-influenced labor federation today and the attorney general ordered the organization dissolved. The action was taken against the national liaison council of labor unions (Zenroren) under an ordinance prohibiting anti-occupation activities and terrorism.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED

Burlesdon, England, Aug. 30 — (Reuters)—A suicide verdict was returned here yesterday in the death of Mrs Pipette Marion de Haviland, widow of aircraft designer Geoffrey de Haviland. She was 35. She died Sunday, after taking an overdose of sleeping pills. Witnesses said Mrs. de Haviland never recovered from the grief caused by her second husband's death four years ago when a jet plane exploded in mid-air

FURS UNCLAIMED

Southhampton, England, Aug. 30—(Reuters)—More than $500,000 worth of Russian furs are lying on the docks here—unclaimed. Nearly 200 bales of furs were dumped here after their return from New York, where dock workers refused to handle them. No one here knows who owns the furs. They were moved by several shipping firms, and the owners are unknown to both dock officials here and the Cunard Line, which returned the furs to Britain.

WILL NOT STAND

London, Aug. 30—(Reuters)—Earl Winterton, 67, known as the "father of the House of Commons" because of his 46 years as a Conservative member, will not stand at the next national election. Earl Winterton, a former under-secretary for India, said he was fit for his age but that the "strain" of parliamentary duties was "very great."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

ISRAEL REVISITED

Early in 1949, my missus and I took a trip around the world, and one of the countries we got to see was Israel. At the time, many of the streets of Tel Aviv, Haifa and Jerusalem were still crisscrossed with barbed wire, and the roads leading through the hills of Judea were littered with burned out trucks. Nevertheless, thanks to an old Chevy and a pair of even older legs, I managed to see most of this tiny country, and when I left it a few weeks later I was pretty excited about what I had seen.

When we got back to New York, my old boss, Bernard M. Baruch, asked me to put my enthusiasm in my pocket and try to estimate Israel's chances of survival in this highly competitive world. I told him that one swing around the globe wasn't enough to make an economic expert out of a Broadway jumping-jack, but that I had come away from Israel with the general impression that its people were (a) intelligent, (b) tough as nails, and (c) prepared to work like all get out to make a go of their new lives.

"A business or a nation with those qualities usually gives a good account of itself," said Mr. Baruch.

Since my visit I've heard nothing to change my snap appraisal of Israel's chances. On the other hand, I've read darned little on the subject which could be classed as good objective reporting. Most of the favorable stuff was too favorable — obviously the work of men who were out to make as good a case for the new nation as possible. And as for the dissenters—well, as was to be expected, most of them sounded as if they were carrying a 2,000-year-old chip on their shoulders.

Last week, the galleys of a new book by Ralph McGill—"Israel Revisited," to be published in Atlanta, Ga., next month by Tupper and Love—showed up on my desk and I began to thumb through them out of a sense of duty. But what started quickly became compulsion, for McGill, editor of one of the South's most trustworthy papers, The Atlanta Constitution, had obviously gone to Israel with an open mind and crammed it with facts and figures before making it up.

I've met Mr. McGill once or twice, and before I was halfway through his book I found myself wondering how this softspoken and hard-headed 'gentleman from Georgia had come to write such an incisive and insightful commentary on the complicated events now shaping up at the far end of the Mediterranean.

I got to thinking about it, and as I hunch it, the answer is triple pronged: First, McGill is an Irishman, which means that while he has a lively sense of justice in general he has no axiom to grind about Israel in particular. Second, he is first, foremost and fastidiously a newspaperman, avaricious for facts but plenty leary of special-pleading propaganda. And third, he has a long record as a fighting Southern liberal, and once he's gotten his facts straight he's not one to by-pass those touchy areas where even angels fear to tiptoe.

When I finished reading "Israel Revisited" I was of course, tickled to find that McGill's conclusions jibed with mine, but that's neither here no there. The important thing is that, without pulling any punches, he has written a book about this controversial little country which one can read without prejudice or without suspecting the author of same.

Here at last is a meticulous and meaningful answer to the often-asked question "What's Israel really like?"

MacKenzie's Column

British Factory Produced Tools For Soviet Union

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Winston Churchill's disclosure — confirmed by the government — that a British factory is producing for Russia tools suitable for the repair of military tanks is a disturbing commentary on an incongruous practice.

This isn't confined to Britain, however. It is a common practice by many countries. The United States supplied Japan with oil and iron which the latter needed to launch the attack on Pearl Harbor. Britain helped equip the Kaiser for the First World War. And most other countries have pursued or are pursuing similar tactics.

However, that doesn't lessen the dangers of the custom.

Of course Britain and Russia aren't at war in the accepted sense of the term, but the so-called "cold war" in which the major powers are engaged is one of the most devastating conflicts of history. Moreover, it has developed many hot spots, of which Korea is a prime example.

Even now a contingent of Scots troops are beginning to arrive in Korea to join Gen. MacArthur's forces.

The London Daily Mail publishes a message from MacArthur, expressing pride at having these troops in his command and concluding:

"May a merciful God be with them in the trying days ahead."

Trying days indeed, in which the Scots will go up against Russian made tanks, which may have been prepared for action with tools made in Britain.

Outside Category is Claim

Arthur Bottomley, British secretary for overseas trade, denies that the United Kingdom has been sending strategic war material to Russia. He adds:

"What has happened is that we have had essential supplies from Russia in the shape of grain and timber, and in return we have had to make payment. The goods supplied by Britain, while covering a wide range, have been outside the category of those necessary for building up war potential."

However, the United States revealed last week that a British firm trans - shipped to Russia 50 tons of American molydenum — a metal used for hardening steel. Another 150 tons scheduled for shipment from London was stopped.

Churchill's revelation has caused a sensation in Britain, and the Conservative press has been taking the Labor government to task. There is a strong challenge to the idea of sending Russia materials which will strengthen the red war potential.

Moreover, a lot of folk want to know why Britain has to get wheat from Russia when members of the Commonwealth such as Canada and Australia are among the world's great wheat producers.

The reaction in the United States seems to be strongly against acceptance of the thesis that as long as a deal actually is "legal" it is legitimate. The idea of doing anything which would strengthen Russian striking-power certainly goes against the grain.

Off-Duty Officer Arrests Three For Car Theft

St. Thomas, Aug. 30. (CP)—Alertness of an off-duty policeman here Tuesday night resulted in the arrest 14 minutes later of three youths, from Windsor, Port Stanley and St. Thomas on a car theft charge.

The trio, John Stoyanovich, of Windsor, Abel C. Conrad, St. Thomas and William C. Clark, of Port Stanley, were taken to London to await the arrival of Windsor police who would take them to Windsor to face charges.

Stoyanovich, who police said was the driver of the car, reported stolen in Windsor earlier, said it belonged to his father in Windsor. Police said the car is registered to a man named Cveto Stoyanovich of Windsor.

The off-duty officer, Provincial Constable Robert French, of St. Thomas, was standing on a corner when he saw the car pass and recognized it as reported stolen.

Steel Almost Sold Out First Half of 1951

New York, Aug. 30 — (AP) — A wild scramble for steel buyers with pre-allocation jitters has "compounded the industrial confusion," the Iron Age says today.

The metalworking trade weekly says that "industry and individuals have already had more than two months to speculate," knowing that allocations were coming.

"Who can blame a man or a company for trying to buy what he has been told will be allocated?" the Iron Age asks.

Some steel converters are almost sold out for the first half of 1951, the Iron Age reports. One converter is importing 7,000 to 8,000 tons of sheet bars a month from France, Belgium and Germany.

Structural fabricators reported difficulty in obtaining reinforcing bars and structural shapes and some bidding was on a basis of delivery if and when fabricators can get the steel.

Some defence orders for alloy steel were booked by electric - furnace producers, the publication says. Nickel was reported the tightest of the alloys and nickel-bearing scrap was widely sought.

Stainless - steel order backlogs are growing rapidly, the Iron Age says.

PILES PLUS OPERATION

I wrote you about three years ago asking for the name of a doctor who treated hemorrhoids by the needle method office, injection, ambulant treatment. You recommended Dr. ———. I want to thank you for that favor. The treatments I received from Dr. ——— were very satisfactory. It certainly has been a great relief to be free from such an annoying condition.

I understand that many people suffer from hemorrhoids and no less than three in my own circle tell me that when they were operated on the suffering for several days following was far worse than anything they had suffered from the piles.

I had to travel sixty miles for each treatment, eight times on the doctor's advice although I believed I was cured after the third treatment. But the treatments never gave me the slightest pain and I feel it was well worth my time—which, after all, totalled less than a bed in hospital for an operation. (G. M.)

Had been suffering from piles for about twenty years and was glad to take your advice about a year ago to get injection treatment from Dr. ——— whom you recommended as skilled in the ambulant method. The ten injections I received proved very successful in obliterating the piles. Please accept my thanks for your recommendation of Dr. ———. (Mrs. C. J. A.)

I find that a good many physicians who dismissed the ambulant, office or injection treatment of internal piles as quackery ten years ago now employ the method with more or less satisfaction to their patients, according to the skill of the physician. Years ago I dismissed the method as quackery, in this column—and a little later apologized to the physician I had called a quack—he is one of the physicians to whom I referred one of the readers whose reports appear above.

I find, too, that some physicians are so narrow and incompetent that they attempt to give this treatment for hemorrhoids (piles) without first obtaining instruction in the difficult technique. Their bungling is responsible for many deplorable failures.

I venture to say that I have a reasonable knowledge or understanding of the causes, nature or pathology and treatment of piles (hemorrhoids), both internal and external. At least I can qualify as an expert on the subject. I tell you poor geeks who now have piles or who are subject to "attacks" of piles, or who constantly or frequently lose blood, whether you recognize it or not, from bleeing internal piles, just what I have been telling you these past years—that you are ninnyhammers if you submit to hospitalization and radical operation for the trouble. I assure you—and I have sufficient clinical evidence to warrant assurance—that the ambulant, office, injection treatment is the method of choice for internal piles (hemorrhoids)—or at any rate it would be my choice if I were the patient.

On written request—a clipping will not suffice—any reader who provides stamped self-addressed envelope may have a copy of the pamphlet It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles, and I mean s-t-u-p-i-d.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Sleep As You Like

My husband read about a year ago that sleeping on the heart side is detrimental. Ever since his sleep has been so disturbed—he often awakes to find himself worrying about it. (Mrs. L. A. C.)

Answer—Did he read it in Old Doctor Bunkem's Almanac? Makes no difference what position one prefers—only health rule is sleep as you like. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask in writing, without clipping, for pamphlet How to Sleep Well.

Pimples and Blackheads

Please advise me on pimples and blackheads—are they caused by smoking cigarettes? I am sixteen and have had...(K. B.)

Answer—Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet Acne—Pimples and Blackheads. Sixteen with a ten-year-old's I.Q.—that's why you try to cover your inferiority by smoking cigarettes.

Save Your Teeth

Mother has excellent teeth, Father has worn false teeth since he was nineteen. Will children have poor teeth? (B. R.)

Answer—It depends on the nutrition (everyday diet) of the mother before the children are born and the nutrition of the children in infancy and childhood. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet Save Your Teeth.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A PLAN BY WEEKS

Henry D. Thoreau called his first book "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers." It is amazing how much information and interesting material can be crowded into a single week. The outstanding experience of a lifetime has often been concentrated into no more days than those contained in this period of seven days!

What better idea than to plan out each day as a unit to a full week? Then that Saturday night could be a genuine one for celebration over the progress made, for that's what each week should be—a milestone in advancement and happiness. Definite things achieved—books finished that you long intended to read, letters to friends long neglected, unpleasant tasks done after long dodging and any number of things that can be accomplished simply by having a weekly plan —and working it out.

Life takes on satisfaction and excitement when we can look back on each week and know that we have gone ahead, done something, finished something, and taken many forward steps in the path of progress. So often the weeks fly seemingly as rapidly as the single days, but if they have been harnessed to a definite plan, there is something to give one personal pride at the end of that week.

We plan plenty, and long in advance, for those few brief brief weeks of vacation time. We want to make the most of each day that makes up each week. If we did the same throughout the year with every week we would be more satisfied with our selves, gaining greater initiative, enthusiasm for our work and we would be better and more inviting human beings.

A plan by weeks—there are only 52 in the entire year—and the years go so swiftly by! Our weeks could be made so much more thrilling if we co-operated more with those about us, at home, in the office, or in public enterprises, where the happiness of others may be involved. We can plan to be kinder, more tolerant, and more generous in our judgments. Give the plan a trial—and be surprised with the results!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE UNDERLYING PRINCIPLE

Many a person sailing through life with a song on his lips and his head held high, would do well if he would stop for a moment and ponder his spiritual inadequacy. On the other hand, there are people—and many of them sincerely trying to do their best—who are constantly afflicted with a sense of their own unworthiness.

The gospel message strikes these two groups. It maintains in no uncertain terms that every man is a sinner, and being a sinner is in danger of condemnation and judgment. But it also makes very clear that there is no one on earth who needs to be hopeless about his sin. The charter of Christianity is that there is no sinner too bad for Jesus Christ to save. Those who worry about their sins should remember this. The Bible is a book of promises, and God's expectation is that we will accept those promises at their face value and act upon them. The greatest of all promises is the promise of forgiveness. It is our greatest need and it is also God's greatest gift.

This then is the principle: none too good that they can do without Christ; none so bad that He cannot save them.

Traffic Case Dismissed, 'Stop' Sign Not According To Regulations Says Defence

Trenton—(Special)—A charge of failing to obey a stop sign against Richard Groves, 23, of Madoc was dismissed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton Police Court yesterday, after Groves' lawyer had dropped a verbal bombshell into the court's lap by pointing to a section of the Highway Traffic Act which proved that th "stop' sign did not conform with the regulations.

On July 7, Mr. Groves collided with a car driven by Charles G. Patrick of Trenton at the intersection of Dufferin Avenue and King Street. Mr. Groves admitted to police at the time that he had failed to stop but stated that he had not seen the stop sign because it was obscured by a parked truck.

Mr. Groves pleaded not guilty to the charge yesterday and stood by his statements at the scene of the accident. Then, his counsel W. J. Arthur Fair of Peterborough played his trump card.

Pointing to a section of the Highway Traffic Act, Mr. Fair said, "I see no reason for proceeding with this case, the sign does not conform with the regulations."

The Act states that 'stop' signs must be at least six and not more than 8 feet above the road level and visible for a distance of 200 feet.

Mr. Fair said he had measured the signs at the corner of King and Dufferin and several others and found that they were "only five feet high in every instance."

After examining the section of the act and the photographs which the crown had introduced as evidence, Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan said he was prepared to concede the point as it was evident from the perspective of the photo that the signs would not satisfy the regulations. "This simply means that the town engineer has to get busy and make the signs conform with the regulations," said Mr. Donnan. "It is not Chief Taylor's fault."

Dairy Truck Strikes Car, Turns it Over

Trenton — Both vehicles were damaged considerably but there were no injuries when a dairy truck struck a car that was backing out of a driveway and turned it over yesterday afternoon.

The truck driven by Walter A. Spry, R. R. 2 Carrying place, was travelling south on Dufferin Avenue and collided with a car operated by Zara Bristol, 48 Quinte Street, which was backing onto Dufferin from the Crosse and Blackwell plant driveway.

Mr. Spry told police that he saw the car backing out and sounded his horn but the driver of the car apparently did not hear the horn and continued backing into the street. Unable to stop in time to avoid the collision, Mr. Spry turned off the side of the road but the corner of the truck box struck the car.

Accused Held After Pleading Guilty to Charge

Trenton — (Special) — After pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering with intent to steal, Bernard Perrault, 36 of no fixed address was remanded for sentence until Thursday morning in Belleville by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton Police Court Tuesday afternoon.

Perrault was apprehended by Constable Bruce Westfall and Ivan Jensen who were patrolling early in the morning of July 25. When he was taken into custody by the two constables, Perrault had just broken into Hartman's Grocery and was trying to pry the cash register open.

Police Chief Jack Taylor who gave a summary of the evidence testified that Perrault had a bottle of rye three quarters full in his hip pocket when he was arrested. Magistrate Wills sentenced Perrault to ten days in jail on a second charge of having liquor in an illegal place.

For the last ten years, Perrault has spent most of his time in jail, according to his lengthy record which Crown Attorney A. T. Donovan read to the court. The list of convictions include several charges of theft, breaking and entering and offences against the railway act.

R. Gregory Butler To Practise Law In Trenton

R. Gregory Butler, who graduated from Osgoode Hall Law School, and was called to the Bar of Ontario on June 29 of this year, has announced the opening of his office for the practice of law, in the town of Trenton.

Born in Belleville, Mr. Butler is the son of the late E. J. Butler, K.C., former senior magistrate of district number nine, and Mrs. E. J. Butler. Upon graduation from St. Michael's Academy and High School, Greg attended the University of Toronto and obtained his Bachelor of Arts Degree. During the war years, he served in the army and spent some 3 years overseas; he was attached to the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, and was chosen to attend the Royal Military College at Aldershot England, where he was commissioned an infantry officer. After being discharged from the army, Greg served under articles with his brother E. Ormonde Butler, a practicing solicitor in this city, and while attending Osgoode Hall Law School he was associated with the law firm of Caudwell, Symmes and Smith in the City of Toronto.

Mr. Butler's office will be opened on Sept. 1, and is located at 23 Front Street in Trenton; he will continue to reside at 279 William Street in Belleville.

Factory Owner Replies to Story Of Smoke By-Law

Trenton—(Special)—"It should be taken into consideration that all factories in Trenton use soft coal and one or two have no smoke stacks at all. One of them is located one block from the Kaye factory which only has about one or two feet of smoke-stack protruding above their roof."

These remarks were made by Mr. Harry Kaye, owner of H. Kaye and Co. Tuesday afternoon in a prepared statement to the Ontario Intelligencer in reply to a story which appeared in this paper last Friday. Several complaints have been heard recently about smoke from Trenton industries and the story in question named H. Kaye and Co. as one of the factories that was giving rise to the complaints.

"If the 35-year-old smoke bylaw is still in force, it should be applied equally to all the plants, numbering about 10 in this town, including some buildings and private homes as well as the Post Office, who also use soft coal for heating purposes, instead of singling out one clothing factory which has been located in Trenton for 31 years," stated Mr. Kaye.

The statement goes on to ask "Has the town office including Mayor Couch forgotten that the Kaye factory chimney has already been heightened several years ago to the town's specifications? H. Kaye and Co. does not see any justification for resurrecting an ancient complaint made by Mr. Flindall, previous owner of the house next door to the Kaye factory."

The story referred to in Mr. Kaye's statement was not concerned with any previous complaint but was referring to complaints that were made only last week.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

HOW IT STRUCK

North Bay, Ont. — This is a piece on how the nation's crippling strike came to North Bay, a town which owes its red corpuscles to the railways. It makes anything but a dramatic story.

If the strike came at all this morning it came, to paraphrase T. S. Eliot, with a whimper and not with a bang. At the Canadian National Telegraph offices last night I was advised to file my copy before midnight. At this time, six hours before the strike deadline, it looked as if all 2000 of North Bay's railway workers were planning on tucking their lunch buckets under their arms and going to work as usual in the morning.

If you were a betting man you could get any number of wagers that the railways would be running as alway today. The attitude of almost everybody here was that the frantic last-minute negotiations in Montreal were just part of a complicated game of bargaining that would come out all right in the end.

North Bay's radio station alone continued to make alarming noises. In the early evening a broadcast went out for all affected union men to assemble at 6 a.m. this morning in St. John's Parish Hall for roll-call, assignment to picket lines and any other duties required. The railwaymen smiled and shrugged.

An hour later a regular program was interrupted by a bulletin that a long conference in Montreal had ended without a settlement. The railwaymen smiled knowingly at each other. A group I talked to in a tavern accepted my report that the 11 o'clock news made it seem certain that the strike was on.

A brakeman I'd met earlier in the day took a sip of his ale and said: "I'm still convinced they'll get together. Nobody wants a strike. Couldn't last more than a week without the government stepping in. Oh, they'll get together all right. Mark my words."

No Bitterness

The others nodded agreement. I found nothing of a militant spirit or any bitterness against the operators, only a feeling that some cold-blooded business was being transacted in Montreal hotel rooms and that compromise was obvious. Some indication that this is not merely the view of the workers involved, but of the general public, came from Trans-Canada Air Lines office here.

There has been no rush to order freight space or book seats, as TCA officials expected, and George Fox, the airline manager said: "They seem to be leaving everything to the last minute."

There was little evidence in North Bay last night that anything out of the ordinary was anticipated. When I went to the parish hall around 10 o'clock to see if any union men were on hand I found it deserted. The executive offices in the railway depots were blacked out. A lonely baggage man at the station of the Ontario Northland Railway said: "Nope, nobody around. Everybody home listening to the radio to hear about the settlement."

By this time, of course, it will be known if this quiet optimism was justified. You can be sure that if North Bay is tied up in a strike this morning with the rest of the country it came as a shock and disillusionment in these parts in spite of the days and weeks of stalemate.

One of the strangest railways in the country, as colorful, erratic and esteemed as B.C.'s Pacific Great Eastern, is on the casualty list. This is the CNR's "Polar Bear" which runs 200 miles through the northern Ontario muskeg to the tidal water of James Bay. The little train makes its way north bi-weekly on a schedule that like the PGE refuses to take itself seriously.

Soon Desperate

The head office says with a chuckle that it leaves Cochrane, about 150 miles north of here, at 10:15 a.m. and arrives at Moosonee at 5:45 p.m., but one of its conductors ha. put it more accurately: "I don't know, don't worry, it doesn't matter."

The train goes through places with such appealing names as Burntwood, Sexant, Coral Rapids and Onakawana, but will stop wherever you ask. Indians of the Cree tribes, its biggest customers, frequently get off and walk directly into the bush.

Until now, all this has seemed something of a private joke, but today there's a new realization that a long corridor to the north has come to rely on the "Polar Bear" and "The Northland" which operates out of Toronto. One authority estimated Monday that more than 25,000 persons in communities across the north of Ontario would feel the pinch of food, fuel and gasoline and that the pinch could grow into a desperate grip if the strike were prolonged.

Here in North Bay if you care to risk a wind and rainstorm and walk down by the railway tracks last night you'd see the yard filling with locomotives, coaches and boxcars. The last of the trains north was scheduled to leave early this morning and would end up at Timmins, by arrangement with the unions, four hours after the deadine.

CPR's Trans-Continental No. 1 from Montrea' was due to arrive at 8:55 this morning. It would get no farther.

Everything was ready for an historic strike and to be seen in this one point as it was from coast to coast. But nobody apparently was ready to believe it.

PICTON

Mountain View Enters Finals With Wellington

Picton—Defeating last year's champions, Picton Army, by a score of 5-4, Monday night, Mountain View earned the right to enter the finals of Picton and District Softball League with Wellington. First game will be played Wednesday night and the second on Friday night. The series is three games out-of-five.

Monday night's game was a sudden death affair, each team having won one game. Though Ernie Smyth starred on the mound for the losers, with eleven strike-outs, he was accorded weak support at times. He was touched for 11 hits. Dave Rowe started for Mt. View, he retired in the middle of the seventh after giving up 10 hits, and fanning two. Doug. Minaker replaced him and pulled the team out of a difficult spot. He gave up two hits and fanned two at crucial points. This pair makes a nice pitching battery.

Fans have seen something different this year, with two rural teams replacing Picton Imperials and Army, who usually made the finals. Army led at the end of the regular schedule, but the rural teams put on real displays in the playoffs. Fans had plenty of thrills.

WEDDINGS

REYNOLDS—HELSTERN

St. Paul's United Church, Harrowsmith, beautifully decorated with large baskets of white gladioli and white asters banked by ferns, was the setting for the marriage of Nancy Eileen, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Helstern, to Orval Roy, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Reynolds, Belleville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Bunt, on Saturday, August 12, at 3 p.m.

Miss Shirley Reynolds, sister of the groom, played traditional wedding music as the bridal party entered and left the church and during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. G. E. Campsall, wore a lovely floor-length, two-piece gown of white embroidered nylon, designed with fitted bodice buttoned to the waistline, Peter Pan collar, and circular ruffles at waist and sleeves. The full, shirred skirt was of nylon marquisette. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a Juliet cap, and she carried white carnations and stephanotis, tied with mist blue tulle and long white satin ribbon.

The bridesmaid, Miss Vivien Campsall, wore a floor-length gown of mauve sheer with full shirred skirt and fitted bodice, scalloped at waistline and deep scalloped yoke, with matching tulle halo trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of mauve and white sweetpeas in a frill of yellow tulle with long mauve and yellow ribbon.

Little Miss Arlene Colgrave, niece of the bride, was a dainty flower girl, wearing a long, frilled dress of yellow nylon sheer, and carrying a white basket of mixed flowers with green and pink ribbons.

The best man was Mr. Charles Staples, of Belleville, and the ushers, Dr. Robert Campsall, of Kingston, and Mr. Roy Carscadden, of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Asselstine Tourist Home, Verona. The bridal table was centred with a wedding cake, surrounded by white tulle with tiny pink rosebuds and tall white tapers in crystal holders.

A special table was laid for the parents, grandparents, and the officiating clergyman and his wife. Other guests were served at quartet tables arranged in the large prettily decorated dining-hall. Toasts proposed by Rev. Mr. Bunt were responded to by the groom, and the groomsman, Mr. C. Staples, Anglican student minister stationed at Roslin.

The bride presented her bouquet to the bridegroom's mother.

The honeymoon will be spent in a pleasure boat cruise of the Great Lakes. The bride chose for travelling, a navy and dawn pink sheer dress, navy hat, dawn pink shortie coat, and navy accessories.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will reside at 1032 King Street West, Hamilton. Both are on the teaching staff in that city.

Out-of-town guests were in attendance from Aurora, Stouffville, Toronto, Huntsville, Belleville, Ottawa, Kingston, Peterborough and Sydenham.

Princess Elizabeth Up and Around

London, Aug. 30—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth is up and around again, 15 days after the birth of her daughter, Princess Anne, her doctors reported today.

Doctors Sir William Gilliatt and Sir John Weir said in a bulletin: "The excellent progress of her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth and her daughter has been maintained and their condition is very satisfactory. Her Royal Highness has been getting up for the last few days. It is not inteded therefore to issue any further bulletins."

LATTA

Birthday Club Honors Mrs. A. Sheffield

Latta.—The Birthday Club of Plainfield gave a party for Mrs. Arthur Sheffield on Monday afternoon. There was a nice gathering of ladies and visitors, who arrived about two o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. E. Fairman and daughter, Barbara Joan, of Belleville, were present also Mr. and Mrs. Archie of St. Catharines.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Ed. Pope by community singing with Mrs. N. Wilder at the piano. Afterwards Mr. Arthur Sheffield sang a few pieces with Mrs. Wilder as accompanist. Then Mr. Sheffield, to his own accompaniment, sang a few songs, which all enjoyed. Mrs. Larter gave two readings and also played and sang a hymn.

Mrs. E. Pope held a quiz. All sang "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Sheffield, after which she opened the presents and read the birthday cards.

Delicious refreshments were served by her daughter and granddaughter ,(Mrs. Fairman and Barbara Joan).

Mrs. Fairman made her mother's birthday cake and Miss Annie Hamilton also sent her a birthday cake, which was given to her on Sunday by her school mate and friend from Oshawa, Mrs. Fred Spencer, who was born in Plainfield.

All in all it was a pleasant afternoon.

91 Applications Made to Adopt Deodorized Skunk

Paterson, N.J., Aug. 30—(AP)—Never underestimate the popularity of a skunk!

Joseph Martin, agent for the Passaic County Animal Welfare League, received some publicity in a local newspaper yesterday about a baby skunk he wants to give away.

His phone started jingling at 6:15 a.m. and he has had 91 requests already from people as far away as New York state who want to adopt the deodorized orphan.

The baby skunk is one of a litter of five Martin found nestled under a house. He had no trouble getting homes for the other four either.

STIRLING

Bride, Bridegroom Honored By Many Gifts

Stirling.—Last Monday evening, the spacious home and porches of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Bush, Stirling, were comfortably seated with about 100 relatives and friends from River Valley district and close neighbors in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Couch (nee Marjorie Bush) were given seats of honor and Mr. Richard Chard was master of ceremonies, and in between numbers, Dick told several humorous stories.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. George Heasman as leader and Miss Eleanor Bush, as pianist.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed three readings, "The Culprit", "Bessie Brown", and "What the Groom Wore".

The Heasman sisters sang 'Apple Pie" with their mother as accompanist.

Mrs. Jack Bush read "Repairs Like You Get for Your Flivver", and Mrs. Ross Bush read "Build a Little Home".

Impromptu addresses were given by Messrs. John Kane, George Heasman, J. L. Donohoe, James McDonnell and Alex. Bush, wishing the newlyweds every happiness on their matrimonial voyage.

Mrs. Stanley Irven read an address of appreciation to Marjorie and Harvey and they were presented with a large array of wrapped parcels.

Mrs. Don Donohoe read an address to Marjorie on behalf of River Valley Women's Institute, thanking her for her work in connection with that organization. Mrs. J. L. Donohoe presented Marjorie with a decorative set of book ends.

The honored couple unwrapped the gifts which were both useful and ornamental, showing the high esteem in which the bride was held in the Valley community.

Harvey and Marjorie thanked one and all for the program and gifts and invited everyone to visit them in their new home.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

MERCY TRAIN LOAD

Elizabeth's New Baby Seems Bound to Become Cover Girl

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth's new baby seems bound to become a cover girl before she can walk.

From the date of her first picture — expected about one month after her birth — she is assured of world renown. Right from the start, everything she wears, does and says will be copied and recorded.

British newspapers already forecast she will become "the most photographed girl in the world."

Before she can count, the value of her jewelry will run into many figures. Her great-grandmother Queen Mary, is said to be laying aside part of her magnificent collection as a christening present.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are expected to follow Royal custom and buy their daughter a jewelled brooch. The happy couple may also follow an old-time custom and start a string of pearls to which a further stone will be added each birthday.

Although the young Princess will undoubtedly receive many expensive jewels, her first gift is a simple strand of coral beads. It comes from her mother who wore it herself as a baby.

In this gift, Princess Elizabeth shows the key-note of her children's upbringing, simplicity. It is her first intention to follow as far as possible, the wise freedom of her own childhood.

Model Queen Hall Reads Good Books But Shape Counts

By GLORIA YARBROUGH

Hollywood—(AP) — Pat Hall, probably California's most photographed model, has made herself famous with skimpy French swimsuits and one of the most enviable bodies in Hollywood.

A brown-haired green-eyed gal, Pat has a nice but average face. She's of medium height, 5 feet 5 inches, weighs an ordinary 115. But it's the way those pounds are distributed that makes Pat distinctive.

The brief garb in which Pat poses artfully shows off her perfect proportions. The measurements? Bust 35 inches, hips 35 inches and waist 24 inches.

Pat's shapely legs have been voted the world's most beautiful by several photographers' associations (all male, of course) and even her feet have been titled. She has decorated thousands of calendars, millions of blotters and advertisements and scores of magazine covers.

Just a little over two years ago, Pat could hardly get a job. They said she was too fat. Models were supposed to be lean and long. The first assignment handed Pat was modeling maternity wear.

But Pat is shrewd and she was determined to be a model. When a photographer asker her to pose in a swim suit, she brought along one of her own abreviated suits. After that Pat was in constant demand. Now she has 150 suits as her working wardrobe.

Pat has no false modesty about posing in such brief wear. She is convinced that the French suit will some day be standard beach wear.

"I think the French suit is more healthful," she said. "Those girdle-type suits hold a girl's figure in and give her a nice line, but she isn't using her own muscles. In the French suit she has to rely on herself. Besides, she can get more sun."

Pat, who was born in Aberdeen, Wash., and admits to 23 years, has also established herself as a swim suit designer. She would like to become a movie actres but so far has played only extra parts.

Pat makes considerably more money than the average secretary. She lives alone in a modest one-room apartment. She shares a kitchen and bath with a couple of other working girls. They take turns scrubbing. She does her own cooking, cleaning and sewing.

Her figure just happened. She doesn't diet, even indulges in sweets. She almost always has a box of cookies beside her bed for a quick snack. Her exercise is walking.

Pat plays the piano, dances and sings. She read a great deal, most inspirational books. Pressed, she'll even quote from them. Her favorite maxim: "Other's cannot hurt you. Only you have the power to let them."

GIVEN PRISON TERMS

Prague, Aug. 30—(Reuters) — Seven persons found guilty of "sabotaging Czechoslovakia's five-year building plan" have been sentenced to prison terms ranging from 10 months to 6 1-2 years by a state court in northern Bohemia, it was learned today. The two main defendants were an architect and a building engineer, charged with building private houses with material alloted for the construction of miners' apartments.

PROGRESS WILL BE SLOW

Singapore, Aug. 30—(AP) — Britain's Lt. Gen. Sir Harold R. Briggs, directing operations against communist-led rebels in Malaya, said yesterday the campaign to end terrorism in this country is encouraging, but will be slow. Sir Harold reported at a press conference that in the period from July 15 to Aug. 25 the security forces under his command had killed or captured 92 terrorists and arrested 87 communist agents.

After all is said and done, how does it taste in the cup? That is what counts!

Women's Ward Feeds Panhandling 'Male'

Llandudno, Wales—(Reuters)—The women's ward at Llandudno General Hospital has reconciled itself to maintaining permanently a male out-patient — Charlie, a lame seagull.

Admittedly, Charlie is a good patient. In fact, the only things he is concerned with are regular meal hours.

At 5:30 a.m. when early-morning tea is served to all the women patients Charlie appears at the first window of the ward— just behind the bed where the first tray is regularly set down.

He announces his presence with a sharp tap on the window with his beak, and as cups of tea and biscuits are handed out at bed after bed, Charlie repeats his performance at each window in turn and gets his share of the biscuits.

Promptly at 7 p.m. he calls again, on the dot, for supper time and a share of the cake.

Los Angeles, Aug. 30 — (AP) — The United Nations may proceed. Los Angeles is going to fly the U. N. flag after all. The county's Board of Supervisors yesterday reversed its previous decision not to fly the emblem, reached after a citizen objected that Russia is a member of the United Nations.

RESORT HOTELS DAMAGED

Lytham St. Annes, England, Aug. 30—(Reuters)—Floods caused by heavy rains and high tides damaged 23 resort hotels here yesterday. Water rose to four feet in some hotels, and expensive furnishings were afloat in several hotel lobbies. One well-stocked wine cellar was flooded out. There were no casualties.

WILL EXPORT PEPPER

Pondicherry, French India, Aug. 30.—(Reuters)—French India is to export pepper again to the pepper-starved world, it was learned today. Exports will begin immediately as a result of a pepper glut on the local market. The French India government stopped exports in 1943. There is a world-wide shortage of both black and white pepper.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The man she lives "isn't ready to settle down"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a fellow for a year, and we have been talking of marriage. He says he loves me a great deal, but that he isn't ready to settle down yet. He supported his mother until her recent death, and he says he wants a chance to be free of responsibility for awhile. He also says that I am free to go out with other fellows, because it wouldn't be fair to tie me down.

Should I continue to see him on these terms, or break up definitely? Do you think it would be wise for me to wait for him? We still see each other just as though we were going steady. The only difference is that we can go out with someone else once in awhile. I love him too much to go out with others, and I have no doubt of his love for me, but I am very puzzled as to how a fellow in love can act this way.

P.

Dear P.:

If you are a smart girl, you will agree with this young man's proposal, and act on it by accepting dates now and then with other men. You would gain nothing at all by trying to talk him out of the idea, because if he really wants his freedom for awhile, and he certainly seems to, it will only antagonize him if you argue with him about it. In such a case, there would be no doubt that you would lose him eventually anyhow.

It isn't at all surprising that he should want a little time to be free after having been tied down by home responsibilities for so long. Your best chance by far, of holding on to him, is to go along with him in the matter agree with him without any hard feelings, and await developments.

Asks help for an extremely shy brother

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My brother is 28 years old, and very shy. When he meets girls on the street he turns away as if frightened. One of the reasons he does this is because he was not accepted for service in the last war, and he feels self-conscious about it. Also, he hasn't as much education as most people.

Can you tell me any way in which I can help my brother?

U. H.

Dear U. H.:

If your brother, at 28, is as painfully shy and self-conscious as you say, the thing that would help him most would be to have a talk or two with someone who specializes in helping people solve problems of this kind. Do you think your brother would be willing to do this, and could he afford to pay for this type of consultation?

Of course, if your brother could once realize that people are far more interested in themselves than they are in others, and hence not looking at him or thinking about him as much as he believes they are, he might be able to forget himself a little more. If, with this in mind, he could even start his own training by forcing himself to say "hello" to acquaintances he meets on the street, instead of trying to avoid them, it would be a useful first step.

Let me know if he would like to talk over his difficulty with some sympathetic person, and I will be glad to make a further suggestion.

Fashion Flashes

MATCHING UP a face veil to luminous eye shadow is the hit of a new hat collection. A head-hugging hat of navy velvet, appliqued all over in silk braid, has a swirl of veiling that matches brilliant blue eye shadow.

WHAT A SEASON for lovely housewear this has been! . A beauty of a housecoat is of white cotton printed in a Paisley-type design in gold, brown and black. It has a double collar, big-cuffed sleeves and a gold kid belt.

TWO-FACED is the word for many fabrics for next season, especially those used for coats, thus allowing for reversible designs. A delightful fabric is purple and lilac tweed on one side, and a shade between the two on the other, in a rich tweed weave. The coats are cut on slim, wrappy lines with big turn-back cuffs.

PICK AN ORANGE touch of color for early Fall accessory accents. A neat duo combines a box bag of bright orange velvet and a flare-cuffed glove to match. The glove is hand sewn, and the bag has a velvet covered frame.

GETTING TIRED of the sleeveless dress, when in the city? Well, one idea is to invest in a big white pique collar that just covers the upper arm and gives a different look to a simple cotton or silk number.

LUCKY LITTLE GIRLS are those whose mothers shop at one famous store whose designer has come up with a lovely doll whose wardrobe is keyed to that of its young owner, Little girl wears a grey flannel suit with a pleated skirt—the jacket collar, pocket flaps and wide lapels overlaid with black velvet. The doll's suit is in black and white rayon houndstooth check and both have a blouse of yellow and gray striped cotton with rickrack trim.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 35¢ at any drugstore.

Apply Make-up in Right Light

If make-up is to be worn during the day apply it by daylig rather than by electric light, if possible. . This way, you'll obtain a natural effect.

By HELEN FOLLETT

MAKE-UP should be applied in the lighting in which it is to be worn. During the day, take your magnifying mirror to a window and play with the items in the beauty box. Observe the final effect in a full flood of bright daylight. If you do your complexion decorating under artificial light you may use much too much; and the eyes of the passing public may bespeak disapproval.

Have Make-up Natural

Make-up worn during the day must be natural in effect. The period of the stop-light blush and bright cherry lips has waned. It can be a little more pronounced more exotic at night but, even then, it must be applied with a certain amount of restraint. The clothes one wears must be taken into consideration. If you are flaunting lovely draperies of pastel tones you will be guilty of a beautiy error if rouge and lipstick are of a brilliant hue. Tone them down, so the effect with delicate colors will be delicate and dainty.

A dark-haired, dark-eyed lovely, wearing black, can get away with cosmetic batik. If she has a creamy skin she can use a powder slightly darker, touch her cheeks with crimson, her lips to match. If she has a yen for eye shadows she must omit the factory blushes. The feminine face can stand just so much coloring and no more.

Subtle Improvement

Make-up is intended to improve, ever so subtly and delicately, your natural effect, not to give your face an entirely differnet color scheme. It is a good thing to remember that almost all skins, except in rare instances, have a slight golden cast. Therefore rouge and lip stick of reds with a slight orange cast are likely to prove more glamorizing than those of a purple tone.

The shops have many new offerings in the way of make-up items. Take a look-see. You will find them intriguing.

MARIO in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

Water is still the most popular vegetable.

A recent analysis of buying habits made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that the big hit of the vegetable parade is lettuce. Three-fourths of the families interviewed bought lettuce (which is 95 per cent water) at least once a week.

Of course lettuce is more than just water. It is a rich source of Vitamin A and minerals. The same could be said of the runner-up in the survey—onions, which two-thirds of the households bought weekly.

Plain salad greens unadorned have too close an affinity to grass to make an exciting dish. They should be served as often as possible with cold seafood, fish, meat or vegetables. You can give substances to your salads in this manner without taking too much of a bite out of your budget.

In today's recipe the salad dressing is a combination of condensed milk with lemon juice and vinegar. When an acid such as vinegar is added to condensed milk, the latter becomes thick. Only salt and spices have to be added for a smooth salad dressing.

Mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing may be substituted, if desired.

Tunafish and Cauliflower Salad. Serves 4.

Remove leaves from 1 small head of cauliflower. Place in a saucepan with 1-2 inch of water and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Cover with a tight lid and simmer slowly until barely tender 12-15 minutes, depending on size of cauliflower. Check water in saucepan occasionally to make sure it has not evaporated, or cauliflower will be charred.

Add an 8 ounce can of tunafish. If whole meat tunafish is used, break into small flakes.

Mix 1-2 can condensed milk with 2 tablespoons vinegar and 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated onion, I teaspoon prepared horseradish, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon white pepper.

Add dressing to the salad bowl. Mix lightly until ingredients are well coated with dressing.

On serving plates place a bed of mixed salad greens allowing about 1 cup per person. Place tunafish mixture on greens. Surround with wedges of fresh tomatoes.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope for his reply. —Ed.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Manners Memo

When anyone apologizes to you, be sure you accept the apology, no matter how casual or comparatively unimportant it is, in an agreeable way. Don't just continue on your way, completely disregarding the person and the apology. Or don't glare menacingly at the unfortunate person who has, for example, unwittingly stepped on your foot in a crowded bus, and who is trying politely to apologize.

Cards or notes to announce an adoption

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In the next month or so we expect to have our adopted child. We would like to know the proper way to announce this adoption to our friends.

M. N.

The announcement cards may carry these joyous words:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Newcomb are happy to announce the adoption of Peter aged five months

(Or the second line may read: "happily announce".

These announcements may be either engraved or hand-written on rather large plain white cards.

Or, more personally, notes may be written, worded somewhat like this:

Dear Emily:

Arthur and I have wonderful news to tell you and Bill . . . we have adopted a baby, a fine sturdy boy whom we have named Peter. We're so happy that he has arrived in our home and hearts, and we pray to make him always as happy and proud as he has made us. We hope that you two dear friends of our can come to "meet" this dear new member of our family.

Dearest love to you both from Us Three.

Devotedly,

Or you may wish to write notes to close relatives and intimate friends, and send announcement cards to others. (And by the way, be sure not to send out the announcement cards and notes during the proceedings . . . only after the child has been legally adopted.)

Which to be given more honor. . maid of honor or matron of honor?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter would like to have both maid of honor and matron of honor. Her dearest friend is to be maid of honor, and her cousin, matron of honor. Which one should follow the bridesmaids, and which should carry the bridegroom's ring?

Mother

The maid of honor and the matron of honor may be dressed alike and walk together following the bridesmaids and preceding the bride and her father. Or they may walk separately, either dressed alike, or in dresses of like design but of different colors. In this case, the one whom your daughter wishes to give greater honor, the one who is to be the actual witness should walk directly before the bride and her father. Then she would be the one to keep the bridegroom's ring in her care (or the best man have both rings in his care), and also to take the responsibility of holding the bride's bouquet and of adjusting the bride's veil.

Invitations to members of wedding party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should we send formal wedding invitations to those who are to be members of the wedding party?

Bride-to-be

Yes.

BEAUTY

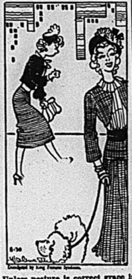
Keeping in tip-top figure form

Blessed with normal weight, good proportions and splendid carriage, a girl has no dress problems. She can slip into a $4.99 house frock and look chic. Perfection of form is not the lot of the average woman, and it is largely her own fault. Many defects can be overcome by dietary regulations and a certain amount of daily exercise. The common alibi is "No time". But time means little or nothing when it comes to the care of the complexion, the hair, the finger nails; and a beautiful body is a greater asset than any of these.

The ideal silhouette shows a neat waistline, a high chest, firm breast, hips the same measurement as that of the bust, flatness south of the belt. Today's fashions are figure revealing. To appear smart, dry goods must be carried beautifully.

Appearance has a psychological effect, influence one's state of mind. The heavyweight is conscious of her excess tonnage, looks with envy upon the slender sisters. Skinnies despair of their sharp elbows, hate collar bones that look like little shelves, long for lower hem lines to hide their spindly shanks. It is no haphazard guess that normal lines make a woman happier. They also make her healthier. Plump women use up energy carrying their adipose burdens, thin ones are usually suffering from malnutrition.

Daily habits have an influence in molding the lines of the body. If you have little sleep you will be likely to lose weight; get more than you need and you will be too curvaceous. A diet that has too much fat, starches and sweets will fatten you; one in which these elements are cut down to the limit will not only keep one thin, but will reduce energy.



Unless posture is correct grace is impossible.

The athletic girl will keep her masculature in splendid condition and her silhouette will be pleasing. The office worker who sits at a typewriter or desk all day will develop a middle-age spread Exercise keeps a woman young in appearance.

Your thoughts affect appearance. If you worry, indulge in emotional sprees, have fits of anger, your digestive motors will not function properly. Your countenance will reflect your thoughts frowns will appear, marks of age will come before their time.

The manner in which you carry yourself can make or ruin your figure. The spinal column must be extended if the muscles are to remain strong and resilient. A woman of fifty who walks and moves beautifully will have a younger looking shape than a girl of eighteen who indulges in slouchy poses, assumes ugly lines. Unless posture is correct, grace is impossible, the step heavy, and wearing apparel will have no style appeal.

8,100 MEN IN BRIGADE

Ottawa, Aug. 29 (CP) — The army said today that its special brigade, which may see action in Korea, now has a strength of 8,100 men.

Originally the target was for between 4,000 and 5,000 men but the army decided to keep on recruiting, particularly of men in the trades and specialists classes.

This type of recruiting still is going on.

News Dispatches Concerning Lovers Banned in Greece

Athens, Greece, Aug. 30—(AP)—The government today banned publication of news dispatches concerning the stormy Romeo-and-Juliet love drama on the Island of Crete, where a blood feud over the affair threatens to burst into civil war.

Newspapers which publish dispatches about the abduction of the 19-year-old Juliet of the Cretan story can be fined up to 10,000,000 drachma, (about $725) the public prosecutor announced here. The ruling holds until the government's investigation is completed.

The government announced that, contrary to some reports published abroad, semi-martial law had not been declared on the island as a precaution to a revival of a bloody family feud.

Outbreaks were feared after 19-year-old Stassoula Petrakogiorghis, daughter of a Liberal member in Greece's parliament, was kidnapped and taken to a mountain hideout by her sweetheart, Constantine Kephaloyannis. Constantine's brother is a Populist member of parliament. Political rivalries have sharpened the bad blood which has existed between the two families for generations.

In an attempt to prevent seething passions from erupting into conflict, Premier Sophocless Venizelos yesterday suspended sections of the constitution covering personal liberties, assembly, and search on Crete.

There was no confirmation of another report published abroad that Constantine and Stassoula had been married in their hideaway cave on ancient Mount Ida.

PREDICTS REDS WILL ATTACK FORMOSA WITHIN THREE WEEKS

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's ambassador to the U.S., is seen as he told newsmen that military experts of the Chinese Nationalist government are convinced that the Chinese communists must launch their attack on Formosa within three weeks or wait several months for better weather conditions. The envoy who has just returned to Washington, D.C., from a three week trip to Formosa was warm in praise of General MacArthur's recent trip to Formosa, saying it had a tremendous influence on morale which some described as "as good as 10 divisions." — Central Press Canadian.

Himalaya Mts. Growing Higher, Earth Crust Moves

New Delhi, India, Aug. 30—(AP)— The Himalaya mountains are growing higher, says the Indian government's geological expert, Dr. M. S. Kirshnan.

He reported today that Mount Everest, highest peak in the world, now is 29,200 feet high—200 feet higher than it was reported to be during the last 100 years.

Kirshnan said the rise was due to the movement of the earth's crust.

The geologist discounted reports volcanic activity in the Himalayas accompanied the violent earthquake two weeks ago that killed 5,000 persons in Assam. He said northeast Assam would continue to feel aftershocks of the quake for months.

CHILD'S SULKY SPELLS WORRIED HER UNTIL . . .

If your child has moody, cross, irritable spells for what seems to be no reason, watch for "hidden" constipation. Oftentimes, youngsters' bowels, altho moving regularly, do not move completely. As a result, harmful wastes remain in the intestines, making the child listless, peevish and not feeling like eating. What may be needed is Children's Own Tablets. Fire Marshal Probing Cause Of $150,000 Fire

Crystal Beach, Ont., Aug. 30—(CP)—Investigation of the cause of Monday's $150,000 fire in a business block here started today.

Inspectors from the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office poked through the ruins of the Dalton Block and questioned witnesses about the early-morning blaze. Fire Chief George Pietz said the inquiry probably will last until late tomorrow.

The fire is believed to have spread from the Victoria Restaurant to other business premises in the building, the chief said. Five families were made homeless.

During the fire, which was watched by hundreds of residents of this Lake Erie summer resort town, a policeman was cut by flying glass and another overcome by smoke.

Michael Duminick, proprietor of the Victoria Restaurant, suffered a heart attack when he revisited the fire scene shortly after the blaze and found that his Saturday and Sunday receipts left in a counter drawer at the restaurant, had been destroyed.

Ask Tamblyn's

C.N.E. FREE FACIALS: "Is it true that Tamblyn's are giving free facials at the Exhibition for any woman who applies?"
Quite true. The Tamblyn cosmetic booth is in the Coliseum, West Annex, Upstairs and just at the head of the steps. All day, and every day, trained Tamblyn girls revive weary women with free facials. Drop in and try it yourself.
STUDENT TRANSFER: "My son is in third year high school and is having a terrible time getting along with his form teacher. Can we move him to another school within 10 blocks of us?"
Board of Education ruling is that a student must attend the school in his own locality. Why not have a talk with the principal of the school in which your son is now situated? Only under very special circumstances is a child allowed to transfer.
BLEACHED CELERY: "Our celery is almost ready for filling in so that the stalks will bleach. Here's the rub. My wife tells me bleached celery hasn't half the punch of the green stalks. Is this true?"
Your wife is right this time, sir. The green celery retains its vitamin content, the white celery loses a great deal of its food value. It's the same with cabbage.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Dick Fitzpatrick, who has done his ball playing this past season with the Picton Athletics (hiss) of the COBL, and Gord Donovan, long time left-fielder with Kiwanis junior ball teams in Belleville, spent a portion of last week in New York City watching the major league squads in action. They arrived Monday morning on the assumption that the Detroit-Yankee series was scheduled to start that day, but since Tuesday marked the opening of hostilities, they had to switch over to the Polo Grounds to see the Giants and the Phils instead.

* * *

What do they think of the pennant races after their quick peek at the leading contenders? "The Phillies are a cinch in the National League," says Dick. "They'll never beat the Phils. They are fast and have an airtight infield". In the American League it will be the Yanks, "because they have the pitchers", or the Tigers, "because they have the batters". Dick said. "I can't see Cleveland", he said without commenting further. "Boston seems to be too far back."

* * *

Elder Neilson, hard - hitting second baseman of the Belleville Cubs has been awarded the Belleville and District League's most valuable player award it was announced today. The Elder, who has sparked the team this year with his phenomenal power at the plate, was almost the unanimous choice of the coaches in the league. The trophy, donated by radio station CJBQ will be presented to the second - sacker prior to tonight's game at the Fair Grounds between the Cubs and Sixardee Repairmen.

* * *

This is the third year the trophy has been up for competition. Bernie Dunning, versatile all-star with Trenton Flyers first won the trophy. Dunning was an all-round performer, playing at first when he was not pitching. He also led the team at bat and was one of the most potent sluggers in the league. Last year, Earl Bush, currently performing at second base for the Batawa Shoemen of the COBL, won the award for his work with the Kiwanis Juniors.

* * *

The trophy, up for annual competition, is kept by the winner for the year following its presentation. A miniature trophy remains with the winner as his permanent possession.

* * *

Batawa Shoemen, rained out of their scheduled game with Smiths Falls Royals Monday and Tuesday evenings, are off for the Falls tonight to meet the Royals in the second game of their best-in-five semi-final series in the COBL playdowns. The Royals are due back here Friday evening for their postponed game, and if a fourth contest is necessary it will be under the lights here Saturday evening. A fifth game, if needed, will be played in the Falls the following Monday.

* * *

HERE AND THERE—

Alec MacGregor, secretary of the Ontario Football Association has announced that the Trenton Flyers of the Bay of Quinte Soccer League meet Camp Borden at the army base, Saturday, September 9th. in the first round of the Ontario Intermediate Soccer Championships. The army boys are back at the main station Saturday, September 16. Winners are decided on a total point basis . . . Blaker, Lane, Gemmel, Ellis (Belleville United); Whyte, Kendall, Silver (Trenton); Rimmer (6 RD); E. Helyer, Salisbury (Trenton Merchants); and Mueller, J. Tlamsa, Gill and Planovsky, (Batawa), have been invited to represent the Bay of Quinte League in an exhibition game against Toronto Celtics in Toronto on Labor Day . . . The Fall Tournament of the Ontario Golf Association will be held over the Peterborough Golf and Country Club course, Saturday, September 23 instead of Sept. 20th as previously planned . . . Northern Electric Ladies softball team play Provincial Tire of Kingston, in an exhibition game at Alemite Field, tonight, at 6:45. The Kingston ladies drubbed the locals rather badly in Kingston last Friday and the Electrics would like nothing better than to even the score this evening . . .

UNPOPULAR DECISION

Toronto, Aug. 30 —(CP) — Maxie Males of Toronto got up from the canvas to take an unpopular decision from Dave Turnbull of Hamilton in the five-round main event of an amateur boxing card here Tuesday night.

The two bantamweights mixed it freely and blood flowed from a cut on Turnbull's mouth in the late rounds.

The Kelly Brothers of Niagara Falls, Ont., both won in preliminary bouts, Brian stopping Sid Taylor of Barrie, Ont., in the first round of a scheduled five-rounder while John outpointed Jimmy Adams of Barrie in a three-rounder.

Argos Refuse To Release Doty To Ottawa Club

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Argonauts took the offensive Tuesday in an embryo player-war with Ottawa Rough Riders when they refused to release quarterback rival Fred Doty to their rival Interprovincial Union club.

In announcing the club's refusal, Argonaut president Bob Moran recalled that the Riders had refused to waive their rights to halfback Steve Karrys a few weeks ago when Karrys asked for his release in order to play in Toronto, where he had been shifted by his employers.

Doty, the tiny signal-caller who helped Argonauts to three Dominion championships in 1945, 1946 and 1947, couldn't make the club this season. Ottawa had sought him as a second-stringer behind Andy Gordon, a United States import who handled the team last year.

Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon and Stan Leonard of Vancouver shared the lead after 18 holes of play in the Saskatchewan Open golf tournament yesterday. Both checked in with one under par 70s.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League will open training Sept. 18 for their 25th season.

Thirty-nine players including all members of last year's team which came within one goal of winning the Stanley Cup, will report to Neil Colville, the club's new coach, at Saranac Lake, N.Y.

Colville, former Ranger defenceman and for two seasons coach of New Haven Ramblers of the American League, succeeds Lynn Patrick, who is taking over coaching duties of Boston Bruins.

Among newcomers seeking berths of the 1950-51 Ranger squad are rightwinger Ed Kullman of Winnipeg, former blueshirt who lately played for Providence in the American League; defenceman Norm Gustavsen of Timmins, Ont. formerly with Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League; Reg Sinclair of Montreal and Alex Kuzma of Saskatoon, both forwards up from amateur ranks.

St. Paul Saints of the United States League, a Ranger farm club, will join the Rangers at camp Sept. 25.

Germany and Japan will be permitted to come back into the Olympic Games fold in 1952 at Helsinki. The action favoring the two former axis powers was taken on unanimous vote of the six member executive committee of the International Olympic Committee at Lausanne, Switzerland.

Although the full committee must act on the recommendation at a meeting next May in Vienna it was generally believed the two nations would be finally accepted.

The Greentree Stable announced in New York Tuesday that Capot, the 1949 three-year-old champion and "horse of the year" is being retired because of an aggravated knee injury.

The brown four-year-old son of Menow-Piquet will be sent to the Greentree Farm at Lexington, Ky., for breeding purposes.

Greentree had planned to send the colt to Chicago for the $50,000-added Washington Park Handicap Saturday.

Capot was kicked in the knee when a foal, and was under continuous treatment during his three years of racing.

FRANKFORD

Merchants Blow Four-Run Lead In Ninth Frame

Frankford (Special) —Frankford Merchants blew a four-run lead in the top of the ninth inning Friday night and then fell apart in the top of the 10th after knotting the count in their end of the ninth as they dropped a 19-16 decision to Frontenac in the second game of their O.A.S.A. Intermediate C playdowns.

The Merchants had taken the first game in Frontenac, so the loss squared the best-in-three series at one each. The third game was rained out last night.

Frontenac jumped into a 7-1 lead in the first three innings and then were blanked though the sixth as the locals tied the score with two in the fourth and four in the sixth. The Merchants had their attack in high gear by this time rolling for a pair in the seventh and eighth without a reply from the visitors.

In the top of the ninth Frontenacs crashed through for seven runs and appeared to have the ninth to tie the score with three tallies. In the tenth, Frontenacs collected five runs while the Merchants managed to push over two as they went down to defeat.

Don Boyle, who has been carrying the mail for the Merchants to date, asked to be pulled in the ninth but the Merchant mentors left him in to take the beating.

Allsworth weathered the storm for Frontenac to claim the win.

Windsor Rockets Will Have Fast Unseasoned Line

By ALAN DONNELLY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 30 (CP)—Windsor Rockets are counting on a competent backfield, built on last year's stars, and a young, unseasoned line for this season's campaign in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series.

After a late training start, the team has not yet been whittled down to the 30-odd players who will be on the roster when the club opens the schedule at Sarnia Sept. 9.

The Rockets' potential ability is still pretty much of a mystery, and Coach Art Massucci, working with a team which he describes as "pretty green," hedges on making any predictions of future success.

Massucci, an American coach who formerly led Sarnia Imperials to six O. R. F. U. titles and two Canadian championships, talks only of the team's present state. He's not satisfied.

"They need a lot of improvement," he said. "A lot of those kids aren't sure of their assignments yet."

Best of Backs are Back

The best of last year's backfield is back — eight of them — but there's a severe shortage of seasoned linemen. Eight linemen are holdovers, but the rest are young and inexperienced There are about 20 prospects up from local minor league and collegiate teams.

With Detroit, a good football city, just across the river, the Rockets will use a number of United States imports — probably up to permitted limit of seven.

No Big Salaries

Officials of the Windsor Footfall Club, which holds the Rocket franchise, declined to give figures on costs of operating the team this year. The club, a non-profit organization of Windsor citizens, pays no big salaries to players and many men on the squad are amateurs in the strictest sense of the word.

Barring the rash of injuries which hit Windsor's hopes last fall, the team has plenty of backfield scoring power.

Jack Murphy, a fleet Windsor boy who led the league in scoring last year before injuries sidelined him, is performing well in practice. Other backfielders who starred last year are Ed Krause, Bob Hollup and Bob Wylupek Hollup and Krause are now recovering from leg injuries received in training.

Also back are two United States Negroes, Sylvester (Sy) Mike and Ollie Owens. Mike, a powerful defensive player, and Owens, a fast and deceptive ball carrier were out with injuries much of last season.

One Quarterback

Only quarterback holdover is Jack Brown, 23-year-old Windsorite. Two of the three other probable quarterbacks are imports — Barney Laboe, former University of Detroit player, and Bill Snyder, a short, smooth ball-handler from River Rouge, Mich. They'll work Coach Massucci's T-formation plays.

Vic Schmidt, 1949 Rocket, is the only flying wing listed on the team's roster, but Andy Lecesse. 22-year-old outside from Sherbrooke, Que., may be switched to the flying wing position.

Line coach Sam Sasso hasn't too much weight available in the present list of 25 prospective linemen. Their average weight is about 191 pounds, but this will probably go higher as some of the lighter players are pruned.

Shortage at Snap

Rockets' chief labor shortage is at snap, where the sole first-line player is 210-pound Stan Skoreski, 24-year-old Windsor boy who played the position last year. Bob Gibb, husky inside who played with Windsor Bulldogs last year in an American League, may be shifted as a substitute snap.

Besides Skoreski, seven of last year's linesmen are back. They are: insides — Ron Richmond, Larry Liazza and Leo Gusba; centre, Len Wright, and outsides — Harry Kaloogian, Bill (Skeets) Harrison and Bob Hegler. All but Wright from Hamilton are Windsor products.

Answer to 'Are Detroit Tigers Cracking Under the Strain?' May Come in Next Few Days

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Are the Detroit Tigers finally cracking under the persistent pressure of one of the most gruelling pennant battles ever waged? Has the terrific strain of pacing the pack for 82 consecutive day's finally become unbearable?

The answer may come within the next few days Then again, it may not be known until the waning days of the season. Up to now the Tigers always have been able to win the "big" ones.

This is certain, however. The Detroit picture was never darker than it is today. At least, not since the Tigers took over the American League lead last June 10.

True, they are still clinging to the top but by the slimmest of margins. Following last night's heartbreaking 5-4 loss to the Senators in Washington, the Tigers once-comfortable 4 1-2-game bulge was whittled to two percentage points.

The hard-pressing New York Yankees picked up a full game on the tiring Tigers by clipping Cleveland Indians 6-5 in 10 innings of the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed after 2 1-2 innings because of rain. Detroit and New York are in a virtual tie, but the Yanks have won and lost one more than the Tigers.

Red Sox Coming

Boston's red-hot Red Sox soared to a third-place tie with the Indians, overpowering Chicago White Sox 13-6. The victory moved them within two games of the top.

It was a dreary-looking Detroit squad that braced itself for a doubleheader today with the Senators. The team is in its worst losing slump of the campaign—six defeats in the last nine games. The once-vaunted pitching staff appears riddled and the hitting has fallen off.

In the National League, Jim Konstanty made his 58th relief appearance for Philadelphia to help the Phillies down St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3. The triumph kept the Phils 5 1-2 games ahead of Brooklyn Dodgers, who whipped the Cubs in Chicago 8-2.

Boston Braves blanked the Cincinnati Reds 4-0, and New York Giants slugged the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5, in other games. St. Louis and Philadelphia in the American League were rained out.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Aug. 30 (AP)—The exciting American League pennant race is threatening to gum up the professional football schedule even more than usual . . A note from the football Yanks' office points out that they're prepared to move their Sept. 29 game against Detroit and the Oct. 8 game against Green Bay to later dates if the baseball Yankees should win the pennant. . . similarly, Detroit Lions have a game scheduled in the Tigers' ball park Sept, 24 and another Oct. 8. Cleveland Browns are at home to the football Giants Oct. 1 and Philadelphia Eagles are slated to play in Shibe Park Oct. 8. . . maybe they could find other spots for some of these games to protect the delicate infield turf, but if they can't, it means playing midweek games later when the teams will be busy every Sunday. . . maybe the footballers are rooting for a Boston-Brooklyn series.

Sports Before Your Eyes

As part of his training regime (to keep his weight up) Willie Pep drinks several bottles of beer a day. That oughta make it easy for him to win on pints. . . Back in 1891, when Sunday football was made illegal in Cincinnati, the Reds were arrested every Sunday they were at home during the season. . .they'd be hauled into police headquarters, pay two-buck fines and be freed for another week. . .there have been numerous occasions since then when the fans have thought the Reds oughta be arrested—but they'd hardly be inclined to let them off for $2.

Syracuse Chiefs Defeat Giants In Double Bill

(By The Associated Press)

Syracuse Chiefs going nowhere in particular dealt Jersey City's International League playoff hopes a knuckle rap last night by sweeping a doubleheader from the Little Giants 7-2 and 6-1

The Little Giants still hold a two-game advantage on Springfield for fourth place—the final playoff berth—but what was once a cakewalk for the Little Giants has, once more developed into a battle. Two victories last night would have made Joe Becker's team a shoo-in for the Shaughnessy playoffs next month.

But as it is, Stan Hack's Springfield Cubs still have a chance and a good one. They trail the Giants by one game in the important loss column and have two more games to play than Jersey City.

The Cubs had their game with Baltimore rained out. They'll play a doubleheader with Orioles tonight while Jersey City meets the sixth-place Chiefs again.

Bud Byerly stopped the Little Giants on two hits in winning his 15th game in the opener. Red Hardy was tagged with his 11th loss.

In the second game, lefty Kent Peterson made it six Syracuse victories in seven starts with a seven-hitter, besting Alex Konikowski and two relievers. Benny Zientara, with a single and two doubles, helped Peterson hang up victory No. 10. He struck out nine.

A doubleheader between Rochester and Toronto and the Buffalo-Montreal tilt were postponed because of rain.

Athletics Enter Playdowns Of Int 'B' O.B.A.

Picton—Picton Athletics who have played in the COBL this season, have entered the Intermediate 'B' OBA playdowns. They will play Trenton Sixardees, with the first game here Friday afternoon and the second at Belleville on Monday afternoon. The series is two out-of-three games.

Napanee, who also dropped back to Intermediate B, will start their series with Gananoque on the same date.

Picton decided not to go to 'A' grouping as it would entail a long layoff and it would be difficult to keep the team together.

PIG DROWNS IN SWILL

Rochelle, Ga., Aug. 30 (AP) — A pig tried to make a hog of himself at the farm of Charlie Duncan and drowned in a bucket of swill. Returning home after a day's absence, Duncan found a pair of tiny hams protruding from the top of the bucket. The pig had fallen in head first and drowned.

Cliff Lumsden Repeat Winner Of C.N.E. Swim

Cliff Lumsden earned that rating in convincing fashion yesterday as he churned through Lake Ontario waters to win his second straight Canadian National Exhibition 15-mile men's professional swimming championship.

It wasn't so much Cliff's victory as the way he did it that opened swim experts' eyes and won him a wild ovation from 30,000 rain-soaked fans.

The barrel-chested, 200-pound youth swam his hottest challenger right out of the race and maintained a punishing 67-beat pace that brought him home in seven hours, 18 minutes, five seconds—11 minutes, 16 seconds ahead of runner-up Tom Park, Jr., of Hamilton.

Ben Gazel, 39, winner of the 1947 race and runner-up to Lumsden last year, was third with a time of 7.36:40. Of the 58 swimmers who started, only 10 completed the grind.

The victory brought Lumsden a whopping $5,950 in prize money. Park, 25, earned $2,750 and Gazel $1,000.

When Lumsden won the race—billed as the professional championship of the world—in frigid waters last year, some swim experts said he would probably not be able to match other marathoners in warmer water where the cold would not take a heavy toll of contestants. Only three swimmers finished the 1949 race.

Temperature No Difference

This year he proved that water temperature made no difference. The water was 71 degrees—considered "warm" by marathoners—at the start. Jerry Kerschner of Toronto took the lead in the early laps, but Lumsden forced such a pace that he went to the front just after the six-mile mark and minutes later Kerschner was pulled from the water suffering leg cramps.

Lumsden was never in danger the rest of the way. He maintained his fast pace throughout and appeared fresh and capable of swimming at least another five miles when he hit the finish line.

Bill Goll, Hillsdale, Mich., broke the Canadian monopoly on the prize money by finishing fourth in 9.04:43. Other swimmers completing the course in order of finish were:

Jacques Amyot, Quebec City; Charles F. Grover, Dorchester, Mass.; Henry C. Pferr, Brooklyn, N.Y.; John Jaremy, Toronto; Bill Sadlo, Jr., Whitestone, N.Y.; and Matthew Chrostowski, Providence, R.I. Prize money for the last six finishers ranged from $750 for Goll to $100 for Chrostowski.

Negro Girl May Upset Wimbledon Tennis Titlist

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 30 — (AP)—Can Althea Gibson, first Negro girl to play in the United States National Tennis Championships, beat Wimbledon titlist Louise Brough?

Weather permitting, the answer will come today when they finish their rain-interrupted match with Miss Gibson ahead, 1-6, 6-3, 7-6, and Miss Brough serving.

The two were just getting warmed up to their task yesterday when the skies erupted and the 6,000 spectators in the West Side Tennis Club were deluged by a thunderstorm.

One thing is certain, even before the final verdict is reached. Miss Gibson, a tall, angular product of the sidewalks of New York's Harlem section, has acquitted herself well. She's ready for the big time, and officials of the club made no mistake inviting her to compete.

Miss Gibson, who attends Florida A. and M. College, has a good service and backs it up by charging the net at every opportunity. Perhaps her main weakness is in ground strokes.

As the tournament goes into its third day, the ranking men still are much in he running. Don McNeill, who created the first upset by whipping Australia's Ken McGregor, was trailing Bill Talbert, another veteran campaigner, 1-6, 1-1, when the rains came.

Herbie Flam, top-rated American; Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., No. 2; Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, No. 4; Earl Cochell of Los Angeles, No. 6; and Jim Brink of Seattle, No. 9, all reached the third round.

Flam stopped Philippe Washer of Belgium 6-1, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4. Mulloy put out Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1. Seixas dumped Ricardo Balbiers of Chili 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. Cochell eliminated Harry Likas of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2, and Brink, playing his second five-setter in two days, beat Tony Mottram of England, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

John Bromwich of Australia competed the men's first round when he polished off one of the United States young Davis Cup hopes, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

POLICE SEEK THIEF

Hamilton, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Police today sought a thief who broke into Dundurn Castle Museum Sunday and stole a number of priceless antiques, mostly antiquated firearms.

Missing are a flint lock, a muzzle loading pistol and other firearms. One Hindenburg pipe, found at Courcelette, and five or six sea shells from the West Indies and the Mediterranean are also missing.

Germany, Japan Permitted Back To Olympic Games

Lausanne, Switzerland, Aug. 30 —(AP)—Germany and Japan will be permitted to come back into the olympic games fold in 1952 at Helsinki. The action favoring the two former axis powers was taken yesterday on unanimouse vote of the six-member executive committee of the International Olympic Committee.

Although the full committee must act on the recommendation at meeting next May in Vienna it was generally believed that the two countries will be finally accepted.

The committee meets at Vienna May 6-9.

Peco Bauwens, German olympics committee chairman, and two other delegates hailed the decision.

"Germany's sporting youth condemns profoundly the cruelties committed by the criminals of the nazi regime, who caused so much suffering in almost the entire world," Bauwens said.

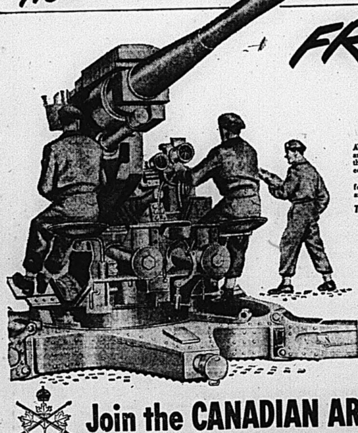
NOW! YOU CAN DO MORE THAN TALK ABOUT FREEDOM...



CANADA NEEDS
MEN TO TRAIN AS ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNNERS

A major requirement of Canada's defensive system today is men trained for anti-aircraft operations. Charged with the defence of vital areas, the men of the anti-aircraft units are equipped and trained in the use of modern scientific equipment—electronics, radar, radio and telephone.

There are very few more important jobs than service in an anti-aircraft unit for young men who want to make sure that Canada is well defended against any eventuality.

To enlist you must—
1. Be a Canadian citizen or British subject.
2. Be between 17 and 29 years of age.
3. Be single.
4. Meet Army test requirements.
5. Volunteer for service anywhere.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SA MGORDON
The Kibitzer

Two good bridge rules may counteract each other in some given situation. Then is when the logic of a sound player asserts itself. He selects the most practical choice for the occasion.

After starting with a bid in hearts, south became the declarer at three no-trump. East had not made a bid of any kind. According to rule, decide the opening lead from the west hand shown here:

♠K J 3
♥Q J 10 8
♦7 6 4 2
♣6 3

The main part of the basic lead rule reads: Follow the order of choice in tops, longies, shorts. Among tops is a sequence from which a top is led. This seems to permit the lead of heart queen.

Another part of the basic lead rule reads: Don't lead a suit bid by opponents. This would seem to eliminate a lead in hearts. In such a conflict of leads, what should you do?

See then if there is a desirable second choice; long suit. If not there, look for a desirable third choice; short suit. If neither, look for the least objectionable in the three choices.

To lead from your short clubs is almost hopeless. To lead from your spade tenace is impractical. Such a lead offers too many chances of losing a trick when holding a combination like this.

To lead from your long diamonds is futile. The remote chance of developing the fourth diamond is not worth considering. By the time you got to the fourth diamond the game would be over.

To lead the top of your heart sequence could not do much harm, if any. No trick in that suit would be lost thereby. The only real objection to it is possible loss in timing of other suit tricks.

So, despite the fact that it had been bid by opponents, logic tells you to lead the top heart. It is here the least dangerous. It is her ethe most desirable.

Rule mostly avers what good logic prefers.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 30—(AP)—On her husband's insistence, Jane Russell has abandoned the short hair cut.

Nearly every Hollywood star succumbed to bobbed-hair style that swept the female world a year or so ago. Jane was one of them. But when I saw her on the "Maco" set, her tresses were again falling to her shoulders. What about this?

"I had mine cut very short," she admitted, "but my man (Bob Waterfield, the pro football flash) didn't like it. I guess all men hate the short hair cut; it makes their women look like men.

"Robert used to draw me close to kiss me and then push me away. 'Ugh, you look like a him!' he'd say."

More Hair

And then there's Dorothy Hart, starting out a new Warners contract a golden brown. She tells why:

"The red color was to show up in the color pictures I was in. Now I'm in black-and-white in 'Raton Pass' so it doesn't matter.

"It's more trouble being a redhead. Men are more apt to get fresh with a girl with red hair. It's a strange psychology, but it's true."

Mr. 880

One of the more delightful pictures of the season is "Mister 880". I'll review it later, but I wanted to point out a couple of things worth noticing. In the picture are some splendid scenes of the United Nations machinery, with Dorothy McGuire playing an official interpreter. It made me wonder why Hollywood has overlooked such a worthy subject for a movie as the U.N. or is the town too busy with killing?

Also, in the picture Burt Lancaster says to McGuire: "Hurry up or we'll be late for the movie." How seldom does Hollywood advertise itself by such means! Movie characters seldom go to movies, and yet recent films have shown dozens of scenes featuring television, Hollywood's arch-enemy.

Eats Fried Egg And Beats Charge

Doncaster, England, Aug. 30—(Reuters)—A Doncaster man yesterday beat a drunkenness charge by eating a fried egg in the police station.

George St. Benson, 51, accused of driving a car while under the influence of liquor, ate a fried egg in the lock-up.

Said his lawyer in court:

"It is often the subject of a music-hall joke, but for anyone to eat a fried egg on the morning after they have experienced a surfeit of alcohol is the acid test and should be taken into account."

Stevenson's driving licence was restored to him and the charge was dismissed.

'Go Climb Tree' Not so Funny In Child's Life

Chicago, Aug. 29—(AP)—"Go climb a tree" is not a funny expression in Cynthia Morgan's young life.

Cynthia, 5, did climb a tree today. She got her knee caught in a crotch. Then . .

Her playmates called her mother.

Her mother called police.

The city police called park district police.

The park district police called the fire department.

Meanwhile soldiers from Fifth Army headquarters, and an Illinois Bell Telephone truck, and a power company truck stopped to help.

After 40 minutes, the power company truck's winch moved one of the tree limbs. Out came Cynthia's knee.

[illegible] crowd dispersed when a doctor said Cynthia was more [illegible] than hurt.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was looking at 3 little [illegible]re pieces of cloth, and she handed them to pop, saying, What do you think of these 3 sampels, William?

Well, I'll tell you, pop said. And he spred them out in his hand, saying, They're the same size and weight, and although the colors are different, they'd probably all taist the same to a goat.

But I want to know which one to choose for my fall outfit and I thawt you could help me, ma said, and pop said, With pleasure. Choose the one that appeals to you most, and then if you've made a mistake it wont be because you were weak enough to take the wrong advice, and if you're rite, all the credit will be yours, he sad.

Now William, you're the one that will have to look at the dress after it's made, so it's only fair for you to have a voice in selecting the color, ma said. Gray goes with everything, dont you think, William? she said.

It goes with me all rite, pop said, and ma said, But blue is snappier.

Well yes, the blue would snap at every dress it passes, pop sajd. You mite even have to wear it on a leash. You'd never have a dull moment with the blue, he said, and ma said, Still, brown is so nice and conservative.

That's true, you can always depend on brown never to talk out of tern, pop said. Trust the brown not to snap at the wrong time, he said, and ma said, Oh, well. I think gray is the safest. I'll take your advice and select the gray, William, she said.

I'm highly flattered, pop said, and ma said, Not at all, I think you have excellent taist or I wouldn't of asked you.

Ask me anytime, pop said.

Church Council 'Opposed to All Class Domination'

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP) — The Canadian Council of Churches today deplored class struggle and said it is opposed to all class domination "whether of powerfully organized business or agriculture or labor."

The council, which represents most of the country's Protestant churches, said in a prepared statement that labor and management alike must never forget that "true freedom creates more freedom while false freedom steadily destroys itself."

The message offered for the assistance of ministers in preparing Labor Sunday services and distributed by the social service boards of the various churches, said the churches believe in the possibility of establishment of a Christian economic society.

Such a society, the statement continued, calls for "the extension into economic life of the ethical principles of freedom, justice and brotherhood as well as the democratic principles of liberty, equality and fraternity through the promotion of the common welfare in the form of greater opportunity, security and fellowship for all."

The statement said "the exclusive pursuit of our rights is likely to end in the denial of them. Unless our society can shift its emphasis from its rights to its responsibilities, it will see its rights vanishing."

Canada's Three Destroyers Help In Harassment

Ottawa, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Canada's three destroyers in Korean waters now have all made substantial contributions to the "devastation and harassment" of North Korean forces and ship morale has reached a new high, the divisional commander, Capt. J. V. Brock, today disclosed in a report to naval headquarters.

French Troops Report Success Against Guerrillas

Saigon, Indo-China, Aug. 30—(AP)—French troops, operating with Loyal Viet Namese against the Moscow-supported guerrilla regime of Ho Chi Min today reported successes in Viet Nam's southwest coastal area. However, rebel pressure was said to be increasing in the smaller states of Laos and Cambodia.

An official communique said the rebels suffered severe losses in men and material in a week-long operations starting Aug. 22 along the coastal region of Badong, 75 miles from here. French planes, artillery and amphibious craft, supported by naval units, took part in the campaign to disperse and cut off one of their important supply bases.

Statement of Policy Sent MacArthur

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP) — President Truman today sent Gen. Douglas MacArthur a statement of American policy on Formosa, and also a commendation of the general's direction of the Korean campaign.

Truman's move, following up his weekend order for MacArthur to withdraw a statement on Formosa, appeared to have a two-fold purpose although there was no official comment.

1. To clarify MacArthur's own understanding of the whole situation and give him an implied reminder not to get out of step again.

2. To ease the sting of the incident to the general and also help maintain MacArthur's prestige in the Far East.

URGED TO ISSUE CALL

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) —Toronto district locals of the United Automobile Workers C.I.O., today urged that union leaders issue a call for a general country-wide strike in the event settlement of the railway strike is forced on the striking unions.

Presidents and local chairmen representing 8,000 members passed the resolution.

U. S. MISSION SEES INDO-CHINA BATTLEGROUND

Members of a U.S. military and diplomatic mission are shown with French officers as they inspected defence installations in the northeast Tonkin area of Indo-China. This particular post overlooks "no-man's-land" where guerrillas operate. Beyond the mountains is China, from which, a French news agency reported, five Chinese communist divisions will be sent to help the Viet-Minh rebels in Indo-China. John Melby, right, special assistant to Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state, and Maj. Gen. Graves Erskine (hands on hips) are two of the U.S. group. The mission's visit to Indo-China is inspired by President Truman's program for helping southeast Asia against communism. — Central Press Canadian.

BEARDS ARE THE "ORDER OF THE DAY" ABOARD THE ATHABASKAN

Executive officers, Lieut.-Cmdr. T. S. Peacock, left, Lieut.-Cmdr. C. R. Parker and Lieut.-Cmdr. Benson, of Athabaskan, one of three Canadian destroyers serving Korean waters are sporting beards these days while at sea. The Athabaskan has seen action along with its sister ship, the Cayuga, which became active recently when it slipped into a red-held Korean harbor and bombarded enemy installations, shipping and defence positions. — Central Press Canadian.

Medical Science Cuts Death Rate in the West Indies

Jamaica, B.W.I., (CP)—People in Jamaica today live on the average 15 years longer than they did in the 1920s. The same is true in Trinidad and British Guiana.

In Singapore, where 30 years ago malaria carried off two or three thousand every year, the death rate is now as low as that of the United Kingdom; while Cyprus has one of the lowest death-rates in the world. These are some of the practical results of the advance of medical science and its application in the British colonies.

Malaria Widespread

Malaria is the most widespread of all tropical diseases; yet 80 years ago virtually nothing was known of its nature. In 1880 a French doctor, Laveran, proved that the infection was due to a parasite in the blood; and in 1894 Ronald (later Sir Ronald) Ross in India showed how this parasite was spread by a species of mosquito.

It followed from Ross's work that, where the mosquito could be eradicated, malaria could be stamped out. Today, close study of the insect and the invention of new and powerful insecticides have made this a practical possibility.

Throughout the colonial territories anti-mosquito measures and the wide availability of effective new drugs have given protection to all who can be brought within the scope of regular health services.

Leprosy Scourge

Leprosy is another scourge in tropical countries. A recent survey in Africa showed that sufferers are even more numerous than was thought. Results obtained from use of the new sulphone drugs seem to justify hopes that a new era is beginning in the treatment of this disease.

Sulphetrone, discovered in Britain just before the Second World War, can effect a more rapid amelioration of the signs and symptoms of leprosy than any previous drug; but its cost is high. Use of the crude sulphones has enables these costs to be reduced by more than half.

Early cases can now hope for cure, and the complications, including blindness, which formerly caused so much suffering can now be oviated. The great value of the sulphones, including sulphetrone, is that they are particularly effective against the infection type of leprosy.

MORE MACLEANS IN AMERICA

London, Aug. 29 (Reuters) — Chief of the clan MacLean, Maj. Sir Charles MacLean, who returned today from his tour of Canada and the United States, said he met "more MacLeans the other side of the Atlantic than I ever met in Scotland."

Fitzpatrick Films People Not Places in Latest Movie

Hollywood—(AP)—The voice is authoritative, slightly nasal, and much imitated by amateur and professional wits:

"And so, as the sun sinks slowly in the west, we reluctantly say farewell to Bombay, the gateway to India."

It belongs to James A. FitzPatrick, pioneer producer of movie travelogues with sound-track narration. After travelling approximately 1,500,000 miles around the earth, filming curious and breathtaking sights, he is eyeing new worlds. An amateur astronomer, he says:

"I have my eye on many a star I never used to pay much attention to. The earth is beginning to lose interest for me. A tree, a rock, or a river is pretty much the same anywhere. If my wife and five children would let me, I'd like to go on the first rocket ship to Mars."

Features Personalities

What still interests FitzPatrick about Mother Earth is the human beings. His "traveltalks" are therefore switching emphasis from places to personalities.

The first woman ever to graduate from an Egyptian law school was a recent interview subject for his color camera. "She spoke English better than I did," he says. Before the war he found Egyptian and Turkish girls veiled. "Now they're in co-ed colleges and just as modern in dress and thought as American girls."

He believes the war was largely responsible for changed thinking and practices. "War is a disturber of many things."

James Anthony FitzPatrick is a medium-sized man with gray-flecked hair above a freckled forehead. His pink face is pleasant but determined-looking. He was born 48 years ago, of all-Irish descent, in Shelton, Conn.

He studied playwriting at New York's American Academy of Dramatic Arts He bought a silent movie camera and made films starring neighborhood kids in Brooklyn's Prospect Park. A distributing company peddled them to theatres.

In Europe he filmed the haunts and relics of Chopin, Liszt, Beethoven. In England he recorded the lives of Shakespeare, Shelley, Scott, Burns, and Byron. Travelogues were a natural outgrowth.

Demonstration Ruined

Sound was just coming in. It was recorded then on discs like phonograph records. A New York theatre agreed to show the first travelogue, made in Spain. The needle skidded across the disc, ruining the demonstration. The audience laughed.

FitzPatrick got permission to sit in the 105-degree projection room and guide the needle with his finger at the next showing. There was applause, and the manager said, "I'll book all of these you can make." A releasing contract with M-G-M followed.

In 21 years, FitzPatrick has been around the world 20 times. He has averaged only three months a year in the United States. He has travelled mostly by air but also by steamer, rail, auto, ox drag, horse, donkey, canoe and foot. His home is in Beverley Hills.

Forest Fires May Break Out In Novel Ways

Toronto — (CP) — A veteran forest protection official, on fire-watching duty in a tower in Northern Ontario recently, noticed a slight puff of smoke curling from the grass at the foot of the tower.

Investigation showed the dry grass was being lit, blade after blade, by the sun's rays reflecting through a broken piece of glass.

"That may be an uncommon way for forest fires to start," he said in an interview, "but people would be surprised at the number of forest fires that start in strange ways."

Careless humans cause the majority of all forest fires, he said, but birds, animals — even broken bottles — can also be guilty.

Rangers investigating a fire near Espanola, Ont., found that a tree, freshly cut by a beaver, had fallen across a power line, causing a short had set fire to the trees.

"Smoking" Birds

Even birds have unwittingly set fire to more than one stretch of woodland. Sometimes a bird will pick up a lighted cigaret butt and carry it off to its nest. In no time at all, the highly inflammable structure is aflame, and, in turn, sets fire to the tree.

Sometimes cabins in the wilderness, the doors locked and the windows boarded up, have mysteriously burst into flames and started a forest fire.

"Quite often this is just a case of hungry mice chewing on matches, causing them to ignite," said one Forest Ranger.

Fusees, a type of flare dropped behind a train to warn the next one coming behind that there is a train ahead of schedule, are a fairly common cause of fires.

Sometimes the spike used to weight the flare strikes a rock instead of the earth or a tie and bounces into the dried brush along the right-of-way.

FIRST CANAL

Canada's first canal was the Lachine Canal begun by early French settlers in 1700.

WON'T BE BOUND BY NO-STRIKE PLEDGE

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—John L. Lewis advised A.F.L. president William Green today his coal miners won't be bound by any no-strike pledge.

The government has not asked labor groups to forego strikes during the Korean fighting and defence-building period ahead, but Green and some top C.I.O. officers have indicated that such a pledge would be given if it was asked.

The mine workers now are an independent union, but at various times in the past have been affiliated with the C.I.O. and the A.F.L.

Korean Marines Rescue Civilians From Commies

(AP)—South Korean Marines, in two commando-type landings on the south coast Tuesday, rescued civilians about to be forced into the communist army, it was learned today.

The marines landed between Tongyong and Kosong, 10 miles southwest of Masan. This is near the area where other marines hurled back a North Korean thrust Monday at Pongyong, South of Kosong.

In the latest landings, the marines hit unexpectedly and withdrew in boats, taking the civilians with them.

The size of the raiding force and the number of civilians rescued was not reported.

South Korea forces here said the raid left the enemy in "complete confusion," with red units firing on each other in the excitement after the South Koreans withdrew.

South Korean marines first landed in the area nearly two weeks ago and still hold a beachhead.

DIES SUDDENLY

Ottawa, Aug. 30. (CP)—Mrs. Henrietta Southam, wife of the late Wilson Mills Southam, former president of the Southam Company, died suddenly Tuesday at Portland, Ont., in her 74th year.

Mrs. Southam, who was staying at her summer home, had been in excellent health and had gone upstairs to rest after lunch. She died quietly in her sleep.

Surviving are three sons, John of Calgary, D. Cargill, of Montreal and G. Hamilton Southam, on the Canadian Legation staff in Stockholm; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Brinckman, Ottawa and Lady Brinckman, London, England.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Davies' Play Depicts Life In Pioneer Days

Peterborough, Ont, Aug. 30—(CP)—Peterborough's centennial play—"At My Heart's Core" by Robertson Davies—opened Monday night to an enthusiastic audience.

It was written for the 100th anniversary of the city's incorporation by Mr. Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner and one of Canada's leading playwrights.

The play, full of typical Davies humor, is set in the Peterborough district during the rebellion of 1837. Five of its eight characters are persons who lived in the district at the time and who left their mark on the history of the province.

"At My Heart's Core" depicts the struggles and hardships of life in Canada's backwoods pioneer settlements—both for the poor Irish peasants who settled the Peterborough area around 1825 and the English gentry who also settled there.

Touches Former Theme

It touches, too, upon the theme found in "Fortune My Foe", the author's first full-length play—an examination of the reasons why people stay in Canada, where, the author maintains, life is difficult for people of sensibilities and education.

In "Fortune My Foe", a Canadian university professor was tempted to accept the offer of a better-paying job in the United States. In "At My Heart's Core," a group of well-bred British ladies are tempted by thoughts of a return to the old life they knew in England.

In each case, the final decision is to stay in Canada.

The action is set in a home on the northern outskirts of Peterborough, owned by the late Hon. Thomas Alexander Stewart, a gentleman farmer and politician. The letters of his wife, Frances Stewart, were published under the title "Our Forest Home".

Both appear in the play. So do Susanna Moodie, famous for her "Roughing It In The Bush"; Catherine Parr Traill, author of "The Female Immigrant's Guide" and "Canadian Wild Flowers" and two of the Strickland sisters of nearby Lakefield.

While their husbands are away with the Loyalist forces during the rebellion, these ladies are visited by Edward Cantwell, a mysterious stranger, who tempts them with reminders of the luxurious life of the Old Country and with talk of their talents which, he says, are wasted in the backwoods.

Author's Wife in Cast

Brenda Davies, wife of the author, plays Mrs. Stewart. She is the only one of the cast not a member of the Peterborough summer theatre, which produced the play under Michael Sadler.

Others in the cast are Clarine Jackman as Mrs. Moodie; Kate Reid as Mrs. Traill; John Primm as Cantwell; Donald Glen as Stewart, and Frank Perry in the comic role of Phelim Brady who, with Pat Atkinson as Honor Brady, carry most of the boisterous comic scenes.

"At My Heart's Core" will run for at least another week. It is one of a series of special events being staged for Peterborough's summer-long centennial celebrations.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Celia Dustin sat before the mirrored dressing table in an elaborate corner suite on the sixth floor of the Sunlux Hotel in Miami Beach. Subconsciously she counted the strokes as the silver-mount brush swept through her long flaxen hair... eight, nine, ten then changed it to her left hand and began counting towards the required hundred strokes. Her sheer coral dressing gown fell away from her shoulders, revealing the light sun-tan on her smooth throat and chest, long dark lashes were half closed over her blue eyes that shone with an inner delight, and her full red mouth was lifted at the corners in a smile.

Celia was scarcely aware of her reflection. Her head was tilted, and she listened to the muffled sounds in the bathroom where her husband was taking a bath. They had been married two years today, an she knew exactly the progress he was making by the sounds. He was turning on the cold water now, swearing softly and contentedly as he made it colder and colder In a moment Mark Dustin would fling back the curtain and emerge from the shower, dripping and sputtering like a half drowned bear.

An indefinable shiver of pure delight traversed Celia's slender body as she transferred the brush from left to right hand for another ten strokes. Marriage was the most wonderful thing in the world. Marriage with Mark, she amended hastily to herself. She had often wondered during the past two years whether it would have been quite the same with any other man. She didn't think so. Mark wasn't anything wonderful. She often told herself that in order to keep her feet firmly on the ground but he was right for her. She was serenely certain that of all the people in the world she and Mark were meant for each other.

She completed the hundred strokes and laid the hair brush on the dressing table. All sound from the bathroom had ceased. Soon Mark would come out with his black silk robe carelessly belted round his lean stomach, his strong sun-bronzed face glowing with health and with happiness. He would come up behind her chair and lay his cheek against her lustrous hair and smile at her reflection in the mirror tell her she was the most beautiful girl in the world.

She would blush as she always did. His lips would nibble at the lobe of her ear and he'd whisper that she was his doll his baby girl and then the lovely Miami morning would be perfect indeed.

Sunlight came through the east window and touched her head and shoulders caressingly. From far below there came the faint sound of the surf and the laughing voices of early bathers. It was one of those perfect days in December when the season is just beginning.

Celia did not move a muscle when she heard her husband come padding into the bedroom in cork-soled sandals. She watched her reflection in the mirror and saw him come up behind her and stop there as she had known he would. His black hair was touseled and he looked ten years younger than the forty he had admitted to when they were married. An unruly curl on either side of the part stood up, adding an impish look that matched the gleam in his gray eyes.

He was wonderful, she thought again knowing him to be even older than forty from stories he had told and hints he'd let drop about adventuring in far places before they met. He was the type who would never grow old, never lose the exuberance of youth.

Something of her love and wonder and pride in him must have showed in her eyes as they met his in the glass for Mark laughed his hands on her shoulders, and said, "You look like a little girl on Christmas morning who had suddenly decided to believe in Santa Claus after all."

"I feel like a little girl on Christmas morning, Mark."

His fingers tightened and his head bent low until his cheek was against her hair. Her eyes still held his in the mirror and a tremor went over her as he kissed her.

He said gently, "You're the most beautiful girl in the world."

She smiled happily and demanded, "You do love me don't you"

With his lips gainst her ear, he whispered, "Why else do you think I married you? You are such a paragon in public," he added. He straightened up then, an patted her cheek.

Celia waited for a breathless moment, then forced herself to carry on the ritual by asking, "Does every man want his wife to be a paragon in public?"

"Every man with any sense." He turned away abruptly, now that the matutinal amenities were ended and started for the sitting room saying cheerfully "I'll order some breakfast."

"Mark." The single word halted him with his hand on the doorknob.

"Yes?"

"Do you know why I particularly feel like a little girl on Christmas morning?"

"This morning" He turned slowly "Because the sun is shining and the ponies are running this afternoon?"

Her tone was slightly impatient. "The sun has shone and the ponies have run every day since we've been here." She studied his face anxiously in the mirror.

"So they have." He grinned boyishly and added, "Must be you're in love with your husband."

"So I am, darling." When he smiled her anxiety went away "Order English muffins and bacon for me, and lots of coffee. I've forty more strokes to go on my hair." When he went out and closed the door she picked up the brush again but the strokes were not so even and placid as they had been before. Tears moistened her eyes and she wiped them away angrily Mark was a darling but confound him anyway. Why did men always have to spoil things? You'd think they could remeber an important date. But all he was thinking of was food and the bets he would lay at the track. Never a thought for her and for today.

She began to grow very angry, and the brush went back and forth swiftly glinting in the sunlight and whisking viciously through the soft strands of hair. She made a face at herself in the mirror then decided all over again that Mark was a darling and that she was acting like a fool.

By the time she applied powder to her face and a fresh layer of rouge to her lips, Celia was humming. She got up and slid the dressing gown from her sholders slid into her brassiere and panties white slip and a powder blue sports suit.

Mark was seated on the padded window ledge deep in the morning Herald when Celia entered the big suare living room. He looked up to mumble, "Breakfast coming up. Listen Ceil. Here's a hot one in the fourth today. Thunderhaven at twelve to one. If I can pick out a parlay ..." His voice trailed off as he went back to the day's selection at Tropical Park.

"Oh, you!" she laughed, and again thought how like a young boy he was and how darned lucky she was to be Mrs. Mark Dustin.

The buzzer sounded and she went to admit the waiter with a wheeled breakfast table. She asked the man to place it in the angle between the two wide east and south windows, signed the check and tipped him, and he departed before Mark seemed aware of his presence. She peeked playfully over the top of the newspaper and said. "Sir, breakfast is served."

"So?" He sprang up and helped her pull up two chairs, and enthusiastically explained his projected three-horse parlay while they breakfasted in the sun-drenched luxury of their corner suite.

When the meal was finished Celia sat on the window seat and idly turned the pages of the morning paper while Mark dressed She was restless and moody. Mark hadn't mentioned any plans for the day. There would be the race track of course. Mark was a reckless, inveterate and lucky gambler He had been like that ever since she had known him. Sometimes he lost, but always he recouped his losses a few days later. It didn't matter how he gambled, on mining stocks, in poker games or at the racetrack, he always won. In the early days of their marriage she had worried but not any more. There was always plenty of money and she had gradually come to share his belief that there would always be plenty.

Laying the paper aside she gazed out the east window and wished she might go swimming before the races. Mark usually wanted to but he hadn't mentioned it. Her spirits rose. Perhaps he had other plans. Perhaps he hadn't forgotten.

Mark was dressed in fawn colored slacks, blue sports shirt open at the neck, and a darker blue slouch jacket when he came into the living room. The jacket had heavily padded shoulders that gave extraordinary breadth tapering down to a lean waist and muscled hips. He was barely six feet tall, but the way he held himself gave the impression of greater height.

It wasn't arrogance, Celia thought, just as she had a thousand times when she studied him with appraising eyese. It was self-assurance. The stance and carriage of a man who has met the world on equal terms and faced it down. From the stories he had told her of his youth early days of prospecting for gold all over the globe, she had gained an insight into his character that fully explained his present attitude toward life. He had received no quarter from life in his youth and now he neither asked for nor offered it. If he was ruthless in his business dealings it was because he had discovered long ago that only the ruthless survive in his tough modern world. His movements had the smooth co-ordination of a man who keeps himself in trim.

Celia watched his approach with a swift rush of emotion that frightened her. He stopped in front of her and took a flat platinum cigarette case from his pocket, opened it and lit a cigarette.

"What would you like to do today?" There was an absent look in his grey eyes and his tone was flat.

"Whatever you'd like, Mark." She tried to speak eagerly, but his voice, his whole expression told her he had forgotten. Then she remembered he didn't like to have her answer that way. He wanted her to have definite opinions and give a definite answer, but she waited hopefully.

He looked at his wrist watch and said, "It's elecven-thirty. Suppose we take a ride and end up at the track in time for the first race."

"I'd like that." She kept her voice quiet and even, as though she meant exactly what she said. She got up and went past him into the bedroom to get her bag. She heard Mark call to order the roadster brought around and he was waiting at the door when she came back They went out and down the corridor to the elevator together.

Breeders Fear Mutton and Wool Shortage

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP) —Canada may face a mutton and wool shortage before long because the Canadian sheep population has been reduced to a "dangerous" level a breeder said Tuesday.

Alex Salmon of Glanford Station, Ont., blamed careless dogs and the high cost of fencing for the sharp reduction in sheep flocks during the last few years.

The situation has been reflected in sheep entries at the Canadian National Exhibition, where entries this year have dropped almost 200 from a year ago.

Mr. Salmon, who is exhibiting sheep at the fair, said stray dogs chase the sheep and the cost of fencing material has made farmers hesitate to spend the money for the type of fence that will keep sheep enclosed.

"It's going to be bad if people keep on going out of sheep," he said, "before too long it will be felt in the food line, and in clothing as well because wool is needed and even now we aren't producing enough wool to go around."

NATIONAL PROGRAM URGED

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP)— A national program of soil conservation was urged yesterday by delegates to the conference of provincial agriculture ministers. Marketing, soil conservation and transportation were regarded by the ministers as agriculture's chief problems. Before adjourning, the ministers decided to hold next year's conference at Victoria.

PLAN APPROVED

Toronto, Aug. 30. (CP)—A $179,000,000 plan for development of the city of Toronto was approved yesterday by the Ontario Department of Planning and Development. The plan, covering the next 30 years, includes new traffic arteries, civic squares, a new courthouse and police headquarters and improvements to water and sewage facilities. The city will bear an estimated $145,000,000 of the cost.

THREE NEW BUILDINGS

Hamilton Aug. 30 (CP)—Three new buildings will open at McMaster University here during the coming session, university officials said Tuesday. Enrollment will probably be lower than last year's all-time high of 1,155, they said.

A library and nuclear research building, worth $600,000 each, and a student union building, worth $200,000, are expected to be operating before the school year ends officials said.

Four Soldiers Killed, 4 Hurt at Petawawa

Explosion Trench Mortar Bomb Cause of Accident

3 Were Members Special Brigade Training For Korea

Petawawa Military Camp, Ont., Aug. 31 — (CP) — A mortar bomb explosion at the big weapon range here today killed four soldiers and injured four others.

Three were members of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, one of the battalions which form part of the special brigade which may see action in Korea.

Names were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Army officials said the explosion occurred about noon. Members of the First Battalion of the R.C.R.'s were training Second Battalion soldiers in two-inch mortar drill when the explosion occurred.

The bomb was believed to have exploded prematurely when inserted in the barrel.

Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, officer commanding central command which has jjurisdiction over Petawawa immediately ordered a court of inquiry. Petawawa, one of the biggest army camps in Canada, is about 100 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The four soldiers, three of them privates of the Second Battalion and the other a corporal of the First Battalion, were believed killed immediately.

The other four, who had been kneeling and lying near the weapon, were taken to Petawawa Military Hospital. Hit by flying shrapnel, one of them is believed to be in critical condition. Two others are considered seriously injured. The other was only slightly hit.

Draft Presented By Russia to East Germany

Hamburg, Germany, Aug. 31—(Reuters) —Draft of a peace treaty between Russia and east Germany, said to have been handed over by the Soviet envoy in Berlin Aug. 14, was published today in detail by the newspaper Die Welt.

The draft provided for the withdrawal of Soviet occupation forces within six months of the conclusion of the treaty.

Validity of the treaty would according to Die Welt, extend to the whole of Germany, Russia thus joining the east-German zone in demanding withdrawal of western occupation forces and the end of the occupation of Berlin.

According to the paper, work on the draft started a year ago.

Its text has been approved by the Council of Ministers of the Soviet Union, and it was handed to the east-German foreign ministry by Soviet ambassador to east Germany, Gregory Pushkin.

Main provisions of the draft were listed as:

1. East Germany to maintain "a border police force" of 50,000 men, a police force of 100,000 and an "auxiliary force."

2. Two-year compulsory military training and unlimited construction of planes and ships five years after the conclusion of the treaty.

End Reparations

3. An end to reparations and an undertaking that Russia would use her authority to get east Germany into the United Nations.

4. The western powers to be given six months to leave west Berlin, the western mark currency to be abolished three months after conclusion of the treaty, and the west-German cabinet to be disbanded.

5. East Germany to be allowed production of small arms but not of heavy armament and tanks, military organization to be under Soviet control.

6. The Soviet navy to control the Baltic Sea coasts until East Germany was strong enough to protect them with her own naval forces.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 31. —Synopsis: Moist tropical air is flowing over Southern Ontario bringing overcast skies and rain. A tropical storm moved inland from the Gulf of Mexico in the vicinity of Mobile,. Alabama,. during the night and will move with diminishing intensity to south of the lower lakes by Friday morning. It is unlikely that there will be any break in the rainy weather until the storm passes off to the northeast late Friday.

Over northern regions the air is drier. A few clouds will give widely scattered showers today but in general the weather will be sunny and warmer. .. ..

Bombay, Aug. 31 — (Reuters) — Two persons were killed today and 22 injured when police opened fire on crowds demonstrating in four places in North Bombay's mill area.

Thirty-one others were injured by stones hurled by strikers.

Earlier police had fired tear gas shells at strikers stoning streetcars and buses.

Groups of workers collected at street corners in pouring rain and booed police who chased them with bamboo sticks when they tried to hold up traffic.

By noon the police had rounded

LIFE COMES BACK TO THE ARTERIES OF A NATION

All Energies Bent On Return to Work

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug. 31 — (CP) — All regular passenger and freight trains in Canada were back in operation by noon, EDT, today, headquarters of the two major rail lines reported.

That was less than 10 hours after Federal legislation directed an end of the nine-day paralyzing strike.

Throughout the night hurried preparations were put in smooth working order to get traffic moving again.

Railway and commercial telegraph offices were manned by operators soon after union officials announced the end of the strike. In railway yards locomotive boilers were fired and switch engines shunted cars about to line them into trains.

Slowly at first, then with gathering power, life came back today to the arteries of a nation. Canada's railway strike was over.

For the moment, which side had won the greatest, single labor dispute in the country's history was an academic question. Across the land, all energies were bent upon a quick return to work of the 124,000 men and women whose walkout ten days ago brought home forcibly to Canadians how dependent they are upon the slender threads of steel which span a continent.

Without hesitation railroad and telegraph workers responded in their thousands last night when emergency legislation passed by parliament in special session directing them to return to work became law at 9:56 p.m. EDT. They waited only for their leaders' directive: "Return to work." That came at 10:15 in a coast-to-coast broadcast from Ottawa.

ATTEMPTED THEFT CHARGED

Toronto, Aug. 31 (CP)—"You can take the next couple of hours off," Edward Fowler, 23, told an attendant at a Canadian National Exhibition midway exhibit yesterday. "I'm here to relieve you."

The attendant left, thought it over and returned with a policeman. The policeman said later that he found Fowler rifling a cash-box. He charged Fowler with attempted theft.

Parliament Passes Back-to-Work Bill In Quick Time

Parties Start Negotiations Where They Left Off Aug. 19

(By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 31 (CP)—The rail strike is over. Canada's trains are rolling again.

Transportation on 40,000 miles of steel and the clicking of the country's telegraph keys are heading back toward normal after the official end of the nine-day paralysis of these vital services.

The crippling stoppage of the trains and other railway services, called Aug. 22 to enforce wage-hour demands of 124,000 employees, was ended at 10.15 p.m. EDT last night after parliament passed a government back-to-work bill at its emergency session.

At that hour, Frank H. Hall and A. R. Mosher, co-leaders in the strike, delivered a radio broadcast to their members across the country to get back to work as quickly as possible and definitely within the 48-hour deadline set in the parliamentary measure.

Almost immediately, railroaders started checking in on the job.

Britain Unveils World's Most Powerful Jet

London, Aug. 31 (AP) —Britain told the world today about her new Sapphire, the most powerful jet engine yet unveiled to the world.

The manufacturer said the Sapphire is as powerful as four 3,500-horsepower piston engines.

A test pilot said a Meteor jet fighter equipped with two of the engines could "outclimb any other fighter in the world—British, American, or Russian." It is reported the engine can make a fighter climb straight up.

Correspondents saw the engine in action at London airport yesterday but low clouds prevented any such demonstration.

The test pilot said, however, that with only one engine running a Meteor would top 600 miles an hour.

Florida City Suffers Heavy Damage From Hurricane

New Orleans, Aug. 31—(AP)—The freakish gulf hurricane that swept inland near Mobile, Ala., appeared today to have delivered its heaviest punch at Panama City, Fla.

No loss of life was reported, and the storm apparently caused little damage elsewhere.

Mayor Carl Gray of the coastal resort in extreme northwest Florida said in a radio broadcast a dock was destroyed by high winds and tides. Several other docks and beach property were damaged. He said 3,500 persons were evacuated from low ground to Red Cross shelters.

A tornado — believed an offshoot of the storms—seriously injured two persons and wrecked a dozen houses at Apalachicola, Fla.

Another hurricane grew in size and intensity in the far eastern Caribbean today. The weather bureau at San Juan, Puerto Rico, reported winds of hurricane force extending as much as 75 to 100 miles north and northeast of the new storm centre.

The big wind was placed at a point about 210 miles east of Martinique in the West Indies.

The weather bureau's early advisory this morning said "the remnant of the gulf hurricane is moving rapidly northward about 25 m.p.h over western Alabama."

At that time the disturbance was reported by the bureau as about 70 miles southwest of Birmingham, Ala.

The advisory said the wind was accompanied by rain squalls which will spread to northern Mississippi and Alabama today.

Vessels off the extreme northwest Florida coast were advised to exercise caution during the next 12 to 18 hours.

"There isn't any explanation for the fact the hurricane did not do as would be expected," said a forecaster, "except that hurricanes are by nature freakish things."

The only hurricane damage reported during the night was at Pensacola, Fla. Power went off in the downtown section. Power poles fell in places near Tallahassee, Fla., and communications failed.

The Pensacola naval air station reported hurricane-force winds to the New Orleans weather bureau, and the Pensacola station said the coast guards reported winds of 100 miles an hour had struck Santa Rosa Island, five miles off shore from Pensacola.

The storm originated east of Antigua, in the British West Indies. It swept over Antigua as a full-blown hurricane, and reduced itself thereafter to a squall wave.

This squall wave struck across western Cuba and left a total known dead of 37. Then the storm moved into the Gulf of Mexico, and the weather bureau reported it reformed as a hurricane about 100 miles north of the Yucatan Peninsula.

After a period little movement, the hurricane swung up toward the gulf coast. Its rapid forward progress began early yesterday, and extensive preparations already in progress all along the gulf coast—where the September 1947, hurricane killed 21 and did $40,000,000 damage on the Mississippi coast—were speeded.

Prisoners Have Good Time Says State Attorney

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP) —Some prisoners at the Big Cook County (Chicago) jail, says State's Attorney John S. Boyle have been getting, women, liquor, narcotics and fine food—by paying a few dollars to the right person.

Boyle termed the jail "rotten from top to bottom" and said a grand jury will investigate the "shocking conditions." Boyle had received a report from an assistant, James Condon, who has been investigating jail conditions since an escape plot was thwarted last month.

Col. Chester L. Fordney, the jail warden, said "conditions are not as bad as the state's attorney thinks." However, it was "no secret" that narcotics and other items, knives, razor blades and hypodermic needles—have been smuggled into the jail. He denied that prisoners held trysts with women.

Red Offensive is Hurled Back Three Miles by U.S. Tanks and Troops

Tokyo, Sept. 1 (Friday) (CP) —U.S. tanks and troops today threw back a communist offensive against Pohang, east coast anchor of the Korean battleline.

Reuters News Agency said that the Americans, fighting alongside south Koreans, won back three miles of territory which the north Koreans had acquired in the bloody battle north of Pohang.

Another report of the advance came from a U.S. army photographer who accompanied the Allied attack. He said it had carried beyond an enemy road-block which had held up the counter-attack Thursday.

The Pohang fighting highlighted activities along the 120 - mile defence line, which has thwarted the communists' efforts to drive United Nations forces out of Korea by midnight Thursday—the deadline set by Premier Kim Il Sung of North Korea.

Huge American tanks, supported by aircraft and the fire from allied battleships, helped check the desperate drive of 26,000 North Koreans on Pohang.

A thousand more North Koreans were killed or wounded in eight hours in a desperate red effort to grab mete inches of the wrecked outskirts of the port bity on the Sea of Japan.

The air force alone claimed 1,200 communists killed in two days.

Reckless spending of men's lives moved the communists within three miles of the city. But they were far behind schedule—to kick United Nations troops clear out of Korea by the target time of midnight tonight.

A staff officer at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said stout resistance by South Korean units balked the reds before Pohang, the Allies' No. 2 port and supply city.

The raking fire of American warships in the harbor mowed down the attackers by the score.

The spokesman said the communists had set 6 a.m. Wednesday as a new deadline for taking the city which they won and lost again 10 days ago.

Jellied-gasoline bombs, rockets and machine-gun bullets were poured into the Pohang besiegers by United States and Australian planes.

The crucial battle gained impetus at 2 a.m. Thursday, (noon E.D.T. Wednesday) by an attack by 26,000 red troops.

It took them all day to gain only a few yards against the weary South Koreans and Americans.

55 ARE KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES BURNS NEAR CAIRO

23 of the Passengers Were U.S. Residents

Cairo, Aug. 31—(AP)—A Trans-world Airline Constellation plane carrying 55 persons, 23 of them Americans, crashed and burned today north of Cairo, killing all aboard.

The airline announced there were no survivors among the 48 passengers and seven crew members. Reports from the scene said the plane was so badly burned that only a small section of it remained intact.

The bodies of the victims, many of them notables and representing a dozen countries, were so badly charred that identification at once was impossible.

Officials of the district governor's office in Behaira Province placed the scene of the crash near Etay Baroud, about 75 miles northwest of Cairo. Eyewitnesses said they saw the big four-engine "Star of Maryland" plummet to earth in flames.

Earlier the district governor's office had held out hope that six of those aboard had survived, but this was dashed by messages direct from the scene, to which rescue teams had been rushed as soon as a T.W.A. search plane spotted the wreckage in the Nile Delta area. T.W.A. said the bodies are being removed by plane to Cairo.

Five of the crew of seven aboard the plane, bound from Bombay, India, to Rome, were Americans. The other two were French. Eighteen of the 48 passengers were Americans, and the remainder represented 11 other nationalities.

En Route to Meeting

Two passengers were Indian Nationals en route to a United Nations meeting in Paris. Another was the Egyptian movie star Lilianne Cohen, whose screen name is Camelia. She is known as "The Lana Turner of the Middle East.

The plane left Cairo for Rome at 1:30 a.m., today. It was last heard from at 1:57 a.m. first indication that it had crashed came when it was reported overdue at Rome five hours later. An air search began immediately, and a T.W.A. plane located the wreckage 22 miles southwest of Tanta, between Cairo and Alexandria, the line reported.

Korea Air Lift 'Just Another Job' To RCAF Transport Squadron Crews

By ALAN ROGERS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

McChord Field, Wash., Aug. 31. (CP)—A month ago Canada joined the Korean air lift, and to the men of the R.C.A.F. Thunderbird Squadron today the 5,000-mile trip to the brink of Korean battle-grounds is still "just another job".

Six times daily groups of 34 American soldiers board fleet, four-engined transports. The soldiers are bound for Japan and eventual combat. One of every six airlift aircraft that leaves the runways of this sprawling, growing air mecca, in the shadow of towering Mount Rainier, is a North Star of the R.C.A.F.'s 426 Squadron.

The Thunderbird Squadron—100 air crew and 350 maintenance men—is an integral part of the giant air lift of Military Air Transport Service. The Squadron's 12 crews fly eight speedy North Stars over the 10,000-mile round trip from here to Haneda Air Field, near Tokyo. But the R.C.A.F. men say the 26-hour Trans-Pacific flight is routine, even though they fly within sight of Russian territory on the last lap of the three-stage jaunt.

Take North Route

All aircraft in the air lift—72 planes are American C-54s—take the "Great Circle" route. They fly from McChord Field to Anchorage, Alaska, to Shimya in the Aleutian chain, and then on to Haneda Field in Tokyo's suburbs.

Canadian crews are stationed at Anchorage and Haneda so the transports keep moving, but the crews shift, giving weary pilots time to relax from exhausting hours of flying.

Thunderbird pilots like Sqdn. Ldr. Howie Morrison of Lauder, Man., the unit's second-in-command, say the Aleutian weather is tough, "but then the weather on the North Atlantic route is no soft touch."

Guided by Radar

The planes are guided through swirling Arctic fog by a radar network which so far has brought each flight to safe landings at northern field—often blanketed. Officers told visiting Canadian newspaper men that not one plane has been lost on the trans-ocean flight.

Weather conditions cause variance in the distance lift planes travel from Russian territory. At times planes have flown within 25 miles of Siberia, fully aware that their presence was known to Russian army bases.

So far not one aircraft has reported either sight or contact with Russian planes. The planes are all unarmed.

Unrestricted Entry Given Many Items Effective Oct. 1

Pork and Pork Products Completely Relaxed Dec. 31

Ottawa, Aug. 31 — (CP) — Canada today announced a sharp reduction in import controls on United States goods, restricted by a dollar shortage. The new relaxations become effective Oct. 1.

Canada will open the door to the unrestricted flow of such items as pulp and paper products, office machinery and appliances and passenger automobile tires. They have been banned since the beginning of 1948.

Included in this list also will be such items as domestic water heaters, cigaret lighters, ash trays, vases, pencil sharpeners, dry cell batteries, and watch straps and bracelets.

Two-Way Trade

Pork and pork products, allowed into Canada on a government permit only, will become completely relaxed Dec. 31. The plan is a two-way affair and will mean that the United States will lift the embargo against the import of Canadian bacon and other pork products at the same time.

In the joint announcement by the trade and finance departments, a group of items which previously had been allowed into Canada on a limited quota basis, now also will be able to move into Canada completely unrestricted on Oct. 1.

The most important items in this group are textile fabrics, soaps, polishes, glassware, kitchen and household hollow-ware and cooking and heating equipment.

Another relaxation move, from the completely-prohibited category to the quota group, also was made. This will mean imports in limited amounts of such items as cut flowers, perfumery and toilet preparations, electric light fixtures, flashlights, electric irons and dry shaving machines, jewellery, fountain pens and pencils, and electric mixers, heating pads and fans.

In a departure from government policy, the departments announced that 45 of the current 95 capital-goods items under quota will be removed entirely from control.

The capital-goods items absorbed the biggest part of Canada's dollar expenditures in the United States.

Chemicals Free of Controls

Made free from these controls are such items as certain chemicals, building stone, road-paving machinery and railway equipment. All of these items are needed in Canada's construction program

Also included on this list of relaxations are the fire engines, hearses and ambulances, aircraft aircraft parts; bookkeeping, calculating and invoicing machines and all office machinery parts, production parts for cooking and heating apparatus, vacuum cleaners, clothes wringers, washing machines, irons and electric shavers.

An official said the relaxations likely will spark the flow of millions of dollars of additional goods into Canada. They also will act as an anti-inflationary move. The greater availability of goods would lead to a greater scramble for the consumer's dollar.

Finance Minister Abbott, commenting on the relaxations, pointed out that the Canadian gold and U.S. dollar reserves—now well

Deaths Accident Verdict Given By Coroner's Jury

Tadoussac, Que., Aug. 31—(CP) —A coroner's jury last night deliberated but briefly before returning a verdict of accidental deaths in the cases of six and possibly seven victims of the Aug. 14 fire aboard the cruise ship Quebec.

The verdict exonerated the 150-member crew of the St. Lawrence River ship that was razed by an afternoon blaze while sailing 20 miles west of this town at the mouth of the Saguenay River.

Eight witnesses gave lengthy evidence during the five-hour inquest.

Dead aboard the ship were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shapiro, of town of Mount Royal, a Montreal suburb, and their son, Leonard; Mrs. Pickens Smith McCollum of Clemson, S.C., Gertrude Taub of Tarryton, N.Y.

Missing and presumed dead are Dr. P. S. McCollum, Mrs. McCollum's husband and Eva Taub.

Most of the 450 passengers of the Canada Steamship Lines vessel and crew were disembarked safely here shortly after the fire was discovered.

At first, company officials said all passengers were safe, but a subsequent probe of the ruins uncovered charred remains of six persons.

The fire-ravaged hulk was towed to a Lauzon drydock, near Quebec City where an inch-by-inch search was carried out by provincial police. The probe ended a week ago today with only remains of six persons found.

The post office at Shannonville operated by Russell Westcott of that village, was broken into Wednesday evening, it was reported today by provincial police. Entry to the office was gained by breaking a window. Police said it was believed that nothing had been taken by the intruders.

THREE PAY FINES FOR "JOYRIDING"

Pleading guilty to a charge of "joyriding", three young members of the RCAF now taking a course in basic English at Trenton, were given suspended sentences for six months and ordered to pay court costs of $4.15 each, when they appeared in magistrate's court today before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The court was told that the French speaking youths, one of them 17 and two 18 years, of age, had taken a car owned by J. A. LaBrash, of Trenton, civilian employee at the airport. They had driven the car to Brighton and were on their way back to Trenton when they were apprehended.

The youths have been in custody since they were apprehended ten days ago.

Northern Electric Ladies Drop Game To Kingston

Northern Electrics Ladies softball team, currently devoting their evenings to playing on the exhibition circuit, dropped a 4-inning 3-2 decision to Kingston Provincial Tire Wednesday evening at Alemite Field. It was the local's second loss to the Tire ladies but their showing last night was in marked contrast to the beating they absorbed last week in Kingston.

Northern took a brief lead in the bottom of the second frame when they counted both their runs, Provincial Tire scored twice in the top of the third and once in the top of the fourth to wrap up the abbreviated contest.

Line ups:—

Provincial Tire: Ferguson 3b; Hunter ss; Fallon p; McMaster c; Shurtliffe 2b; Demone lf; Moulton rf; Hulse cf; Young 1b.

Northern Electric: C. Waite 2b; Reeves 3b; Day lf; Young 1b; Mills cf; Robson ss; A. McGrath rf; B. Reeves c; Jardins p.

Three Residents Of Galt Injured Near Brighton

Three Galt residents were injured and admitted to Belleville General Hospital Wednesday afternoon following a rear-end highway collision which took place near Brighton.

The injured are Leslie Voinich, 32, John Armstrong, 26, and his wife Mrs. Ruth Armstrong, 20, all of Galt.

With Armstrong at the wheel the west-bound Galt car crashed into the rear of a second vehicle. which had stopped for a highway construction company flagman. The three persons in the Armstrong vehicle were thrown into the dash and windshield by the force of the impact.

Occupants of the other car, driven by Archie Gillies of Timmins, were uninjured.

Provincial Constable H. Cook of Brighton, investigated.

Cars Damaged In Minor Crash

Trenton—(Special)—It was an even split—both cars were damaged to the extent of $100 each when they collided on Dundas St. E. just at the town boundary at 8.15 this morning.

Frank J. Morrell, 19, of 239 Ann St., Belleville, was following a dump truck east on Dundas St. and in making a left hand turn to drive into a service station, Morrell pulled directly into the path of a westbound car driven by Thomas M. Coon, 24, of 18 Stone Street, Belleville. There were no injuries in the crash.

Picket Lines Dissolved, Men Hurry Home to Ready Selves For Shift as Rail Strike Ends

The rail strike ended officially in two parts for Belleville last night. When the news came over the radio in the strike tent at 10.15 from the lips of Frank Hall and A. R. Mosher that the workers were ordered to take up their jobs, tension lined the faces of the strikers.

Outside the tent, the evening's entertainment went on, and inside, only a few knew that the nine-day protest against wages and hours was drawing to a close. The immediate move by Belleville men was to contact strike chairmen in Montreal and Toronto to confirm the radio announcement.

Next, the picket lines were dissolved, and when it was realized that the "soon as possible" order meant that some men would have to go to work at midnight last night, the organization swung into high gear. Men responsible for their sections immediately moved to contact their partners, and the trek to company property began.

Gather Around Radio

All during the night, knots of strikers had gathered around the little radio in the strike tent, and in their faces was mirrored a man's most important concern — his way of making a living. They were silent, and any outbursts were greeted with demands that they be hushed. Men stood with children in their arms. The men were old, young, slim and stout, but they all had one thing in common — they had been on strike, and now they were on their way back to work.

Some were cheerful, some non-committal, and some disappointed. But there was very little talk for or against the way the strike had been settled. The majority of them were content to face one simple fact — the job must be resumed.

Phone Used Exclusively

Rather than wait for chairmen in Montreal and Toronto to call the representatives of each of the carmen, machinists, boilermakers and a host of other international unions, and the C. B. of R. E., local men moved to confirm the radio report themselves. Announcement of the cessation was hard to transmit because of the lack of telegraphic facilities. Thus the phone was used.

The first call from Belleville went to John Cuppello, the general chairman of division four of the international unions (the shop crafts) at Montreal. At 10.45 p.m., William Ormond, recording secretary of the machinists' local No. 779, Belleville, received confirmation from Mr. Cuppello that the back-to-work signal was genuine.

Next move was made by John (Doc) Wellman, president of Local 128 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, who phoned his district chairman in Toronto. Some difficulty was encountered with this call, but it was finally made, and confirmation came to the C. B. of R. E. men at 11.05 p.m. Immediately, the local radio station was notified, and strikers were asked to report to headquarters.

No Mass Announcement

At headquarters, each man was told when he should report to work, depending on the shift he normally worked. By the time confirmation had come through, the crowd had left the grounds, and no mass announcement was feasible.

Mr. Wellman then called Bancroft, Trenton, and Cobourg to notify the men there that official notification had come through that the strike was over. The last of these calls, to Cobourg, was completed at 11.35 p.m., and Belleville and district men, in common with railroaders all across the country, hiked home for their working clothes and lunch buckets.

Some of the running crews had already moved to Toronto Wednesday afternoon to be prepared for a break in the strike. These men, in railroad parlance, were "deadheaded" by bus to Mimico and other points. They were the crews which were stranded in out-of-town points when the strike hit, and had since come home.

Little Grumbling

On the hole, there was little grumbling by the men when they heard the word. Most just stood, thinking about how the government move would change their plans. Some were frankly disappointed by the swift end, and wanted to know where negotiations would resume.

Now remains the gigantic job of cleaning up the CNR Athletic Association grounds. The big tent has to be taken down, planks and cheese boxes must be returned, the public address systems go back to their owners.

Leaders of the strike locally had a tough session last night. As the tension mounted during the evening, a tightening up lined the face of all of them. Everyone knew that something must break some time during the night, and the waiting seemed to be worse than the result. At the end, a few shoulders were straightening up as a heavy load was lightened, and they moved on to the next job in hand—that of reporting back to work on their next shifts.

Two Belleville Rinks in Money At Peterborough

Despite the stiff opposition that bowlers meet at district tournaments, members of the Belleville Bowling Club generally get a piece of the prize money and so it was at Peterborough on Wednesday when mixed doubles were played for the Black Memorial trophy.

Even the heavy rain of the past two days did not damper the ardor of the officials of the Peterborough Club. The appointments were superb, the greens in excellent condition after a few ends of play and the hospitality was excellent.

Dick Edney and his wife Mary of Kingston won the trophy for the second time with a score of 54 plus 10 while Walter Wiggins and Mrs. Wiggins of Campbellford were close behind with a 54 score plus seven. Other three game winners were J. W. Davison and Mrs. Charles A. Mott of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Edwards of this city, Mr. and Mrs. William Brady and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taylor of Campbellford and Paul Rouleau of Cornwall and Mrs. Marion Reid of Kingston.

Other Belleville rinks to compete were Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Argue and L. E. McLean and Mrs. Charles Hyde, all of this city.

No Likelihood Of Milk Prices Being Increased

Despite talk of a one cent increase in the price of fluid milk in the Toronto area, there is little likelihood of the present 18-cent price in Belleville being increased.

This was the feeling today of one local milk distributor, who said that as far as he was concerned the farmer producers appeared quite happy with the present price, which they are receiving. The current price to the farmer is $3.90 per cwt. for 3.4 milk, delivered at the plant.

In the Toronto area it was stated producers were negotiating with distributors for 17 1-2 cents additional per cwt, which would bring their price up to $4.25 cwt.

Farmers supplying milk to the distributors in the Belleville area seem quite content about their present price and there has been no suggestion of an increase according to the local distributor, who said he talked to about 15 farmers every morning as they delivered their milk to the plant.

Splendid Show Produced On Last Strike Day

The last day of the strike entertainment unfolded yesterday, and it was considered a success by everyone who saw it. The afternoon provided one of the best ball games of the year at the grounds, and the evening proved to be a fine show all around.

No announcement was made to the crowd watching the entertainment with regard to the strike, because official confirmation of the end had not been received. Strike authorities were concerned that the audience had not been advised of the situation but refused to make any announcement that could not be backed by fact.

An unscheduled act in the performance came at 9.45 p.m. when the signal bells at the Cannifton Rd. crossing started to chime. They kept up their ringing for about five minutes, and officials decided that someone was either playing a prank or that the bells were being tested for official purposes. The light on the switch showed green at the same time. Investigation showed that the signal box had not been tampered with, and there were no suspicious characters to be seen the length of the tracks.

Just when everybody considered that the bell-ringing for the night was over, it started again, and this time continued for 15 or 20 minutes. At latest report, it was thought that a bond wire on the signals had somehow become damaged, and was causing the outburst.

Motive Power Wins

The afternoon ball game, a seven inning affair was won by the Motive Power men 12-11. Their opponents were the car department. Two home runs were hit, one by Joe Jordan of the winners, and the other by W. Stoliker for the car men. A crowd of 300 watched the game. Standouts were Carson at third base for the power boys, and F. Cook in the winners' left field. Cook, called the "transplanted Englishman" amazed the crowd with his rugger style running.

The lineups:

Motive Power: H. Robinson, rf; Joe Jordan, p; Doug Stortts, ss; T. Cope, 1b; Gill Gazely cf; F. Cook, lf; M. Mitts, c; Fox, 2b; Barney Carson, 3b. Manager Bud Lickfold.

Car Dept.: J. Webb, K. G. Loucks, G. Rowbotham, W. Storms, F. Gerow, J. Staples, E. Drum, E. Nelson, A. Pickle, H. Todd, H. Ryan, H. Luther, F. Collins, W. Mantle, P. Lucas, A. Gazely. Umpires: Jack Clark (p), Art Cole (b).

Roundhouse Becomes Hive Of Industry as Giant Moguls Prepared for Runs After Strike

A roundhouse, during a rail-strike, is just a morgue with steel monsters for bodies. At 12 o'clock midnight last night, the monsters began to show signs of life for the first time in nine days, and the smoke that has been missing from the horizon became part of an ordinary day again.

Word that the strike was over spread fast, and before midnight, the first of the men on the midnight-to-eight shift were straggling into the roundhouse. They stood and looked at the pieces of equipment that mean their livelihoods, shrugged and started to fire up. Some of the engines will sit quiet for days to come. others were moving on the rails as early as 2.15 a.m. The sitters lack parts, or need government inspection tests before they can be roaded again.

Run Test on Engines

Part of the snarl encountered last night stemmed from the fact that some of the engines required government tests before the strike, and other tests came, due while the men were not working. This forced a splitting of the gangs last night so that some of the tests could be run on the engines, while others were being fired.

There are tricks in all trades, and the 30 or more men on shift last night were using all in their command to get the breadwinners moving. First engine to be fired and moved was No. 8393. She only moved a few feet on the track, however, because No. 7135 was blocking her way.

And that was where the first trick was used. Pressure on the hot engine was turned into 7135 to speed up her steam process. She in turn was hooked to another and it went on through the night, the utilization of every pound of pressure in every possible way.

Soon Taken To Yard

At 2.15 a.m., 7135 moved out of the way, and 8393, puffed her way on to the turntable under the hand of Gordon Vince, assistant roundhouse foreman. He took her right out of the roundhouse to the watering tower, and there she was picked up at 2.30 a.m. by Engineer E. McDonald and fireman R. D. Lawrenson. They took her into the yards to start making up the early morning passenger train to Lindsay and Toronto.

At the same time, firing continued in the shops, and men like Bernard Wardsworth, Jim Lorimer, Bill Ormond, Oscar King, R. Stoliker, E. Thrasher and Ted Revell, who were among the first to report, did their best in their different capacities to get things rolling. There was no lost motion under Dan White, roundhouse foreman.

Smoke Rose in Gusts

Lights beamed, and the smoke rose in great gusts. Rust on the rails and wheels stood out in unnatural brilliance. And the men hurried here and there, their movements seeming to be without purpose, but then another engine would snort and inch her way off the pit.

One of the difficulties the men found was that some of the yard engines had been parked so that the road engines were blocked off. Thus, the smaller power plants had to be moved first, and the net result was much like a huge chess game as engines were shifted all around the roundhouse.

The soot came down in clouds, and the pall of smoke hung and hung over the yards. Within an hour after the firing started, the peculiar smell of engines getting up steam and belching their smoke had drifted as far down as Cannifton Rd.

Officers Assist

All the supervisory officers from the day shift came in to lend a hand and to expedite the procedure. They were prepared beforehand to jump at the first word and get the iron horses moving again. Here and there they looked at an engine, shook their heads and muttered. "Well, that one's a dead duck. Forget her and get the others started."

And from all the confusion, came order as the pace speeded up. Engines were requested from the office, and engines went out. First runs were not definite at that time, but all that was important was that engines were needed.

How did it feel to be back in harness? "Well, we're here," one man said. "That's about all you could say."

Police Making Every Effort to Keep Roads Safe

Provincial police at Belleville are leaving no stone unturned in their effort to make highways as safe as possible for the motoring public.

Just this was again indicated today when a total of exactly 67 charges were listed on the morning docket before Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Well over three quarters of the charges listed were for traffic offences — twenty - six of them for speeding.

The majority of the traffic offences were settled out of court with fines and costs being paid after pleas of guilty by the accused.

Four youths arrested August 20th near Marmora on charges concerning the theft of money from a Madoc gasoline service station, appeared in court for sentence but were again remanded when their records from Ottawa failed to arrive.

The youths are Orville King and Thos. Henry, both of Toronto, John Deseno, Oshawa, and Wm. C. Bailey, Kingston.

Clifford Blanchfield and W.G. Windsor, charged with breaking and entering the Belleville Livestock Sales some weeks ago, along with other charges, had their cases again enlarged when their counsel was unable to make court appearance. Bail for the two men was renewed, the case now scheduled to be heard Sept. 6th.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 31. (CP)—Prices rolled upwards for a fourth successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The market opened on an easier tone but support appeared quickly and market leaders were carried well ahead. Volume for the first three hours was 1,055,000 shares.

Leading industrial stocks climbed further into new high price ground on gains ranging from fractions to two points. Traders were wary during the countrywide rail strike but the end of the strike gave them renewed confidence and demand increased.

Papers, continued leading the advance with steels, foods, utilities and bank following. Liquors turned lower. National Breweries dropped $7 at $22 following news the companyies had cut the dividend in half.

Base Metals also continued their climb into fresh price ground. Consolidated Smelters boomed to a new high at 114 5-8 and International Nickel, Steep Rock Iron Mines and Waite Amulet were under heavy accumulation.

Western Oils firmed in irregular dealings. National Petroleum slumped sharply. Junior golds added pennies and seniors were mixed.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

UNRESTRICTED

over $1,200,000,000—have improved steadily during the last six months.

Further Relaxations Possible

If this improvement continued, he said, and barring other unforeseen circumstances, he could look forward to further relaxations, or indeed to the complete suspension of all remaining emergency import controls.

He also noted that the current easing of controls would mean that there no longer would be any complete prohibitions of any United States goods and that the scope of those allowed in on quota would be reduced by about one-half.

Still remaining on schedule I—prohibited list—would be comics and "pulp" magazines, printed or manufactured soft synthetic sheeting, pleasure boats with inboard power, ornaments, punch boards and pinball games and coin - operated vending and amusement devices.

"Even these, however, said Mr. Abbott, "will not be completely prohibited but will be importable freely from non-scheduled (non-dollar) countries, and may also be imported from scheduled (dollar) countries by those who have quota permits."

Increase Quota Permits

The government also announced that 1951 quota permits covering the 50 capital-goods items still remaining under permit-control will be increased through these means:

1. Unused balances of 1950 allotments may be carried over into 1951, if a request is made to the trade department and the reason given is considered good.
2. Allotment permits to dealers i. 1951 will be increased by 20 per cent.
3. Consideration by the trade department to any request to increase permits for production materials and component parts for manufacturers. Otherwise permits in this category will be issued at the 1950 rate, that is, about 75 per cent of the value of the U.S. imports in the 1946-47 base year.

Items Still Under Regulation

Suspension of practically all fabrics from the quota list leaves under permit regulation only such items as wearing apparel, blankets, knit goods, hats and caps, floor covering, furs and fur garments.

Quota permits range from 44 per cent of the value of the base 1946-47 import year for textiles to 78 per cent for leather.

The total base-period imports of all consumer goods now under quota amounted to about $200,000,000. This will be cut into half by the Oct. 1 relaxations.

Rival Shipping Centre Being Built On Baltic Coast

Berlin, Aug. 31 — (AP)—East German communists, envious of the bustling Western port of Hamburg, are building up a rival shipping centre on the Baltic coast.

The government's slowly - unfolding five-year plan for the Russian zone, it is learned, calls for 100-per-cent expansion of the city of Rostock.

New shipyards and a chain of industrial enterprises are contemplated within the next two years. Rostock now has a population of 115,000. The goal for 1955 in 250,000.

Rostock, first German city to be hit by British bombers when the Second World War broke out, still bears the scars of allied attacks. The rubble - clearing job is completed but little new construction has been undertaken since 1945.

The East German Ministry for construction, which will bear much of the load of the five-year plan, has approved plans for the pretentious expansion.

According to East German authorities, a huge harbor is to be constructed along with the Warnow shipyards where pre - war German freighters were built.

Ocean - front mills, cranes, furnaces and repair shops will stretch more than five miles down to the suburb of Warnemuende, a former peacetime play spot for wealthy East Germans.

The communists, following a pattern set by their Soviet overlords, propose to reserve the Warnemuende beach and resort facilities for party faithfuls and specially selected "activists" from industrial plants.

Hard work in the factory and loyal attendance at party meetings will yield a high class vacation at Warnemuende at working-class prices.

GAS PIPES FOR SMOKERS

Blackpool, England, Aug. 31 — (Reuters) — Britain's pipe makers are going gay.

A Blackpool manufacturer yesterday announced plans to make Briar pipes in green, blue, red and white colors, in addition to the familiar browns and blacks. The announcement said production of two-tone jobs would come later.

ORDERED TO HELP

Hong Kong, Aug. 31 (AP) — Red China's police have been ordered to help the Chinese communist army fight resistance to next winter's land reform program in "newly-liberated" areas. This move is interpreted as an effort to mold red China even closer to the blueprint of other communist countries.

Crash is Caused By Engine Failure At Low Altitude

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 31—(CP)—A few seconds after he had radioed "Mayday", code word for extreme emergency, pilot Sidney Hutnick and four other men crashed and died yesterday in the flaming wreckage of their forestry seaplane, 50 miles northwest of North Bay.

Hutnick was less than 200 yards from the safety of Maille Lake when his heavily-loaded Norseman coughed, then pancaked into the ground and exploded in flames.

Searchers found the charred bodies of the 36-year-old, Windsor, Ont., born pilot; engineers W. E. Geddes, 25, of Sault Ste. Marie and C. W. Tyrrel, 33 of Sault Ste. Marie; and foresters C. D. Perkins, 31, of Fonthill, Ont., and R. P. Phillips, 27, of Hamilton.

Radio receivers at North Bay and Temagimi picked up Hutnick's last frantic message.

The crash, worst in the 26-year history of the Provincial Air Service, was believed caused by engine failure at low altitude.

George Hutchings, who witnessed the crash from Temagimi Country Club on the shore of the lake, said the plane suddenly lost its forward momentum as it skimmed close to the ground then plummeted like a brick. One wingtip tore a corner from the porch of an empty cabin. The tail assembly gouged a crater 10 feet from the main lodge.

Hutchings said he tried to fight the flames with a small hose but the heat drove him back. He said the occupants burned in their seats.

The forestry men were on their way to Temagimi with a 250-pound "summer toboggan." It was to test its caterpillar treads in the transport of packs and equipment over rough terrain.

Two federal transport department officials left to investigate the crash today.

BEARS MENACE IN RAINY RIVER

Lavallee, Ont. — (CP)—Irene Hnatiuk, 16, rounded a clump of bushes on her path to the pasture to bring in the cows.

Two feet away was a huge black bear. It reared up on its hind legs and roared. Irene fled for home.

Several hundred bears have been killed in this Northwestern Ontario area during the last few years. Sheep and cattle have been killed but there is no report of an attack on human beings.

Joy of School Days Returns As Holidays Rush to Close

A mounting wave of enthusiasm is beginning to roll up in school children of all ages in the city as they realize, with joy, that the opening of school is just five days away. Less than a week. Hurrah!!!

This glorious return to discipline and good works, after an idle summer spent at camp, off on motor trips, or just lazing around the yard watching the grass grow has been eagerly awaited since school was closed almost two horrible months ago.

Evidence of Enthusiasm

Students are not saying much to one another these days about the approaching term, fearing that words might break the spell and slow down their headlong rush to the books. Several of the older students have been seen gazing wistfully at the torn up remnants of the Collegiate campus, dreaming of the grand times that will be denied them on its sandy expanse.

Younger members of the family, who have never been to school have been seen in tears after talking to second graders, weeping because they have been denied one whole year of the gaiety and transcendent joy that is school. Pupils of all ages have expressed the sorrow that lingers in their hearts as a counterweight to their otherwise abundant happiness—they will not have the same teacher this year as they had last.

Teachers are bubbling over with enthusiasm for the new term. They have been trying desperately all summer to hide their true feelings about being away from their eager, knowledge-hungry charges, but now that the term is about to begin, with all its bright classroom hours and quiet evenings of marking examination papers, they can beam broadly and chuckle that it is "good to be back."

Pleasures of Preparation

Mothers and fathers too are delighted that school is opening. They can now shop through the stores with their children, fitting them with complete new wardrobes, school bags, rubber boots and rain coats for rainy days, and all the other impedimenta that illustrate so well the "high cost of education." Parents with three or four children in school are doubly and triply glad at being able to spend three and four times as much money on their offspring as those with only one or two children. The fact that school opens the day after Labor Day is socially significant because in labor there is joy and just think of the joy that will be flooding the streets Tuesday morning as school opens once again.

POPULAR BEVERAGE

Canada imported $9,660,000 worth of tea from India in 1949.

REJECTS RUSSIAN CLAIM

Stockholm, Aug. 31 — (Reuters) — The Swedish Foreign Office today rejected outright a Russian diplomatic note accusing her of illegally imprisoning a Latvian subject and deporting two others.

Sweden's reply, handed to the Soviet Embassy here said:

"As this note contains accusations against the Swedish authorities which are without foundation and, therefore, insulting in form and content the Swedish Foreign office has no reason to consider it.

"This note is, therefore, rejected."

EGG EXPORTS

Sweden's exports of eggs during the first half of 1950 amounted to 7,460 tons, seven times as much as in the corresponding period of 1949.

PAST AND PRESENT

At Hay Bay there exists a link with the early past of Upper Canada, namely the old Hay Bay Methodist Church, erected in 1792, abandoned in 1860, repaired long after on account of its importance in the history of the Province and of the Methodist Church and last Sunday the scene of an impressive service when three hundred worshippers crowded into the building for worship. The church repaired some years ago again was the scene of a service in a far different age and yet in an age when the church still holds a place in the hearts of the people.

Last Sunday in the ancient church an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. R. A. Whattam of Toronto, while the moderator of the United Church of Canada, Right Rev. Willard Brewing, spoke eloquently of the pioneers and of their message to the world of today.

The early settlers in Upper Canada and other sections of the vast country, which has become the Dominion of Canada stretching from Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific, were pioneers of stout hearts and minds to whom the present generation pays honor. Their faith and courage live on to guide the people of this generation.

The occasion of the pilgrimage to Hay Bay last Sunday was a bright light in this age which differs so greatly from the early age of the pioneers of the late eighteenth century who laid the foundations of faith and loyalty which have meant so much to the later generations of Canadians.

A happy note on the anniversary pilgrimage was struck by the Moderator of the United Church, Right Rev. Willard Brewing, who expressed confidence in the youth of today, descendants of the founders of the settlements in this part of Upper Canada.

It is well that such occasions should be recalled by the various churches. Such anniversaries have a real meaning as they show the great debt the people of this age owe to the founders of this part of Upper Canada. The early settlers have a meaning which sinks deep into the minds of the people of this day and the memory of the founders is an inspiration which will be felt in long years to come.

THE FIELD

Fields are the holiday spots of the poor. They would prefer a month at the seashore, or in the mountains or the piney forest, but they can afford to get in to the picnic grounds at the bus stop and spread themselves for the afternoon, or at least until it rains. A great thing about a field is that the children can run farther without falling off, into and under so many things so often.

A field may be used for looking at, or for playing games, or for fighting a battle, or for growing certain things while trying to prevent other things from growing. A field is for walking and sometimes for sitting or lying supine to mark the course of clouds, how they move across the sky.

Mountains and the sea and the forests are natural wonders more acclaimed by humans, but the fields are more used by them. The fields feed them even more than does the sea, and the fields bring them even more wealth than do the forests and the metals and water power of the mountains.

Those who live in those vast fields, the prairies, and who have not merely remarked them from a pullman or plane window, but who have been sweated and have pondered and laughed there and been defeated and got up again and have eaten grain-grown turkey — these are professionals from the big-time fields and they have their special feelings about fields.

Lesser folk, the small-time field people of the East — cannot match the Westerners' peculiar emotions about fields, but they spend a great deal of time in fields one way and another. Some of the farm, although the prairie man queries, "Do you call that a field?" Then there is the Sunday stroller, whose traditional habitat is the fields. There is the park loafer. He is a real field man, a pro in his small way, for he has found the cops do not make you move on so much when it is a park you pick for loafing, rather than a street corner. There are the fellows pitching horseshoes beyond the end of the subdivision, the thousands at the ball game, the mushroom hunter, the golfer (although the field is to him just something not to get off of into the woods), and the lovers (although conversely with them the field is just something to cross to reach that chummy grove of trees.)

Fields are bare places on the earth, but many have in their memory some particular field that is not bare of wonder. Perhaps they were taken there as a child, or walked there among the bird calls of evening or at sunrise, or saw there one time the twined grass flowers — really saw them. Fields are for the poor, but he is indeed poor who has not some such visioned field for his very own. — The Printed Word.

Experiences are for an hour, but principles are for the ages. Just because the rains descend and the winds blow, we cannot afford to build on shifting sand. — Beecher.

All is but lip-wisdom, which wants experience. — Sir Philip Sidney.

SEDATIVE SLEEP

The soothing night comes as a nurse
Devoted watch to keep,
And when the sun gives weary man
The sedative of sleep.

It soothes the fretful mind
And eases every pain
It steals away the cares of day
'Til he must rise again.

It blots out every blunder made
And trivial failures met,
And while he lies with lidded eyes
It sets him free from debt.

Oh, wondrous sedative called sleep
That all may freely share,
And 'til we wake ends every care
The body has to bear.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most of us entertain dreams of what we would do if we ever came into a little money. A man I know made enough to buy a boat. All his life he has dreamed of owning a cabin cruiser. Every cruiser he could board he explored from stem to gudgeon. He has wangled a few trips on them. But mostly he has just dreamed, and read about them. He buys the yachting magazines and pores over every page, including the condensed advertisements. There is not a book on boats he has not read.

At last, for a song, he got his cabin cruiser early this past season. And yesterday, he invited me aboard to inspect her.

There is not a convenience known to the boating world that he has not got on that craft. There are so many conveniences that there is barely room to turn around in her either on deck or below. She was third or fourth hand when he bought her, and her previous owners had installed most of the basic conveniences. What money my friend saved on her price, he has bestowed upon conveniences.

For example, there is a convenient locker or cupboard for everything. If you were going on a three year cruise around the arctic circle, there is likely nothing you might need that you could not find in the cunningly contrived lockers, cubbies and pigeon holes into which the entire boat has been sawed. Off every partition, down from the roof, up room the floor, conveniences project and protrude. There is barely any room for a person on her; and no room at all for a suitcase.

This is what comes of dreaming. If my friend had got a boat when he was young, she would have been as bare as a flower pot; and he would have sailed in her a hundred thousand miles. But the dream boat is doomed to anchor in quiet bays, and to be tied up at docks, a trinket, not a ship.

CAN'T BEAT BERTIE

Toronto, Aug. 31 (CP) — So far during the Canadian National Exhibition, nobody has been able to beat Bertie at the old game of "noughts and crosses." Bertie is an electronic brain, developed (BB Rogers Majestic) for lightning fast calculations. Bertie wins or draws every game. But a change in his circuits could make him a specialist in weather forecasting, aerodynamics, ballistics or just about anything else.

QUARTER STATE DAMAGED

Gauhauti, Assam, India, Aug. 31 (Reuters) —About 15,000 square miles of upper Assam—more than one-quarter of the state—have been damaged by recent earthquakes and floods, it was announced today. One and a half million people have been affected and more than 1,000 are believed to have been killed. Officials estimated that nearly 100,000 cattle have been destroyed and $11,200,000 damage done to property.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

SHORT ON TALK

North Bay, Ont.—At a small roadside restaurant in Geraldton, Ontario, an American tourist and his wife were ordering their lunch. The American looked up at the waitress, a slim, dark, attractive girl.

"We'll have a peanut butter sandwich and a hamburger," he said.

"No meat," the waitress said.

"Oh, well, make it a fried egg sandwich and a couple of pieces of apple pie."

"No pie."

"Oh. Says pie on the menu."

"Sold out."

"Hmmm. Well have you anything sweet? Like doughnuts?"

"Nope."

The American burst into laughter and said okay, then, they'd just have the sandwiches and coffee. When the waitress had gone into the kitchen the American turned to us and grinned. "They never waste a word do they?" he said.

I mention the incident because I'm about to risk making some new enemies, this time in eastern Canada, by suggesting that there really is a laconic, Percy Kilbride type of small town easterner who, with "foreigners" holds up his or her end of conversation with "Yep" or "Nope" or, in cases of extreme doubt, "Mebee."

The waitress is one of many examples we've encountered in the past few days. She was neither rude nor short with the American, as the bare dialogue might suggest. If a fellow had a couple of weeks to get acquainted she'd probably be real friendly. But that reserve or coolness, compounded of pride and independence, is a little startling at first in its abruptness.

And Words

On the basis of a few encounters I suppose it's silly to say that easterners in a small town are any different than westerners and, yet, isn't there every reason in the world for them to be that way?

In the west you have a relative newness. People are, in many cases, only a generation or two from pioneer days. They talk of what their town will be like some day.

In Ontario, on the other hand, we've run into people whose ancestors from far back lived right there. They are conscious of a tradition as few western small town citizens are. And this, it seems to me, reflects in their attitude.

Certainly this seems evident in terms of semantics. Again, it may be just coincidence, but the use of the word "reckon" (as in "Reckon she'll rain before noon") is one example of a word we've heard in conversation a great many times in the last few days, but rarely in the west.

We also came across an honest-to-goodness use of the phrase "I swan," which I personally haven't heard since an aunt of ours from Brockville visited us in Vancouver.

When I showed an elderly garage attendant through the trailer he said, "I swan" and it seemed to me to have a purely "eastern" ring to it. I asked the old gentleman what the phrase meant, but he didn't know either. It's a dandy, though, and I have been using it with great success since then.

The rather withdrawn manner of these people has its own appeal. We westerners like to talk of our easy manner and it's not unusual, of course, to call the garage man "Joe" merely because his name is written on his overalls. You wouldn't do that with any of these we've met in these parts.

Automatically you seem to be two men sizing each other up and no undue familiarity seems called for until the sparring is over, if then. In some cases I'd be willing to bet it'd go on for years.

Short Chat

As an example of this Reserved or You-Do-the-Talking approach I offer a one-sided conversation I had in the town of Ignace with a garage owner I'll call George. When he was filling out my credit card book George noticed I worked for a newspaper and this got us into a discussion about Les Callan, the cartoonist for the Toronto Star.

"Know Les Callan?" George asked suddenly.

"Why, yes I sure do," I said. "Les was a great friend of my family. One of the nicest fellows I know."

This outburst should logically have been countered by George. After all, it was his subject. But he seemed finished with the topic, thus swinging the whole onus onto me.

"Do you know Les?" I asked.

"Yep", George said.

I gave him a good minute. He'd had me again.

"How come?" I asked.

"Born here," George said.

"I haven't seen Les in a long time," I said. "Hope to look him up when we get down to Toronto."

"That so?" said George.

I decided to let it go at that, signed the credit slip and went out to the car. George followed me out and stood with his arms crossed to watch us drive away.

As I put the car into gear George said, "Les was a nice fellow." I nodded and drove off.

Later I told my wife that I thought I'd scored a victory because I'd got the last silence, but she didn't know what I was talking about.

Mackenzie's Column:

Germans May Be Enlisted to Fight Communism

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
(For DeWitt Mackenzie)

London, Aug. 31 — (AP) — Millions of Germans who marched against the West 10 years ago may be enlisted soon as active allies in the fight to stop communism.

West German leaders, anxious to restore the full, sovereign independence of their country, claim their followers are willing and anxious to play such a role.

American, British and French Foreign Ministers, meeting in New York Sept. 12, will decide on the exact nature and extent of the planned West German contribution to western defence.

Their decisions on Germany may well affect the entire course and outcome of the east - west cold war.

For it's as true today as it was when Bismarck founded the modern German state nearly a century ago, that when Germany sneezes the whole world catches cold.

Both East and West today are struggling to control the direction of the German sneeze.

Whoever wins that struggle, in the end wins control of Europe.

Suave Dean Acheson, Britain's ailing Ernest Bevin and Robert Schuman of France will have to accept or reject recommendations expected from their experts on six major issues.

Recommendations Expected

The expected recommendations:

1. West Germany should grant a limited, self-contained force on to the central western army being organized by the 12 Atlantic Pact partners — but only after the Allies are themselves.

2. The United States and Britain should boost the strength of their occupation forces in West Germany to around six combat divisions each.

3. West Germany's request to raise a 65,000 - strong armed militia to take care of internal security should be met at least in part.

4. The 11,100,000 - ton ceiling on West Germany's annual steel output should be raised so that the West can use the rich Ruhr resources for its own rearmament program.

5. West Germany should be allowed to set up its own foreign ministry, run its own foreign policy, send out its own ambassadors. Simultaneously the West should give up its right to veto laws passed by the Bonn Parliament — subject to some safeguards in the revised allied occupation statute.

6. The Big Three should call on all non-communist countries individually to end the state of war which still legally exists with West Germany — and so bring the German people fully into their midst for the first time since 1939.

Officer Once Marked For Execution Now Honeymooning in Eng.

By E.S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 31 (CP) — Maj. Roy Farran, once marked for execution by Israeli terrorists, is honeymooning "somewhere in England" today with a 23-year-old Canadian from Calgary.

Even his intimate friends were not informed of his marriage three days ago to Miss Ruth Harvie Adern. She calls Calgary her home town but recently has been living in Southern Rhodesia

When London newspapers published reports of Farran's engagement to Miss Adern last January he described them as "ridiculous and untrue."

Farran, 29, holder of the D.S.O. and triple Military Cross, was acquitted in October, 1947, by a court-martial in Palestine on a charge of murdering a 16-year-old Jewish boy.

Eight months later a parcel addressed to him at his home near Wolverhampton exploded and killed his brother Rex, 26, who opened it.

PREVENTION AND RELIEF OF VARIX

Varicose veins in the legs, varicocele and hemorrhoids (piles) are all the same fundamentally—dilated, over-filled veins. In each of these conditions one vein or a number of veins are enlarged and swollen from congestion or stagnation of the blood in the veins. The causes of this congestion or stagnation in the veins are generally the same whether the trouble is most evident in one situation or another.

In the upright or vertical posture the veins in these three situations have a heavier column of blood to support, and most persons spend more time in the vertical posture, standing, walking, working, playing, sitting, than they do in the horizontal posture, resting, sleeping, napping or lolling in easy chair with feet on desk, mantle or other support higher than hips.

So-called laziness and slouching posture is a contributing cause of venous congestion, although laziness is usually a manifestation of nutritional deficiency or undiagnosed illness of one kind or another nad not just a reprehensible trait, as ignorant people think. For example a great many persons with anemia due to hookworm infestation have been ill treated for their shiftlessness, and many more classified as "no account" or "poor white trash" in the south because of their undiagnosed pellagra.

Examples of pure unmitigated laziness there is the business or professional or white collar man who sits to and from work or office and for recreation or diversion sits at the bridge table or in the grandstand or at the theatre or movies or in his car and never plays, works or exercises himself. He watches professionals play. He may be a great "fan" but he is always a dull fellow. And short lived.

Then there is the housewife who hires people to do her housework, laundry and everything that requires physical effort. This unhappy woman inevitably goes flabby unless she has the gumption to take up some recreation or game at which she can keep her muscles and the rest of her body in good tone. The best of all forms of recreations for this purpose is walking—from two to six miles of oxygen on the hoof every day. Walking, I say, not lackadaisical strolling nor racing against time; walking for the pleasure of it. In contrast with standing or sitting or strolling, brisk walking pumps blood along through the veins back toward the heart and so tends to prevent venous stagnation or congestion in any of the three situations mentioned.

One with varicose veins in any of these three situations should practice (1) belly breathing, (2) standing on the head, (3) lying down for a moment as often as possible and elevating the legs to or nearly to vertical, (4) lying for a few moments with legs and hips higher than shoulders, or (5) the upside down bicycle riding exercise described and illustrated on p. 26 of the booklet The 7 Keys to Vite (for copy send twenty-five cents and self-addressed stamped envelope.) These little stunts all help to counter the venous stasis, stagnation or congestion imposed by the artificialities of civilized life.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Pleurisy and Tuberculosis

Is pleurisy the first stage of tuberculosis or is it related to tuberculosis? (D. H. B.)

Answer—No. Pleurisy is inflammation of membrane which cover lungs and lines chest wall. Sometimes what is mistaken for simple pleurisy proves to be actually a manifestation of tuberculosis in the lung. Only sensible plan is to choose your doctor and report for examination, observation and advice regularly until the doctor can determine precisely what ails you. It takes just such a period of study for the best of doctors to make the diagnosis.

Brutal Parents

Is it right for a father or mother to whip a 3 year old child across the legs with a ruler sometimes leaving black and blue marks. (W. M. H.)

Answer—No, they should be jailed or maybe whipped across the legs with a baseball bat hard enough to leave black and blue marks.

Gas Factory

Husband persists in taking one or two teaspoonsfuls of bi-carbonate of soda after every meal. could this be harmful? (Mrs. O. W. LaS.)

Answer—Reaction of the soda with the acid of gastric juice generates quantities of carbonic acid gas. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Yankee Stomach.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE AMERICAN EAGLE

I have just been reading an item about the fast disappearance of the American bald eagles in Alaska, where a bounty of two dollars has been paid for the destruction of each one. To end this slaughter there is a bill now in the United States House of Representatives—and I hope it passes.

Nearly every day I see one of these proud, majestic birds flying about my summer retreat. In the United States they have the same protection that other birds and animals enjoy. In eight months in 1949 there were 2,000 of these birds in Alaska shot-torn, their last soar at an end. We need these birds—mute symbols of independence and freedom — to continue their flights in the heavenly blue above us!

The symbol of American independence and freedom, in the character of the bald eagle, is represented upon the shield of the United States and upon many of its coins. Millions of eyes have been centred upon the image of this king among birds, significant of power, and only as this power is misused can it be destroyed.

Not a single pair of passenger pigeons now remain, because of the wanton slaughter of them, when they became destructive of crops. But man went all out to clear them from the earth. This almost became true as regards the American buffalo, which used to roam the plains of the west in great droves. Today, fortunately a few of these noble animals still live in American and Canadian parks. Remember those buffalo robes that kept us so warm on cold winter nights, as we glided over the snow in our sleigh? The youth of today have no such memories!

I always am unhappy when the season opens for deer, moose, ducks, and other game arrives, for I know that there will be plenty of killing—just for the sport of it! Has mankind reached the point where this killing instinct is apt to be turned upon itself, with its vaunted civilization to crumble to dust and to leave this beautiful earth, created by the Master Builder, a thing of desolation and ruin? It's time to think this out and make a decision, which may prove to be its "last best hope of earth" in the words of the immortal Lincoln.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE SKELETON AT THE FEAST

In journals of sixteenth-century England, we read of philosophical gentlemen who adorned their banquets with a human skeleton. Amid the music, the witty conversation, and the gay clothes, one silent guest sat motionless to remind all other guests of what they too must some day become. The years ago. Small medical knowledge and great lack of sanitation made it only too common for men to be carried off suddenly in the prime of life.

Perhaps we should keep skeletons at our feasts, for our modern world can snuff us out just as unexpectedly. Automobile, train, and airplane wrecks each year kill thousands who were laughing, thoughtless people a few moments before. We too need "memento mori"—a reminder that we will die.

Suppose death comes tomorrow—are you ready? Are your affairs in order? Are you prepared to face God? Or will you leave a tangle of debts and unfinished business, material and spiritual?

To be ready always is important, not only for death but for life also. A business firm which can pay its debts as it goes along and which is always solvent is in good condition. Just so, the man who lives in a state of preparedness to meet God is spiritually solvent all his life.

News of Trenton

Trains Start to Roll Early After Announcement Strike Had Ended Across Dominion

Trenton (Special) — "Did you hear that train whistle?" This was the question of the hour in downtown Trenton early this morning and replaced the customary "good morning" with which people usually greet their friends. The stock reply was: — "The railroads really got things rolling in a hurry."

The first freight, an eastbound from Toronto rolled through the CNR station here at 5.50 a. m., EST. It was followed by two westbound freights at 6:20 and 7:32, standard time. A visit to the CNR station this morning revealed that all passenger trains are expected to arrive in Trenton on schedule today.

The first enquiry about passenger train departures was from a man who wanted to leave for Chicago today. He had a limited time pass and today is the last day it is valid. This lucky traveller left Chicago on the morning of the 21st, was stranded in Toronto by the strike, came on to Trenton by bus and the strike just ended on the last day his pass would be honored.

C. P. R. Also Busy

The first freight passed through the C. P. R. station from the east at 7:30 this morning and at 8:00 o'clock, the first eastbound from Toronto sped through. The despatcher said at 9:30 that two more freights were on their way from Smith's Falls and another had left Toronto.

Trains are shunting up and down the spur CNR line along Division Street and the ten-day freedom from the shrill blasts of train whistles in the downtown business section is ended. Trentonians on their way to work this morning did not have to believe what they read in the newspapers or heard over the radio. They could see for themselves that the strike was over.

There was no immediate rush at the freight and express offices. However the backlog of business is expected to be felt more later today and tomorrow. "Nobody was certain of the place being open until this morning, so we will likely catch it tomorrow morning," said CNR express agent W. B. Stoddart. "Most of the business is outgoing express this morning but we are starting to pick up express."

Work Progressing Smoothly On District Memorial Hospital

Trenton (Special) — There is a "no visitors" sign on the door, but the patient is progressing slowly and the final operations are being performed according to schedule.

The patient is the Trenton and District Memorial Hospital and the reason for the "no visitors" sign is that workmen are busy inside, finishing the interior of the new hospital which is expected to be completed by about Christmas.

Once inside the large wooden temporary doors at the basement entrance, the smell of fresh paint is noticed as quickly as the usual antiseptic odor that pervades hospital corridors.

The doors are practically all hung on the rooms and the greater part of the interior sash and door trimming has also been completed, and the outside windows were being painted Wednesday afternoon.

The typical "hospital quiet" is accentuated by the emptiness of the building and footsteps and voices echo hollowly through the deserted corridors.

Some Equipment Installed

In the first floor operating rooms, large overhead lights have been installed in one of the rooms and across the hall, a similar light is still uncrated. What appeared to be sterilizing and anaesthetic equipment was also packed in large boxes waiting to be installed.

The railings have not yet been erected on the staircases and a makeshift piece-together wooden hand rail is wired and nailed in place temporarily.

Many of the rooms have used hospital beds in them, some kitchen equipment, and tray wagons can also be seen in various parts of the building.

Debenture Approved

Council has approved the $150,000 hospital debenture by-law, for the completion and initial operating costs of the hospital which the ratepayers of Trenton voted in favor of on June 12. The Ontario Municipal Board has also given its approval but the debentures have not yet been offered for sale. Clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry said Wednesday, that the bonds will be dated September 15, 1950.

It is quite evident from an inspection of the hospital that a considerable amount of work still has to be done before the official opening ceremonies will take place, but Hospital Board Secretary S. O. Graham reports that construction is not being held up by material shortages and that the work is proceeding according to schedule.

Mothers Flown To Egypt to See Condemned Sons

Fayid, Suez Canal Zone, Aug. 31 —(Reuters)—Three young British soldiers were hanged today as the first flush of dawn appeared in the desert sky.

As their mothers, 100 miles away in Cairo, watched the dawn through red-rimmed eyes, they knew that their fight for the sons' lives had ended in failure.

All night long they had hoped some last minute miracle would save their boys—a pardon for at least one perhaps two of the condemned youth, but none came.

The mothers were flown from Britain to see their sons before the execution. They will be flown back today.

The three condemned men. Gnrs. R. E. Smith, 37, and J. L. Golby, 29, and driver F. E. Hensman, 22, were convicted by an army court-martial of murdering an Egyptian watchman at a car garage in Cairo April 9.

The three had been absent without leave from their unit for a week and had committed other thefts. Hensman pulled the trigger on the watchman but the court ruled that the other two were equally guilty.

Aussie Soldiers On Way to Join Forces in Korea

Tokyo, Aug. 31—(AP) — Australia infantrymen, on their way to join United Nations forces in Korea, flew into Japan today.

They are the first contingent of the Australian expeditionary force. Their number was not reported.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth occupation forces declined to comment on when they would go to the front.

In the Philippines, where the party stopped en route from Australia, the group was described as the third section of Australian units, indicating two others already had reached Japan.

Their future arrival in Korea will extend the growing base of U.N. forces. An abbreviated British brigade landed in Korea Monday, bringing the third national flag to the U.N. ground force.

Soot Accompaniment To 'Washday Blues'

Saskatoon (CP)—Women here have an additional burden to carry along with the usual Monday "washday blues."

Ald. Marjorie Walker told city council that soot from bonfires of residential garbage is playing havoc with the washing.

She attempted to have a by-law passed to prohibit refuse burning on Mondays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Ald. A. H. Mence said he was "afraid" of passing by-laws that "go to extremes." He speculated that once the trend got started council might be passing laws to prevent people sneezing on street-cars."

Besides, added Ald. Bob Hunter "some people wash on Mondays, som[illegible] on Tuesdays, some on Wed-ne[illegible]."

[illegible] some people don't wash at [illegible] interjected Ald. S. E. Bu[illegible]

FOXBORO

Departing Families Honored By Neighbor Friends

Foxboro.—Friends and neighbors assembled in the S.S. rooms on Wednesday evening when a social evening was enjoyed. Rev. F. Gilbert was chairman.

Mr. Frank Tummon led in the singing of some songs with Mrs. F. Spencer at the piano. Instrumental music was furnished by Caroll Stewart and Marie and Maryln Hollinger and Mrs. Hayton favored with two humorous readings which were much enjoyed, while Mrs. W. Rombough favored with two solos to her own accompaniment on the guitar.

Mrs. Wanda Sine was then called to a seat of honor and Mrs. W. Simmons read an address in which was expressed the appreciation of the assistance Mrs. Sine had always given in all activities and regret at her departure for her new home in Belleville.

She was presented with a large electric tea kettle and electric clock with illuminated dial.

Mrs. Sine expressed grateful thanks and said she would always treasure pleasant memories of her sojourn in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Sine were then called to the front and Mr. Gordon Priest read an address in which was expressed appreciation of Garth's assistance in the church and Sunday School and congratulations were extended to him and his bride. They were presented with a large electric coffee percolator.

Mr. and Mrs. Sine expressed thanks for the gifts and "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows", was sung.

Refreshments were served by the ladies.

ALBURY

Miss Evelyn Young Bride-to-be Honored By Friends

Albury — Mrs. Beuford Peck opened her home on Monday evening for a shower for her cousin, Miss Evelyn Young, a bride of the near future.

The evening was spent in contests. Evelyn was asked to open her gifts under colored balloons filled with confetti which were then broken. Over 30 were present. The hortess served delicious refreshments.

"CUSTOM-BUILT" CAR

Edmonton—(CP)—Possibly the largest convertible in Edmonton is the 4,635-pound automobile of the Juchli brothers. The car, a hybrid, incorporating parts of other vehicles, is seven feet, two inches wide and can accommodate five passengers in the front seat. The Juchli's built the 16-foot-long auto in five months at a cost of $1,300.

TESTING

Saskatoon—(CP)—Hospital superintendent L. T. Muirhead and assistant superintendent E. V. Walshaw lugged it into the board room. Alderman S. E. Bushe knelt on it. Everett Miners lay on it. Mayor J. S. Mills sat on it. They were all satisfied and approved an order for hospital mattresses.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

(The author of these articles Mrs. J. R. Futcher, of St. Thomas, is accompanying the Canadian members of the Women's Institute on a trip to Copenhagen, where they will attend the triennial convention of the Associated Country Women of the World. She is president of the Federation of Women's Institutes of Ontario and this series of articles is written to keep the members of the W.I. and all interested informed of the highlights of the trip.)

First day on board.

I'm a spoiled woman. I don't see how I can ever be normal again. Our state-room, which accommodates four nicely, is a bower of flowers, the kindness of friends and relatives. Special thanks to Middlemarch and North Yarmouth W.I.'s for their thoughtfulness. We sent some of this brightness to the dining room, sharing their beauty with others. Messages of "Bon Voyage" and gifts, one even coming across the continent from California, make me very humble that so many are interested in my "tripping".

We have all the comforts of home in our state-room and ample space to store bags and heavy coats out of the way. Upper and lower bunks are, of course, essential, but we have a desk, two dressing tables, bedside tables, and easy chairs for lounging. We fortified ourselves with sea sick pills, immediately on coming on board, in the hope of avoiding any unpleasantness.

Leaving the unpacking, we lined up for table sittings and deck chairs, as first in line get the preferred places. Many in our party chose the second sitting for meals, meaning breakfast at 9, lunch at 1:15, and dinner at 7:30, luxuriating in the thought of "lying in" in the mornings and then, of course, after leaving the Gulf we lose an hour a day, and turn our watches ahead one hour every 24 hours.

A musical gong, played up and down the labyrinth of corridors, by the steward, is a pleasant invitation to meals. The food is excellent, with a great variety of choice and very nicely served. Next letter I'm including a dinner, menu and you will understand why the "choosing" of food is one of the biggest problems of the day.

We chose the stern of the boat for our chairs, right out in the sun, where the view is unobstructed, and where we can watch the interesting wake of the ship.

The lounge is all it implies, a large, comfortable room, stretching right across the ship, with fairly deep windows, carpeted floors, writing desks, chesterfields, easy chairs for resting, and tables and upright chairs for cards and games—a splendid place to "get acquainted". Afternoon tea is served here at four—a good cup of tea plus a thin wafer of bread and a cake. Everyone enjoys this English custom, as the lounge is always crowded when tea is "on". A five-piece string orchestra adds to this afternoon treat.

The Empress of France is a C.P.R. boat, and normally carries around 800 passengers plus 400 of a crew, but the guest list is down, due to heavy last-minute cancellations, to under 500. We travel around 410 miles in the 24 hours—less if the sea is heavy. I am agreeably impressed at the rate of speed, and the steady hum of the engines is a comforting sound, not at all annoying. There are cabins on A, B, C and D decks. We are very nicely situated in the centre of the boat, an outside room with porthole, on B deck, from where we go up one deck to the lounge and down one to the dining room.

There are many activities to satisfy any mood or inclination. You have the movies, deck tennis, shuffleboard, horse racing, bingo, dancing to choose from, and a "turn around the deck" is always in order no matter what the weather.

Tonight, we saw the movie, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game", and I feel very much at home. I hope our St. Thomas Legion is still "in the win" and not letting us down. A good game of bridge finished the day, and since I declared and made a little slam, I could call it "perfect".

Our delegation was further honored today by the gift of a dozen and a half beautiful yellow roses from the Danish Consul at Montreal. They were divided and every stateroom has this fragrant reminder of the country which will soon play host to hundreds of countrywomen.

Hello again, family!

Male Competition Not too Strong Say Career Women

Toronto, Aug. 31. (CP)—Canadian business women took a look yesterday at their male competition and decided they needn't be too worried:

The occasion was a get-together at the Canadian National Exhibition of a group of 11 Ontario career women. Here are some of their comments about men:

Miss Louise Girvan, Toronto Travel Service owner: "I am not at all worried about male competition and I prefer women to do business with. They come into the office and get all steamed up about a trip. Then they come back with their husbands and we end up by making the arrangements just like the ladies wanted in the first place."

Ella Van de Mark, Toronto interior decorator: "I don't find men any competition at all. I would rather do business with men than women. Men are more likely to know what they want."

Violet Keene, Oakville, Ont., photographer: "As customers, women are usually more generous than men. They order larger photographs of themselves than men do."

Peggy O'Neill, Grimsby, Ont., hotel owner: "Male competition can be tough. Men are like animals and have to be softened up."

Mayor Harold Cleave, Georgetown, Ont., and one of two lone males at the gathering, replied meekly to the barrage: "We men are very scared here today."

Church Receives New Look After 50 Years

Albury.—The re-opening of Albury Church was held on Sunday evening with over 100 in attendance. The church was redecorated with paint and new carpet, the first in over fifty years.

The soloist for the evening was Mr. Jim McKay. A violin solo was rendered by Mr. Harold Norris, of Toronto the junior choir also sang.

Rev. Dr. Howard of Belleville, was guest speaker assisted by Rev. Mr. Hillis, of Belleville and Rev. J. P. Henderson, pastor of Albury Church.

CAMPBELLFORD

Oliver Clan Holds Family Reunion At Villa Trent

Campbellford.—About 50 relatives of the Oliver family of Campbellford, met at the Villa Trent on Sunday to celebrate the family reunion.

Mrs. Wm. Oliver, age 86, was the oldest member present. Her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Howard, of Windsor, also celebrated her birthday at the gathering.

Other guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Waite of Oakland, Calif.; Mrs. Ernest Tait and grandson, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. C. M. Sinclair and her sons, Roger and Peter, and Miss Anne Howard, all of Windsor.

Relatives from Peterborough, Hastings, Castleton, Norham and Warkworth joined in the celebration which was the first the family has held in several years. They now plan to make it an annual event.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Try a frank talk with this girl's mother

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going with a girl I love very much, but we don't get to see each other very often. The reason is that for some reason or other, her mother doesn't approve of me and doesn't want her daughter to go out with me. When we do see each other, we have to do it on the sly, and neither of us like this business of sneaking around corners.

I'd like to know some way I could find out just what her mother has against me, so that I would know just where I am at. Can you suggest anything?

H. R. L.

Dear H. R. L.:

I'm a great believer in the direct method of asking what you want to know; of going straight to the person you think has the answer.

So I'd suggest that you make a polite call on the girl's mother—and I don't mean a telephone call, either—and ask her if she will tell you frankly what her objections are to your friendship with her daughter. Tell her how much you admire her daughter, and say that neither of you wants to do anything of which she would disapprove. Tell her, too, that if there has been anything in your conduct or attitude that she doesn't like, you want to know it so that you can remedy the difficulty.

Most mothers, I think, would respond in a co-operative manner to a straightforward and manly approach like that. And — P.S.—You might take this one a nice gift of flowers when you go to see her! A little flattering attention might help soften her heart.

Wants to find out if ex-boy friend has a steady

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Last Fall I was going steady with a boy I liked very much, except for the fact that he hung around with the wrong kind of gang. He really did not fit into this gang, as he is a very quiet, good-natured boy, and the others very wild. I never asked him to stop going with them, because I thought it was not my business.

Later, I broke up with him, and since then he has stopped going with the gang. So I would like to go out with him again. I don't know how to go about getting a date, though. I have heard that he is going steady with another girl, but don't know whether or not it is true. Though I like him so much, I don't want to ruin his chances with another girl if he is really going steady with her.

C.

Dear C.:

The best way to find out whether or not this lad wants to go around with you again is to ask him to come up to your house some evening. If you went steady with him for awhile, you must surely know him well enough so that it would be perfectly natural for you to say something casually, like, "Why don't you come over to the house some evening?" Or perhaps you might be going somewhere when it would be appropriate to invite an escort, and you could ask him if he'd like to go.

If he has become interested in another girl, that will be the way to find out, because, of course, if this is so, he'll explain that he can't do as you suggest. Then you'd better stop thinking about him and get yourself another boy friend.

A decorative luncheon table can be made by using a dark-colored tablecloth—cloth or paper—and white lacy paper doillies. Doily place mats may be added for affectiveness.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Courtesy tips to the departing Guest

Please (1) take all your belongings with you. . .it's a chore and a bore to a hostess to have to package and send on to a careless guest an item or items left behind. And please (2) leave the room you have occupied "neat and tidy", as near as possible to the freshly-made-up condition in which it greeted you when you arrived. "Untidy" is never a pleasant classifaction for a guest. Remember that someone. . .probably your hostess, possibly a maid . . . must pick up any tissues and so forth you discard, must clean up ash-trays and throw away the cigarette stubs you should have disposed of, must take the extra steps, the extra care you should have taken. Your basic manners as a person are high-lighted when you are a guest. . . inevitably a thoughtful, considerate person is a thoughtful, considerate guest.

Correct form to address an envelope

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"A" says that when one is addressing an envelope, it is good form (1) to write the name of the city and the name of the state on one line, and also (2) to abbreviate the name of the state. "B" insists that the name of the city should be written on a separate line from the name of the state, and that the name of the state should not be abbreviated. We have a bet on this. . .please tell us who is right.

Arita M.

"B" is absolutely right. The name of the city and the name of the state should not be written on the same line. . .particularly today when the Zone Number is written after the name of the city. Also the name of the state (or of the city) should not be abbreviated even when the name of the state is a long one. (It takes only a second to write out the name of the state, about the same few seconds it takes to make the period after the abbreviation!) Today even business and professional envelopes are correctly addressed with as few abbreviations as possible. . .this is generally insisted on by the heads of companies.

An envelope. . .social, business, professional. . . .is correctly addressed:

Only two financial responsibilities for best man and ushers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be best man for a college classmate of his, who lives in the same city we do. My son tells us that it has been "more than hinted" that it is the best man who is expected to give and pay for the bachelor dinner for the prospective groom. My husband and I have never heard of such a thing, but we fear we may be old-fashioned and that this may be the new idea and custom. So I suggested to my son, who is most perplexed about this, that we write to you for information and advice. What is customary?

Mother

Please believe, dear lady, that you and your husband are not one bit "old-fashioned". . .it is customary and taken-for-granted that the prospective bridegroom gives and pays for his bachelor dinner. But some prospective grooms (and many prospective brides!) are so imbued with the "gimme" spirit that they set forth determinedly on a campaign of making someone, anyone, pay for any wedding details that they should (and they know they should) pay for. With this bad taste, they make the position of best man, which should be an honorary position, a financial responsibility. The best man is told that he is "supposed to give and pay for the bachelor dinner," that he is "supposed to supply the champagne or liquor for the wedding reception," and so forth and so forth. The ushers too are unfairly informed that they are "supposed to provide the flowers for the bridesmaids", that they are "supposed to provide the wedding cars," and so forth and so forth. The truth is that the only 'financial responsibilities' of the best man and ushers are two: (1) each to provide for himself the wedding attire prescribed by the groom; and (2) each to send a wedding present to the bride-to-be.

BEAUTY

Hands that talk

It is taken for granted that a woman will keep her hands beautifully groomed, the skin surface white and smooth, nails well-shaped, carefully tinted. That, of course, is a major requirement in cultivating good appearance. What a woman does with her hands is something else again. Awkward movements can detract from perfection of line and surface.

Some hands have a quality of repose that makes them charming. Others seem to be ever on the move during conversation. If you are inclined to be a hand waver, indulging in gestures, it would be wise to take a check up now and then. Restless paws do not make for poise and poise is a quality of beauty that must not be overlooked. Hands should be expressive and not over-active.

In the theatrical world the importance and advantages of beautiful hand movements are well known. No movie lovely would ever have made the grade if she had indulged in awkward poses of her fingers. Knowing what to do with her hands and feet is a part of her training. Body grace is an attribute of enormous value in making oneself pleasing to the eye.

The source of hand eloquence is in the wrist. It must not be muscle bound; it must be pliant and flexible, move with ease. Upon its flexibility depends upon whether the hand will look young or old.

The stiffness can be shaken out of the muscles. Hold your hands palm upward, extend your fingers. Bring them together in the palms, then relax them. With fingers outspread, turn the hands from side to side, then up and down. Are these movements made easily and gracefully? If not then keep at them. Your hands will talk eloquently. They will be pleasing and attractive. They can emphasize the spoken word without stiffness or awkwardness.

Never hold your fists tightly clinched or have your fingers entwined in an awkward, tense manner. Like the entire body, the hands should have ease and grace. Any appearance of nervousness lessens attractiveness. To fiddle with a lock of hair, to twist and turn a dress ornament is to exhibit tension and nervousness.

A word to finger twiddlers, those indiviuals who are constantly worrying the cuticle of their nails: don't do it! You do it because you are ill at ease or nervous and you make others nervous. It is a deplorable habit, does not add to the sum total of charm.

Crab Fishermen Reap Big Harvest From Lucky Find

Cordova, Alaska — (AP) — Fishermen of this Alaska coastal town have struck a crab leg bonanza.

With their daily earnings running up into three figures, it looks as though the strike is as rich as any of the lucky oldtime sourdoughs' early day gold findings.

"A yarn that a couple of men were making $300 a day in a new placer gold strike would arouse terrific excitement," wrote Clarence Martin, Cordova Times publisher. "Yet the crab fishermen are making that kind of money—and it is just as good as if it came in nuggets."

Cordova is one of the big producers of canned and frozen crab. The species is known on the Pacific coast as the dungeness. But until recently all of the Cordova area catch was taken from Prince William Sound, adjacent to the town.

Because the Sound's crab beds always supplied enough of a catch to make a good living for the fishermen, few of them ever ventured outside.

It was during the closed season in the south that a venturesome fisherman decided about a month ago to try his luck in the Gulf of Alaska — the vast body of North Pacific water that washes the breadth of Alaska's southern coast.

He put out his traps and brought in a first day's haul of 3,000 crabs. A Cordova packing plant paid him 15 cents a crab—$450 for his day's efforts.

Soon a half dozen fishermen were working in the same area, each with from 100 to 150 traps. After several weeks of fishing, the boats continued to bring in from 1,800 to 2,500 crabs each. Small boats are manned usually by a man and a boy, or by two men at most, so the daily take has been running $150 to $200 each.

Since the fishermen already had the traps for their Prince William Sound fishing, just about the only additional expense is for the bait and the boat operation

The fishermen like it because they can leave early in the morning, run out to the gulf, pull their traps and be back in town by evening. The town likes it because it is the biggest flow of steady money it has seen for a long time.

The men and women who process the crab meat are making big pay cheques too. The packing plant crab "shakers" — they literally shake the meat from the shells — are the elite of the packing crews. A skilled "shaker" can remove about 450 pounds of meat a day. At 9½ cents a pound, that's $42.75 for a day's leg shaking.

The crab meat is either canned or quick-frozen in gallon cans and shipped to brokers in Seattle and San Francisco.

All this is happening in a season when the crab catch has been slim in such normally happy hunting grounds as Washington State coastal waters.

Happy Cordova fishermen believe they have tapped a vast storehouse of crab meat, and that they have only touched the edges.

There are no more openings at present in the Frankford Bowling League. The number of openings this year have been very limited, as most of the last year's players will again be bowling. Membership this year has been based on the following priority system. (1) Last year's members. (2) Frankford bowlers who last year bowled in the Frankford Major League team. (3) Those who have specifically contacted the league, and expressed their desire to bowl this season The leagues executive thought it unwise to run a notice in the paper requesting bowlers as the number of openings was very limited. It was felt that if this were done, there would be a greater number who would be disappointed after submitting their names.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Finnigan and son Ricky are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Finnigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Wood and children of Trenton spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlisle.

Whitehall Notebook:

Britain Uncertain Over Action On Hotel, Restaurant Tips

London, Aug. 31 (CP) —After an official inquiry which lasted nearly a year official Britain still can't decide what to do about tipping in hotels and restaurants.

The problem was described as urgent when the war ended. Now a government-appointed commission which has been studying catering wages has submitted its report. It says the whole question of tipping should be referred to a national committee— as a matter of urgency.

Trade reaction was indignant. The caterers' association of Great Britain said the commission had just "shelved the whole problem." An association of restaurateurs took the view that another committee would merely mean further delay.

Service Charge

The commission, which was headed by Sir John Forster, K.C., had one positive point to make about tipping. It said it didn't like the idea of a statutory service charge, which would replace the tip and which would be divided among the staff.

There was no evidence, the commissioners said, to indicate that a statutory charge reduced the flow of gratuities. Often it just meant the public paid twice.

Factory Whistle Act

Another matter considered by the commission was the government's catering wages act, a massive set of regulations known in the trade as the factory whistle act. Many hotel managers have claimed that it is ruining the industry. One of the chief complaints has been that the new wages structure makes it difficult for hotels to provide normal service in abnormal hours.

Catering establishments can still serve boiled potatoes and greens at regular eating hours, it was contended, but late-night snacks and a cup of tea with an early call put a strain on hotel services.

The commission acknowledged that the act is not perfect.

In some respects, it said, conditions laid down by the act cannot be attained at a cost the hotel management can not always stand.

"The cumulative effect of these increases has resulted in a reduction of standards of service not in the best interests of industry, the workers engaged in it, or the public which the industry has to serve."

Wholesale Price Index Highest In History

Ottawa, Aug. 31 — (CP)—The wholesale price index during July climbed to the highest level in history, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Moving up on its seventh successive climb, the Bureau's wholesale price index stood at 166.9 at the end of July — 1.9 points above the previous high of 165.0 in June and 10.3 points higher than the 156.6 level in July, last year.

The Bureau's index is calculated on the basis that 1926 prices equal 100. Since the beginning of the year the index has climbed from 157.1.

On Aug. 4, the Bureau announced that the June retail cost-of-living index moved up 2.1 points to a peak of 167.5. A survey of living costs for July is expected to be made within the next few days.

Blind Woman From England Visits Kin in B.C.

Vancouver, Aug. 31—(CP)—As she saw her family off to Canada from England 28 years ago, Florence Hutton promised she would save her money and come to see them some day.

She has arrived at her family's home here but she hasn't seen them. She never will.

For Miss Hutton—now 60—who flew here from her home at Coventry, England, for a visit, is totally blind

The plucky Briton is unhappy about one thing only. She is allowed but three months in Canada. Immigration regulations concerning handicapped persons allow her no more time.

"That was the immigration department's stipulation, and I shall abide by it," said Miss Hutton. "But I did so want to make my home here with my mother and sister. I thought we could end our days here together."

Besides her widowed mother and sister with whom she is staying, Miss Hutton has a brother living here. Another brother lives at Summerland, B.C., and a sister at Calgary. Two brothers and sisters remain in England.

After trying for three years to make the trip to Canada, permission was finally granted by immigration authorities on the understanding she would ask no extension of the three-month-limit.

Miss Hutton said her sight was poor throughout her life, but she worked 25 years as an expert masseuse with the British Ministry of Pensions. Five years ago she became completely sightless and had to give up her work.

Orthopedic Brace Boon for Children

Vancouver, Aug. 31—(CP)—Child sufferers of congenital hip dislocation can thank Dr. Gerald Burke for relief from months in clammy, waist-high casts.

The chief of orthopedics at the children's hospital here has invented a brace which is hailed as a major advancement in treatment of the ailment. Officials at the hospital said the brace "completely corrects the condition, usually without surgery if applied early enough."

One hospital spokesman said, in early treatment with the brace, patients who could not hope to walk before their fourth or fifth birthdays, are taking their first steps in the time normal for any healthy child.

The brace consists of a padded metal abdomen and back plate with cross bars that secure the thighs, yet allow the patient complete freedom of movement, even to walking.

Prior to the invention, children spent uncomfortable months in heavy plaster casts up to their waists. To relieve their discomfort, nurses had to turn them in bed at regular intervals.

VISITING CHAMPION

Stoke Fleming, Devon, England (CP)—Champion thrower in a grain-stooking contest here was a visiting United States student. His highest throw cleared a 19-foot bar.

Commons Fights Side Battle Over Donald Gordon

Ottawa, Aug. 31—(CP) — The Commons fought a side battle over the big, controversial figure of Donald Gordon Wednesday night in the midst of its non-stop debate on the rail strike bill.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, brought the issue to the fore when he virtually called for Mr. Gordon's resignation as president of the Canadian National Railways because of his handling of the rail dispute negotiations with the unions.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and several other members of his cabinet were in the chamber at the time, but none rose to reply either then or when members of two other parties, including one Liberal, joined the attack. One lone Progressive Conservative came to Mr. Gordon's aid.

Mr. Coldwell said Mr. Gordon's "period of usefulness as president of the C.N.R has come to an end." Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) said it would take a generation of good labor relations to undo the harm the wartime prices czar has done in his few months as rail head.

David Croll (L-Toronto Spadina), a former Ontario labor minister, said Mr. Gordon handled negotiations with "something less than skill and dexterity. . . He carried the ball and, unfortunately for us, he fumbled it."

Two Social Credit members, Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-Macleod) and C. E. Johnston (SC-Bow River), said it would probably be wise to replace Mr. Gordon as a negotiator in future discussions with the unions.

Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) said he was disappointed in Mr. Gordon if reports of his conduct were true, but he suspected that the whole story might not be known.

The crux of the statements revolved around reports that Mr. Gordon broke off negotiations last Saturday night when he came back to a recessed meeting with a prepared press statement and said it was no use to go on.

(In Montreal, Mr. Gordon denied the reports).

Regrets Attacks

A. L. Smith (PC-Calgary West) regretted the attacks. He could not appreciate an attack on anyone who was unable to answer in the Commons. He was against condemning anyone on the basis of the loose reports received by members.

He held no brief for Mr. Gordon. In fact, he said jokingly, he had once had to suffer the agony of listening to Mr. Gordon sing.

Mr. Gordon may have broken off the negotiations with the unions but the members did not know. But they did know that the negotiating unions refused the request of the prime minister for a 30-day respite in the strike.

The two key union officials, Frank Hall and A. R. Mosher later told reporters that they had no comment on the house references to Mr. Gordon.

Biggest Fair Up 10,000 Over Last Year

Toronto, Aug. 31 (CP)—Canada's biggest fair today swung into its sixth-day program with a livestock show and a women's marathon swim sharing the limelight.

Highlighting the day's program, officially dedicated to women, music and the arts, was the women's three-mile professional swimming race. A total of 14 mermaids seek the winner's mantle and $3,500 in prize money.

Also vying for the interest of C.N.E. visitors today was an archery tournament in which Helen Dickson of Winnipeg and Grace Middleton, Oaklyn, N.J., hold an early lead; the exhibition's annual band contest; a music festival; and the grandstand performances.

Some 227,000 persons jammed into the grounds yesterday, for a total attendance of 940,500 so far this year. At the same date last year there had been 930,000 admissions.

Judging of a record livestock entry was continuing today, with some of the country's top dairy cattle parading in the show ring for $28,000 in prize money, a 20-per cent increase over last year. More than 1,600 dairy and beef cattle are entered.

Yesterday four southern Ontario bulls won grand championship ribbons in the dairy cattle section and milking-cows were being judged today.

Owners of the champion bulls were: Holsteins, J. M. Fraser, Streetsville; Jerseys, James Bagg and Sons, Edgeley! Ayrshires, George F. Spring, Thornhill; and Guernseys, H. V. Howell, Welland.

EXCEED DELIVERIES

London, Aug. 31 (CP) —Russia's state farms exceeded their grain deliveries plan and completed it ahead of the time, the Soviet food industry ministry reports. Minister D. Pavlov wrote Prime Minister Stalin that the state farms would deliver not less than 1,500,000 poods of grain above their quota under the current five-year plan. A pood equals 36 pounds. The letter was broadcast last night by Moscow Radio.

Free Constable In Shooting Case, No Intent Found

North Bay, Aug. 31 (CP) — Prov. Const. John A. Williams of Pembroke Wednesday was acquitted of unlawfully wounding Gerald Scott of Whitney in a shooting incident July 20, near Killarney in the southeastern corner of Algonquin Park.

The officer said he fired a rifle shot at a rear tire of an automobile which sped away when he sought to check on its occupants during a search for three suspects in an armed robbery at Huntsville.

Magistrate Gould said he found that the constable fired the shot without intending to wound any occupant of the car. He said such intention must be proved to warrant a conviction on a charge of unlawful wounding.

The rifle bullet fired by the officer went through the metal rear of the fleeing automobile, splintered, pierced both front and rear seats, and wounded Scott, the driver of the car. Scott and a girl had been seated in the car, parked on a roadside, when Const. Williams approached in a police cruiser.

Const. Williams told the court that he was sent with Const. A. M. Kirwin of Killaloe to set up a roadblock on Highway 60 as part of a search for an eastbound car thought to contain three armed men.

Along the way, the officers stopped several cars. The driver of one vehicle told them that a car answering the description of the wanted one was parked near Killarney.

When the officers found the parked vehicle it appeared to be abandoned, they said. They approached it cautiously. Then they saw Scott behind the wheel and the girl beside him.

The car suddenly sped away, nearly striking Const. Kirwin. Const. Williams said he fired his rifle at a rear tire. The car stopped and Scott stepped out and collapsed on the roadway.

Gerald Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scott, 6th concession Sidney township, near Frankford, and is well known in the Frankford district. At the time of the shooting accident he was working with a Hydro gang in the Algonquin Park district. Following the shooting he was in Toronto hospital for several weeks and will not be able to return to work for from four to six weeks.

MENNONITE CAMP

Headingley, Man. — (CP) — A tract of land along the Assiniboine River, 15 miles west of Winnipeg, has been purchased for a Mennonite youth summer camp.

Bagg Brothers, Edgeley, Win Jersey Awards

Toronto, Aug. 31 — (CP) — The Bagg Brothers — James and Alfred — of Edgeley, Ont., did all right for themselves Wednesday when some of Canada's finest dairy cattle were paraded in the show ring for the $28,000 in prizes at the Canadian National Exhibition's livestock show.

Between them the veteran cattlemen and C. N. E. exhibitors garnered a Grand Championship, two Reserve Championships and five first-place ribbons as well as several lesser honors.

James Bagg's prize bull, Brampton Medalion Basil, was judged Grand Champion Jersey bull in the show. It was the fourth G. C. ribbon for the four-year-old bull, which won the same ranking at last year's show.

In all four Grand Champions, all bulls, were declared today. Other cattlemen whose animals took the prized G. C. awards were: H. V. Howell, Welland; George J. Spring, Thornhill, Ont. and J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, Ont.

Only bulls, calves and non-milking females were judged today. Female Grand Champions, the four classes will be declared after milking cows are judged tomorrow.

There were no entries from Western Canada in the dairy cattle class. However, western entries are expected to make a good showing in the beef cattle judging in the show.

Held on Charge Of Murder of Girl

Littlehampton, England, Aug 31 — (AP)—A 26-year-old house painter today was charged before a special court with the lovers' lane murder two years ago of Joan Woodhouse, London librarian.

The arrest yesterday of Thomas Philip George Stillwell came as the result of investigations of a private detective after Scotland Yard had given up on the case.

Stillwell pleaded innocent and was ordered held in custody without bail pending a further hearing Sept. 8.

The nearly nude body of Miss Woodhouse, 27, was found Aug. 11, 1948, near the Duke of Norfolk's historic Arundel Castle in Sussex. She had been on a vacation at a nearby youth hostel, and had been reported missing 12 days earlier.

Scotland Yard investigators said the shy and scholarly librarian had been attacked and strangled.

Chicago Fairs Handled Neatly by Little Lady

Chicago, Aug. 31 — (AP) — Running a show with a cast of 150 is a man-sized job. But a slender woman has handled it neatly for three years.

The woman is soft-voiced, sunbrowned Helen Tieken Geraghty. She has bossed the huge pageants at the Chicago fair of 1950 and at the Chicago Railroad Fair in 1948 and 1949.

It has been a tough task. She lost 23 of her 125 pounds the first season. But she managed to regain the weight despite a 13-hour daily stint.

This year's pageant, "Frontiers of Freedom," was new. Mrs. Geraghty, as producer and director, put in five months of work to get it ready. She mobilized a company of 250 — 150 actors, singers and dancers, plus drivers (auto and horse), locomotive engineers, riders, stage hands and musicians.

She assembled 150 horses, sheep, goats and steers. She marshalled tons of props — buggies, wagons, automobiles, railroad trains, fire engines, bicycles, threshers, tractors, two planes, a horse car, a canal boat and an oil derrick.

All were needed for a series of scenes that portrayed life and events at 14 periods in the nation's history, from the signing of Penn's treaty to the building of the jet plane.

Traffic Problems

But getting the men, animals and contraptions on and off the 450 foot open-air stage four times a day raised a ticklish traffic problem. It was solved by precise, split-minute timing.

But Mrs. Geraghty shudders when she recalls what happened during a rehearsal.

Six horses hitched to a caisson bolted. They brushed by the train and veered into a carriage pulled by a pair of hackneys. The hackneys galloped off stage into a herd of 50 Texas Longhorn steers. The steers stampeded for the stables, climbing over a line of antique automobiles on the way.

"I could see bodies flying," Mrs. Geraghty says, "but nobody was hurt badly."

She hasn't had a day like that since then, but none of them has been dull.

ISLAND ECONOMY

Grindstone, Magdalen Islands—(CP)—The codfish have not been biting well for the fishermen of these lonely islands this season and, to make matters worse, the price has dropped from three to two cents a pound. The spring catch of mackerel also was a failure.

Prairie North, Once Wasteland, Is Bonanza for Prospectors

Prince Albert, Sask. (CP) — Northern Saskatchewan's lake-dotted wastelands may become Canada's latest and most important bonanza.

The rugged, almost unsettled bush country—once considered just so much land to fill out the province's rectangular map— is the scene of several uranium strikes.

Field parties from the provincial Department of Mines, free-lancing university geology students and professional prospectors are combing known and possible fields for claims.

Federal security regulations are clamped on as soon as a field is proven, so no estimates of its potential are publicized. But mining concerns are shipping in machinery, roads are being built and government officials express cautious satisfaction with results to date.

Latest big find is in the Nunn Lake area, 140 miles northeast of here, where uranite crystals containing from 80 to 90 percent uranium have been blasted to the surface.

Dr. J. B. Mawdsley

A geological party under Dr. J. B. Mawdsley of the University of Saskatchewan handled the blasting.

Last fall four geology students from the University of Wisconsin found one which assayed at 2.4 percent uranium oxide in the La Ronge area, about 300 miles north. An assay of .5 percent is considered worth mining if the find is accessible.

One of the oldest fields is the rich Black Lake deposit, 425 miles north of here, where a road is under construction to bring in heavy mining machinery Provincial and federal governments are financing the road along with the mining company.

Newest and most-spectacular find is in the Ace Lake area, 500 miles north. Two prospectors this spring ferreted out the precious pitchblende near Lake Athabasca, in a property dropped by Eldorado Mines, which had held it for the Federal government.

The prospectors, George Findley and C. Lonetti, worked under a government assistance plan. Their strike zone ran in widths up to four inches.

The federal government takes over the product of all uranium strikes, paying the claim-holder a fee varying with the ore's value.

Other major strikes are in the goldfields and Stoney Rapids areas.

TWEED

Bowling Green May be Built At Memorial Park

Tweed —A meeting of all those interested in lawn bowling was held in the council chambers on Tuesday night with a good number of bowlers in attendance. After the meeting was called to order Mr. W. A. Beatty was nominated as chairman. He outlined plans and the cost of constructing a new bowling green at Memorial Park. Mr. K. Burkett, a member of the Parks Board told the meeting that the Parks Board were most anxious to have the different sport clubs use the facilities at the park.

Mr. Beatty in his estimates thought that they would require approximately $800.00 to finance the project, and ways and means were discussed to raise the money needed. He also thought that the park was the logical location and that all sports should be centred in one place.

Suggest Committee

Mr. S. A. McCarey suggested that a committee be appointed to make plans for all sports in the park and thought that "we should look forward to develop the park so that it would be attractive.".

Mr. Burkitt suggested that "we set up a membership drive and stretch a point to raise the required amount of money." This must be done at once to get a start on the new greens before the cold weather sets in. Mr. E. Hydman said he wouldn't like to consider any thing less than 6 greens so as to have plenty of room for tourists at the park and all who wished to bowl.

Mr. W. Connor and Mr. George West were over from Madoc and Mr. Conner in his remarks said that any help they could give from time to time would be gladly given and said the only thing to do now was to go ahead and organize. The following were named as a finance committee.

S. R. Curry (convener), Bob Hunter, Bill Beatty, Brook Clark, S. A. McCarey. Len Taylor.

Give Viking Ship To British Towns

Cliffsend, Isle of Thanet, Eng. Aug. 31 — (CP)—Built by the Danes to celebrate the 1,500th anniversary of the Thanet landings, a Viking ship with its dragon figurehead and many-colored shields, has been presented to the east coast towns of Ramsgate and Broadstairs.

The ship, Christened the "Hugin", has been berthed in a concrete cradel on a cliff-top prominence near here. It will serve as a permanent monument to the close historical associations between Denmark and Britain.

Replica of the rugged craft that carried the early Norsemen on their voyages of conquest and discovery, the, "Hugin" was rowed across the North Atlantic a year ago by a crew of 50 modern Vikings. After visiting several British ports it was bought by the London Daily Mail and presented as a joint gift to the two towns.

Thousands watched the colorful ceremony as bearded Danes in picturesque dress, horned helmets and carrying battle-axes, turned the ship over to it new owners.

Viscount Rothermere, chairman of Associated Newspapers, Ltd., in asking Prince George of Denmark to present the ship, declared:

"Since 1066 nobody has repeated the experiment of invading these shores. If this country keeps up its spirit as it has during these past 900 years, I think no one ever will. I trust the "Hugin" may serve as one of the many reminders of the kinship and love between the peoples of Denmark and this country."

Said Prince George: "Nowadays it is not necessary to stress the friendship between Danes and Britons. All the same I think it is good that from time to time this friendship, which is often taken for granted, should be reaffirmed as it was by the visit of the "Hugin."

Casey Stengel Plays Hunches And Now New York Yankees Are on Top in American Loop

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If Casey Stengel fell into a sewer he would probably come up owning an oil well

The puckish pilot of the New York Yankees (who incidentally owns several oil wells) is one of the canniest managers in the business. He also is a great guy for hunches.

Hunches that clicked helped the Yankees sweep a doubleheader from Cleveland yesterday and boost them to the top in the seething American League race.

The Yankees needed some clutch hitting of Tom Ferrick and Ed Lopat also played a large part in the 4-3 and 3-0 victories that gave them a one-game lead over the Detroit Tigers.

But if Casey hadn't followed his hunches those things might never have happened.

Until an hour before play began, Stengel wasn't sure whether he was going to play Mize at first base. Then Stengel recalled that Mize had hit a couple of homers off Bob Feller who was due to pitch for Cleveland.

All the former Giant slugger did was slam a pair of homers, one in each game. He also collected two singles and drew the walk in the eighth inning that eventually turned out to be the winning run.

Hunch No. 2 came in the eighth inning of the first game. Eddie Ford, the little lefthander, was shaken up in a collision with Cleveland's Luke Easter. Stengel thought Ford was favoring his right side, so he promptly replaced Ford with Tom Ferrick. The veteran reliever proceeded to stop the Indians cold the rest of the way.

Detroit Splits

The Yanks' one-game margin was accomplished when Washington Senators held the slumping Tigers to a split in their doubleheader. The Senators won the opener in 11 innings 3-2, when Sam Dente singled off Fred Hutchinson to score Sam Mele. The Tigers had to tally three runs in the ninth to come from behind to win the second game 10-8. Successive hits by Johnny Groth, Johnny Lipon, Gerry Priddy and Don Kolloway produced the runs.

It marked the first time the Tigers had been out of first place since June 10.

Boston Red Sox stormed into third place, a game and a half in front of Cleveland, by whipping Chicago White Sox 6-1. It was Boston's 15th win in 16 starts.

Philadelphia's pennant-hungry Phillies increased their lead in the National to 6 1-2 games over Brooklyn. The Phils rallied for three runs in the ninth to come from behind and nip St. Louis Cardinals 9-8. Meanwhile Chicago Cubs downed the Dodgers, 6-5.

Vern Bickford coasted to his 17th triumph as Boston Braves pounded out a 9-4 win over Cincinnati. Sal Maglie pitched the New York Giants to a five-hit, 4-0 shutout over Pittsburgh.

The St. Louis Browns shoved Philadelphia Athletics into the American League cella. by taking both ends of their doubleheader 2-1 and 7-6.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Dean Rothrock, ace left-hander of the Smith's Falls Royals backed the Batawa Shoemen into a corner yesterday with a one-hitter to give the Falls a two-game edge in their semi-final series with the Shoemen. The "Rock" has now completed eighteen innings of playoff ball against the Batawans and in that stretch has compiled a remarkable record. In the two games he has given up only six hits — his first effort, also in Smith's Falls, was a five hitter— two walks, one in each game, and has struck out twenty batters. Last twilight he retired the first seventeen men in order and was working on a perfect game when Art Wright blooped one over the infield for the only Batawa safety. Earl Bush walked in the ninth for the only other letup.

* * *

It would seem from the above that the Shoemen are a bit weak at the plate when faced with good left-handed pitching. Especially when the pitching is a constant stream of great hooks and drops, which is the mixture that Rothrock was feeding the boys last night. He breaks his side arm curve off so far that it takes nerves like piano wire to stand in there even when you know that the ball is going to break. When it does start snapping off it looks like it is coming at you from somewhere near first base. It is likely that the Batawans will see Rothrock again Friday night when the Royals are here under the lights, weather permitting. He worked easily enough Wednesday night, having a nice cushion from the early innings, and it is more than likely he will be sent against the Shoemen here as the Royals try for a series sweep.

* * *

The Napanee Athletics and the Picton Athletics, who have been as coy as milk-maids caught with their hands in the butter, concerning the OBA playdowns, have outsmarted themselves right into the same OBA classification. And to keep things on a nice friendly plane the Sixardee Repairmen of the Belleville District League have also been assigned an Intermediate B rating.

* * *

The Repairmen meet the Picton version of athletics Friday night over in Picton in the first game of their best-in-three series, while the Napanee brand take on Gananoque. The winners play off for the zone championship and the right to advance into the second round of the playdowns.

* * *

The current rainy weather, which has washed out all ball games locally this week, and left the schedule makers running over open switches, has the calendar men biting their nails up to the elbows by now. The frantic scramble to sort order from this soggy chaos sees the Belleville Cubs at Sixardee tonight. Batawa will meet Smith's Falls here Friday night, and if a fourth game is needed, back here again Monday night. In softball, the Howe and Hagerman Plumbers meet the Brewers Saturday evening at 6.30 pee em. Ramsay Paints and Stewart Warner meet Saturday at 2:30 in the afternoon. Should Point Anne down Stephen's Adamson tonight, they will meet the winners of the Ramsay Paint-Stewart Warner series Labor Day afternoon, with a possibility that the game might be played in Point Anne. If the Pointers lose tonight they meet the losers of the Alemite - Ramsay set-to for the fourth playoff spot, Labor Day afternoon. In the South Hastings League the mudders from Latta and Cannifton go at it Monday, Wednesday and Friday, rain-or-shine until the series is over. They were the only two squads in this part of Canada to play ball last Monday evening, and last night, with most other games washed out, Latta downed Cannifton 7-3 in seven innings at Cannifton.

* * *

Timothy Geohagen, the Irish Strong Boy, who bends iron bars like pretzels, and restrains motorcycles with his teeth, will be out to pretzelize the Masked Marvel Friday evening in the wrestling show being staged at Memorial Arena. The Marvel's hood, which has been green in his appearances here to date has a peculiar fascination for the Irish strong man, who likes nothing better than pressing such colored glory to his manly heart and heaving a sigh for dear auld Ireland. Ireland has some ire in it though, when it feels it is being shoddily treated and it is thus with much ire in his Irish heart that Tim approaches his task Friday evening.

* * *

With a winning record recently unmatched in wrestling's big-time, Geohagen has an excellent chance to defeat the Marvel and reveal his identity. Guesses as to the Marvel's identity are plentiful with Bob "Strangler" Wagner, Lou Reynheer, and Dr. Len Hall, running hood and hood in the mystery derby. In the main preliminary, Rapid Ray Villmer, the pocket Hercules with perpetual motion, meets Wee Willie Davis while in the opener, Pat Flanagan tangles with Abe Zvonkin.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: Johnny Mize, Yankees—Clouted two homers, one in each game, and added two singles to lead the Yankees to 4-3 and 3-0 victories over Cleveland Indians.

Pitching: Ed Lopat, Yankees—Throttled the Indians with six singles for a 3-0 shutout win for his fifth straight victory of the season over the Tribe and his 27th lifetime win over them against six losses.

Brantford May Be Team to Beat In Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Red Sox appeared the team to beat in the Intercounty Senior Baseball round-robin playoffs as they belted Kitchener Legionnaires 5-3 for their second straight triumph last night.

Elsewhere in the playoffs Waterloo Tigers opened their series with a 3-1 victory over Stratford Nationals and London Majors defeated St. Thomas Legion 10-5.

In the Brantford game both starting pitchers, Wally Beggs and Ray Kirgasser were knocked out of the box, Red Sox Alf Gavey taking over for the latter to finish the game allowing only one run.

John Lipka followed Beggs and allowed one run on three hits.

The score was tied 1-1 in the seventh, when Waterloo third baseman Bobby Fisher tripled to score Red Kane. Yosurak's double and a single by Don Oberholtzer gave the Tigers an insurance run in the eighth.

London Majors blew a five-run lead in the fifth frame but managed to bunch five more in their half of the seventh to wind up the contest.

In the Viaduct League at Peterborough, New Toronto beat Peterborough 2-1 in the first game of their best-of-five semi-final series. Rene Bouchard held Peterborough to six hits while New Toronto collected 12 from Bill Edgar, at Toronto, Oshawa beat Aces 2-0 in the first game of their best-of-five series.

Dublin (CP)—Capt. Ian Dudgeon who lost a leg in the battle for the Falaise Gap in the Second World War, won first prize in an intrenational jumping event at Dublin Horse Show. There were 71 competitors.

Jersey Giants Defeat Chiefs In 13 Innings

(By The Canadian Press)

Jersey City Little Giants turned back Syracuse Chiefs 4-2 in a 13-inning International League game here last night.

Joe Bracchitta set the stage for the victory, which required three hours and five minutes when he led off the 13th with a triple. He scored the winning tally on Pete Pavlick's outfield fly. An insurance run followed when Stan Jok singled, stole second and was cashed on Chet Laabs' single.

Rochester Red Wings edged Toronto Maple Leafs 6-5 in the first half of a twin bill then dropped the second game 6-1 before a 12-hit Leaf barrage.

At Montreal, the Royals defeated Buffalo Bisons 7-3 to move within nine games of the league-leading Red Wings.

Springfield Cubs won the night cap of a doubleheader in Baltimore's final appearance of the season in Springfield 7-0 behind Bill Voiselle's two-hitter. The Orioles took the opener 2-0 on a four hit job by Tommy Fine.

Attendance of 3,199 pulled Springfield over the 200,000 mark, first time has been accomplished in professional baseball in that city. Total attendance to date is 201,443.

Rothrock Throws One-Hitter To Beat Batawa 9-0

Dean Rothrock, ace left-hander of the Smiths Falls Royals threw a nifty one-hitter at the Batawa Shoemen last evening in Smiths Falls as the Royals took a 2-0 edge in the COBL semi-final series with a 9-0 win. It was Rothrock's second playoff victory over the Shoemen.

The easy-going southpaw had things all his own way. He was never in trouble and from the first inning had a nice lead on which to coast. He just stood on the Smiths Falls hill, which is a real hill in every sense of the word, and hooked and curved the Batawans into submission. Art Wright broke up his perfect game in the sixth with two away when he singled to right field. Earl Bush walked in the ninth to claim the lone free pass issued by Rothrock. Willis and Rankin reached base in the eighth via errors by the Smiths Falls second baseman and that was it offensively for the Shoemen.

The Royals teed off early on Gord Muffitt, pushing over two runs on three hits in the first frame. After being blanked in the second they chased Muffitt with a four hit barrage that netted three runs in the third. Art Wright came on in the fourth and after hitting Kelleher and Stelmach squared away to retire the side. He was nicked for a single run in the fifth. In the sixth two walks, an error, and three hits resulted in three runs and that was all for Wright. Noble Willis mopped up in the seventh and eighth getting the side in order.

Rothrock walked one and struck out eight to claim the win. Muffitt walked none, and struck out one. Wright walked four, struck out two, and hit two batters in three innings, while Willis struck out one cleaning up.

Big gun for the winners was Joe Stelmach with two singles and a double in four tries. He scored three runs, and stole three bases to lead the Royals attack in all departments. Smith and Muldoon each had two for four.

EXECUTIVE MEETS

Frankford —(Special) — The executive of the Frankford Bowling League laid plans Monday evening for the coming season, by picking eight squads, and amending the rules and regulations prior to submitting them to a general meeting of all bowlers.

The eight squads, put together from last year's averages, were so constructed that the top and bottom teams are separated by just 23 points.

It was decided to hold a meeting of all members of the league in Scaletta's Bowl-O-Drome, Thursday evening, Sept. 7. Regular bowling gets under way one week later.

Negress Beaten By Miss Brough In Final Set

(By The Canadian Press)

Former champion, Louise Brough ended the challenge of Althea Gibson, first Negro ever to perform in the United States amateur tennis championship, by reeling off three games to win her second round match 6-1, 3-6, 9-7 at Forest Hills, N.Y., Wednesday.

But the unheralded New York newcomer, who had the highly-touted Californian on the ropes when rain halted play Tuesday, has stamped herself as a top-flight star in future years.

Suffering from the jitters in her first big-time appearance, Miss Gibson committed errors under pressure that nullified her booming service and effective net play.

Brian Kelly of Niagara Falls had Billy Tremblett of London on the canvas Wednesday night but couldn't keep there and had to settle for a five-round decision in the main event of a Hamilton boxing card.

Kelly is Canada's amateur bantamweight champion.

Sonny Adams, Bob Fair, Phil Farley and Bill Givens, Jr., combined their 18-hole rounds for a total of 301—one better than the Kitchener club which has won the title two years running. The Kitchener team was Gerry Kesselring, Tony Matlock, Milt Plomski and Moe Norman.

An order to report for a United States Army medical Sept. 5 awaited centre Doug Brightwell of Edmonton Eskimos when the team returned from its first Western Football Conference road trip.

Brightwell is one of seven American imports signed by Eskimos for this season.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — They've been calling Cleveland Indians the "sound" team in the American League race, but it begins to appear that the schedule was the soundest thing of all... It has the Yankees and Red Sox bumping heads on the same days that the Indians meet the Tigers three times during September... That should produce plenty of excitement...None of the four teams in the race is strong at every point...Cleveland's pitching looked none too good in Boston and when Bob Avila and Ray Boone were slightly injured Wednesday, veterans Lou Boudreau and Joe Gordon were painfully slow as their replacements... Still, Manager Boudreau figures he'll have those old-timers well rested for the final drive...Boston has plenty of power but so-so pitching and New York just the opposite—"though I think we'd be six games in front if Tommy Henrich could play every day," one Yankee hired hand added wistfully...And it was the same guy who remarked: "For a while, it looked as if Detroit was a team of destiny—like we were last year—but not any more...It has to be a close race right to the finish."

Lure that got Sam Snead to play in the Canadian Open was a week's fishing in Nova Scotia... Wonder if Sammy ever thought of offering the fish appearance money when they weren't biting? ...The Rangers' western amateur hockey school at Winnipeg winds up Saturday; the eastern section starts Sept. 12 at Lake Placid, N.Y., and the big team begins training Sept. 18. HISTORIC MONUMENT

Nw Delhi—(CP)—A pillar "of great historical and artistic value" has been discovered in a village in Basti, a district south of Nepal. The monument was erected 2,300 years ago by Emperor Asoka when he was spreading the gospel of Buddhism among the Sakyas clan to which Gautam Buddha belonged.

Bernice Crandall Defending Title In 3-Mile Swim

Toronto, Aug. 31 — (CP) — A tall, fair-haired housewife from Ohio attempts today to become the first four-time winner of the Canadian National Exhibition women's professional marathon swim.

Bernice Looney Crandall, 21, of Ashtabula and Warren, O., will dive into Lake Ontario with 13 other swimmers in the three-mile grind for $3,500 in prize money. She is defending the C. N. E. title she has held since 1947.

The race, billed as a world championship event, was reduced from five to three miles this year. It was a 21-mile event when first instituted in 1927, but was reduced to 10 miles the following year and to five miles in 1934. The winner collects $1,500. Starting time is 6 p.m. EDT.

Leading Canadian challengers for Mrs. Crandall's title are Mrs. Jean Lucille Rolph Pattison, Gananoque, Ont., who finished third over the five-mile course last year, and Barbara Elliott, who finished fifth.

Three other Canadian threats are Rachael Thomas, 30, of Charlottetown, seventh-place finisher last year, and Marion Townsend and Anne Fisher, both of Hamilton.

American swimmers have won the last five races, with the last Canadian to capture the event being Charlotte Acres of Vancouver in 1935. The race was abandoned from 1938 to 1946, inclusive.

United States contenders include Marian Sadlo, Whitestone, N.Y., whose father finished ninth in the men's 15-mile swim Tuesday; Edna W. Shelton, Detroit school teacher and oldest entrant at 59; and 50-year-old Mrs. Betty Cohen, Brooklyn, N. Y., who claims she will swim the English Channel in 1951.

FRANKFORD

Merchants Move Into Third Round Of Playdowns

Frankford — (Special)—Frankford Merchants moved into the third round of the OASA Intermediate 'C' playdowns Monday evening as they defeated Frontenac 13-7 in the third and deciding game of their best-in-three series. The game was played in Kingston.

Don Boyle pitched and batted the Merchants to victory. He came in to pitch in the first inning when starter Rogers was blasted. Reynolds started for Frontenacs but was chased from the hill in the first frame and Aylsworth came in to relieve.

Rogers, Appleby and Boyle led the Frankford attack with Rogers getting four for five and Boyle three for four. Each man hit a homer. Appleby connected for three hits in five trips to keep his playoff average at .600.

Corkey and Silvers, with two safeties apiece, picked up the lion's share of the ten hits doled out by the Frankford hurlers.

Sale, Cheshire, England—(CP) —Cheering, shouting and other boisterous demonstrations have been banned on the local bowling green.

Latta Lumbermen Beat Cannifton To Even Series

Latta Lumbermen piled up an early lead, weathered a Cannifton rally and then went on to win going away Wednesday evening as they squared the South Hastings Baseball League finals with Cannifton at one game each with a 7-3, seven inning victory in Cannifton. Cannifton took the first game 7-4, and the second game was an 11-11 tie.

May went the route for the losers being pounded for 12 hits and seven runs as a porous defence miscued eight times behind him. Glass did the flinging for Latta, setting Cannifton down with ten scattered hits for three runs.

Rigby and Glass of Latta led the batters.

Vern Goyer and Dick Fitzpatrick did the umpiring. They are the fourth and fifth umpires who have worked this series so far, and received the same sort of reception that greeted their predecessors. Who will do the job Friday night is not known.

AIRBORNE HUNTING

Stockholm—(CP)—Count Bjorn Von Rosen, Swedish author and expert on Ethiopia, plans an airborne hunting expedition to that country. It will start this fall if 18 hunters are found who are willing to spend $1,300 each and three weeks in the big-game wilderness near the Awash River.

SLOW CHANGE

Fernie, B.C.—(CP) — Crow's Nest Pass Company has put into operation at its Elk River colliery the first diesel locomotive ever to be used in underground coal mining in this province. The hauling of coal cars by horse still is, however, the general procedure in the industry here.

HARNESS MARSH GAS

London—(CP)—The fuel ministry and the national coal board are planning to utilize marsh gas to generate power for coal mining in Britain.

Around the Home ...

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

One of the best things about going away for awhile is coming home. Roughing it in the wilds or with fussy relatives sure makes you downright appreciative of your own comfortable furnishings ... and you see your dwelling with more discerning eyes. When you live with your things continually they seem to fit like an old shoe and you do not see their shortcomings. As I came up the front walk I decided I just had to get busy and finish up those boxes for the veranda pillars. Artistically planted, they will take away the bareness of the front steps.

Sit In The Shade

Is shade at a premium in your yard? One solution to the problem seen on our holidays was a portable canvas shade. Inch water pipe joined by standard fittings had been used and painted dark green. Bright awning material covered the top and was held in place by short tie strings. This particular shade was moved from place to place to avoid wear on the grass and to catch any breeze that was blowing. By covering the sides with the same material the shade could double as sleeping quarters for the young fry.

Dual-Purpose Barrel

Of all the things that puzzle a gardener, possibly more are confused by the statement, "Give liberal applications of liquid manure" than any other. This is not a difficult procedure when handled properly. Bury a water-tight barrel in the ground to the rim. Fit a tight lid to the barrel and place a strong hook near the top from which a burlap bag can be hung. Fill the bag with well-rotted manure (preferably sheep manure) and place it on the hook. Almost fill the barrel with water and allow it to stand for 24 hours before it is used on your plants. Place the barrel directly under the down spout from the eaves or in a secluded corner of the garden if you don't mind carrying the water a little further. Refill the barrel as the liquid is used.

Coconuts

Empty coconut shells can be put to many uses. The best one I have seen lately was helping overcome the housing shortage—for robins. Placed in the right spot, half a shell makes an ideal base for a robin's nest.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When bridge rules counteract each other, a difficult choice may be yours. This is no time to get panicky or bitter. Nor is it the time to throw caution to the winds and try a wild guess.

South had bid diamonds and then became the declarer at a three no-trump contract. East had not made any noise except pass. Select your opening lead from the west hand shown here:

♠ 8 6 2
♥ 8 6 2
♦ K J 6 3
♣ 8 6 2

Against no-trump, don't lead a suit bid by opponents. From what is left the order of choice of leads is: Tops, first; long suits, second choice; short suits, last choice.

You have no top card lead. Your long suit has been bid by your opponent. According to rule you have left only the lead from a short. Your lead is either a spade or a heart or a club.

If a sequence group was at the top of your diamonds a lead in that suit might be least objectionable. You would not lose a trick in it. Whereas the lead of another suit might hurt your partner.

But, without a sequence in this opponent bid suit you should not lead it. To do so with this holding offers two objections; giving the declarer timing advantage, and probable loss of a trick in it.

A lead from one of the other three suits is not attractive. Far from it, in fact. If you guess the wrong suit, it may kill a trick in the hand of your partner. And who knows which suit it may be?

You hear tell that where an equal choice exists, lead first the major suit. You hear tell that where an equal choice exists, lead first the minor suit. Neither rumor is correct.

Of all the evils here, therefore, main thing is not to gamble with a diamond lead. A gamble in one of the other suits is better. As to which short suit to lead, count me out of the guess. Yours is as good as mine. Maybe better.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 31 — (AP)— Edgar Bergen, who plans to enter television this fall, was asking for advice from his friend, Kay Kyser, a TV veteran for all of a year.

"Well," drawled the old professor, "take everything you have learned about show business, throw it out the window and start over."

But, contrary to what most other stars believe, Kyser finds TV the easiest of all mediums. And he's been in them all.

"Television is easier because I can be myself. In radio you have to keep jabbering to get the point across and naturally you have to exaggerate. In TV I can act more natural and do with a look or a shrug what used to require a lot of words."

AT THE BELLE — Fists are the primary weapons used by Dana Andrews against the underworld in the 20th. Century - Fox melodrama, "Where The Sidewalk Ends," now at the Belle Theatre. He is co-starred with lovely Gene Tierney.

Charming Sir L.

Sir Laurence Olivier charmed the press corps at his first mass interview last week. The talented Briton was friendly but firm in answering the questions thrown at him.

The actor was dressed in a handsome turn-of-the-century suit and greying hair for his role in "Carrie." He is playing his first part as an American and said he is trying to keep the accent right.

Comparing his two recent successes, he said that "Henry V" was more difficult to make than "Hamlet." "We were feeling our ground on the first one," he said. "It was in color, which is more difficult. And we had great trouble filming the battle scenes in Ireland, which was drenched with rain.

"However, Hamlet was a much more grueling role for me."

CAMPBELLFORD

Parking Meters Are Dismantled By Council's Order

Campbellford—In the absence of Mayor J. E. Ayrhart of Campbellford, Reeve Ralph Locke was in the chair for the regular council meeting on Monday night.

Since the meters are no longer in operation on the streets of the town, a new parking by-law was introduced, to regulate parking in the downtown section. The Mi-Co Meter Company of Montreal has sent cartons and crates to Campbellford, in order that town workmen may start removing the meter heads from the steel posts, and return them to the company. The one-year contract period was up on August 4th, and the meters have not been in operation since then, although people still continue to drop their pennies and nickels into the things, despite large stickers pasted across the face of the meters, proclaiming that no money is required, as they are not being enforced. As soon as the company engineer is available, he will come to Campbellford to remove the steel posts from the sidewalks, and repair the holes.

Additional Money Voted

On motion by councillor W. A. Kingston, an additional $2,000 was voted to the Road and Bridge Committee to repair sidewalks, and to construct new ones in the town. These are badly needed, and as the budget for this work was too low, the extra money was voted.

No action was taken on a new pension plan for municipal employees, which has been receiving some consideration. N. A. MacColl, solicitor for the town, said he would advise the council to obtain more information on the plan, and to straighten out some of its contradictory clauses, before adopting it. In view of the cost involved, council decided it would do well to heed his advice.

Truck Insured

It was decided to place collision insurance on the new town truck, and a $250 deductible type was decided on. This will be added to the policy now in force, which already covers the vehicle against public liability, property damage, fire and theft. Arthur F. Collette, local insurance agent, was instructed to write the new policy.

Fifty Laid Off

The Gair Company of Canada pulpmill in Campbellford has been forced to lay off about 50 employees because of the rail strike. The plant has run out of material with which to carry on production of wood pulp. There is plenty on the road, but it has been sitting on railway sidings across the province since the strike began. The men will not return to work until after the strike.

The firm had a considerable amount of wood pulp on hand when the strike began and a fleet of transport trucks have been kept busy delivering the stuff, used in the manufacture of newsprint and boxes, to its various destinations. On Sunday, six transport trucks, carrying 16 tons each, left Campbellford for Battle Creek, Michigan. Two more went to Montreal on Monday, and three left for Toronto on Friday. The firm still has about 125 tons of pulp on hand, which could be accommodated in three box cars, but will necessitate about 10 transports to move.

CALGARY'S CAVIES

Calgary—(CP)— The Calgary zoo claims to have the only adult cavies in Canada. The animals, which are native to the Argentine, look something like a cross between an antelope or small deer and a rabbit. Recently Patagonian Cavy (that's mother's name) gave birth to two baby cavies, something unusual because the female seldom breeds in captivity.

Felt Tired, Listless, Nervous Tells How Syntona Helped Her

Relieved Stomach Disorders, Gas, Acidity, Indigestion. Also Headaches and Dizzy Spells. Now Sleeps Better, Has More Energy.

"Since I've taken a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound I can see why so many people are praising this medicine," said Mrs. Marne Smith, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"After suffering a number of years with stomach disorders my entire system became rundown. I felt tired, listless, very nervous and couldn't get sound sleep at night. I would get splitting headaches, often got dizzy spells, and suffered from indigestion, awful gas, and sour acid rising after my meals.

"After trying so many things without any noticeable benefit I was very discouraged, but recently I was advised to try Syntona and even after using the first bottle I could see it was helping me. As I kept on taking it I found I could eat better meals without having all that gas, indigestion and sourness afterwards. Gradually I began to feel better in other ways, my nerves became more settled, I could sleep better and found I had more energy to do my work. Also, the headaches and dizzy spells do not trouble me as they did before and I am glad to tell of the good results I got from Syntona in the hope that it will help other people suffering the same way."

Made from 12 of Nature's finest herbs and roots. Syntona is pleasant to take, contains no harmful drugs, and has helped thousands of men and women suffering from common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, nervousness, constipation and rheumatic aches and pains.

LIFE COMES BACK

The order from union leaders Frank Hall and A. R. Mosher ended for the Dominion's 14,000,000 people nine days of near-paralysis in transportation and telegraph communications, services vital to a land of broad forest and bushland, much of it inaccessible except by railway. There was no doubt that the wages-hours strike against the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways was the costliest in the country's history.

Forty-thousand miles of railroad were tied up when members of 15 international and two Canadian unions — all non-operating employees — struck at 6 a.m. local time Aug. 22. Thousands of other non-striking railway men in the running trades were thrown out of work because the trains could not run without telegraphers, clerks, express workers and other skilled employees. Additional thousands in industries independent upon rail services dependent upon all rail services

Telegraphers First Back

But the return-to-work movement was in full force today. Within minutes of the Hall-Mosher broadcast, commercial telegraphers, first of the strikers to go back to their jobs, were at telegraph offices ready to sound their "bugs" or to "punch" a teleprinter. By midnight in most centres, telegraph operations were normal. In railway shops, locomotives were steaming, ready once again for the road. By morning at some places regular schedules were begun.

Perhaps the first train to roll in Canada following the strike's end was the C.P.R.'s No. 348 which left Moose Jaw, Sask., 12:35 p.m. MDT, two hours and 20 minutes after the Hall-Mosher broadcast. It travelled the 30 miles east to Regina in an hour. It had one paying passenger. Other travellers were railway men bound for Regina to work on trains leaving that city later.

Many Surprised

The speed with which the railways got back into their stride surprised many. It had been widely predicted that 24 hours would be the minimum time required to get trains into operation. But by midnight in the eastern time zone, earlier in western regions, the great rail yards hummed with activity as locomotives were made ready for service and cars hooked together.

Veteran railway men vied for the honor of being the first back on the road. Engineer M. P. Taggart claimed to be the first in Eastern Canada. He piloted "Big Bertha," a great 12-wheeler, out of a Toronto roundhouse at midnight EDT in readiness for her regular morning run to Buffalo. But other engineers possibly could make similar claims; there was no way of telling, so swift was the return to work.

Story Same Across Country

The story was the same across the country. Calgary reported railway men on duty 45 minutes after the back-to-work order was given. Almost as fast was Vancouver's show-up—and Saskatoon's, and Montreal's and Moncton's. At 10:27 p.m. E.D.T. a laid-off foreman reported for duty in Mimico, Toronto suburb, to unlock a roundhouse.

On most divisions it was not necessary to send pilot trains over the rusty rails before passenger trains could use them. Throughout the strike lines were patrolled by supervisory officers. The first freight train out of the C.N.R.'s London, Ont., yards, however, was to carry 75 per cent of its normal load to test tracks, switches and safety devices on the main line out of that city.

Pulse Quickens

In industry in general, too, the pulse of business life quickened. Many firms which had laid off employees as a result of the rail strike prepared to resume full operations. The International Nickel Company of Canada, anticipating the strike's end, yesterday recalled 690 of the 2,250 men it laid off a week ago. The company's operations at several Northern Ontario points had all but ceased because of the rail walkout.

But though the rail strike had ended, British Columbia still was without coastal shipping. The only major steamship line operating there during the strike halted service last Friday when the Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.) struck for higher wages. The union then prepared to strike C.P.R. and C.N.R. Steamship services when the rail tie-up ended and last night the railways announced that no ship service would resume until negotiations with the S.I.U. were completed.

PARLIAMENT

Telegraphs were running between some centres well before midnight, and the railways called on employees generally to report for work on the midnight shift

Some trains started to move in the morning, with a gradual increase in volume during the day until finally the crack trans-Continental expresses got going.

End of what was perhaps Canada's most costly strike came, not unexpectedly, just 19 minutes after the government measure directing the workers to get back on the job had become law through vice-regal assent.

This came after it had received a stormy passage through the Commons, where it was amended to make its terms easier on the union men, and then had been whipped through the senate.

Union Heads Work Fast

Earlier, the unions' negotiating chiefs had announced that they would obey a work directive and, with the bill in its late stages last evening, said they would call off the strike as soon as it became law. This they did.

The final action authorizing Mr. Hall and Mr. Mosher to get the 124,000 strikers back to work came at a meeting of heads of 15 International Unions — with 90,000 members — and two Canadian unions — with 34,000 members — held just after the Commons had given final passage to the government's bill.

This was the climax to a day in which the union leaders had sat determinedly through a non-stop session of the Commons — with neither lunch nor dinner recesses — while it went through an intricate series of manoeuvres in dealing with the government bill.

Final passage of the bill left the Labor chiefs relatively happy, since new amendments introduced by Prime Minister St. Laurent during the day softened provisions as far as labor is concerned.

Made Distinct Gains

And in their broadcast, they told members that they had made "distinct gains" in the legislation from the point at which negotiations with the railways were broken off Saturday night last.

Their order brought to an end a strike that had had these effects:

1. Practically all trains had stopped running, in a country heavily dependent on rail transport in many areas.

2. The telegraph services of the railways, the only commercial telegraphs in the country, had stopped.

3. The big hotels operated by the Canadian National Railways in many large cities had been handling guests on a restricted basis. Canadian Pacific Railway hotels, under provincial jurisdiction, were not affected.

4. Water transport services of the railways, such as that linking Victoria Island with the mainland of British Columbia, had been cut off. But the strikers on Tuesday decided to allow operation of the railway car ferry hooking up Prince Edward Island with the mainland.

The snowballing effects of the strike also had spread into the country's economy generally, bringing on the closing of industrial plants with lay-offs of thousands of workers, loss of some fruit and vegetable crops that had to be hustled to market, and stiff inconvenience to public travel.

Impact of the strike was growing each hour, Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons yesterday, and other members said prolongation of the stoppage could bring on national disaster.

Bill Amended

The government's legislation, introduced Tuesday right after the opening of the special emergency session to deal with the situation, called for the strikers to go back to work within 48 hours after passage.

It contains a clause calling for compulsory arbitration of differences between the railways and unions, but this was modified considerably from its original form, going along to some extent with the views of the striking unions.

In its final form, the measure ensures that the employees and the railways must go at least as far in their final settlement offers as they offered in the negotiations that broke down last Saturday night. Also, the workers get a four-cents-an-hour wage increase on their return to work, which cannot be scaled down by the government arbitrator who might be called in later.

The four cents is applicable to hotel and water-transport employees of the railway companies, who were excluded in the railways' bargaining from the general terms of settlement offered to the men in negotiations. An increase of two cents an hour was proposed for them by the companies, against four for the other and larger group of employees.

The prime minister indicated to the Commons yesterday that the government view would be that the hotel-water employees should be in the general settlement, and he pointed out that the bill gives them the four-cent increase anyway, without the arbitrator having power to scale that figure down.

Points to Negotiate

As the disputants are left now, they are to negotiate these major points:

1. The railways offer the five-day, 40-hour week as of Sept. 1, 1951, with no loss in the take-home pay of the present 40 hours. The unions want that set-up as of June 1, 1951, though they would concede a three months' "transitional period" in which no overtime would be paid up to 48 hours a week.

2. The railways offer an increase of four cents an hour starting tomorrow. The unions want seven cents, going back to June 1 last.

3. The question of inclusion of the hotel and water-transport employees in a general settlement, which apparently is not yet settled.

Yesterday's Commons manoeuvering on the measure saw a variety of amendments tacked on or proposed for the government emergency bill in a day of confusing developments.

Amendments Defeated

Two Progressive Conservative amendments were beaten back.

One of these would have scrapped the government bill altogether and substituted a measure putting in a national administrator of the railways pending a settlement through free collective bargaining.

A second would have knocked out the clause in the bill laying down compulsory arbitration in the event of failure of the railways and the unions to reach a settlement in the prescribed period. This period, as finally decided by the house, is 30 days, though it may be extended by the government at the joint request of both parties.

A C.C.F. amendment which was defeated would have gone along with the Progressive Conservative idea of a national administrator but circumscribed the area of negotiations into the field left when railway-union talks broke off.

FIVE-DAY WEEK

Toronto, Aug. 31 (CP) —The Provincial Joint Advisory Council, representing both the government and civil servants, has recommended the continuation of summer schedules for civil servants after Sept. 17, when they normally end. If accepted, the proposal would mean a five-day week for provincial employees. Premier Frost told the council the government will investigate the suggestion.

Truman Asks Congress to Set Up Offices

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP) — President Truman Wednesday asked Congress for $139,800,000 to set up United States government office facilities outside of Washington for use "in event of emergency."

Apparently part of long-plans for dispersal of the government to guard against atomic attacks, the proposed program would provide for buildings at four sites within commuting distance of Washington.

It also contemplates setting up emergency communications facilities and highway construction.

FREEZING AND FILLETING

Cranberry Portage, Man. — (CP)) — A quick-freeze, storage and fish-filleting plant is under construction at nearly Cold Lake. It will be a great help to fishermen throughout a wide area.

GOING FISHING?

Now the fishing season is in full swing. Now, too, is the time to remember, and observe, the fishing regulations. There's a reason for them.

The number of fish available for each season is estimated. The authorities then balance this against the expected number of fishermen to establish catch limits. This is done for your protection to provide a continuing supply of game fish for the future. To permit full growth, minimum lengths are set for various species of fish which may be taken.

Take Black Bass, for example. The maximum catch allowed in Ontario is six per day and the minimum legal length is 10 inches. Only by observing regulations like these will you be sure of enjoying this sport in the future.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Mark stopped at the bell captain's desk. Celia stood a little back from him, scarcely looking at him when he spoke to the captain in a low voice. She wasn't versation nor eavesdropping, but she heard the captain say. "I'd recommend Voorland, sir. On Lincoln Road near the bay."

Mark Dustin said something in return. His low perfectly modulated voice did not carry far, but she caught the question, "... very best in town?" spoken with a stronger inflection than the first of the sentence.

The bell capain said emphatically, "Voorland has the highest reputation of any on the Beach."

Mark thanked him and came back to Celia with a mischievous twinkle in his eyes. He took her arm firmly and said too heartily "I've been asking about a new place to try for lunch." He moved her toward the door and they went out into the bright sunlight to wait for the sports roadster to be brought around from the garag.

Celia didn't believe he had been inquiring about an eating place, for neither of them ever ate luch after a late breakfast. Despair settled over head again, and she wondered why she didn't tell her husband what was in her heart and why men had to be such brutes.

Mark drove extremely well, as he did everything requiring muscular and mental co-ordination, his well-kept hands relaxed on the steering wheel handling the powerful eight-cylinder motor as deftly as Celia visioned him handling sixteen-mule teams and tons of ore in the Andes. He threaded his way easily into the stream of traffic going south on Collins Avenue, the breeze riffling the tufted curls on each side of his forehead.

Celia sat quietly beside him with her hand folded demurely in her lap. Her flaxen hair was coiled around her head in two thick braids, the sun brightening its natural luster. She was relaxed in a dreamlike asquiescenec slothfully conscious of the other sleek cars in front of them of the rustling fronds of tall palms lining the roadway, the bright massed colors of bougainvilles and flamevine the odor of tropical blossoms and the languid sense of well being that pervades pleasure seekers who have eaten of Miami's lotus, but her inward thoughts were on other things and other days.

She didn't bother to rouse herself when Mark swung sharply westward onto the wide expanse of Lincoln Road with its ultramodern shops bearing names famous the world over for smart fashion and extravagant prices She wasn't interested in fashions nor in shopping. There was a dull ache in her heart, and for the first time since their marriage she allowed herself to think what life would be if Mark stopped loving her.

It was too terrible to think about. Life would be only a void empty and awful. After two years as Mrs. Mark Dustin she couldn't go back to that other life. The intensity her feelings frightened her and she clasped her hands together tightly to stop their trembling. She wouldn't let herself look her husband, thought she knew that even a momentary glimpse of the debonair man beside her would reassure her. She was gripped in a nightmare of unreality which made her rigid.

The roadster came to a smooth stip and Mark's cheerful voice tore Celia away from the frightful vision of emptiness. He merely said, "Here we are," but it was like a reprieve from some high authority when one is ascending to the gallows.

She sat erect with a start and saw that they were parked in front of a small modernistic building with lines unbroken by corners. A chaste sign over the door said W. Voorland. That was all. The curved plateglass windows were shrouded in shimmering silken drapes of royal purple.

Celia got out of the roadster and they started up the walk toward the door. A smart doorman bowed obsequiously and held the heavy glass door wide for them. They entered a thickly carpeted, air-conditioned room with subdued indirect lighting and elaborate modernistic chairs and couches groupes around small display tables.

Celia stopped just inside the door and looked at the glittering showcases lining both sides of the room. She caught her breath in an inarticulate gasp of delight. Her fingers tightened on her husband's arm and she whispered "You did remember, Mark. You didn't forget!"

He smiled into her white, upturned face. "Of course I didn't
